	2020-11-05 13:55:20	Eastern Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There is a lack of transparency due to clause 14 which suggests that the IEC can change the way we vote in any given election. Eg they can call for an electronic election and there is no proviso that they would provide sufficient traces to prove the elections are free and fair Also this is a major change that could infringe the freedom of true democracy one would expect that such a major change as is proposed would have been publicized properly instead of only being publicized in one news paper. Also the time granted for comment is so short that most of the voters would miss it. The lack of time for public comment is very concerning! Many chapter 9 institutions have suffered from ruling Government interference and placement of sycophants so clause 14 is particularly worrying.	lynne
	2020-11-05 13:08:03	Eastern Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	A believable election is all important. Nothing electronic is believable anymore. We will never accept the results of an electronic vote. It will be assumed it was a scam no matter what the results are. Why open ourselves to that doubt? We are proud to be able to vote in person. Take away this stupid electronic voting idea and don't give the IEC any more power. Their job is only to count the votes and secure the election they don't deserve any input on how the election happens.	Paul

	2020-11-02 19:14:45	Eastern Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This amendment has to be totally unconstitutional. All this amendment is, is another avenue for the ruling party to sieze total control over the electoral process so that they can maintain their grip over the country. 	2020-11-08 13:13:12	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	We have just seen how the elections in the United States in America has turned out - a legal matter that President Donald Trump is taking to court, because of a voting system that he (from the beginning) said he did not trust. The ANC would also unfairly benefit - re. Clause 14 of this Bill. The ANC has media-friends and big tech-friends, so we have reason to be concerned. This process (proposed Electoral Laws Amendment Bill) should be opened for public evaluation and MORE TIME SHOULD BE ALLOWED for public comment.	Andeline

	2020-11-07 14:21:04	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There is nothing in the proposed legislation that addresses the constitutional right of each South Africa to a FREE AND FAIR vote. The proposed electronic voting system does not address the accessibility to regions which do not have internet connectivity and the risk of manipulation is significant given that there is no control over freedom to vote without fear or favour. The amendment to do away with the reconciliation of ballot papers is of particular concern, having being an officiating officer at recent local elections it is critical that the voting results are reconciled to ballot papers - this ensures validity and accuracy of counts. How can one delegate responsibility to the IEC to determine a different method for local government elections - these are fundamental rights and it assists in building good citizens if citizens have the opportunity to learn from voting practices. Lastly given the state of the economy and the lack of funding surely this should go through due process with the Finance Minister before it is set out in a white paper. There is total lack of oversight on the cost and financial governance.	Jacqui

	2020-11-07 14:11:08	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I think that the unconstitutionality of the bill also covers my fears about exclusion of the proper financial safeguards and the inability of an election system to be operated in this country if a sophisticated country like Germany saw no way for it to be fairly implemented. I also don't trust this government to have free reign with such a powerful and potentially dangerously controlling system.	Ernest

The proposed amendment plays right into the hands of those who manipulate facts and figures to suit their own agenda. An electronic system will not be understood or trusted by a large proportion of the population. This country is not a good candidate for electronic voting, nor for manipulation and changing of voting profiles which the proposed amendment would allow. We must have transparency which is not provided for here. Paper voting is the nearest we can get to trustworthy election results. Its not perfect now, but far better than the electronic route proposed. Do not approve these amendments.	Helen

Besides, SA doesn't have the funds to keep making changes which are essentially not needed. Another factor is that a vast majority of the population are not skilled for online voting, nor have access to a computer.	Demi

	2020-11-06 15:42:59	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Voting has to be done in the registered voting district. Allowing people to vote where they are not registered is allowing for people to be bussed in to ensure a particular political party wins that area. It also defeats One Person One Vote as this would probably be very hard to verify. This bill needs to be given time for full explanations and review. It cannot be pushed through without allowing citizens time to examine all the ramifications and intimations. Regarding electronic voting - this needs to be confirmed that no hacking or tampering with votes will be allowed.	Yetta
	2020-11-06 15:35:02	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Let's learn from the US elections and NOT allow "anything goes" voting styles. 	2020-11-06 15:03:09	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill is in direct conflict of having free and "FAIR" elections in that transparency is a fundamental here and this bill directly takes away from the rights of the voter in that the voter does not have a fixed means of voting as this may change at the whim of the IEC. It further will influence all political parties in ensuring that voting is free and fair. It also gives way too much power to the chapter 9 institution that could be influenced by a political party or government of the day. So in short it takes away from a democratic process.	Theo

					The draft Bill seeks to amend; Electoral Commission Act, 1996, so as to insert certain definitions; to streamline the provisions for the registration of political parties; - my comment: may make sense to provide for the registration of parties in respect of particular provinces, district and metropolitan municipalities and to repeal provisions relating to registration of parties in respect of particular local municipalities; - my comment: when voting in the local government elections, how does the repealing the registration of parties in respect of a particular local municipality. It is local elections and not district and metropolitan elections! to repeal obsolete provisions • Electoral Act, 1998, so as to insert certain definitions; to amend the provisions regarding public access to the voters' roll; to update references to repealed legislation; - my comment: Privacy of information Act need to be included here to amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; - - my comment: This is a joke. You vote where you are resident. This could lead to voter fraud and parties shipping people to vote in areas they wish to win. Party members must be in the municipalities where they are standing and voters registered (because they live there) must vote for the party members. How can I vote in an area where I do not benefit from the service provision. This is madness. to amend provisions relating to the submission of lists of candidates; - my comment: not sure but may make sense to amend provisions relating to special votes in elections - - my comment: special votes pertain to people who have disabilities, elderly and those out of country or being employed to be part of the IEC teams at voting/counting stations. We cannot take away the provisions for these people for the National Assembly; - my comment: not sure of these to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method ; to amend provisions relating to the procedure concerning provisional results and voting materials; - my comment: not sure what these provisions are, however again the voter rights cannot be undermined to provide for the limited applicability of the Code; to amend Schedule 3; and local Government: Municipal Electoral Act, 2000, so as to insert and delete certain definitions; - my comment: not sure what these amendments are, however again the voter rights cannot be undermined, people have to vote where they are registered to amend the requirements for parties contesting elections by way of party lists and for a ward candidate to contest elections; - my comments: not sure what these amendments are, however again the voter rights cannot be undermined and party candidates cannot be discriminated against and must represent the area where they live to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting procedure for those voters whose names appear on the voters' roll, without addresses; - my comment: This is a joke. If you are registered, your address details should be on the voters role. I fully understand that in some areas an exact address could be a problem. However GPS co-ordinates can be used (pin your residents position) and included on the voter roll. You vote where you are resident. This again could lead to voter fraud

It seems clear that the ANC are aware that they will loose majority in the next rounds of elections, the people of simply fedup of the lies and cheating - and this amendment is an attempt to circumvent this loss that is looking to be inevitable during the next round of elections, by creating a situation where the voting results can be manipulated. Giving such power to a chapter 9 institution is bound to be abused, to to heavy cadre deployment in supposedly "independent" organizations such as the IEC.	Alan

	2020-11-06 08:59:49	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The IEC has a constitutional obligation to 'ensure' that all elections are 'free and fair'. However, it cannot fulfil this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so; Parliament has the 'constitutional authority and duty' (as the Constitutional Court has put it) to design the electoral system, and so cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC; and The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process. This means, as the Constitutional Court has ruled, that citizens must be given 'a meaningful opportunity to be heard' and that the 'truncated timeline' on which the committee is insisting is 'inherently unreasonable'. 	2020-11-06 08:54:07	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	While I do not have a problem with the use of an electronic system, There will be a need for an auditing firm to audit results of such a system. In the development and testing phase of such a system it should also be audited before implemented to a live environment. There must also be no interference or input from any political party in the design and development of such a system. There is also the issue of built-in back doors where results can be manipulated. These types of systems can also be prone to hacking and will be a huge target during an election period.	Reynard

Many democratic countries are all of a sudden changing a working/fair electoral method to a more lame/totally relaxed system, totally open to fraud and very undemocratic. A way for the most corrupt polititions to hold onto power. Because the most corrupt politicians will solicit these defraudable systems. 	2020-11-05 20:31:48	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	A voting person/voter must have a direct representative in parliament who is accountable to the voter's constituency. The communist style system of a political party nominating members of parliament prevents a voter from any contact with a direct representative. The MP can sleep all day at 'work' in parliament, draw a huge salary for 'representing' the people and achieve absolutely nothing for the benefit of the voter. Voters must have the opportunity to elect their own local representative in parliament who is then accountable to that community.	jim

	2020-11-05 19:59:33	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The very way in which the public was informed about how to comment on the proposed bill shows the underhanded way the ANC is finding about to subvert the ultimate right of all citizens - the vote, and how it's exercised and controlled. It lacks every vestige of transparency and accountability. The existing means of voting is reasonably well understood by the majority of citizens. This is an underhanded way of removing the right of all South Africans from having a day admit whether and how voting may be changed. The ANC has demonstrated both its pervasive corruption and how it resists accountability for the corruption. It must be denied all authority for changing how and where voting takes place. Our most important rights relate to voting. It must remain so. The ANC wishes to subvert this right in secret.	Andreas
	2020-11-05 19:55:28	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The new bill is undemocratic as it gives too much power to the IEC which is full of ANC cadres so how can they be independent which is the ultimate duty? 	2020-11-05 19:55:11	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The IEC (as a chapter 9 SOE) is meant to be independent and ensure free and fair elections. The IEC must be accountable to the nation as a whole at all times. This accountability is best achieved at Parliamentary level (where all elected parties have representation). Any deviation from current methods / practices need to be tabled at, reviewed by, and approved or rejected at Parliament. I therefore recommend that this Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill be scrapped	Frhanco

					Proposed Legislation that infringes on our constitution right like this one should be criminal. This is far too reaching in its powers and far too vague for a corrupt political system like South Africa. Constitutional Infringement: Political rights 19. (1) (2) (3) Every citizen is free to make political choices, which includes the right— (a) to form a political party; (b) to participate in the activities of, or recruit members for, a political party; and (c) to campaign for a political party or cause. * these proposals will give the ruling party a very unfair advantage as they can change the rules of the game to suit their demographic or stifle the other parties Every citizen has the right to free, fair and regular elections for any legislative body established in terms of the Constitution. Every adult citizen has the right— (a) to vote in elections for any legislative body established in terms of the Constitution, and to do so in secret; and  in secret electronic voting will make this almost impossible also giving away too much power to the custodians of the technologies making manipulation easier Stop skewing the law to a corrupt agenda Do your job and serve the people who entrusted you to do so rather than exploring their ignorance.

						I object on grounds that the Bill in current format is substantively and procedurally unconstitutional for the following reasons (including but not necessarily limited to): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Insufficient public Consultation - not widely advertised in all media, not open for a sufficient period for public feedback and input - No SEIAS assessment took place in clear violation of requirements - The Bill in current format is vague, open to interpretation and difficult to understand. It combines 3 items of legislation as opposed to 1 only, which requires legal expertise that might elude the man on the street - Voting in a voting district or area where you are not registered or not ordinarily resident must ONLY be permitted for national votes. Voters voting in a different area where they are not registered must not be permitted to vote for local/municipal/district/provincial related elections or by-elections - Electronic voting is open for manipulation. The current POPI Act potentially prevents a detailed audit trail, without which there is no way to check or prevent manipulation or criminal voting interference. Where electronic measures is advisable is to validate voter registration, to prevent votes from voting in areas where they are not registered to vote, and validate that voters are not voting 2x at any voting station. This matter requires detailed and objective external assessment and parliamentary approval. - The IEC may not be permitted at whim to implement any 'a different voting method' for national and provincial elections without timeous and prior Parliamentary approval - The proposed wording of Section 51(1) opens up the voting process to criminal manipulation and the proposed wording is wholly unacceptable.

						I do not support the introduction of electronic voting as the only way to vote at all. I think this could be implemented, but the current paper format should remain, as there has to be paper trail if a re-count is required or if there is a problem with electricity, as is a prevailing problem in this country. Corruption in this country is a huge problem, and I do not trust the government at all. The creation of false or manipulation of votes could also be done. Electronic voting could lead to false votes being cast to the benefit of a particular party, trying to obtain a certain outcome, and hence not giving the citizens of this country the opportunity to cast their vote in order for their voices to be heard, especially the thousands of poor south Africans, struggling on a daily basis, to meet the most basis needs. Please fix all the other nagging issues plaguing this country at the moment before trying to implement and break one more systems that is currently working fine. STOP FUNDING FAILING STATE VENTURES LIKE SAA. THE GOVERNMENT IS WASTING MONEY WE DO NOT HAVE!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

However, it cannot fulfill this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so; Parliament has the 'constitutional authority and duty' (as the Constitutional Court has put it) to design the electoral system, and so cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC; and The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process. This means, as the Constitutional Court has ruled, that citizens must be given 'a meaningful opportunity to be heard' and that the 'truncated timeline' on which the committee is insisting is 'inherently unreasonable'. This bill must not be allowed to happen for the sake of all South Africans freedom of speech and clear and transparent elections.	Peter

	2020-11-05 14:39:57	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1. The manner in which elections are held and the applicable rules and regulations must be legislated in a proper manner, and are to be applied by the Commission. The Commission does not have the authority to change the way the elections are run (otherwise the Executive (management) can do as they please to suit themselves. This is the only way fraud and corruption can be controlled, and there needs to be a paper control which can be checked and verified to see where errors or fraudulent has occurred and who is responsible therefore. The requirements for candidates to submit necessary deposits and required documentation must be complete at submission, failing which their application is automatically rejected. No second chances to submit required documentation is permitted, to correct the error. 2. The status quo to remain with registration of voters with proven addresses, polling stations with registration lists checked against ID's before voting slips issued for voters to record their choice, with the requisite checks and balances at the end of voting. 3. Electronic voting is not acceptable as too easy to introduce cheating and possibly introducing coercing unsophisticated persons who have little or no education, and no exposure with computers by Party Officials etc. 4. It is high time that elected persons become responsible to their electing constituents and represent their best interests for the community, rather than feathering their own bed and Party interests.	Theo

	2020-11-05 12:00:38	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1. Firstly clause 14 is not at all acceptable. All methods of voting must be decided upfront and agreed upon by all registered political parties and the general populace. It must be clear prior to the elections exactly how every person in the country will vote. 2. Why was the call for comment in one newspaper only ? More people should be notified. All major newspapers should be used. Social media and the news channels. SABC ??? Yes ? 3. Why only 19 days to comment ? Bad planning on your part ? 4. Why allow voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered ? This is definitely not acceptable. You want to swing votes from areas where you have numbers to an area where you dont have representation. This is very dubious. Nice try but NO!! 5. I would definitely not allow anyone without an address to vote. Who are these people who dont have addresses?? illegal immigrants, make believe voters. You have FICA and RICA which control our everyday lives. Now you want to simply allow people who have no addresses to vote ? NO way !! My opinion is that only people who are currently tax cleared should vote. If you dont pay taxes you dont vote. 6. I think electronic voting is a great idea but it has to be done properly. This is simply changing the mechanism of voting. Nothing else. No people this bill should NOT be enacted. I do not support it.	Hans

They are corrupt and any amendments to any bill is purely to bolster their own corrupt agendas to enrich themselves and their cronies. Nothing they do is aimed towards the advancement of the country and its people. If any electronic voting methods are passed, the voting platform software should be transparent. It must be made available to software development engineering companies to scrutinize the source code. These companies (selected by the people) must be paid by the ANC Government to evaluate whether the final vote results were derived in an honest manner.	Rudi

	2020-11-05 06:39:14	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I do NOT support any of the proposed amendments to this Electoral bill because the electronic voting machines software can and have been compromised "hacked" in the USA ,the Diebold Electronic Voting machines are owned by the George Soros Open Society Foundation. Such "hacking " has been done to "flip the votes to a different candidate" (we are witnessing this illegal debacle right now in the USA Elections) by unscrupulous Electoral officials. What guarantee do we have this would not happen here in South Africa ? We must stick to paper ballots , Verification of Voter ID , Voter Rolls whereby the voters details home address etc.,are in the IEC Data Base , to prevent a recurrence of the massive voter fraud of the 08 May 2019 National Elections here in SA, the DA won rhe legitimate vote BUT this was Stolen by the ANC/EFF Coalition and there were hundreds of busloads of illegal voters who went from polling station to polling station "voting " numerous times ! Complaints were made by 09: 30 pm on 08 May 2020 by numerous opposition parties who presented video proof , But the Compromised IEC disregarded the complaints and evidence and ruled the elections " free & fair", Really ! More like "Captured and Corrupted ," We need a complete overhaul of the personnel in the IEC !. So NO I'm Totally against any and All amendments to said Electoral Act !	Stanley

	2020-11-05 06:26:15	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	In terms of SA's Constitutional Law an National election must be held every 4 years. How dare the current Government change the election dates. The Constitution is supposed to be in place for all citizens of SA's protection but as we have seen , the ANC has not been following it. This country is a mess and the ANC is rotten from top to bottom. If we allow this amendment to pass, we have lost " our voices " Which in most aspects we already have.	Marita

	2020-11-04 20:13:32	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This is the continued undermining of the South African Constitution given to all South Africans as a framework to move forward into a better future for all. (not a one generation fix all). The constitution was meant to be upheld by all and remain an unchanging guide to our future This will be abused to guarantee the ANC continued rule and ruin. The ANC is seeing and is scared that the SA public is realizing the lies and corruption that is dragging South Africa into the mud. The ANC can no longer rely on the public blindly just following and voting for them. So now they need to twist and change the rule of democracy to suit their needs This bill must be opposed at every level if we South Africans ever want to rise from our old past into a better future	Michael

It makes a mockery of the standards currently in place, regulating who and how people can be elected. This proposed draft will significantly reduce international investor appetite in this country. 					Dear Mr President, you claim to be a Christian, I'm sorry but you have none of us true Christians fooled. By your duplicitous actions in the manner within which you let us citizens know about this ammendment in as obsequious & obscure a manner possible, so that you can lie based on a technicality, that you did make us aware of this (when actually you did it in such a manner that the majority of us would not even know of its existence), proves that you are the falsest Christian possible. This proves that at heart you are just as corrupt & underhanded as your compatriots. You don't care about us, you want the ANC to be an autonomous, communist autocracy & to bring about genocidal ethnic cleansing via White genocide. You & your corrupt cohorts want to burn this country to the ground, strip & rape her of her resources to line your party's pockets & run & seek asylum in non extradition countries whilst you & your cohorts sign every single South African's death warrants (including your Black brethren). Worthy sacrifices at the ANC & EFF's altars of greed & corruption. You see the sticky thing about being part of a false Christian cult (which I wouldn't be surprised to find out you are a part of) is this; you are not taught anything from God's Infallible Word The Bible (I doubt you've even read it properly) & thus you have NEVER been taught that without true repentance of sins you will be denied entry into Heaven. You see God holds us all accountable for our actions & sins, even me, difference is that I know that to truly repent of one's sins you must be able to recognize & acknowledge them for what they are first, then go on bended knee in repentance & contrition & beg God for forgiveness repent our your sins & mean it. There's a catch here. True repentance means NOT continuing to behave in the exact same sinful manner & think that God says it's ok. Now I'm not perfect & a sinner myself but I know the power & truth of true & honest repentance as I have done so many times in my life. You & none of your fellow corrupt & evil compatriots will EVER be able to achieve that because you genuinely see nothing wrong with your unconstitutional, corrupt & underhanded behavior. God does NOT approve of nor support any of the actions that you & your party have done to destroy this country. Now for those Christians out there that believe in the soft pansy version of Christ & that He sanctions our being free to sin as much as we want & to literally indwell in our sin & forgives us glibly with no need for change & true repentance on our part; you guys are in for a world of shock! You see a very important aspect of who God is, IS His Duality meaning He's a God of Ever Loving Mercy & Forgiveness but ALSO a God of Justice & He WILL NOT let the atrocities that the ANC & EFF have perpetuated go unpunished! He WON'T just sit there & twiddle His thumbs & let things just happen. His Retribution against those that are purely Evil will come & it'll be brutal & swift. Now think on this: if God weren't a God of Justice, punishing us for our iniquities & sins (N*B remember the Bible says that the wages of sin is eternal damnation & death); then there would be absolutely NO purpose or point behind Him sending Jesus Christ, His Only Begotten Son, Second Member of the Triune Godhead & the Savior of us all to save us from condemnation & damnation for our sins. Honestly if God is the soft pansy that everyone makes Him out to be then Jesus' role as our Sovereign Lord & Savior & our inherent need to believe in Him to save our souls, is superflous & quite frankly pointless. God WON'T blindly forgive the ANC & EFF their sins because they frankly don't see anything wrong with what they're doing & have done. People read your Bible's & catch a wake up call. God IS a God of Justice & His wrath WILL be felt! So in summary what the ANC is doing messing around with the constitution & it's unconstitutional & duplicitous acts by trying to strip away our constitutional rights to vote & to have the IEC remain transparent in their actions & dealings, whilst allowing their cadres of infiltrators to corruptly mess with our votes (which they have already been doing all along) by using their

	2020-11-04 16:34:25	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This amendment bill is open to abuse and would allow those with nefarious intentions to create artificial majorities and also it is not beyond the realms of probability that a voter could vote more than once. This bill makes a mockery of our electoral system, encourages voter fraud and is unlikely to pass constitutional muster. An utter abomination engineered by a desperate, power hungry ruling regime desperate to hold onto power in the face of ever dwindling support!	Paul

	2020-11-04 16:13:04	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I'm concerned that the procurement of an electronic voting system is simply not affordable in our current constrained financial situation. In addition, these electronic systems carry these risks: 1) Corrupt procurement processes; 2) Deliberately embedded IT risks; 3) Can be penetrated and manipulated by actors/ those wanting to discredit an election; 4) Can be penetrated covertly to intimidate voters; 5) Are vulnerable to surreptitious penetration which can be used to secretly defraud an election while establishing its legitimacy; I'm extremely concerned that the ANC will use some, or all, of the above ploys to mitigate the risk of election defeat in 2024 and manipulate victory. For these reasons, I'm strongly opposed to the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill in its current draft form.	Wim

	2020-11-04 11:22:57	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1. Allowing voters on the roll without addresses: Being a South African citizen who is exposed to scams, schemes and corrupt practices on a regular basis, this seems like just another way of getting homeless people to participate in an election which can be rigged through all kinds of corrupt practices. 2. Allowing access to the voter's roll, INCLUDING ADDRESSES: This is against the regulations and stipulations of the Protection Of Personal Information Act, not so? 3. Voting in district where not registered: How is this going to be controlled if voters without addresses are allowed to vote? (See point 1 above.) 4. The Commission may prescribe a different voting method: There appears to be no indication of timing, or method of approval, or anyone having a say in the selection of the voting method to be used. This sounds like another way of saying "we will get the Commission to rig the elections to suit the needs of the ruling party".	Marc

(Clause 14 of the bill, hidden conveniently between a deluge of technobabble) This means that for local, provincial and national elections the state will have far more control when the IEC prescribes an electronic voting system that leaves no paper trail like a ballot system, given the level of corruption in this county this cannot be allowed and i object to the amendment bill. In RSA there is insufficient expertise to verify the voting system, which is currently undemocratic anyway - MPs who are nominated by smaller parties and voted in by the populace quite happily and with forethought then "cross the floor" to the ANC. Simply a ploy to get a seat when they are too low down on the list. Time that MPs become accountable again.	Linda

	2020-11-04 08:49:43	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There is a hidden agenda by the ANC to gain absolute power. The fact that they have gone through the motions of an inconspicuous advertisement and given such a limited time for comment, will allow their majority in parliament to pass this bill. 	2020-11-04 06:11:52	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I loathe that the government is seeking to gerrymander voting. I deeply distrust the government's intentions with this bill, most specifically because it appears that they want legislation that allows for bussing in of those without addresses, fewer checks and balances for vote rigging, extension of reach of the ANC to undermine elections. They most certainly do not seem to have the Democracy of our country at heart. No. Absolutely not. And I am very angry that they tried to sneak this bill change past South Africans. This is neither what OR Tambo, nor Nelson Mandela, nor any of the other original members of the original ANC fought for. This is not democracy. Stop the ANC.	Kemble
	2020-11-04 06:09:36	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I believe the proposals are unconstitutional, and open up the potential for corrupt practice at the polls. People who are not registered in the district should not be allowed to vote there. They must either register, or vote in their own district (either in person or by post) People with no fixed abode must register in a district, or should otherwise not be allowed to vote there. Ignoring the above will open up the possibility of gross electoral fraud, with people voting multiple times, or non-existent people voting. (Like non-existent people on the payrole of state healthcare!!!)	Quentin-Lee
	2020-11-04 06:09:17	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The electoral commission is controlled by the government & will act as required by the ANC rather than act independently. 	2020-11-04 04:57:01	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The system is already a mess now you want to mess it up more so that you can rig the voting. Rather weight the current voters according to their tax contributions with those that do not contribute having less say = introduce a point system. What is proposed is open to abuse and hacking - people from around the world will hack into the system and affect results. This also means that voters are not truly verified and all the dead people receiving grants etc will now also start voting. The proposed system cannot work in a third world country run by corrupt thieves.	Alan

					These amendments pose a profound risk to constitutional democracy. The Bill amends three different statutes, each of which must also be read to understand its provisions. In addition, the Memorandum on the Objects of the Bill makes no attempt to explain what “different voting method” is envisaged or why this is to be introduced. The Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce eg an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. Electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state ... In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power; this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections. Legislation affecting the foundation of our constitutional democracy cannot be adequately considered by the South African public in a mere three weeks. Parliament published a call for comments in a single newspaper. This is not the participatory democracy required by the Constitution. It points to a cynical attempt at box ticking – and excludes all South Africans who did not read the relevant newspaper, from cover to cover, on the particular day. This indicates very irresponsible handling of this issue by Parliament. The Electoral Laws Amendment Bill has to be immediately retracted and all clauses seeking to introduce “a different voting method” deleted from it.

						These amendments pose a profound risk to constitutional democracy. The Bill amends three different statutes, each of which must also be read to understand its provisions. In addition, the Memorandum on the Objects of the Bill makes no attempt to explain what "different voting method" is envisaged or why this is to be introduced. The Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce eg an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. Electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state ... In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power; this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections. Legislation affecting the foundation of our constitutional democracy cannot be adequately considered by the South African public in a mere three weeks. Parliament published a call for comments in a single newspaper. This is not the participatory democracy required by the Constitution. It points to a cynical attempt at box ticking – and excludes all South Africans who did not read the relevant newspaper, from cover to cover, on the particular day. This indicates very irresponsible handling of this issue by Parliament. The Electoral Laws Amendment Bill has to be immediately retracted and all clauses seeking to introduce "a different voting method" deleted from it.

	2020-11-03 16:10:17	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This is clearly an underhanded attempt by the ruling party to "manipulate and falsify" the results of any elections by the "registered voters" that are recorded as such! The possibility of tampering with the results and allowing people to vote more than once and outside their voting area is a real threat - it happens already - even with the so called "safeguards" in place - how much more when the "deep state" operators have free "legal reign" to falsify future elections! 	2020-11-03 15:39:38	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Very disturbing that government attempted to slip this amendment past the voters through a small advert in the Sunday Times (single publication). This signals a covert intention of making unpopular changes to the Act. An electronic system can be manipulated without broad coverage and transparency as with a manual one, which has more checks and balances. The mere fact of what I have stated in the first sentence above is upsetting in the extreme.	Kenneth
	2020-11-03 15:30:42	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Clause 14 Of the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill poses a risk to the South African constitution by creating an avenue for any voting method to be employed by the Independent Electoral Commission. This would thus allow the IEC to introduce electronic voting as one of these portals, something it has been pushing for for some time. The problem here is that this voting method lacks accountability as there is no paper trail left and no way to check votes which differentiates it from paper ballot voting in this way. This lack of transparency paves the wave for corruption which makes it thus unconstitutional and not in the best interest of the people. On another note, having only one advertisement posted in one newspaper with such a minimal amount of time to comment on this speaks to one or other party having a personal objective to undermine the constiyutional process in its own right.	Phillip

	2020-11-03 14:04:52	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	With the degree of corruption prevalent in our South African society no vote would ever be considered free, fair and legitimate if provision is made for electronic submission which as we all know is not guaranteed to be free from cyber security attack and subject to manipulation. Questions would arise regarding the legitimacy of said votes and no trust or confidence will be had in them due to their lack of adequate checks and balances. All topics listed are of concern and would allow for the manipulation of votes. I do not think that this bill is drafted in the interest of the public but rather another tool for corruption and unfair elections. The bill is unconstitutional and is deeply suspect due to being passed in such a hurried manner without due consideration of public comment.	Grant

A vast majority of the countries citizens are poor and do not have access to basic services let alone electronic means. 	2020-11-03 13:13:31	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Il be honest, this amendement reeks of stage one of starting a dictatorship. Especially the vague description of "different method of voting" . We have had several instances of vote tampering on the past and government is not yet capable of securing a "different voting method" throughout the world we have seen governments with more technical expertise fall pray to these systems. Why would we then change to such a system with more flaws given our history with vote tampering. We need to stick o paper ballots and increase our screening and voter tampering measures and not move to a more flawed method. Furthermore. This bills seems to want to override our protected constitutional rights and should therefore be further evaluated in the constitutional court. I whole oppose this proposed amendments.	Stephan

	2020-11-03 13:07:03	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	South Africa is only a constitutional democracy because we have a independent electoral commission that is subject to the Constitution of South Africa. If the IEC is given any powers beyond the jurisdiction of the Constitutional Court we cease to be a democracy let alone a constitutional democracy. Any amendments to any laws which will any way impinge upon the Bill of Rights MUST be reviewed by the Constitutional Court even before they are published for public comment. Aside from all that if those proposing this Bill are really doing this in the best interests of all South Africans, why are they refusing to extend the period of public participation to the standard 3 months? This is undoubtedly underhanded and nefarious in nature and intent.	Dylan

	2020-11-03 11:56:14	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Electronic voting needs to be very carefully controlled as there is unlikely to be an audit trail that can be verified and followed. 	2020-11-03 11:21:40	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1) Before you change the rules of methods of voting, you need to change the rules around how to achieve this safely and legally with zero tolerance for vote rigging, manipulation, adding or removing someone's details from the voter's roll, residential status manipulation etc. 2) There is no provision in our constitution for persons with no fixed address to vote. An attempt to address this for homeless people was made by saying that they could use a church as their address. During that year my house address was stolen by at least 50 persons of African descent and I was left to try and explain to about ten million companies that no, there were not in fact 52 families living in 5 bedrooms at my address thank you very much. If you allow voting by persons with no fixed address, what rules have you put in place to make sure that this sort of thing doesn't become a repeat event? 3) In the event that you permit persons with no fixed address to vote in our local and national elections, what rules have been put in place to prevent non citizens from registering to vote? 4) People who list their legal address (Domicilium Citandi et Executandi) as a foreign nation have indicated that they no longer live inside our borders and likely do not intend to return. Such people should be made to motivate on a case by case, election by election basis why they should be allowed to vote in a country they no longer live in and don't intend to return to. Citizenship matters. 5) None of these amendments proposed have sufficient oversight built in to them as they stand to prevent tampering with votes or the voters roll. 6) Additional provisions need to be made for those of us with disabilities who physically can't stand for hours at a voting station to cast our vote. As it is written right now this set of amendments will give too much power to the IEC to do as they please with voters' information, voting means and votes cast without sufficient oversight by the people. This is a blatant power grab and needs to be stopped before we land up with a problem we can't fix and turn into another Zimbabwe or another Venezuela.	Angie

	2020-11-03 10:46:03	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The IEC has a constitutional obligation to 'ensure' that all elections are 'free and fair'. However, it cannot fulfil this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so; Parliament has the 'constitutional authority and duty' (as the Constitutional Court has put it) to design the electoral system, and so cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC; and The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process. This means, as the Constitutional Court has ruled, that citizens must be given 'a meaningful opportunity to be heard' and that the 'truncated timeline' on which the committee is insisting is 'inherently unreasonable'. 	2020-11-03 10:39:25	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1. This bill opens up and "legalize" fraudulent access & registration of voters and patties. How can you even think of someone registering in a region where he /she is not residing!? This alone is a complete change to the so called "democracy" of SA. 2. The fact that the notification of this draft and the call for comments from the public was only published ONCE in ONE newspaper to cover their backsides, immediately tells you that they want to hide something. 3. Although the voting process with an electronic process will make things so much easier for the voter, it will definitely open-up fraudulent and unauthorized use of information. NO electronic system is "tamper proof".	Gert

	2020-11-03 09:55:40	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1) An electronic voting system is far more open to manipulation. There is no paper trail on the votes. Ask yourself why change it now, why change a system that is used worldwide? Because it can be manipulated. Just another ploy for the ruling party to seize total control over the electoral process. How badly has SASSA claims, the UIF fund, the tenders processes etc already been corrupted? 2) Proof of address and ID is necessary to vote just as it is required for FICA or any other legal transaction. The ability to vote without an address, allows for manipulation in so many ways to skew a vote outcome in specific areas. "Dead" people will be voting all over. It is just unimaginable to even consider. These amendments should not be allowed.	Retha

	2020-11-03 09:19:18	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Giving the IEC sweeping powers to make determinations on voting methods, results at polling stations etc. is unfair.	John
	2020-11-03 09:16:36	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The fact alone that this is being sneaked past the public is a red flag. I am concerned about the lack of transparency regarding government's intentions. I do not feel that the IEC should have such absolute power over the voting process. There is no information on how we will be protected from corruption in a change in the voting process. If this is to incorporate an electronic voting system we are far from ready for such an undertaking. Further steps need to be taken in preparation for this step before we can start allowing absolute authority on a corruptible organization for implementation of such a procedure.	Andrea
	2020-11-03 09:14:28	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	As i have absolutely no trust in the Government and their continued policy of Cadre deployment to suit their needs , electronic voting would be teh easiset method for tgeh ANC to rig all elections!!! Allowing people to vote in a non-regeistered district would pave the way for the ANC to bus supporters to areas where thay require votes!! All told this is pure manipulation of the voting system, should be trated with absolute contempt and the draft bill should be scrapped!!!	Matthew
	2020-11-03 09:13:34	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The bill removes constitutional rights from citizens and paves the way for corruption. The bill would in effect neutralize the constitutional rights of citizens and place all the power in an institution that is already suspect in its integrity.	Toni
	2020-11-03 09:13:13	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Any Changes made to existing rule just open it up for corruption. No I do Not Agree with changes planned	Andre

	2020-11-03 09:11:01	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This will allow the IEC and Government to change the way we vote in order to suit the ANC. They will be able to commit voter fraud and steal the election. This is not constitutional and democratic. Total corruption and manipulation! Enough!!!! NO trust in this government to implement this in a honest way. Electoral fraud at it's best! Our government has proved over and over that it can't be trusted.	Ailsa

	2020-11-03 09:09:28	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The change to electronic voting will reduce the access to voting rights, the system can be corrupted and manipulated by the ruling party and so resulting in stripping our democracy and constitutional freedom.	Laura
	2020-11-03 09:07:44	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	It is unconstitutional to hand the IEC unlimited power to decide on the voting method by themselves. It is also unacceptable from government to try to slip this bill through with limited public participation and such little time for comments.	Elsabe
	2020-11-03 09:06:22	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill should not be passed. It will undermine our democracy.	Charl

	2020-11-03 09:04:20	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	For 25 years we have had PEACEFUL, SUCCESSFUL, FREE and FAIR elections. Why the change now? Two major issue: I have doubt that an Electronic voting system will not currently work, With an unstable and in some rural areas, inaccessible electric grid structure due to the failure of Eskom, might deprive the rural areas to participate. I have doubt this would be fix in time. Also I have doubt that such a system will be secure in time for the next elections. Clause 14 to give the IEC the power to change the method without a democratic process thus fly in the face of transparency within our elections. This opens major corruptions and manipulations within our current election process. This cannot happen in a democratic constitution.	Lize-Marie
	2020-11-03 09:04:06	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	All voters to have physical addresses! Electronic voting will allow corrupt ANC to rig/manipulate the voting process.	Danie
	2020-11-03 09:03:56	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Changing this bill will take the power away from the people. We vote for opposition parties in smaller metros to ensure we get real service delivery. The Municipalities ensure the ANC deliver services. The Lazy ANC want to change this so that they don't have to work. They forget that they are Servants of the People, Not the other way around. This is not a monarch. There is no King. Their days are numbered and they know it.	Jonathan
	2020-11-03 09:00:53	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This opens yet another door for corruption and manipulation. Voting without proof of address- total insanity. You might as well invite the whole of Africa to have a say! Can be manipulated to suit the ANC alone - not fair. Constitutional rights to vote in an open and fair election being removed.	Jan
	2020-11-03 09:00:35	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There is a danger in voting electronically on several levels. Many people do not have access to do so. It is easily hacked and manipulated. It is not transparent. To give an area if government to make changes of this is in my view illegal.	Marie

	2020-11-03 08:52:39	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I do not approve as this bill will provide the IEC and Government to change the way we vote that will suite the ANC, which will enable them to commit voter fraud, steal the election from the People. clause 14 is not constitutional and democratic is is an open door for the Government to make sure that they are able to institute electronic voting over which only they and the IEC will have control over, the results are easily minipulated to swing the votes in favour of the ANC. We the People have had enough of the corruption within the current government which does not benefit my community and other communities in South Africa	Marinda

This impermissible delegation has the unacceptable result that Parliament evades its constitutional duty to fully facilitate public participation in the process of determining how we vote in national legislation.	Priscilla
	2020-11-03 08:21:47	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Nobody with any common sense trusts the ANC, now they want to try and change the way voting is done. It seems too close to what may be called @Stealing@ the election. Clause 14 allows a section 9 institution to change things at their will and they could be corrupted. It would be difficult to do checks and balances. (ie. little or no transparency) This is just plainly undemocratic!!!	Alan

	2020-11-03 08:08:45	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The amendment bill as portrayed for comment is unconstitutional and undemocratic through clause 14 in that it allows too much electoral decision power into hands of IEC without due process counter balances and open scrutiny checks that has the high potential risk of corrupting transparency and auditability for free and fair elections. 	2020-11-03 07:36:25	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Our government will do its utmost to promote corruption and fraud, instead of applying their minds elsewhere where there indeed are problems (i.e. joblessness, poverty, GBV...). 	2020-11-03 07:34:03	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I smell a rat ... why cut the response time so short? Participation has been hijacked. As will electronic voting. The public is familiar with the tried and tested method. Especially the no- address voting. Bots can give the nation a voting percentage of more than 100%! What then? This should go to the constitutional court. It has been dealt with in an undemocratic manner. Squash it now.	Ingrid
	2020-11-03 07:33:53	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Why mess with something that is not broken. The new rules will allow corruption to really take over as someone can vote in more than one area without having to prove that they live in that area. Elections will no longer be fair and free, not that corruption did not take place then, it will just be more rampant. More ways for the government to make sure their cadres stay in power any to rob hard-working tax-payers.	Thomas

	2020-11-03 07:29:47	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Unconstitutional and structured to benefit the ANC for unfair advantage for elections going forward. More like communism rather than democracy in action.	Richard
	2020-11-03 07:29:13	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Once again the Govt decides to change things and does not bring the changes to the notice of the public - placing a small ad that will not be seen my many - why the underhandedness? Why not transparency so people can comment and give input. Is this another attempt to disrupt what has been put into place before so as to manipulate the outcome of voting? Keep our voting free of corruption and keep it transparent. This Bill is not in the interests of the people of South Africa.	Shireen

	2020-11-03 07:12:44	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Firstly, sufficient time (as per the constitutional requirements) for public comment on the proposed bill has not been allowed. Secondly, the statement that the IEC can decide on "a different voting method" needs to be clarified and certain boundaries and rules needs to be introduced to ensure that this cannot be used to swing a vote/ exclude certain members of the public from voting. Any change to a voting method needs to be carefully considered to ensure that the required safeguards are in place to prevent fraud and manipulation of the votes.	Dennis

	2020-11-03 07:09:41	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Anything that doesnt allow transparency and fairness and an open conversation must not be allowed,this government is rotten to the core and giving them power beyond transparency and accountability will only break our already abused and broken democracy. Further, the lack of specifics on vital areas (e.g. that the method of voting may be unilaterally changed in an unrestrained manner without due process), is redolent with implied bad intent. This attempt to curtail participative governance is at odds with the spirit of our hard-won constitution, is undemocratic, and goes against the best interests of our citizens	Margaret

	2020-11-02 22:22:55	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Attacks on electronic voting systems require a high level of technical expertise. But such attacks, whether internal (carried out by the incumbent government) or external (carried out by outside hackers), can be implemented in a much more systematic and covert way than is possible with traditional voting systems. Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Instead, the Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. The Bill thus poses a great risk to democracy in South Africa. Yet the opportunity for public comment on it has been extremely short. Comments were invited in the Sunday Times on 11th October, with the deadline for written submissions set at 4pm today (30th October).	Mark

	2020-11-02 20:47:55	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	NO TO THESE CHANGES. THIS LEGISLATION IS A THREAT TO THE FOUNDATION OF SOUTH AFRICA'S DEMOCRACY. NOT ENOUGH TIME HAS BEEN GIVEN FOR CONSIDERING SO MANY HUGE SWEEPING CHANGES. WE SHOULD BE GIVEN AT LEAST 3 MONTHS TO ALLOW FOR THE PUBLIC TO HAVE A REASONABLE OPPORTUNITY TO READ THROUGH ALL THE LEGISLATION AND UNDERSTAND THE ISSUES. TOO MUCH POWER IS BEING GIVEN TO THE IEC. NO CLARITY ON "DIFFERENT VOTING METHODS". THIS IS TOO VAGUE. NO TO ELECTRONIC VOTING, IF THAT IS BEING CONSIDERED. THIS IS NOT SAFE, IT IS OPEN TO HACKING AND CORRUPTION BY THE GOVERNMENT AND OTHERS. 	2020-11-02 20:19:06	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Well once again the Government says it wants to stop corruption but with this new proposal it will assist in even more corruption. Anybody will be able to cast a vote or more than one vote without even making any effort. What are people in the rural areas going to do, ask someone else to vote on there behalf, which can lead to more corruption. Going to cast your vote for what you believe in or want to try change gives you a feeling of pride to be a South African and knowing you can participate legally. Do the people who are supposed to be the leaders of this country have no pride in what they are supposed to be doing. This can also lead to non South African citizens voting. Surely a person who lives in a particular province, city or area should only be able to vote for a party that has councillors in that province, city or area, providing they can prove that they are residents of these areas.	stathy

	2020-11-02 19:23:27	Gauteng		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	No I do not support the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill [B22-2020]. My top concern is constitutionality of the bill. By giving the IEC the power to decide on how votes are cast and counted seems to me to provide the IEC with the power to interfere with the manner in which South Africa votes which is embedded, in my understanding, in the constitution. Government seems to me is trying to change certain clauses in the constitution in a sneaky manner. Corruption and misuse of power are rife in state run organs.	Carika

We all have voted on paper over the year but still somewhere ironically lost or thrown away. The government is making people's lives a misery by not giving them a fair vote. First they should start by having only two parties not 50+ who all are making money out of the government. Secondly the parliament cabinet needs to be sacked and new people as there are some of them well over 60 they should be collecting a social grant rather than getting thousands for falling asleep and drooling. And they need to speak and understand proper English. The government should make look a proposal of not campaigning and giving helpless a bash before the elections and make them suffer for the rest of their time. We need change before it's late	Amith

The majority of the people of South Africa have gone without access to education for centuries. We are just getting to a point where smartphone penetration and access to the internet is mainstream and the govt now wants to tax this. Perhaps a better solution is to consider a few from the provider NOT the consumer. We are taxed to death already. Stop trying to kill the consumer in every way possible - if GOVT didnt steal our taxes, abuse & misappropriate funds - they wouldn't have to seek taxes in places where they have no business at all! 						The bill is unconstitutional, both on substantive and procedural grounds. Electronic voting will give an already corrupt government an additional way to fiddle the books. Valuable cross checking steps are available when using paper ballots, these are LOST when changing over to electronic, making it easier to interfere with the process and not be detected. Sweeping powers are given to the commission... This is not acceptable, government must answer to the citizens. How much will this cost? South Africa is VERY POOR, and rapidly becoming poorer! You cannot possibly go ahead with out even talking about affordability. All provisions in the Bill empowering the IEC to 'prescribe a different voting method' should be deleted. So too should the Bill's proposed changes to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Section 23(3) of the Electoral Commission Act, which currently requires the concurrence of the financial minister for any IEC regulations affecting state expenditure; and • Section 50(1) of the Electoral Act of 1998, which currently contains a tried and tested system for reconciling, counting, and recording the paper ballots cast at every voting station. A new bill, free of these offending and often unconstitutional provisions, should then be drawn up. This should be accompanied by a SEIAS assessment, the final report of which should be appended to the revised bill when it is released for public comment. The period for public comment should be at least four weeks, while updated copies of the three statutes the bill seeks to amend should be made available to make it easier for the public to get to grips with the content and significance of the new measure.

I do however agree that the process could be improved and streamlined, that process to be researched options provided and parliament can consider the merits. No forcing something on the population by a few hand-picked cronies in the ICC.	Chris

	2020-11-06 11:06:38	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The voting rules have been on place for an extended period of time and offer an opportunity for people to vote in the area that they come from. If we give government the power to choose where their constituents vote, I fear that they will manipulate how and where votes are counted, and in essence manipulate the results to Thier favour. This would be contrary to a free and fair election.	Anthon

	2020-11-06 10:34:20	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The vast majority of South African Citizens do not understand the consequences of changing the existing Electoral Laws / Regulations, etc, so it is the duty of the Government to publish their intention in all languages across SA and to hold Community Meetings across South Africa, as the vast majority of citizens do not purchase Newspapers and do not have free access to News Media, to explain/inform the people of South Africa what the changes are and what the pros and cons of the proposed changes will be. If the Government fails to inform the citizens of SA, the changes will amount to a dictatorial unilateral decision. Once the citizens are informed / educated on the proposed changes, the Government can call for a referendum and the people can take an educated decision; it will be one supported or rejected by the will of the people. Electronic Voting has its down side as it can be hacked and manipulated. The upside of Electronic Voting is that early or real time results are possible but is must be used as a provisional result and only confirmed once hard copies are checked and counted and verified by an Independant Party. Please do what is best for the long term interest of South African & its Citizens, and not what is best for Political Parties.	Jairaj

Look at how many people do not have access to a PC or a cellphone in our country. So paper ballots have to remain so that they can exercise their right to vote. Further, "any method the IEC deems fit"? No. The methods need to be vetted by independent external parties and due diligence needs to be done before such a decision should be allowed. All fair and well the notice was published once in a single newspaper publication- knowing fair well that would satisfy legalities if there are comebacks later to show the law was followed. Then the bill itself is worded in such a way that the layman would not understand what it actually means - what the bottom line is.	Charlotte

	2020-11-04 23:04:56	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The risks for voter manipulation with an electronic voting system that has not been defined, researched or tested and are too high. Electronic voting has been tried and rejected in other countries with far better infrastructure. The present paper system works. It does not require specialist skills; it is simple and easily understandable by most of the people; it can be audited easily. It is and will remain cheaper. This is an ill-considered, rushed, unconstitutional proposal. Our government has proven over and over again they cannot be trusted. If one can vote out of your area, what prevents you from voting more than once? Voters must have fixed and registered addresses. This is not in line with the Constitution. Only Parliament and not the IEC, must be able to change voting methods, once due diligence has been done with extensive public participation. Once again, Constitutionality is a concern.	Brendan

	2020-11-04 16:54:27	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	PLEASE NOTE - Of equal concern is the IEC having any rights to change this Bill, any change to the current voting system(ie electronic), or people voting outside their registered areas, or being allowed to vote if they have no fixed address. ALL POINTS ARE OPEN TO ABUSE. The IEC are supposed to be independent and impartial, but that has been brought into question before. Under no circumstance should this bill be enacted. It gives the IEC far too much power. The IEC must NOT be allowed to amend the Bill in any way. All voters MUST continue to vote in the areas where they are registered. The number of votes in any given area must NOT exceed the number of registered voters for that area. Nobody without a registered address should be allowed to vote, as is currently the case. Any changes to this Bill will be undemocratic and render future elections open to fraud - and be neither "free nor fair".	Natascha

Democracy must be about the people for the people by the people not by intent of a political party thinking they have all the answers. Having different systems for national and municipal elections is untenable. The proposed Amendment Bill is unconstitutional on substantive and procedural grounds.	Beryl

						There is no doubt in my mind that a serious effort is being made to RUSH the bill through. One has to question this at a time when the ruling party appear to have lost considerable ground. I don't really understand the "plan" in the bill regarding municipal elections but it certainly sounds unusual and therefore suspicious until explain in more detail. The current pandemic of corruption that is so prevalent in the country makes an electronic system an obvious target for manipulating votes both for and against , and if other more sophisticated countries in the world (particularly in terms of reliable digital penetration countrywide) have doubts or have even rejected the system after trying it then I seriously doubt RSA ability to make the system reliable and sufficiently well protected from being tampered with and manipulated . Cost has to be a major consideration as well in our present economic situation and this will also be subject to considerable opportunities for corruption.

	2020-11-03 10:50:51	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill has been rushed through during lockdown, when we are all struggling with our daily lives, and media coverage has been scant. It is impossible to give due consideration as to whether the aims of the bill are sound, and issues of practicality, relevance, due diligence as to safe guards against corruption. The Devil is in the detail. And the public has not had time to be shown, to digest, debate and formulate their views with their own trusted representatives in the political process, and also independent NGOs. People have not had time to raise their concerns, even if this is just with parts of the bill. If people start to think that the Government is gaming the system against us, then people will start to lose faith in the democratic process. In these harsh economic and Covid times, now more than ever we need Democracy to function, so that the poor and the weak don't get left behind even more than they already are. And turn even more to violent means to be heard.	Jaci
	2020-11-03 10:48:00	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Firstly this shows desperation from the ANC to hang on to power by manipulating how the system operates, secondly this undermines the constitution as the constitution says free and fair so voting online can never be free and fair, besides the point this is a very expensive process and will cost the government millions to implement this process, we also have to consider corruption unless the ANC is doing this deliberately to enrich their cadres in the tender process, lastly it will cost the citizens data which many cannot afford and many are not up to date or to familiar with technology, so my point is the old system works best were all voters go to a voting station with their identity documents and vote manually one man one vote, it's a simple convenient method for all citizens	Raviesh

	2020-11-03 09:58:16	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Too many loopholes. Too many areas of dispute. Voting outside your district and without VERIFIABLE address, for example, leaves leeway for large-scale electoral fraud. Especially by a majority party afraid of losing that majority. Only afterwards came the other notifications, Corruption must be eradicated.	Daniel

	2020-11-03 08:56:52	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	In its present form this bill is open to corruption and misuse. We as voters need to be able to select representatives that we choose to do their duty and apply themselves to the benefit of the voters. Party's are there to further the agenda of the party and not of the People as a whole - we have ample evidence of this in the behaviour of our present over entitled and over benefited ministers of whom so many are investigated in the commission on corruption. The voters must have the ability of immediate recall of any person elected to office if trust is lost in them. Salary's need to be reduced and perks removed and those elected must be made to know that they are simply public servants and NOT in charge of the public!	William

	2020-11-03 08:06:43	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This will lead to increased fraud in voting and make it virtually impossible for opposition parties to query the legality of voter outcomes. We are battling massive corruption under the present government and this Bill will only increase their illegal power over the citizens of our country. The Constitution is there to give every person a voice, but illegal immigrants can easily be manipulated to vote according to the government's wishes. A legal physical address is a must in every other financial transaction in the country, then it must be so to vote as well.	lidia

	2020-11-03 07:40:54	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1) The main issue is clause 14 of the bill which gives the state and IEC too much power over the election. 2) The bill allows for electronic voting, which may undermine the transparency of the election. Furthermore, a paper ballot system is understood by all voters. 3) As mentioned in point 1, it gives the IEC, a chapter 9 institution, too much power over the country's election. The major concern here is that the institution could be easily corrupted as is the case with many other institutions and departments in the country.	Ewald

	2020-11-06 19:23:12	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The section [14] is too VAGUE and leaves too much to interpretation. With other systems there is too many gaps where persons can cast their votes several times at different locations without any trail due to the MILLIONS of voters and the LIMITED number of election officials. Already there is frequent concerns about the transparency of elections and how ballots are handled and transported - - - BUT this is because the present system is ALMOST transparent. World wide the lack of transparency in Elections has become a MAJOR issue and has been the cause of much misery, death and destruction. The "old" system may have a number of weaknesses, but the proposed VAGUE, ad hoc, amendments only weaken the system MORE. Elections at all levels MUST be TOTALLY transparent and open to scrutiny. Anything less is an open door to already rampant corruption.	Peter

	2020-11-06 17:43:51	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation. The current paper ballot system has a paper trail and is therefore accountable. The Electoral Laws amendment Bill (B22-2020) clause 14 in particular leaves the door open for future mismanagement of the electoral system and manipulation by the party in power to their advantage. 						If it ain't broke, then don't fix it. This is the corrupt government's pathetically transparent attempt to implement a system which they can abuse even further. The integrity of the voting process will of course be compromised to benefit them. As for voting outside of your district, not needing a residential address!? That's ludicrous and so wrong! I agree with another respondent ... no system is fraud/corruption proof, but you can make it harder to commit fraud. And they are wanting to do the opposite to gain more control. Who can trust any system these guys propose? Address shouldn't matter at National level as long as you are a fully registered voter. But for the Provincial and regional poll I believe an address must be provided even if it is in a tent. The concern here, is that populations can come and go (be trucked and bussed in) as and where their votes are required and orchestrated. You can move a bunch of voters into an area where they can influence a control in, say, council numbers. Hell, a generation or two ago the previous regime was suspected of doing the same thing out in the platteland. What's to stop this bunch pulling the same stunt. So that's a very big no from me.

						The time allowed for comment on this Bill, considered to be of paramount importance, with potentially far-reaching consequences to the entire Nation, has been unreasonably short. From a procedural perspective, as the Constitutional Court stated in Land Access case, for instance, 'a truncated timeline' for the adoption of legislation may itself be 'inherently unreasonable'. If the period allowed is too short, as it has been in relation to this Bill, in my rational opinion, then it is not practically possible to afford the public a reasonable opportunity to participate effectively or meaningfully. Any & All provisions in the Bill empowering the IEC to 'prescribe a different voting method' should be deleted, as such an 'unqualified' & autonomous prerogative is disrespectful to the principle of participative democratic governance, and obviates the imperative to enable essential public input. The Bill's proposed changes to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Section 23(3) of the Electoral Commission Act, which currently requires the concurrence of the financial minister for any IEC regulations affecting state expenditure; and - Section 50(1) of the Electoral Act of 1998, which currently contains a tried and tested system for reconciling, counting, and recording the paper ballots cast at every voting station. A new bill, with more coherent and constitutional provisions, should then be drafted. This should be accompanied by a SEIAS assessment, the final report of which should be appended to the revised bill when it is released for public comment. The period for public comment should be at least four weeks (21 working days), and updated copies of the three statutes the bill seeks to amend should be made available to enable the public to review/compare the content and significance of the new draft bill & provide considered comment therein. As with all such proposals involving procurement, amendments & revisions to primary statutory legislation, those holding senior posts in offices of Public Service are obliged to ensure transparency, responsibility & accountability with respect to achieving optimal & beneficial outcomes. i.e. No 'short-cuts' or 'quick-fixes'. Thank you.

	2020-11-06 15:22:57	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This new proposal is flawed, the method of voting, rules determining voting stations, allowing persons (voters) to vote without their addresses and their ability to vote anywhere makes it impossible to control who is registered to vote. This will lead to an imbalance of voters and will certainly need to be submitted to the Courts to review its constitutionality. This Bill in its current form will be a disaster.	Peter

	2020-11-06 15:06:19	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The way in which this change has been publicized is an indication that there is something underfoot. If all was legitimate then follow the normal rules. It doesn't sound right that the IEC - which should be an independent entity - can have so much power to dictate how the voting process should work. The voting process should be an agreed upon process and the IEC should make sure that it is implemented correctly.	Estelle

It opens the gates for the rest of Africa to come and vote, people who do not contribute to SA's welfare and social and economic growth. They have no business in our affairs. The current ruling government must wake up and stop these changes that favours them, that will be taking this country back to the 1600's with weak and arrogant leaders, poverty, protests and their communist ideologies. 	2020-11-06 13:29:43	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Not acceptable that a organization like the IEC can change the rules of the election with out due process. Leaving that much power in one institution's hands is open for abuse. Considering that our countries institutions has been capture by corruption in the recent past. This would be most Un wise. Furthermore there should always be transparency regarding voting. Electronic voting poses a particular threat in South Africa. If foreign hackers can influence an advanced country like the USA's elections. How much more at risk would South Africa be.	Theo
	2020-11-06 13:27:52	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Wes Kaap het tot dusvêr as gevolg van hul suksesvolle manier van bestuur/regeer groot hulp aan ander provinsies verleen en word ge-ag die mees suksesvolle Provinsie te wees. Nee, dit sal wees om die SUKSESVOLLE Wes Kaap af te breek tot dieselfde status as die ander en die gevolg sal wees dat niemand meer daardie broodnodige hulp en kundigheid, wat sal wegval, sal kan benut nie. 	2020-11-06 13:27:43	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill is being rushed through with not enough publicity about the bill and also the time period for comment is very short. This bill is being rushed through while there is still a state of disaster in place which does not allow for accountability on proper public engagement. Deadline date should be postponed till the end of next year after the municipal elections. I totally disagree with the wide powers that 14(9) gives the Government to determine how the voting happens, this paragraph should not be allowed as it enables misuse of the election process by whomever is in charge of appointing the IEC officials - currently the ANC. As voting is dependant on where you reside and therefore the registration of the address is essential to determine in which ward you vote, for which province you vote etc it is absolutely essential that only persons with registered addresses are allowed to vote. All voters who do not have an address registered should not be allowed to vote.	Abe

One cannot be registered in the Eastern Cape and vote for a government in KZN or any other province you may be registered in as that means people can be bussed in from opposite provinces and cast a vote for the party they want in a province they are not registered in...that is blatant fraudulent behaviour which if legalised will be utilised by opposing parties to gain inroads into provincial governments not elected legally by their supporters. 	2020-11-06 12:32:58	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There is a lack of transparency regarding the alternative voting methods including the procedural implementation, cost and action of these other methods. The power for one organization such as the IEC to decide the type of voting democracy paths South Africans should take is bewildering. This idea is a thought process that should not be rushed, but rather be more detailed and open to the South African public for higher debate so that democracy and fairness is prevailed. One just has to look at the current US elections of 2020 to see that one should not rush voting policy changes without proper due diligence.	Michael

	2020-11-06 12:30:37	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I am concerned about electronic voting from a security of data perspective, as well as an accessibility issue. FICA requires this info and so should voting.	Penny

	2020-11-06 12:24:01	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	IEC is constitutionally mandated to ensure elections are free and fair. This will be impossible to achieve under electronic voting systems. Rigging or manipulation of elections under such systems are widely known. No government can be trusted by the electorate not to succumb to this temptation. Further, Parliament which has the only constitutional authority to design an electoral system, cannot delegate that authority to the IEC. Finally, meaningful public participation as required under the constitution cannot be rushed as is happening here.	Barry

	2020-11-06 11:33:22	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Disclosing voter roll info to any political party or independent candidate regardless whether there is payment involved or not is unconstitutional. Protecting the personal information of voters against "unreasonable disclosure" is way too vague...my right to privacy and security of my personal information is my right and this specific insertion is too vague to ensure we will be protected. The sections stating "Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method." again is too vague and gives the commission the right to act outside the law which again in my opinion is unconstitutional. 	2020-11-06 10:33:55	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	1. One should only be able to register in the Province you live in. Voting in a Province where you do not actually live borders on fraud.. 2. You must have an address to be able to vote. In my opinion, voters must have a 'stake' in the country and one of these ways of measuring this is to be at a verifiable address. For me, no address, no vote (FICA method). 3. 						This bill like many others ignores the fundamental basis and purpose of our Constitution (particularly clause 14) as it leave a vacuum for a potential of a shift of power from the people of this democracy and hand it to the state. In addition the lack of vigor that goes into the amendment of legislation as opposed to the funds and enthusiasm that goes into campaign management is an evident display of this disempowerment strategies imposed on constituents by its many spheres of governing bodies nationwide (WC included). What were we fighting and dying for only to have our freedoms stolen again in subtle designed legislative tactics.	Wendy

	2020-11-05 20:06:40	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There has been too little time for Public Participation. The cost of implementing a "Digital Voting System" is going to be astronomical. South Africa cannot afford such an expense after COVID. Digital Systems are also prone to "hackers" of all kinds and the dangers of this has not been clearly communicated to the Public. The IEC should not be given 'carte blanche" on how the voting system is to be in the future and should not have the power to change the Voting Rules as and when they please without having to answer to Government about their choices and actions.	Mignonne

	2020-11-05 18:54:44	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There are too many subtle changes in this bill that can be exploited to commit electoral fraud, ie voting where you are not registered. It requires a huge effort to cross check that you have only voted once. Allowing this would allow widespread vote rigging. Allowing people without addresses to vote needs to be controlled otherwise any party could send ostensibly homeless people to vote for them. I think that the bill should be broken up and discussed and amended in parts to ensure that vote tampering is as difficult as possible.	Renate

Just look at their track record: Escom; SAA; SASSA; and the list goes on... The ANC Government is corrupt and cannot be trusted at all. There is no valid reason for the proposed amendments to the current voting system and process. It potentially opens up the voting system for abuse of process.	Gideon

	2020-11-05 16:32:17	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	As I see it the main reason for amendment is to allow for non Party affiliated candidates to be accommodated. This is very different to a proposal that would effectively enable voting to be based on non residents, or those without a fixed address, to be counted in voting districts and thereby corrupting the principle of fair representivity of the tax paying residents/voters and will certainly encourage vote rigging. If any amendment is to be considered it should be minimal in order to accomplish the original objective and not for a host of other less transparent issues to be accommodated simultaneously. It should furthermore not undermine the integrity of the voters roll or the transparency of the existing process. I therefore think that the current proposal is too far reaching and in serious need of a rethink before it can be seriously considered. It is vital that the votes can verified, that the entire process can be validated and the legislative amendments need to stipulate every step in the process to obviate the need for subsequent legal challenges.	Raymond

	2020-11-05 14:15:40	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Voters should not be allowed to vote outside of their registered voting station as this will give rise to all kinds of corruption, with counting in districts and double voting, etc. Voters with no fixed address should also not be allowed to vote. With no fixed address or proof of address, it is even worse. They might not even be from that specific province and can then be allowed to vote cross borders. No room should be left for such errors to creep in. Scenario's of rigging, incorrect counting, and so forth. In South Africa we can barely trust leaving a R5 coin unattended, how on earth can we trust an electronic voting system will be a safe and fair means of voting. TOO MUCH CORRUPTION in this country, starting with our Government first and foremost. Just look at this "Madyibi Hirschson" guy that has JUST submitted MULTIPLE responses to this very "cast your say, cast your vote on the electoral laws bill" to which I am responding now. 						The changes proposed will result in voters being able to vote in any municipality or district where they are not residents. It is my constitutional right as any other SA citizen to be allowed to vote for a party to represent my best interests in my residential area or municipality. Allowing people to vote where they are not resident will impact on the free and fair elections SA stood for and result in being represented by someone that is not my chosen representative in government and provincial matters. Let's then all drive from the western cape in bus loads to Joburg and vote the ANC out at their own doorstep if this is what they want to see happening... just as you want to drive bus loads of people into the WC to take over a province where you are not welcome we can do same to you... it's unconstitutional and can't be allowed that the outcome of elections can be manipulated in the manner this change is attempting to do. 						Sweeping provision of Clause 14 of the Bill allow the Independent Electoral Commission (IEC) to introduce “a different voting method” – and to override all laws to the contrary in doing so and allowing the IEC to do the same for local government elections. These provisions could open the way to introducing an electronic voting system in South Africa that shall be vulnerable to manipulation in many ways if approved without providing evidence that such system is incorruptible (show that an electronic voting systems require a high level of technical expertise even when done from within). The existing voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger and have the advantage of being legible to the entire public, and violations of protocol are easy enough for anybody to comprehend. A electronic voting by contrast are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state shall therefore break down the Promotion of Administrative Justice Act (PAJA) Instead, the Bill gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an vulnerable institution– to introduce an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. The Bill thus poses a great risk to democracy in South Africa. Yet the opportunity for public comment on it has been extremely short (much less than a Basic Assessment in an EAI process). This is not what is required by the participatory democracy required by the Constitution and PAJA thus unlawful. It seems that the Government want to abuse the Covid lockdown period instituted by them to push through this Bill. I appeal to the Minister to retract the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill and delete from it all clauses seeking to introduce “a different voting method”.

	2020-11-04 15:18:34	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	We need to ensure that the bill is constitutional and that any amendments are going to ensure that the votes cast are a true reflection of the will of the people. I do not agree that we should be announcing results at each local station since this is open to tampering. I agree that we could have electronic votes but only if it is secured 100% by public blockchain so that it is tamper proof. constitutionality of the bill There is already too much room for discrepancies and fraud in the current voting system. I don't have confidence in the IEC. A free and fair election is far from guaranteed and this will be worse than with an electronic system.	Joan

	2020-11-04 15:12:49	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This will not work, it's an easier way to corrupt voting in an already incredibly corrupt country run by a corrupt government. This has been done in a sneaky way, and I think none of this is constitutional. Legislation affecting the foundation of our constitutional democracy cannot be adequately considered by the South African public in a mere three weeks. It is also troubling that Parliament merely published a call for comments in a single newspaper. This is not the participatory democracy required by the Constitution. It points to a cynical attempt at box ticking – and excludes all South Africans who did not read the relevant newspaper, from cover to cover, on the particular day	Nicole

	2020-11-04 15:09:22	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I disagree mainly because most of the people who have TVs, do not even pay for any licence, especially in the informal settlements where illicit connections give them access to this. They do not pay for electricity, simply steal it from these illicit connections, let alone pay for any licences and nothing gets done about it. Most of those who do pay for the licences, are pensioners and cannot afford to pay extra.	Linda

	2020-11-04 12:39:05	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The IEC has a constitutional obligation to 'ensure' that all elections are 'free and fair'. However, it cannot fulfill this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so; Parliament has the 'constitutional authority and duty' (as the Constitutional Court has put it) to design the electoral system, and so cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC; and The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process. This means, as the Constitutional Court has ruled, that citizens must be given 'a meaningful opportunity to be heard' and that the 'truncated timeline' on which the committee is insisting is 'inherently unreasonable'. 	2020-11-04 12:38:41	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	With the track record of corruption in our country, our electoral processes should be safe guarded above all else. 	2020-11-04 11:18:34	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	As a consumer, we already pay significant sums to providers of mobile data. For the SABC to penalize consumers further when ABOLUTELY NOTHING IS BEING PROVIDED IN RETURN FOR THIS PAYMENT is a clear endightment that the SABC is on the verge of collapse. Why? Another maladministered SOE. Poor and biased programming with the inherent potential to provide biased news. Our family never watches any SABC channels or radio stations for these very reasons and shortly we will be joining the list of non-payers of licence fees. 	2020-11-04 09:54:49	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill should not be implemented in any form at all. It eliminates transparency of SA elections, concentrates power in too few hands (IEC), eliminates oversight of elections, which will destroy the legitimacy of the SA democracy. We need proof and transparency to prove that those in power were legitimately voted into power. The ruling party has a strong track record of circumventing limits to its power, especially through appointing incompetent cadres into key positions to enable the party to control them and their institution that they represent. 	2020-11-04 09:19:34	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The bill provides a risk to our democracy in that the IEC has sole mandate on what new electoral system may be implemented, without any checks and balances. 	2020-11-04 07:24:28	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I don't trust this government further than I can spit. They will do anything to cling to power. Our democracy is already a joke as it not nearly participatory enough and many government officials seem to think they are some kind of elite royalty rather than public servants whose main function is to ... well ... serve. Officials are appointed on the basis of cadre deployment for loyalty to the party with little or no competence. Until power can be devolved to a more local level where we vote for individuals rather than parties (who then deploy anyone they like to the various positions) we, as the public, are never going to have a real say in who gets appointed. The ANC NEC decides who gets appointed which is tainted by their own factionalism and scrabbling for power and a seat on the gravy train. Let the people in the regions decide who is the best man for the job and let that determine which party attains the majority without allowing the party to remove an individual who the people have voted into that position. Let's also do away with the phrase "voting into power" and replace it with "voting into service" in the hope that fewer self-serving narcissists will be attracted to a career in politics.	Bradley

	2020-11-04 00:58:15	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	There are several issues that need to be addressed before this bill should be allowed to proceed in its current form: 1) My first concern is the rush to push the bill through, which raises my suspicions. If it were all above board then why the sudden speed? There is not enough time to debate and work through the issues 2) Given the poor track record of government's previous attempts to maintain an electronic data base and keep it running (cf. AARTO), what guarantees do the public have that it will remain online when required, and meet its goals? 3) Hacking and voter fraud are already part of modern life, so what guarantees can the government provide that this new proposed system will be free from potential hackers or insider manipulation to possibly 'steal' the vote? 4) What are the costs of this new system to implement given that our country is virtually bankrupt, a fact they desperately wish to ignore? 5) Who will be the direct beneficiaries from this new system if it is implemented? Which ill-equipped but opportunistic cadres will pick up the contract to set up and operate this system? These are just a few issues I can think of in the short time I have perused the draft amendment. I'm sure those more qualified than I can raise many more issues that need to be discussed in a public forum before our politicians should be allowed to push through their hidden agenda. Thank you for this forum.	David

	2020-11-03 22:03:34	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill should not be enacted at all. It is undemocratic and gives a governing party enormous powers to change the rules to suit themselves. Although the Independent Electoral Commission is meant to be independent, we know that there has been ANC cadre deployment into the organisation and therefore it is open to corruption. Only a few highly trained engineers will be privy to the intricacies of the software - the vast majority of people who do not have their training and insight into the process will be skeptical. This has the risk of making the results of the election unbelievable. Both sides of the political spectrum can manipulate the public's perception about the truthfulness of the results. The paper ballot system of voting may be old-fashioned, but it has relatively safe checks- and-balances making the results somewhat believable.	Mike

	2020-11-03 21:52:04	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This law makes a mockery of democracy as it enables vote rigging at every level of the process. 	2020-11-03 21:47:44	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	As Hermann Pretorius (IRR) states: "Legislation affecting the foundation of our constitutional democracy cannot be adequately considered by the South African public in a mere three weeks. It is also troubling that Parliament merely published a call for comments in a single newspaper. This is not the participatory democracy required by the Constitution. It points to a cynical attempt at box ticking – and excludes all South Africans who did not read the relevant newspaper, from cover to cover, on the particular day." "Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting." An electronic voting system, is open to more risks and manipulation. My greatest concern is paragraph 14: "Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method." This gives the IEC unrestricted power. It is unacceptable.	Ruth

	2020-11-03 21:27:17	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I believe the Bill is undemocratic as it undermines the transparency of the voting system. Clause 14 gives the IEC too much power and if it decides to introduce an electronic voting system is introduced. There is no paper trail in an electronic voting system, no transparency, and no checks on the state's power.	Sigi

	2020-11-03 18:19:40	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Every voter MUST have a authenticated home address in the area where they are voting and that they are recognised as being a South African legally entitled to vote. Electronic systems are extremely vulnerable to being "hacked" and all sorts of fraud or vote rigging can be committed and how will the Government (the IEC)be able to prove that the result is "free and fair" without some form of "visual" counting of legitimate cast votes, one must realise that there are a greater majority of "computer ignorant" people in the country of all colours, especially amongst the elderly. Do we want a system like the USA where hackers from other countries can affect our voting system and cause mayhem in the country?	John

	2020-11-03 16:19:15	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	If the party in power (ANC) were to choose electronic voting, they would choose a method of voting that worldwide has been questioned. It is the easiest method of voting to commit fraud and that is why it is a method not accepted by any functioning democracy. The Electoral Commission is not a true independent organization - at a senior level, it is full of ANC members, selected by the ANC. In 27 years in power, the ANC has seldom taken a moral or ethical approach to anything that could weigh in their favour. This will be yet another example of that.	John

	2020-11-03 14:19:28	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This is not in line with the Constitution. Only Parliament & not the IEC must be able to change voting methods. Electronic voting has been tried & rejected in other countries with far better infrastructure. Electronic voting will cost far more finance than this country can afford. The results of the voting. will not be able to be audited. Electronic voting is not readily understandable or open to scrutiny except by a small number of "experts" with specialist knowledge. Electronic voting is more vulnerable to off-site manipulation. No! The present paper system works. 	2020-11-03 13:44:44	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The govt should never be allowed to try & change the constitution in any way, nor should they change voting procedures to try & sway their numbers. It is absurd that you do not have to have an address? Every person has to have an address and a South African ID? We have thousands of foreign nationals in this country - so are they allowed to vote now? We need to do away with all these smaller parties which are a waste of time? We only need 3 or 4 strong political parties, the rest should be disbanded. Voting on line could be considered as long as it is secure, and this will avoid queues at voting stations.	Pat

	2020-11-03 12:59:44	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The fact that this was barely advertised tells me that something stinks. This will be another way wide open to fraud and corruption on a grand scale. My main concerns are: 1. Allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered. Millions of people can be shuffled around the country to ensure that any district not already ANC can suddenly become an ANC stronghold without an actual majority of genuine supporters. 2. Having different voting procedures for voters on voters' roll without addresses. People without addresses can be placed on any convenient voters' roll to swell numbers and this will also allow illegal immigrants to vote.	Wendy

	2020-11-03 12:29:08	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I do not believe that something which affects individual rights/manner/methods to vote so significantly, can be proposed without mass public participation. Anything that threatens voter anonymity, or exclusion on certain grounds is unconstitutional and should be opposed strongly. Our right to vote, wherever we are in SA, and without hindrance by excessive legislation, hidden clauses, attempts at gerrymandering etc. are a basic constitutional right and cannot be taken from any person. Given the sacrifices made by so many people over SA's turbulent past, we should be honoured and consider ourselves privileged to vote - and in doing so, help to mould our future collectively, as South Africans. Thank you	Sven

	2020-11-03 10:56:29	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Once again the ANC is looking for ways to ensure that they stay in power, as they realise they are losing ground due to the mismanagement of public funds and lack of control of violence. I do not believe that any form of voting is foolproof but I feel that electronic voting is open to corruption in a big way and results can be manipulated. It is unacceptable that voting be done without addresses to ensure that voters are bona fide residents of a particular area. At least the paper system which has worked since voting was instituted (and works in other countries) is reasonably reliable (despite boxes being dumped next to the road on occasion). Voters need to show ID and proof of address. A much fairer system. NO! ANC may not try to keep "control" by this dodgy system. Not to be trusted!	Roberta

	2020-11-03 09:53:28	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	In reading the summary of the bill, many statements are vague and unclear - what EXACTLY do they want to change??? The Constitutional Court decision earlier this year, said that the current way of electing the president and provincial and local leaders was unconstitutional and voting should be open for individuals to stand for these positions. Where is that mentioned in the new proposals? That is more important than the vague changes suggested in the proposed bill. 	2020-11-03 09:36:14	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Changing the paper voting system to a virtual voting system using the internet will allow the figures to be manipulated and make corruption in the process much easier for those who seek overall power in our country. Also many outlying areas and more especially the elderly do not have access to the internet or the knowledge as to how it works. Why is government intent on changing everything that goes against our constitution and the traditional way we've done things for decades when change as they propose, can only lead to more corruption and manipulation of voting tallies in their favour. Are they scared to face the elections legally, because they are losing favour with the masses?? Time to do the right thing for once and leave what's not broken alone. We want to queue and give our votes in person. It makes one feel valued after all the coloured and black people did not have this privilege for many years in the past. 	2020-11-03 09:09:21	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	It is a mark of a regime seeking ever-increasing power and control to prescribe to a so-called INDEPENDENT Electoral Commission what its mandates, scopes and M.O. are. Any amendments to a country's electoral system in a real democracy are there to open up and support democracy, not to increase the powers and control of a ruling regime.	Arjan

	2020-11-03 09:03:44	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	How can people that do not live in a certain district be allowed to vote in that district? 	2020-11-03 09:03:43	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I DO NOT APPROVE due to corruption and DISTRUST IN the ANC as this bill will provide the IEC and Government to have monopoly over the way we vote which will FURTHER enable ANC to commit voter fraud. . 	2020-11-03 09:02:26	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	It is unconstitutional to hand the IEC unlimited power to decide on the voting method by themselves. 	2020-11-03 08:43:08	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Why want to change again? Make it easier for corrupt officials to manipulate the system? In the last election, at our voting station, we had voters that voted up to 3 times, as the scanner was not working and the officials knew about it, but let it slip. They brought voters in from another station to re-vote at our station, is this a fair election? The marker pens that they used did not work either. After washing your hands with soap and water, the mark came off. This was proved over and over at the last election. That is why they could re-vote without it being picked up. The election should be strictly run on a ID Document only, once the ID number has been registered as having voted, it should cancel that number so that the person can not go to another station and vote again. This should be done by Computer Statistics of every one in the Country. Then no duplication can occur Maybe use the thumb print with the ID Document, as the Banks do. This should eradicate corruption as it would be on a computer and not a hand held scanner that does not register the voter.	S

	2020-11-03 08:41:36	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I do not believe that the control of this new bill will be handled and opens up too much room for corruption and it's our constitutional right to vote and ensure that it's fair. If they would open up more voting stations in areas they could avoid long lines, but the way things are being done now is what the world as a whole is doing, physically going out to place your vote. Trying to do this on another platform just screams of corruptions. This should not be allowed!	Rushda

It's proven that no matter what, even if it's good for the people, the government shoots it down. Perfect example is the handling of COVID19... Need I say more, people are dying of hunger, not covid, government hangs a carrot in front of our noses.. To vote without ID or home address don't make sense at all. 	2020-11-03 08:24:25	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	these changes open up the voting system to the manipulation of votes. and I believe that is why it is being drafted at such a time when it is clear the ruling party have lost a great deal of popularity because of their corruption and also their policies. 	2020-11-03 08:23:17	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The proposed amendments to the Bills (there is more than one that will have be changed) are vague and the time frame for consideration is far too short. I would approve a change to the current system of physical voting to an electronic system IF I were satisfied that sufficient checks and balances could be introduced. However, given the ineptitude of our current Government, this is unlikely to happen.	Chris
	2020-11-03 08:22:17	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The removal of the need for address to vote will open the voting results to manipulation as will allowing voting in different districts and the electronic voting. I further disagree with voters not needing to register their addresses and giving the commission the power to prescribe diffrent voting methods. People will be bussed in to vote in different areas and the bill opens up the potential for corruption in the voting process and results.	L
	2020-11-03 08:21:24	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This bill is undemocratic and must not be in acted in any way. It will result in unfair elections as it can easily manipulated.	EUGENE

	2020-11-03 08:20:20	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	As stated by others, we cannot trust the ANC government and this is more than likely an effort to manipulate the votes. We all know they are desperate to take over the Western Cape as it is the best run province in the country, thanks to the DA. They will bus people in to the Western Cape to vote for them and then call it democratic. The rules for voting within your home area must be strictly adhered to. Everything this government wants to do is break the constitution act, which they helped formulate. It's very disturbing.	Lorraine

	2020-11-03 08:18:57	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	These amendments, are very porous, and will result in various forms of manipulation to actual voting results. People who do not have an address, with proof thereof should not be allowed to vote at all. Voters must continue to vote in the districts they are registered in, or it will be a matter of busing in voters to areas where parties have less support to garner more votes, this will not be a true reflection of the will of the people in that area.	Neville
	2020-11-03 08:18:00	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This is yet another veiled attempt by the government to ensure more executive and unrestricted power to do what they please, and in my opinion will result in the elections becoming as much of a farce as the rest of their feeble attempts at governing are. This is yet another indication that the government doesn't care about our freedom to move and have our ssay, instead they want an authoritarian system much like socialism where they call the shots and the rest of us are just serfs to ensure the elite can stay on top. All their candidates are criminals, that should be the one restriction on running for government but it is not, so there shouldn't be any other. And if the current government does the counts and not an independent company, then their will definitely be fraud and wrong-doing involved. 	2020-11-02 23:01:02	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This Bill has worked for so many years before, why is such an extreme amount of changes now required? The traditional method of a paper ballot, can be traced and stages can be monitored to find irregularities. What if parliament decide to introduce electronic voting, that is more specialised to be monitored by a few technicians - as allowed by the state only? This is another chance for corruption, manipulation and thus rigging of the results. This Bill poses a great risk to democracy. Citizens need to be given timeous 'Notice of Proposed Changes to this Bill' (big enough to be seen all over) for both literate and illiterate (sketches/posters/ demo's/find a way), explained the dangers/risks in order to understand the impact of proposed changes and be given enough time to give comments (not just a few weeks). 	2020-11-02 21:32:18	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Wow, quite sneaky to push this through! Just another shady way for the corrupt ANC government to get more votes - wanting to change processes and procedures on the fly? Gives voters access to vote that does not have an address, so they can make stuff up? This is clearly aimed to get them more votes by dubious and seriously bad faith means - The ANC know they are losing, and want to get votes illegitimately, but guess what, this is what we have become used to - government cannot be trusted. They need to put this through due and diligent process.	Morne

	2020-11-02 21:23:47	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	Why do "They" want to change something that has worked well for how many elections Already. Allowing people to vote who have no "Home Address" must have an ID Book/Card And must vote at the place ID was issued. The ANC want to Flood western Cape with "Immigrants" from other Provinces, to secure their vote and Topple the DA led Cape Town Municipality. Looks Obvious to me.	Paul
	2020-11-02 21:20:27	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	All voters must have a proven address and ID, not fake. 	2020-11-02 20:29:17	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	I oppose this attempt to open up the South African voting system to further corruption and manipulation! My top concern is that electronic voting is more vulnerable to interference, and it is more difficult to trace and detect such interference. My concern is also the amount of changes that are being introduced simultaneously, and the short time that was made available, as well as the apparent overt attempt at giving all of this as little exposure as possible. Furthermore voters must be linked to an address in the area they are voting in. If no address is required people will be casting votes in areas in which they have no interest except to swing the vote in favour of their party.	Corin

This bill will allow voters in Limpopo or other provinces to vote in Gauteng or the Western Cape. 	2020-11-02 20:08:46	Western Cape		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This proposed Bill would tamper with the constitutionality of the Bill in that most of it is a blatant attempt to rearrange the playing field so as to create a more favourable position for the ANC when it comes to voting time. Trying to manipulate the registration of parties as to Provinces and districts is contrary to the democratic principles of the Constitution. Furthermore, permitting people to be able to vote in an area where they are not registered is a clear example of why the ANC and EFF are bussing thousands of their people into areas, such as Cape Town, where they have historically had less of a foothold. This is unacceptable. People who do not have and address and/or are of no fixed abode should also not be permitted to vote.	LYNN

The inability and incompetency of the government is once again reflected in this bill. They were never able to provide a proper plan, thid lead to the mistrust of the voters ans especially the taxpayers who were never considered in any decisions. They were just force to accept what are in the plate. Yet another reason not to trust the politicians, neither the government, nore the officials. The past 26 years proved their misunderstanding of the constitution and their responsibilty as public servants paid by the taxpayers. 	2020-11-03 08:31:13	Mpumalanga		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	This will allow voter fraud in mass scale as some parties would do anything for votes, even bus people in from other places to represent them. 	2020-11-03 08:17:13	Mpumalanga		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	The Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill amends three different statutes, each of which must be read to understand its provisions. This includes that “despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the [Independent Electoral] Commission may prescribe a different voting method.” This provision allows for an electronic voting system in South Africa. However, electronic voting systems are more vulnerable to manipulation than traditional paper voting systems. This is a great danger in South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power. It must be clearly explained what “different voting methods” are envisaged, why these are to be introduced, all the risks of all “different voting methods” must be clarified, the public must be given a proper opportunity to really understand all of the dangers, and the public must be allowed to make informed submissions to the government on whether this is what they want. I am also deeply concerned about the amended registration of parties, voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered, rules to determine the results at voting stations. Legislation affecting the foundation of our constitutional democracy cannot be adequately considered by the public in three weeks. It is also unconstitutional that Parliament published a call for comments in only one newspaper on only one date.	Marthi

"different voting method" needs to be defined in detail. Checks, balances, authorities, security, impartiality. 4. the Bill gives sweeping powers to alter election formats, electoral boundaries, vote manipulation through allowing cross-district voting. This is very dangerous. 5. voters must be tied to their home districts, and therefore they must provide addresses to enable this. 6. Proper consultation must take place, and a serious parliamentary debate must be allowed.	Trevor

					The Bill thus poses a great risk to democracy in South Africa. The opportunity for public comment on it has been extremely short. Comments were invited in the Sunday Times on 11th October, with the deadline for written submissions set at (30th October). Civic Action Groups have sought an extension of this period, but this has not been granted. Yet most people will battle to get to grips with the Bill in the short time allowed. The Bill amends three different statutes, each of which must also be read to understand its provisions. In addition, the Memorandum on the Objects of the Bill makes no attempt to explain what "different voting method" is envisaged or why this is to be introduced. Legislation affecting the foundation of our constitutional democracy cannot be adequately considered by the South African public in a mere three weeks. Parliament merely published a call for comments in a single newspaper which is not the participatory democracy required by the Constitution and excludes all South Africans who did not read the relevant newspaper, from cover to cover, on the particular day." I urge the Minister of Home Affairs to immediately retract the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill and delete from it all clauses seeking to introduce "a different voting method". If the Minister is unwilling to do this, Parliament must extend the period for public comment to three months to give the public "a reasonable opportunity to know about the issues" and "a meaningful opportunity to be heard" in the making of the laws that govern them. This, as the Constitutional Court has ruled in several instances, is what the Constitution requires the legislature to do. So we have to reject the timeline and give every South African an equal and adequate opportunity to have their say but also to ensure it is not subject to undue interference by internal and external forces in our electoral processes. The proposed electronic system has to be understood by all the people and independent experts and cannot replace the paper trail system until the electronic system is tested in parallel with the conventional system for at least a full election cycle. An electronic system is only as secure as it is designed to be and has to be tested, tested repeatedly and trialed at a General and Local Government Election. The trust deficit in our Government's ability to be trustworthy is non-existent. That alone is enough to say we cannot pursue an avenue that is not trusted by the citizens until it has delivered a satisfactory test result and even then a paper trail needs to exist as a back up. So my conclusion is no. it is not acceptable to me and every South African as every last vote is counted and allocated correctly. This needs at least 3 months for comment and at least three years to develop and test and a full election cycle to trial.

	2020-11-04 09:21:03	Free State		No I do not	constitutionality of the bill	My concerns are varied. First and foremost in my mind is that parliament has pushed through various laws that is unconstitutional or is bordering on being unconstitutional. We have all seen that the state has captured our judicial system and that in most cases, going to court favours the state. Who picks up the bill for the changes in the electoral system? It will be only a handful of taxpayers. Likewise, going to court to challenge the bill will be directly from us taxpayers. Electronic voting has its merits, but with all the previous election fraud, I can not see that it is going to get better with electronic voting. It will be a tool for the ruling party to enhance their electoral fraud.	Frans

Poor notification for comment/objections designed to rush something through. Chapter 9 institutions are NOT free from Government cronies being placed (bless our public protector who spends so much time and money in court). There is too much power given to chapter 9 independent electoral commission under clause 14. The whole act should not be enacted. Clause 14 is a huge problem with unbridled control and power. if electronic voting is instituted under clause 14 , identity tracability could be lost leading to electoral fraud. ..	John

	2020-11-05 10:13:38	Eastern Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	No legislation should contain wording like “Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method.” That is in effect granting arbitrary powers to the IEC. This is unlikely to survive a constitutionality test. I am informed that this is intended to make electronic voting possible. I am a computer science academic and have studied this extensively. Electronic voting is highly risky and subject to many forms of fraud and error. Paper ballots are easy to recount and audit. Mostly, we have results the same day as the election. If an electronic system fails, you may have no way of determining the outcome. There isn’t a problem to fix here. Even under pandemic conditions, voting in person can be handled with social distancing, hygiene, etc. and any slowdown in the process can be accommodated by lengthening the hours polling is open. The Concourt has ordered that provision be made for independents to stand in national and provincial elections; this is the amendment actually required.	Philip

	2020-11-04 22:34:45	Eastern Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is absolutely absurd irrespective of covid19 that we have voting electronically. The anc is too corrupt and its much easier to tamper with ballots that are done online than when it is done via paper as it has been. I will not accept electronic voting at all because government is running scared by losing! Its unacceptable that this bill should even be considered at their convenience, its our right to vote as we have before a common cold came in the form of an apparent virus.	Jesmique

	2020-11-04 08:26:53	Eastern Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This government has unfortunately proven itself to be untrustworthy (follow the Zondo commission to prove my point) and introducing an electronic voting system opens up the voting process for meddling by this untrustworthy government. Having so called independent auditors monitor the process will not suffice anymore as they too were part of the state capture program. The untrustworthy government has already lived up to its name by only publishing the notification of this bill in one news paper and ran it for one day only, which creates suspicion and doubt about this process already. So an emphatic no to this process if it has any possibility of the government meddling with the results.	William
	2020-11-04 08:12:47	Eastern Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will allow people to vote multiple times. There will be people with more than one email address, ID number etc who register and vote online, as well as manually. This will create chaos. Also, the counting of votes will be obscured from the different parties. The IEC is generally made up of persons belonging to the ruling party, and online votes and manual votes could go "missing" and unaccounted for if the rules are changed.	Anita

It is also unacceptable that the IEC will appear to be authorised to make changes and can introduce such a system without first consulting parliament. At least that is how I understand what I have read. It will just make it easier for the results to be rigged.	Stewart

	2020-11-03 08:31:56	Eastern Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill will leave the door wide open to manipulation and as we know the ANC has a very bad record with corruption. This is not democratic and one Chapter 9 institution cannot hold so much power. Clause 14 is therefore unacceptable and will be open to corruption. 	2020-11-03 08:23:27	Eastern Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Clause 14 allows for an electronic voting system, which can be manipulated by a corrupt government, like the ANC and auditing can only be done by a limited group of people with technical skills. 	2020-11-07 10:21:17	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	To ensure free and fair elections and where it can be monitored for every citizen to be allowed to only vote ONCE, stricter rules in voting process must be implemented not less security and rules that can open doors for fraud. Therefore i oppose amending the voting system especially regarding allowing voters to vote without providing their full personal details including their addresses which can result in voters voting more than once in different districts in one day. It opens yet another door for illegal activities and corruption.	Jade
	2020-11-07 09:29:34	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Granting that much power to a corruptable chapter 9 institution undermines the democracy of the country. Final say about what method is used for voting should lie with parlaiment and a singe state run entity. The ruling party has proven time and again that it is power hungry and will over reach and undermine democracy in order to maintain power. Therefore this type of legislation can not be allowed	Carl

It is an act of corruption intended to destroy democracy. Even if it were not so, it is also a huge waste of taxpayer money at a time when we are already crippled economically. Instead of yet again spending on keeping their own bums in the butter it is time for the state to start addressing South Africa's real issues such as poverty.	Jeanna

	2020-11-07 08:41:17	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The current electoral system allows for visible, accessible control mechanisms which if properly implemented provide for free and fair elections. In contrast electronic systems can be invisibly modified or manipulated by highly skilled technical people in ways which may be hard or even impossible to detect. The benefits will be notable in a perfectly designed and managed system, but sadly that is just not going to happen, and even if it is, there are external elements which could corrupt or attack the system for their own benefit. 	2020-11-07 06:46:54	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The Bill is a great risk to democracy in South Africa. It does not specify what "different voting method" is envisaged or why this is to be introduced. In effect it gives a blank cheque to the IEC. Electronic voting is more vulnerable to manipulation. Parliament only published a call for comments in a single newspaper. This is an irresponsible "sneaky" handling by Parliament and excludes all South Africans who did not read the relevant newspaper, from cover to cover, on the particular day.	Daphne

	2020-11-06 22:35:00	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The American election should be a good indication of how things go wrong with an electronic voting method. Corruption and fiddling of numbers is easier on this type of platform. If there is no concrete address and identification checking, in person, fiddling of votes is easy. Completed ballots may be auto generated in order to increase vote numbers for a particular party. There is no tracking of votes or if they are in the ballot box (inbox) to be effective. Even dead or fictitious people start voting. Not all citizens are computer literate and will not have access to email. They will be convinced not to go to polling stations and positive votes will be uncaptured. If RSA is to become a model democratic state, this is not going to be achieved with these methods.	Annelee

	2020-11-06 16:55:05	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The amendments will provide too many opportunities for the result to be manipulated or will allow for processes which are not easy to control to be used, opening the process to fraud or miss use. Additionally my confidence due to past experience and current results where theoretical ideas have not been adequately put in practice, further jeopardizes the goal of a free and "Fair" election" process if the methods can not be easily verified or adequately controlled. Allowing persons to vote where they are not registered or possibly resident can also be used to manipulate the results .	Richard

	2020-11-06 11:29:00	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa remains far behind on matters 4IR which are supposed to be priority. An example is the stale discussion/implementation of the move by SABC from Analogue to Digital system. Red tape, financial mismanagement and just a lack of will. While we leave the many viewers behind on this, we cannot rush them to vote electronically and hope for accurate results. First thins first. We cannot allow people without addresses to vote as this encourages poor service delivery (porous boarders, unlawful ID issuing, un/ mismanaged Municipal systems) . Illegal migrants tend to be the ones without addresses and this voting system will create lots of unqualifying ballots which is unfair.	Wezi

	2020-11-06 09:35:50	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Government has shown itself incapable of doing anything, and in this instance using modern technology, efficiently. It is just another opportunity for corruption in procurement. It is another opportunity to be able to manipulate elections through hacking and mismanagement and whatever means are available. I do not need to prove this. A voter must have a registered address and ID which is confirmed and, vote in person. I do not trust the ANC/Government (same thing) and I do not have to prove that they are not trustworthy. I do NOT appreciate the way amendments to the law are SNEAKED into existence!	08337725 26

	2020-11-06 09:04:13	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The amendments appear to be autocratic. Compare the amendment which will give the Commission authority to prescribe a different voting method. This will clearly be possible without parliamentary approval, thus making the Commission a lawmaker in its own right. Although this is not clear, it appears that the underlying objective is to do away with the system of proportional representation. I am against abandoning the system of proportional representation - it leaves minority groups out in the cold, with no hope of any representation in parliament, due to the population numbers in the country. Every tom dick & harry starts a political party confusing the people more.There is already so much voter fraud being committed, I'm afraid if we allow those without fixed & permanent addresses to vote we invite even MORE fraud to be commonplace.The BIGGEST concern is the voting method. Once again voter fraud sits at the top of the list of concerns."to amend provisions relating to the effect of certain irregularities, and to provide for matters connected therewith."- what irregularities? There are already SO many CERTAIN irregularities that nothing is being done about. 	2020-11-05 20:42:56	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	While electronic voting may seem to be the next step in how votes should work, there are a bunch of issues regarding electronic voting. E-voting stations will probably be built by some company who gets awarded the tender to build it (can this random company be trusted to build a reliable, unbiased and secure machine). These machines will have to be rolled out in great numbers across the country (how would the company be able to guarantee uptime for the machines during election day - handling millions of votes per hour is no small task, and there is no way to test it at full scale prior to election day; also when taken into account how often the post office and other licensing offices are offline). Security and trust: how does a person from a rural area know that the machine they have in front of them is official, secure (so that no-one can see who they voted for; or where their vote is changed, by either software running in the background, a hacker with remote access, or a man in the middle attack or any similar situation) and can be trusted. Democratic Elections have fundamental principles: 1) Each eligible person get a single vote (by requiring ID on election day and being registered on the voter's roll, with an address, this is a lot simpler to manage). 2) the voting is done in private, no-one need to know who you voted for (this is done with the cardboard stations, providing privacy while you vote). The second principle becomes an enormous issue with electronic voting: the vote should not be tied to your ID, you should only be able to vote once (hoe does the system know distinguish between one voter to the next in a way that one person can't vote twice). Lastly the paper trail - if there are any dispute with paper based voting, it can be recounted; electronically there is no such option, it is quickly counted as it happens, but can't be audited. For anyone wanting a video explaining this, find Tom Scott on YouTube, he created 2 short videos explaining it in simple terms.	Jaco

	2020-11-05 19:36:07	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	All provisions in the Bill empowering the IEC to 'prescribe a different voting method' should be deleted. So too should the Bill's proposed changes to: • Section 23(3) of the Electoral Commission Act, which currently requires the concurrence of the financial minister for any IEC regulations affecting state expenditure; and • Section 50(1) of the Electoral Act of 1998, which currently contains a tried and tested system for reconciling, counting, and recording the paper ballots cast at every voting station. A new bill, shorn of these offending and often unconstitutional provisions, should then be drawn up. This should be accompanied by a SEIAS assessment, the final report of which should be+ appended to the revised bill when it is released for public comment. The period for public comment should be at least four weeks, while updated copies of the three statutes the bill seeks to amend should be made available to make it easier for the public to get to grips with the content and significance of the new measure. 	2020-11-05 19:11:45	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Implementation of a new electronic voting system is not something we can trust this government with. Basic services can't be provided, no electronic system in government currently works. Corruption is rife and we as citizens cannot trust the SA, ANC run government with such a system. Electronic voting is fraught with loopholes and target for hackers to influence the outcome. This is not acceptable that it is being published and pushed through under the radar.	Amoret
	2020-11-05 19:04:41	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We cannot change to an electoral system which can be manipulated in favour of one political party over others. 	2020-11-05 19:03:42	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I agree however that they will be able to steal votes. I don't agree with clause 14 either. Section 38 of the Act under paragraph marked (9)" Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other Law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method " I don't trust other voting methods either. Keep to paper voting method as we currently have. It should not be up to the Commission, a politically-appointed body, to prescribe alternative (electronic) voting methods. They should make recommendations which will then be reviewed by public representatives, Parliament, parties and the public. New methods should not be authorised by simple majority, but by consensus, and then ratified in a referendum by the citizens.	Paul

	2020-11-05 16:28:35	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The IEC has a constitutional obligation to 'ensure' that all elections are 'free and fair'. However, it cannot fulfil this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so; Parliament has the 'constitutional authority and duty' (as the Constitutional Court has put it) to design the electoral system, and so cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC; and The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process. This means, as the Constitutional Court has ruled, that citizens must be given 'a meaningful opportunity to be heard' and that the 'truncated timeline' on which the committee is insisting is 'inherently unreasonable'. Further more, they lost the confidence of many of their loyal supporters due to the emence corruption and lack of leadership that now they want to introduce another scheam to rig the voting system more easily than before. 	2020-11-05 15:11:42	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Our current voting method leaves little opportunity for the election result to be tampered with as there is a verifiable paper trail. Electronic voting may be more vulnerable to hacks which may change the outcome of the election; as such, if we change to an electronic voting method it is possible that our elections may be interfered with and can no longer be considered "free and fair", thereby undermining our democracy. 	2020-11-05 13:58:06	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am concerned about the constitutional validity of this bill. In my opinion this will result in impediment of our right to free and fair elections.	Marina
	2020-11-05 13:49:57	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will open the door to even more and easier fraud. The process should be open and transparent. How will it be determined that a voter was not coerced or actually voted him/herself? How can voters be allowed on the voters' roll with no address? To do any business whatsoever one has to supply proof of residence.	Estelle
	2020-11-05 13:46:25	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have a couple of concerns about this. Primarily - what guarantee would there be of the authenticity of electronic voting? In a country where crime and fraud are rife from senior government levels down to the man in the street; there can be almost no guarantee as to the authenticity of individual votes. Likewise how can there even be consideration regarding allowing voters to vote in a region/area where they do not live. This would only be done to deliberately swing a vote in a certain party's direction. Yes for a national election it wouldn't be an issue but for municipal votes this can never be allowed to happen.	Mandy

	2020-11-05 12:05:51	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting systems remove virtually all transparency and undermine the concept of free and fair elections. Granting the IEC the power to select whatever voting method they choose is a threat to the entire democratic election framework. The cost of these systems also needs to be considered, particularly in light of the rampant claims of corruption currently being investigated, with no significant convictions to date. The secrecy with which this bill is being fast-tracked (single ad in single newspaper on one day only with so little time to comment) screams hidden agendas. This should not be allowed and is unethical at best!	Timothy
	2020-11-05 11:56:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The amendment "to authorize the Commission to prescribe a different voting method or procedure" is too vague and opens the door for corruption, jeopardizing free and fair elections.	Bouwer
	2020-11-05 11:55:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will leave it wide open to fraud. 	2020-11-05 10:02:57	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The voting system must not be subject to manipulation in an already corrupt country. Any amendments must be made to improve the reliability of the election result. Allowing voters to vote without valid addresses is one example which will open the system up to abuse. If anything the voters role, RICA and FICA should be compared to ensure reliability of data, as most citizens would have at least a cell phone and/or a bank account, thereby validating their address. 	2020-11-05 09:58:01	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have many concerns: 1) The concurrence of the Minister of Finance - seems like a license to waste/steal even more state funds 2) Introduction of a 'different voting method' and that any other law in this regard may be overridden - why a different voting method is necessary is beyond my comprehension. Further, introducing so-called 'electronic voting' is not viable both because it is expensive (especially in SA where the acquisition of equipment would likely be (partly) corrupt) and because globally the technology implementation so far has been a privacy/security disaster. 3) New rules on determining the results at voting stations - removing the regulations regarding ballot papers and not requiring a proper reconciliation will make it very easy to falsify results 4) Constitutionality of the bill - how can the constitutional requirement that elections be 'free and fair' if the provisions of the bill are adopted?	Robert
	2020-11-05 09:56:07	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I support the development of alternative, cost effective, transparent and efficient methods of getting people to the voting Poll. However, the wording of the Bill does not incorporate the necessary checks and balances to ensure that any change of voting method is inclusive (ie does not differentiate to any population or geographical group), and has the audit function that is so necessary to validate the results. Neither do I believe that the selection of the system can be that of the IEC alone as it by itself is not the elected body that represents all of the peoples of SA. Sweeping powers of decision are generally bad for any democracy and this Bill in its present form is just such.	David

	2020-11-05 09:00:08	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting (by example) is not transparent and is therefore open to errors and corruption of many sorts (intended or not). As a software developer this frightens me, because I am well aware of how easy it can be to change results or skew them in favour of what is wanted. Paper is transparent and measurable. Furthermore, giving the IEC carte blanche to determine voting methods without oversight is unconstitutional, and again is open to manipulation by the powers that would either maintain the status quo or change it for their own benefit.	Stephen

	2020-11-05 08:46:22	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any new voting system should have an independent referendum as it is such a crucial part of ensuring people in power are those that were lawfully elected. Clause 14 gives the IEC a blank cheque, free of checks and balances. This is unacceptable and opens up the democratic process to manipulation and abuse. In particular, electronic voting. Certain superpowers are actively developing offensive cyber capabilities to support their global ambitions. A delinquent regime, hell bent on self enrichment, is easy prey. It stands to reason that these superpowers will facilitate any attempts to load the system in the delinquent regime's favor. This Bill, particularly Clause 14, must be subjected to all the rigor that can be mustered.	Mukesh

						I stand with an excerpt taken from a press release from the IRR. "Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation. In An introduction to vulnerabilities in electronic voting, Robert Duigan, who completed an MSc in Crisis and Security Management at Leiden University College, writes: "Traditional safeguards for ballot security have the advantage of being legible to the entire public, and violations of protocol are easy enough for anybody to comprehend." By contrast, "electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state.... In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power,... this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections." ian No I do not constitutionality of the bill Transparency & fairness are the cor

	2020-11-05 06:24:32	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Parliament has the constitutional authority, duty and responsibility to design the electoral system, and cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC. The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process so that public opinion can be heard and adequately considered. The short timeline provided for review and consultation on this Bill is unreasonable and inadequate. The proposed change to allow an electronic voting system will not allow free and fair elections as opportunities for fraudulent rigging of elections in tis way are great and generally known to be problematic. I consider that the introduction of an electronic voting system would be unconstitutional.	William

	2020-11-04 19:54:13	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have several reasons for objecting to this draft amendment: 1) The time frame for public comment and the manner and timing in which the announcement was made, are VERY concerning. Such a short time frame with NO viable information available from the Government is a clear indication that the intentions of the draft amendment are not above board. This is a highly undemocratic manner of action! 2) the sweeping and unchecked powers granted to an institution which is NOT intended for the making of decisions but primarily for the execution and administration of decisions made by Parliament, is scary - to say the least. Totally unacceptable under the principles of good governance which the taxpayers and all citizens of South Africa deserve. 3) The paragraph allowing the IEC to choose ANY method of voting with NO checks and balances, no discussions, no input, no parliamentary involvement and in particular, NO ACCOUNTABILITY is an underhanded and utterly dubious manner in which to create an opportunity to undermine the transparency and legitimacy of future elections. As elections are the very foundation of democracy, any changes to this Bill are of the utmost importance to the future of this country and the well-being of each and every citizen. ANY changes or decisions made in this regard, MUST be subjected to open, in-depth, honest and wide ranging discussion to ensure inclusivity of all!	D

	2020-11-04 15:08:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Let's be honest here our voices will be ignored as they always have & this is as much a farce as anything our ?d up government does. The ANC does NOT serve this country & its citizenship & NEVER has! It's God is the God of Corruption & Evil, no question! By allowing the IEC to determine the method within which we vote (as they see fit); which will be in the most disadvantageous manner humanly possible & as unconstitutional as possible; they've already been tampering with our votes as is. This way they can manipulate things further with absolutely no accountability for their illegal actions. The ANC will have no opposition keeping it in check & it'll be a free for all genocide against us Whites. Effectively if the IEC gets away with this, it's simple we will officially be allowing them to sign our death warrants. It is that serious & that simple! The ANC purposefully let us know about this in as innocuous manner as possible so that it can lie based on a technicality that they did actually make us the public aware of this proposed change & made it possible for us to have our say about it. Simply not true. As the lying pieces of garbage that they are this duplicitous act comes as no surprise at all! The ANC is pure evil & any White who supports them & or the EFF is a traitor to their race & quite frankly all of them deserve to roast in hell for all eternity where they belong. Reality is as a government the ANC has failed in every single way possible & if given complete & utter autocracy, they will just continue doing so until we Whites are wiped out as a race & their own people die of starvation & other horrendous things. The ANC government members will jump ship & seek asylum in non extradition countries as South Africa goes up in flames. I'm White & female, my voice will be ignored but God sees all & He'll protect us & He has some permanently hot plans for these soulless monsters. Btw Mr President claiming to be Christian and behaving the way you & your cadre of corrupt compatriots do, only goes to show how truly false & as far from Christ you all really are!	J

	2020-11-04 12:43:48	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	No, no, no - A large majority of South Africans won't have access to the electronic method of voting and will need assistance. This is an open invitation to the ANC to change any votes that it likes. Further down the electronic line, are many more opportunities for votes to be changed or deleted. Your vote is your secret and the current process is understood by everyone. Implementing a process that many will not understand and need assistance with, will mean that your vote is no longer secret and may sway people to vote for who they are expected to vote for, instead of who they want to vote for. Also, nothing electronic that the ANC implements works correctly. Just look at the school online registration and the online booking for drivers licenses. Another amendment I have a problem with is allowing people to vote where they are, as opposed to where they are registered. Once again, this opens up opportunities for corruption and for people to vote twice or maybe more times as the system will be flawed and have many loopholes. Keep the voting as it is - everyone understands it and there is a physical paper trail, which can also be manipulated, but less so than an electronic one.	Alex

How the hell are you going to manage to secure any other form of voting? I have no confidence in your ability to do it right. You will not be able to prevent a basic script kiddy to hack it, what about a more experienced hacker? Another thing I don't trust is the transparency when you proceed with this method. It's all just to get another tender somewhere and piss our hard earned money away while our nations kids play in the sewerage in townships and don't get peoper education. Fix that first!!!	Jacques

	2020-11-04 11:13:57	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There is no way that this government can be trusted to do anything honestly. Amending the method of voting to electronic voting will be exploited to keep them in power.	Jan
	2020-11-04 11:12:24	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Unfortunately corruption is rife in South Africa, and if there are major concerns about mail in voting and other non conventional methods overseas, in South Africa, any method that cannot be scrutinised thoroughly needs to be rejected. According to our domestic servant in the last election, thousands of ID books were freely distributed on the streets by both ANC and DA staff. Election fraud is big, and we need to try and increase scrutiny, not allow it to get bigger through methods where scrutiny is limited.	Grantley

	2020-11-04 11:11:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Clause 14 of the bill cannot be voted into Law, because it gives the IEC MUCH too much power about how we go about voting. Electronic voting is so easily manipulated, and I do not trust the ANC nor the IEC to not manipulate results.	Bernard
	2020-11-04 11:10:38	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Clause 14 allows for the IEC to select an alternative / different method of voting. Electronic voting is more open to fraud/ manipulation that paper voting, which has an auditable trail.	Christopher
	2020-11-04 11:10:09	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I stand with an excerpt taken from a press release from the IRR. "Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation. In An introduction to vulnerabilities in electronic voting, Robert Duigan, who completed an MSc in Crisis and Security Management at Leiden University College, writes: "Traditional safeguards for ballot security have the advantage of being legible to the entire public, and violations of protocol are easy enough for anybody to comprehend." By contrast, "electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state.... In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power,... this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections."	Gerben Anne

	2020-11-04 11:07:12	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The bill is too vague regarding the different method of voting, it removes many of the safe guards that were previously legislated and that helped to protect the integrity of the voting system, without introducing other appropriate safeguards. The State has also not proven that it has the capability to manage complex Information technology projects and any electronic voting system will be more prone to irregular manipulation and lack of oversight than our current paper based voting system. The cost of a new electronic voting system is also potentially prohibitive and SA cannot afford it at present, removing the requirement for the Minister of Finance to agree to such expenses is also against the spirit of cooperative governance.	Achim

	2020-11-04 11:01:08	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	i object to the amendment bill. This will open the door for fraud as they can include bogus voters. The new bill amendment, which will allow the IEC (a Chapter Nine Institution meant to guard democracy) to prescribe a different voting method, at their discretion. (Clause 14 of the bill, hidden conveniently between a deluge of technobabble) This means that for local, provincial and national elections the state will have far more control when the IEC prescribes an electronic voting system that leaves no paper trail like a ballot system, given the level of corruption and fraud in this county this cannot be allowed. Our system as it stands, has worked well thus far, so don't change what isn't broken just for the sake of changing it. It will be yet another expense our country can not afford.	Leon
	2020-11-04 11:01:07	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is much easier to manipulate than voting using paper ballots.	Hrvoje
	2020-11-04 10:59:07	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The way the ANC Government has handed out contracts and senior positions to incompetent parties and individuals gives me no confidence in their ability to introduce electronic voting honestly or at all. 	2020-11-04 10:49:22	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. South Africa does not have the capacity, both in terms of infrastructure and human capacity to implement, monitor and transparently manage an electronic voting system.	Karien
	2020-11-04 10:47:37	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I strongly oppose this bill and the manner in which it has been rushed through, and only advertised in 1 national newspaper for only 1 day ... therefore the majority of the population have not been notified of this proposed amendment. This bill gives blanket authority to change the way voting is conducted. Electronic voting could be easily hacked and manipulated - no paper trail of evidence in support of the TRUTH. Must vote in the area that you are registered in and NO address on voters roll then NO vote. They had 5 years to get voter's addresses.	Mary
	2020-11-04 10:45:35	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Proof of address is essential to voting rights. One must live in the constituency to vote. Voting fraud is considerably increased if no address is necessary. This can come back to bite even the governing party as well. It is also open to gross manipulation of votes! Stop this!!!	Colin

	2020-11-04 10:25:10	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With the traditional method of voting there is a paper trail which is also corruptible to a degree. It is however unthinkable for a government, where the majority of parliament proofed to be corrupt or have a criminal record, that such a government have the nerve to try and implement a voting system where there will be absolutely no proof that such elections be honest. I am sorry but this government have shown their hands to many times, and no one can dispute the fact that we are sitting with a bunch of thieves and corrupt officials where even the law system is corrupt and racist. Whichever way the electoral system will be done, I can guarantee now that this will also be rigged to suite these racists.	Theo

	2020-11-04 10:16:04	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Whilst every person deserves the right to cast a ballot changing to an electronic system is fraught with disturbing possibilities. The electronic votes are much easier to manipulate and our current government has proven time and time again that they have no problem with unethical manipulation to achieve their own goals. The selection of the governing board is also problematic as they will have huge powers bestowed on them and if history in South Africa is anything to go by - power invariably leads to corruption in one or other form.	Carolyn

	2020-11-04 10:10:13	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill should not be allowed to be passed as it is open to fraudulent use and takes away the transparency which will cause rigging of votes. There is nothing wrong with people joining a queue and signing up their votes freely and objectively. I definitely do not accept any electronic voting.	Garth
	2020-11-04 10:10:02	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am concerned that this draft amendment bill is being rushed and not open for Public Comment with sufficient time to afford all South Africans their constitutional right to Public Comment. This bill will grant an organisation like the Independent Electoral Commission huge influence over our Personal right to a free and fair election . In my opinion the ruling party has too much influence over the choice of the appointed commission members and could manipulate possible outcomes.	Ettienne

	2020-11-04 08:24:27	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This VERY broad definition and the fact that the IEC seems more and more NOT to be independent plus the devious way used by the ANC to almost secretly announce such Bill tells me that things are not at all well in our so called Constitutional Democracy. If we carry on like this we will not have a Constitution nor a Democracy. Dark days ahead if you didn't think they were dark already.	Dalene

	2020-11-04 08:24:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The electoral commission will be given too much power and their justification for such Bill is to allow them to decide on how voting takes place, such as by electronic means which will open up issues of cybersecurity and hacking, etc. South Africa is still not at the same level of technological expertise as Sweden, UK or America is to warrant this Bill	Melissa

	2020-11-04 07:40:43	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting cannot be kept secure. Anything can be compromised and tampered with if there is enough reason to. Electronic voting allows all the data to be tampered with at a single point. It also can lead to people being unable to vote due to offline systems and service outages. We see this regularly with Telkom's systems and the Post Offices. While paper is tedious, it leaves no single point of failure and is much harder to tamper with since changing one vote at a time takes infinitely longer.	Wynand

	2020-11-04 07:23:34	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	1. Electronic voting is perhaps suitable in first world countries with a clear and corruption "free" populace and government. SA has proven itself to be corrupt over the last 50 years with the ANC having achieved extraordinary levels of corruption in the last 26 years. An electronic voting system is open to further corruption by an illegitimate government. 2. The cost and implementation of such a system is beyond SA capabilities in a country where most municipalities cannot send out regular accurate rates/water/electricity accounts. We cannot afford such a system when there are far more pressing needs.	Gareth

	2020-11-04 05:31:49	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There is no reason to amend this act other than systematic election fraud. Electronirc voting is not subject to the same review and overview. As it is it is already difficult to conduct a free and fair election when one party uses every lever of state buy the election. This includes departmental bill boards, food parcels etc with no intervention by the Electoral commission. I have seen party activity inside hte boundary of voting station in violation of the electoral act. Election officials were too ignorant to even know their own laws. In short the IEC is always corrupted by cadre deployment and should be given no further powers and no further ability to obfuscate.	stephen

	2020-11-03 22:03:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	If this amendment is passed it means that the Commission could prescribe a voting method that could favor one political party above others in the outcome of an election.	Johan

	2020-11-03 22:01:47	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The possibility of fraud is higher. The current way of voting is more secure, representative of each political party are present to prevent rigging of results.	Johanna
	2020-11-03 21:59:43	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I agree that our voting system should be modernized. The technology is available. I suggest that every vote casted should be immediately counted via a modern system (when punched into a machine by the voter), BUT the original paper ballot should be securely stored as back-up.	Elsa
	2020-11-03 21:56:42	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Until there is proof that we have members in voting stations and a drastic reduction in corruption, any change that is to be implemented I will not believe in.	Lyle

	2020-11-03 21:19:18	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I say NO to licence fees for streaming services and mobile devices. We are already suffering because of covid related matters. Lots have lost their jobs while their partners struggle to assist and have our heads above the water to survive. Now the Government want more money to steal and to enrich themselves. I'd say tax the Government if they keep on buying new Cars and ask more tax from the rich people.	Willie

	2020-11-03 20:42:44	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do have an objection a electronically voting process because it leaves the door open for election fraud. This is just another way for the government to ensure they stay in power. This is even a problem in 1st world country such as the USA. So I cannot see it work in a 3rd world country as South Africa. And it will not work in Africa.	Hermann
	2020-11-03 20:36:23	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The mere fact that any government electronic system never works properly, I can not see how this will work any different.	Pam

	2020-11-03 19:50:58	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I think it is important to have a paper trail for something as important as an election, electronic systems are too easily manipulated and just open doors for corruption in our electoral process, as it will become way harder to monitor to ensure out elections are free and fair. 	2020-11-03 19:45:49	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We have no reason to trust the motivation for these changes. 	2020-11-03 19:33:29	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We do not have the capacity to ensure that the software will work. Also the well proven corruption with all government tenders makes this idea not feasible. There was a huge mess with the SARS system update. There was a huge mess with the software at SASSA There are huge messes with Eskom, SAA, software companies contracting to government, government tenders, everything is corrupt and dysfunctional. There is no reason to believe that this will be different	Marina

	2020-11-03 19:17:40	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The last elections there were ballot boxes found in a veld in Midrand, those boxes were never counted, to ensure that the Anc won and the ballots were made mostly da to endure they would not win, now they want to make it electronic it sounds all nice but how will we know that the device is connected to the internet so that our vote will actually be counted and not get lost somewhere like the boxes in the veld this way nobody will know that there vote actually made a difference coz there is surly a way they can make sure that votes dont count so the anc can win again for a change coz they know that every body is sick of there corruption	Heather

	2020-11-03 19:05:00	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I ask that Government immediately retract the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill and delete from it all clauses seeking to introduce "a different voting method". I do not believe that the public has been given enough time to comment on this amendment. I believe that Government is trying to sneak new laws in without completing due diligence with the public.	Zhane
	2020-11-03 19:03:51	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC will drive busses and busses down to the Western Cape with their supporters to try and take the only Province where the least corruption is at present with the only reason is that they are not in charge there to loot the system. The Western Province has the least corrupted incidents in terms of municipalities - so obvious where the ANC corrupted politici has the least influence.	Carl
	2020-11-03 19:01:15	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Anything that the government implements has a hidden agenda and then they will change some regulations to change the constitution to give them more power as they do seem to have a never ending craving for money and power that comes with it. 	2020-11-03 18:51:15	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Isn't it amazing how a ruling party, riddled with corruption will continually try every and any method of staying in power. The suggested new change is so dangerous as to make the country very vulnerable to corrupt electioneering. I'm surprised that they didn't sneak this through on the last day of work in December, giving NO days to comment, or receive comment.	Martin

	2020-11-03 17:54:35	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do object to the Draft Amendment Bill for the following reasons: (1) the "different method of voting" must be clearly stated and reasons given for a change to the traditional method of voting. If electronic voting is envisaged, it will expose the system to manipulation, reduce transparency and erode the integrity of the elections. (2) Voters should only be allowed to vote where they are registered; and (3) Citizens without verifiable physical addresses should not be allowed to register as voters.	Vincent

	2020-11-03 17:07:23	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC regime has already bought more than 50% of possible votes and the few nett taxpayers left are paying for those ANC votes through the multitude of grants and subsidies. The ruling regime is thus assured of keeping in power as long as it can keep paying grants. However, with most of taxes being looted before it can be used to benefit society, the regime will soon stare at a tax revolt, a hungry populace, and no money left to buy votes. A different method must thus be found to pretend to remain voted in. Better still, if by implementing the tool (Electronic voting) vast amounts can be looted by inflated and murky contracts for the equipment and services needed. Electronic voting has been troublesome in rich countries with excellent infrastructure, in a poor country with poor infrastructure it is madness to attempt such.	Abraham

	2020-11-03 16:49:23	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have a problem both with the granting of extra powers to the Electoral Commission to 'change the voting procedure', and in the event that it would decide to change the voting medium to electronic voting, I have a problem with transparency and security. I do not think we have the capacity to cyber-secure the voting procedure online.	Lara
	2020-11-03 16:40:56	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC are using same tricks that USA President D Trump is using, to make us a communist country, Dictatorship , with no Democratic rights as we currently have.	Ed

	2020-11-03 16:32:18	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is susceptible to tampering-people must vote where they live. SA population not sophisticated enough for this. 	2020-11-03 16:31:44	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting for a country that cannot guarantee connectivity is senseless. Electronic voting systems are fraught with fraudulent opportunity. There is no proper tracking system available to ensure no fraud. outh Africa is a high crime state already how do you propose to stop fraudulent voting. This makes no sense in a country where a large part of the populace have no access to electronic voting. USA can't make it work how the hell will we?	Johan

	2020-11-03 15:47:01	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Aftica has a very bad history of corruption. This will introduce another opportunity to steal money for implementation. It will also allow government to manipulate the outcome and remove transparency	Suzanne
	2020-11-03 15:43:31	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This method is open to various misuses and flaws, closed to public scrutiny, and should never be left for decision to bodies like the IEC which are not then subject to Parliamentary control.	Bernie
	2020-11-03 15:41:57	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The IEC has been researching the use of an electronic voting system since 2019. Such a system will not allow for transparency in looking at election results. Observers of such elections will have to have technical skills to scrutinise results - far more difficult than with paper based system. Also places a lot of power in a Chapter 9 institution which is then potentially open to government interference.	Moyra
	2020-11-03 15:38:09	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It seems to me that the electronic voting system can be tampered with (as it was alleged to have happened in the United States). Also, requiring voters to appear in person with a valid ID allows mediators to check age, address, etc. It's also more impracticable for anyone to vote multiple times. Furthermore, computer literacy, access to devices and internet connectivity are not equally available to all citizens.	Martin
	2020-11-03 15:31:30	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Like hell no. The ANC is already corrupt . Another way to rig votes and get more people to offer freebies to. We the minority pays	Farida

	2020-11-03 15:25:54	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Our country has many unsophisticated people who will not understand the reason or consequences of a changed system. 	2020-11-03 15:17:23	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We need strict controls of the voting at all times. We cannot leave room for corrupting the results. 	2020-11-03 15:12:55	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	do not agree that section 14 might have a detrimental effect on the transparency of the voting process. most citizens in South Africa also still struggle to understand advanced technologies and this might not suit their needs.	eزانة
	2020-11-03 15:11:39	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	To many loopholes for more corruption. I do not agree to the IEC having total control over counting votes. Share control with independent organization where NO government, municipality officers or taxi owners are involved. Proof of home address should be mandatory before cast a vote.	johanna
	2020-11-03 15:05:12	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting systems are vulnerable to manipulation in many ways. Attacks on electronic voting systems require a high level of technical expertise. But such attacks, whether internal (carried out by the incumbent government) or external (carried out by outside hackers), can be implemented in a much more systematic and covert way than is possible with traditional voting systems.	Tanja
	2020-11-03 14:56:17	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	IT is without a doubt that computing systems are responsible for many of the inefficiencies we see in government. It has taken the government years to get eNatis (dis)functional, etolls in Johannesburg admin and billing a mess, policing databases a mess etc, gun registrations, hospital records etc. I am very opposed to digital voting systems in the current climate as it will cost a fortune (money our taxpayers cannot afford) and then it will not run smoothly and accurately (as shown in any government online platform). As a democracy we can especially not afford this.	Aniek
	2020-11-03 14:55:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Hi, Completely disagree - to be fair and transparent the existing way which can be independently checked and verified is essential - an electronic method cannot be done in the same way. Thanks,	Noel
	2020-11-03 14:51:56	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is my opinion that Electronic voting WILL be fumbled with. Erwin
	2020-11-03 14:46:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Far more consultation and transparency is needed in relation to these wanted amendments. 	2020-11-03 14:15:00	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC government has a long history of corruption and meddling in the affairs of chapter 9 institutions. The state is now running out of money and the citizenry are running out of patience. The risk to the ANC that they lose their majority is becoming very real. The risk that the ANC looks to load the IEC with cadres is very probable, and the likelihood that the proposed changes to the electoral act are used to benefit the ANC come election time is equally highly probable. The voting system should as far as is possible be insulated from political interference. These new regulations could be used to decide how people can vote influencing how results are determined smacks of a ploy to rig the elections or certainly have that option should things look like they are not going the ANC's way. These proposals may well be unconstitutional, if not in the letter, certainly in the spirit.	Caitlin
	2020-11-03 14:14:40	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Proposed amendments to the electoral laws gives too much scope to the IEC and is an irresponsible action by parliament and HA minister to handle such a sensitive issue without exploring electronic voting methods properly and responsibly and not communicating it with the citizenry of SA. It thereby poses a very real threat to constitutional rights of SAns. I strongly request the ministry to review the amendments after proper consultation, exploration and communication.	George

The state is now running out of money and the citizenry are running out of patience. The risk to the ANC that they lose their majority is becoming very real. The risk that the ANC looks to load the IEC with cadres is very probable, and the likelihood that the proposed changes to the electoral act are used to benefit the ANC come election time is equally highly probable. The voting system should as far as is possible be insulated from political interference. These new regulations could be used to decide how people can vote influencing how results are determined smacks of a ploy to rig the elections or certainly have that option should things look like they are not going the ANC's way. These proposals may well be unconstitutional, if not in the letter, certainly in the spirit.	John

	2020-11-03 14:03:55	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Voting in South Africa is already a farce since unfortunately most of the population is not sufficiently aware/interested/able to actually understand and evaluate the implications of voting, nor do they appreciate the implications of keeping particular parties in power, but tend to vote along "historical" lines instead. This bill will further exacerbate the problem and will make the voting system even more open to manipulation, especially if electronic voting is permitted. Hasn't the Zondo commission been a sufficiently clear indicator of the widespread corruption of government?!?! Do we want to give them even more tools and means to break down the country even further???	Maria
	2020-11-03 14:02:58	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There are a number of problems with this bill. 1) The Parliament has not provided for adequate public participation by widely announcing the bill and allowing enough time for the public to comment. 2) Voters should not be allowed to vote outside of their voting districts in municipal elections. It is important that there is no uncertainty about how many votes a candidate for the local council receives, to ensure that there can be no mistakes in local elections. 3) Most crucially we can not allow different methods of voting, especially not electronic voting. Electronic voting is opaque to the public and not easy to comprehend by the average member of the public. This places electronic voting at risk of tampering with no guarantees to the contrary.	Daniel

	2020-11-03 13:45:17	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	the amendments to voting "rights" for people to be able to vote in any district regardless of where they live is fraught with opportunities to "import" people to selectively tamper with the outcome of an election. This means that if an election is going against a party in a district because they don't have the support they can just get voters to vote there who are "Homeless Voters" to influence the outcome of that region/district. Electronic voting is not a viable option for most countries it is not trusted, worldwide it has presented difficulties with trust and verifiable results. At this time in SA the government is looking for a rod for it's own back if it chooses to go that route.	Peter
	2020-11-03 13:43:06	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The government is not reliable. There is too much corruption going on and nothing is being done. With no moral values there is no way I can trust the government with an electronic voting. With the usual way of voting, there are still problems of dishonesty taking place and it will not disappear with the electronic version.	Marna

	2020-11-03 13:26:52	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	According to the media, a small advertisement advertised the Bill on the 23 September 2020 with a closing date for comment on the 30 October 2020. This is a sneaky move, in my opinion a deceitful or at the very least an immoral move by the ANC Administration. I oppose the bill because Parliament is delegating its legislative function to the IEC to determine the details of the electoral system, including the voting method. This delegation has the unacceptable result that Parliament evades its constitutional duty to facilitate public participation in the legislative process of determining how to vote. Clauses 14 and 21 gives the IEC override power to amend the existing voting system. Any changes are subject to the Constitution. Parliament may not delegate their legislative function to ANC Party employees working at the IEC. In short, I believe that the effect of the amendments in the Bill are unconstitutional.	Aubrey

Those in home affairs have been sitting with this idea for at least months, give the public more time to scrutinize the proposed ideas and see if it is in the public interest; - electronic voting puts the power to count ballots in the hands of fewer individuals as opposed to paper ballots where numerous volunteers are involved and it is harder to defraud the system significantly. Who are these individuals who will be responsible for counting votes? Let's do full due diligence to see where their loyalties lie. - we can effectively social distance or increase the number of polling stations if Covid is still a problem in 2021. Also have people counting the ballots do so outdoors with suitable PPE. Much better to do this than to rush a new system through in time for next elections; - state is still struggling to reign in corruption and prosecute those at the top, who incidentally will also be vying for power. How convenient. Let's reestablish public trust. Our president must disclose his donors for CR17. Our president must explain why the Ruperts knew about the lockdown long before the public did (Cyril announced R500m of their money was pledged/borrowed already, when he announced hard lockdown, this would have taken weeks to negotiate, so they knew well in advance). These wealthy individuals have huge political influence, let's see some transparency again before we begin to trust government again. Until then, the current system works just fine, not perfectly, but it works nonetheless. 	Perry

	2020-11-03 12:43:13	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill allows the government even more power to influence the IEC and other bodies. 	2020-11-03 12:19:48	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Firstly we have had irregularities from as far back as 2009 regarding ballot boxes and rigging. These issues were never addressed, in fact it just increased to blatant rigging and ballots being destroyed. I know for a fact that the IEC head, right down to Voting stations officers, are all card carrying members of the ANC. If nothing was done as far back as 2009, what's to stop the electronic method from being hacked and vote tampering? The ANC has its back against the wall lately and have lost all credibility. Then on the issue of voting without being on the voters roll, it's a no from me. This just reinforces my earlier belief that there will be rampant vote tampering.	Lindsay

	2020-11-03 11:47:21	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any proposal to change the voting method must first be made available for public comment and must then be discussed and approved in parliament. An electronic voting system is way too risky for South Africa with our government's history of cadre deployment and corruption... Allowing people to vote in regions they are not registered cannot be allowed. How can someone that doesn't live in my region have a say in who must govern there? Allowing people with no registered address to vote also opens the system for corruption and manipulation	Marelise

	2020-11-03 10:34:19	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The current Government is unable to design, implement, administer and maintain electronic systems such as e-tolling, AARTO, renewal/ issuing of vehicle licenses, renew or issue ID documents and passports and a whole lot of other functions, properly via electronic means without using private consultants at exorbitant costs. This is going to be another useless vanity project which a large portion of the disadvantaged population are not going to be able to effectively use or benefit from and will be open to abuse by government officials, the consultants paid to administer and maintain the system and or external hackers. If hackers were able to recently clone senior security official's cellphones and illegally track a senior police officer leading to his death, imagine the chaos at election time. 	2020-11-03 10:28:57	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The bill is unconstitutional and undemocratic. Voters without addresses should not be countenanced - this is so open to corruption. Electronic voting is far more open to corruption and fraud than the usual method. Most of the electorate is not technically sophisticated so this is not a necessary consideration; especially as the anc has proved over and over again that it is dishonest, corrupt and trying to hang onto power by all means possible. Underlined yet again by the small advert calling for comment published in 1 newspaper, with very little time to comment. Apart from the purely technical issues and changes, this bill seriously threatens our democracy and aims at undermining the constitution.	Carol
	2020-11-03 10:26:58	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Here we go again, another hair brained idea, that has been used in the Western world and failed. As usual another way for the ANC to be involved in corruption, this time they want to make it easier and legal to rig the outcome if elections. Are they in fear they will lose stranglehold on the voters due to miss management and corruption since 1994.	Peter
	2020-11-03 10:25:40	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	more corruption.... everywhere in africa and america... we can expect the same here someone with connections will get tender for apparatus ect ... more cost and corruption to tax paying community which is very small	marlene
	2020-11-03 10:24:42	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am deeply concerned that the new method will allow non-residents in an area to vote, that there will be loss of control over voting lists. I am deeply concerned that no addresses are to be required, this will certainly open the way for non-eligible persons to vote. I am deeply concerned that these proposed regulations will open the way for even more fraud in the voting process.	Irmela
	2020-11-03 10:23:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This amendment gives too much power to those who do not need it nor how to use the existing influence they have for good use. It is not in the best interest of South Africa to rig elections electronically when one cannot even have a fully functioning website.	Jethro
	2020-11-03 10:22:18	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic methods can easily be manipulated, where the average South African may not have the technical experience to dispute it, therefore transparency is lacking.	Shaldon

	2020-11-03 10:21:19	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	An electronic method of voting would be open to fraud, we've seen what hackers can do. No addresses means people can vote in an area where they don't live skewering the results for that area, especially in a municipal election.	Peggy
	2020-11-03 10:19:32	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Just more and more doors opening for corruption NO	Audrey

	2020-11-03 10:09:38	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is very open to corruption, it leaves no paper trail and therefor results can easily and fraudulently be manipulated by hackers working for the present regime.	Marc

	2020-11-03 10:06:04	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The blanket freedom provided to the IEC to introduce alternative voting methods is too sweeping and is not constitutional and participative in its nature.	Heinrich
	2020-11-03 10:03:13	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	No no no no. This will just make it easier for people to manipulate the system. Dead peoples credentials will be used for votes if this happens.	Prince
	2020-11-03 10:00:54	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not trust this government as it has proved itself time and again to be corrupt . The old method was designed to prevent corruption by being able to verify each individual voter.	Kenneth

	2020-11-03 09:59:24	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do believe there has to be another way to vote, as standing in long queues is outdated and a complete waste of time, however, I don't believe voting electronically is a good idea, unless there are proper controls in place, and we all know that in our government there aren't any controls in place, so there is a huge risk of votes being manipulated.	vandra
	2020-11-03 09:54:04	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic systems are easily manipulated. No address for voters means anybody can vote where ever and how many times they choose in different provinces	Elaine
	2020-11-03 09:54:01	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With our corrupt govt officials this cannot be trusted. Not even to mention the hacking of the system. NO WAY!!!!	Colet

	2020-11-03 09:53:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I don't watch any SABC content or channels. I have a TV but no antenna oor any connectivity. Seriously don't have to pay for any license or even contribute. My service provides me with entertainment.	Raymond
	2020-11-03 09:50:06	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not trust the government in implementing these systems and the public has not been adequately informed on the process. The current systems implemented by government for traffic and others are a shambles. I have no doubt that this will not work either.	Bruce
	2020-11-03 09:49:43	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa is already a victim to corruption and crime. I don't trust any government or person for that matter. I see a lot of security risks and issues that will arise with electronic voting. Especially people in remote areas and informal settlements. We also know that a high percentage of corruption comes from tenders. Obviously there will be tender fraud and someone getting rich. Electronic voting is a no-go-zone. How do I even know if my vote will be recorded fairly and anonymously? Some parties have been found guilty of rigging voting stations. Corrupt developers for a corrupt government building a corrupt system.	Simone
	2020-11-03 09:48:55	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	People must vote in person. They must have a legitimate verifiable address. This is to insure the legitimacy of each vote and to limit cheating. Any purely electronic voting system is absolutely open to fraud and hacking.	Johan

	2020-11-03 09:43:52	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I'm extremely worried that this chapter 9 institution filled with ANC cadres will rig the election digitally and alter any results that do not favor the anc! Without a physical post trail and voted being counted in front of party delegates, this new electronic voting potential system can be easily manipulated!	Paul

	2020-11-03 09:41:08	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am opposed to the amendment of the legislation, in particular the proposed article 14 enabling the IEC to determine a different method of voting. That power should not be left in the hands of an institution that is not elected by South African voters and is in my view unconstitutional.	Henk
	2020-11-03 09:39:53	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	"All you say is - prescribe a different voting method " that can only mean digital. If so it is up to great fraud usage and control. This method is not transparent to the public - can be manipulated by gov and their highly specialised IT people. A definite NO on any change.	Erich
	2020-11-03 09:39:39	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa does not have the resources to field a functional electronic system. We need a paper trail to verify results.	Maggie

	2020-11-03 09:32:15	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This allows for to much corruption via hacking.	Tiaan
	2020-11-03 09:31:27	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Most people do not have access to internet and electronic devices and this is a way to open the road to voter rigging.	Bela
	2020-11-03 09:30:51	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not fully support the Bill chiefly because it confers the Commission with the ability to prescribe that electronic voting and vote-counting methods can be used in place of traditional paper-based ballot systems. The IEC is not independent as the make up of members is by means of cadre deployment. Our ruling party has displayed to the world an inability to be honest and above board in every aspect of governance, to the point where our country is now a failed state, behest by corruption and corrupt officials. Electronic systems are susceptible to hacking and manipulation in many manners and are therefore unsafe for the general population. The majority of our population are illiterate and even more so when it comes to digital systems, opening the system to abuse by corrupt officials at the polling booths. The hacking and manipulation may come from within the existing government or from outside sources, such as hackers from another country trying to influence and control the voting system. Electronic ballot systems have and provide no no paper trail which can be followed in the event that the results of an election are called into question. Allowing the Commission to unilaterally decide whether an electronic voting system can be used is too simply too great a risk at this time. Any new system needs to tested and proved to secure and totally impenetrable by hackers before it can be used in any election and we know that such a platform is non existent. Remain with the paper based system, although not perfect and also open to manipulation and corruption, there is at least a paper trail for audit purposes and the extent o manipulation can to a certain extent be limited.	Godfrey

	2020-11-03 09:27:50	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	are they bringing in new methods to enable them to rig them?? lets stick to our current paper flow of control. People with out addresses!! No they should not have the right to vote, how are they scrutinized to ensure they are SA citizens. this government needs to reduce cost, all their fancy ideas leaves SA citizens out of pocket, they surely are not here for the people. How sad	Kathryn
	2020-11-03 09:27:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will open the door for more corruption and the manipulation of the system in the hands of the government.	Cornelius

	2020-11-03 09:23:52	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Most of the population in rural areas don't have access to the internet. 	2020-11-03 09:21:55	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa does not have the expertise or in fact the discipline to use electronic voting. I also do not believe that the IEC has the trust and reliability to be given such wide ranging powers. Many of their decisions in the past have been seriously flawed. The IEC should be an oversight organization and not a law-making one - not ever. Laws are made by parliament. Changes to voting in an area where you are not registered should also not be general and spelt out decently and in detail	Eugene
	2020-11-03 09:19:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Our Government has constantly proved to the citizen IT CANNOT BE TRUSTED definitely not giving government care blanche to make random changes to the electoral act.	Vonnie
	2020-11-03 09:16:42	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is not fool proof. Anyone can hack in to the system and manipulate votes	Deborah
	2020-11-03 09:13:46	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power,... this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections	Marina
	2020-11-03 09:13:34	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I feel that an electronic method of voting has too many risks of being hacked or manipulated (by outside or inside parties) and there is no paper trail to ensure a free and fair election should a recount be requested. I also do not agree with "to amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered;". This is highly unfair and unconstitutional against the people living in an area to have voters vote in that area that are not affected by the vote as they are not registered or do not live in that area.	Nicolene
	2020-11-03 09:12:50	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The amendment is very vague, and seems to propose broad discretion to the IEC in important decisions.	Marilize
	2020-11-03 09:12:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Leaves the door wide open for corruption and vote rigging . Sadly the ANC has proven to us that they cannot be trusted.	Mauritz
	2020-11-03 09:10:45	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is open to abuse, hacking, and fraud. Should not be allowed at all. Their should be no allowance for voters without the proper address information. Without proof of address voters can be moved to areas to change outcomes in areas which is not what the people in the area want - thus no democracy.	Deon
	2020-11-03 09:08:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Too easy to abuse by an untrustworthy government at all levels, i.e. the ANC and all its agencies. Furthermore, the amendments constitutionality are doubtful.	Hennie
	2020-11-03 09:07:32	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not trust the IEC or the ANC when it comes to vote counting.	john
	2020-11-03 09:07:22	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This would be 100% reliant on the technology and program used to count the votes. This system could easily be manipulated. There is no paper trail on the votes. I will not trust the results.	Roxane
	2020-11-03 09:05:40	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any change to the method of voting needs to be clearly and well defined in details. A broad sweeping statement of 'a different method' is not satisfactory, given that voting is the fundamental bedrock of our democracy. We deserve a better, well thought out, well prepared method of voting, and not a blank mandate,	Tomek
	2020-11-03 09:03:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting lends itself to ANC cadre crookery; it is undemocratic; it places far too much power in the hands of the IEC which, like other Chapter 9 institutions, is riddled with ANC cadre-criminals; the amendment is only there to primarily serve the ANC.	Mark

	2020-11-03 09:02:09	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I assume criminals in jail who we allow to vote will be provided with computers to make sure they have their say in a country to which they make no positive contribution. Yet my gardener and domestic worker doing a job and contributing to the economy will have no access or struggle to get access to electronic devices to vote. That makes no sense and is fundamentally flawed and unfair to poor people. All the changes allow for more corruption.	Paulette
	2020-11-03 09:00:07	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am totally against all the proposed changes as it will just create another easy way to rig voting and lead to even more corruption than is in existence at the moment.	Clifford
	2020-11-03 08:57:54	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting		Pieter

	2020-11-03 08:55:26	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	If you have a TAX number and thus contribute to SA, only then can you vote. And vote electronically.	Ryan
	2020-11-03 08:55:21	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will enable, fraud, robbery & corruption! I am against anything that the government wants to change with regards to the law!!	Em
	2020-11-03 08:55:12	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I would like this billed to be amended with correct terminology for the electronic voting method	Grant
	2020-11-03 08:54:34	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Our ANC government has a long history of dishonesty, both in government, and thieving from the poor and the people. They even have a problem with members killing each other that they are doing nothing about. To expect honesty, fairness and transparency from them is wishful to the extreme. This is all about stealing elections just like they let Mugabe do to the Zimbabweans, and their economic reality is our economic future if they are allowed to arrange to steal true elections. In this criminal country, only the paper trail of an honest balloted election can be called free and fair. Please do not give the IEC the power to impose a deceptive result on SA.	Mike
	2020-11-03 08:54:13	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not believe that South Africa has the technical expertise to implement, from what I can only assume from the vague draft, an electronic voting systems. Rules on how votes are determined at voting stations are all too vague for me to comment on.	Paula
	2020-11-03 08:51:43	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It's another attempt by our current government to commit more fraud and thereby gain more power.....	Christl

	2020-11-03 08:50:26	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Knowing about how people misuse the internet and how easy it is to lie about identity, identity theft etc I find it an unacceptable means for election as a whole. I am sure there are many different face to face interactions that can be just as efficient and also will generate work for many at such times. Furthermore, when voting, standing in a row to make your mark is part of the process with people of all culture all around you, chatting away, sharing jokes... making this the real South Africa. The heart of the 'people on the ground' and not the manifestation and domination of via fear and intimidation from the higher-ups.	Janette

	2020-11-03 08:49:44	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This cannot be allowed to be enforced, it is a way of the ANC to control the independence of the IEC and is unconstitutional. Already the IEC is filled with ANC cadre deployment which brings out this amendment bill. The voting method is perfectly fine in its current form and the amendment as suggested will open up to corruption and risk free and fair elections and creates poor confidence in the IEC. The sneaky way the bill was opened for public comment without proper and wide coverage is also unacceptable.	Colin
	2020-11-03 08:49:40	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	its absurd to allow people with no home address to vote, that's why we have foreign illegals and crime that cannot be abated	Oscar

	2020-11-03 08:48:30	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not agree with the change, as it would be wide open to fraud. I also question the constitutionality of this bill.	Joanne
	2020-11-03 08:47:35	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Rigging of voter results is unfortunately a very sad reality we live in. 	2020-11-03 08:46:53	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Good day. It is clear that a electronic voting method is vulnerable to greater tampering and unethical practices such as vote rigging and hacking. There is greater risk of the government using its abilities to undermine democracy without any real way for independent monitoring to take place. This is too much of a threat to our fragile fledgling democracy and I strongly oppose it. Thank you. Arthur.	Arthur

Their should be no allowance for voters without the proper address information. Without proof of address voters can be moved to areas to change outcomes in areas which is not what the people in the area want - thus no democracy.	Deon

	2020-11-03 08:43:05	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not support the suggested amendments to the voting bill as this will just make it so much easier to rig votes in favour of the ruling party. I do not trust the IEC/ANC to be fair and transparent. No address - no vote. Busloads of people will be brought in to vote in areas where they do not even have an address, this is not a fairy tale, this is the ANC trying to rig votes, pave the way for more corruption.	Antoinette
	2020-11-03 08:41:28	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting has been shown to be more prone to manipulation and is not as transparent as traditional paper based voting. 	2020-11-03 08:35:49	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting will never work in Africa with a lifestyle of corruption and political power dictatorship hunger. You vote where you are registered where total votes casted can be controlled against voters registered in the district. Anything to grab even more power and to move to a 1 party controlled state. NO ! NO ! NO !	Kappies
	2020-11-03 08:34:25	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Voting electronically would be fantastic, but seeing that the IEC and government are completely incompetent to stop or prevent corruption and fraud this change will allow a seemingly fair election to be completely rigged and our democracy becoming a joke.	Jaco
	2020-11-03 08:33:35	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not trust the present government to operate a sophisticated voting system, without the strong possibility that votes will be manipulated in their favour. So many people in S A have no idea how electronic systems operate, and can easily be conned into voting for a party they do not support, if an electronic system is introduced, There is also a huge worry regarding connectivity from distant, rural areas, where infrastructure is weak or missing.	Paul
	2020-11-03 08:33:14	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This is a disgrace everybody must go to where they live and with the correct legal South African documents vote in their district about things that matter to them not go to other places and vote for houses in areas where they work and then stand screaming they have no service or water and lights, houses or medical that is why the towns are over crowded and rape and murder and harassment is taking place. NO VOTING IN AREAS THAT DO NOT CONCERN THEM. The government must sort out their problems in their own areas not in other towns.	J.M.

	2020-11-03 08:29:18	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	A business owner who has worked for 30 years + should have 30 votes A young worker of 10 years < should get 10 votes An un-employed person that only has an ID book should get 1 vote Prisoners should not get any vote as they broke the law and have NO rights The votes should be with the respectable people that have paid their taxes Remember who actually pays for the country to operate Its is not the BBEEE people that don't care to work They only steal as there job was stolen from someone in the first place (bad way to start) Get the voting balance right and we may have a future	David
	2020-11-03 08:28:42	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC is looking for a way to remain in control and therefore cannot be trusted. Electronic voting will give the opportunity to manipulate the outcome of an election which they are likely to do as part of there corrupt agenda.	Philippus
	2020-11-03 08:27:20	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I understand that there might be a need from some SA citizens for electronic voting and voting without a physical adres. However, because of the past actions of our current government, the peoples do not trust the government and opening up voting in this regard makes the option for corruption to easy. Also, these suggested amendments were not shared with citizens with enough time and coverage for sufficient feedback.	Lee-Ann

	2020-11-03 08:22:09	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will not be transparent and open up a whole new corrupt and fraudulent system with cadre deployment and tampered results. Ie a new system to keep the corrupt in power with expensive commissions of enquiries to follow soon after... This is the worst system for a free and fair result	Nico
	2020-11-03 08:22:04	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill at clause 14 gives too much power to the IEC to decide on the voting method without any law to guide changing the method and what the new method should required. I do not accept the following clause: 14. Section 38 of the Electoral Act, 1998, is hereby amended by the insertion after subsection (8) of the following subsection: “(9) Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method.”. This leaves the door open for Electoral fraud. If Commission decide that voting would be done by ice cream collections on a hot sunny day and the party with the least melted ice cream wins then that would be an acceptable voting method prescribed and there is no law that can determine the validity of the method and also no why of challenging the method and it basically makes the Act irrelevant If the Commission decide that the voting method is electronic how would it ensure transparency and authenticity and no manipulation. What a joke and irresponsible for making the public comment period so small for such a huge change before an election.	Andri-Jonathan
	2020-11-03 08:20:48	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Another way to deceive and manipulate the system. Definitely not, this opens the door to even more corruption	Lizelle

	2020-11-03 08:17:46	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There is so much corruption that it already difficult to stop the ANC from cheating. They are the only political organization that keeps trying to rig the elections. It shows they don't have confidence in their integrity to keep the vote of their supporters. I work in IT and I know that it would not be difficult to rig the elections. They would definitely not be able to give the development of such a system to an external impartial company without applying pressure to build in cheats. A huge part of the South African populace are illiterate or at least computer illiterate. It will lead to further complications and corruption.	Kenneth
	2020-11-03 08:17:23	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I request the Minister of Home Affairs to immediately retract the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill and delete from it all clauses seeking to introduce "a different voting method". If the Minister is unwilling to do this, Parliament must extend the period for public comment to three months, so as to give the public "a reasonable opportunity to know about the issues" and "a meaningful opportunity to be heard" in the making of the laws that govern them. This, as the Constitutional Court has ruled in several instances, is what the Constitution requires the legislature to do. I DO NOT SUPPORT ANY CHANGES TO THE VOTING METHOD ! Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation.	Chandre
	2020-11-03 08:16:55	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The new system may be vulnerable to manipulation and abuse, far more than the paper ballot system. Until the working of the proposed new system is clarified and properly understood, it may not be introduced.	Alan
	2020-11-03 08:14:59	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Voting should remain as it is as it is an established and agreed upon procedure that offers some transparency. There ulterior motive to move to electronic voting would appear to primarily keep corrupt politicians in power, otherwise this would have been opened properly to the public for debate, rather than just announced in one small advert. I believe that the ANC know that their days are numbered as the vast majority of people in this country have had enough of their corrupt ways so they are trying to make changes that will allow them to manipulate the system to interfere with the democratic process and keep themselves in power. In any event there are a large number of the population who do not fully understand how electronic systems work, so this would be unfair to them.	Jacqueline
	2020-11-03 08:14:36	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This is not a good method as there are no checks in place for a fair election. The current voting method is much more sound and would not allow for the votes to be altered as could be a possibility using electronic voting. Moving to for example an electronic method will also not allow many people to vote who do not have access to the right technology to do so, taking away their right to vote.	Brandon
	2020-11-03 08:14:24	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Again, the anc chooses the path of corruption. I do not agree with this amendment. This is not communist china.	Werner

	2020-11-03 08:12:37	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We do not have the capacity for an Electronic Voting system System, it will be taken advantage of and it will not be transparent at all.	George
	2020-11-03 08:12:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Whatever the ANC government does is done to benefit themselves. It has nothing whatsoever to do with improving this beautiful country. Their aim is to destroy it for the majority and claim the riches for themselves.	Verna
	2020-11-03 08:10:09	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am not in favour of the amendment to an electronic voting system. This will open the whole voting system for a fraudulent possibility. It will also give other countries (like Russia in the USA) to manipulate the voting system. To vote at other polling stations without an address of the voter is also dangerous and opens up the whole system to fraud.	Ben

	2020-11-03 08:08:30	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	You have to vote where you live. If you do not have an address, how can you vote where you live? Everybody has an address. If you do not have an address it is highly suspect, and you are not adding to the better of this country anyway. And changing this will allow the ANC and other parties to "ship" millions of voters to the Western Cape to get that province back. This is unacceptable to the highest degree. And adding electronic voting creates more opportunity for corruption at the polls. I am a programmer, I know how easy it can be to add "malware". Not that I think the paper ballot is faultless, I know how boxes are dumped and not counted. But even if it goes electronic, it cannot be owned by government, or anyone being paid a salary or bonuses by government. It also cannot be anyone willing to accept bribes. And by anyone I mean people or companies. It has to be owned by multiple entities, from different backgrounds, that are financially strong enough not to be influenced by money. Just thinking about this stinks of political influence (in a very negative way), not the independence of the IEC.	Kobus
	2020-11-03 08:07:09	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill should not be implemented in any form at all. It eliminates transparency of SA elections, concentrates power in too few hands (IEC), eliminates oversight of elections, which will destroy the legitimacy of the SA democracy. We need transparency to ensure those in power were legitimately voted into power. The ruling party has a strong track record of circumventing limits to its power, especially through deploying puppets into key positions so the party can control them and their institution.	Chris

	2020-11-03 08:03:15	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	As electronic voting method can very easily be hacked, or manipulated this cause a concern. I would however want to see that the verification that a person has voted be electronic, making double voting more difficult. This however is subject to the fact that the system needs to be online at all times with duty standby if nothing would happen and it can just switch over automatically. Something like a finger print scan to allow entrance, and the person would not have a chance of a second or multiple votes.	Andries

	2020-11-03 07:50:18	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have no confidence that a party or parties that have been proven to be corrupt won't find a way to breach security and change results in their favour. 	2020-11-03 07:36:30	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	My top concern is the the IEC being able to implement any voting method on their own whim without considering the vast impact it will have on the constitutional democracy of our Republic. Voter fraud, ballot irregularities and all sorts of voting problems are possible with methods that deviate away from paper balloting. On top of that, the unconstitutionality and rush to pass the bill make me immediately suspicious of why it is attempting to be passed without input from South Africans. The IEC is supposed to be a check and balance against power abuse (voting manipulation) in our country but will inevitably be just another power lever for the corrupt government if this bill is passed. It seems factions in the government are really concerned about their hold on power if this is the lengths they go to to try and retain it by changing voting laws and systems and being extremely vague about their intentions for doing so.	David
	2020-11-03 07:35:53	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is unthinkable to give a chapter 9 institution the power to decide on alternative voting methods that have not been verified and proven to be transparent and open. The current system of using a paper method give a clear paper trail that is easy to follow and can easily link to the number of registered voters who used that station. Alternative methods, such as electronic methods, will not be clear to the majority of South Africans on how it is transparent and free. It also opens us to the possibilities of vote tampering as there is no clear and physical method to view votes. There is also the concern that giving the IEC chapter 9 institution that much power in determining the path of our "free and fair" democracy in the style of which we vote may open up tainted individuals in the IEC to rig elections.	Grant

The rest of the world is still on paper based voting and for good reason it is more transparent and there is a paper trail. The government was sneaky and evil in they way they sneaked this into the Sunday Times and then they gave less than a months time to comment. This is the tipical behavior of a fraudster and a thief. It is quite clear that the governmnet is corrupt and we can't entrusts them with this bill that will give them all the power to rig an election and stay in power.	Koos

	2020-11-03 07:15:25	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	These provisions could open the way to introducing an electronic voting system in South Africa. However, electronic voting systems are vulnerable to attacks. Attacks, whether internal (carried out by the incumbent government) or external (carried out by outside hackers), can be implemented in a much more systematic and covert way than is possible with traditional voting systems. Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation. The IEC should not be given the power to change our voting system without the approval of Parliament and the voters of South Africa.	Charles

	2020-11-03 06:39:48	Gauteng	United Arab Emirates	No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The electronic method of voting is too technical for most citizens to understand is much more susceptible to manipulation and impropriety. The government cannot implement a system for such a critical matter such as elections, which is not only at higher risk of being manipulated but also is being controlled by the government. The same government which has shown itself hostile against checks of its power. It would be open for too much abuse and a slippery slope into mass electoral fraud. Stick to what is more trustworthy, understandable and verifiable by the mass public and is less susceptible to large scale tampering.	Christo

	2020-11-03 06:15:11	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ambiguous clause is not clear and also removes all oversight or scrutiny by Parliament on the voting method. This country has no competent technical expertise in government. The private sector has the main technical ability and can be seen by government paying private service providers for technical services (hardware, software, programming, IT services). Electronic voting or some other method being considered, not outlined in the amendment, is not tested for proper checks and balances. It is also open to manipulation, hacking, etc. This is not acceptable.	William

	2020-11-03 05:47:59	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	1. The IEC has a constitutional obligation to 'ensure' that all elections are 'free and fair'. However, it cannot fulfil this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so; 2. Parliament has the 'constitutional authority and duty' (as the Constitutional Court has put it) to design the electoral system, and so cannot lawfully delegate the decision to introduce an electronic voting system to the IEC; and 3. The Constitution requires adequate public participation in the legislative process. This means, as the Constitutional Court has ruled, that citizens must be given 'a meaningful opportunity to be heard' and that the 'truncated timeline' on which the committee is insisting is 'inherently unreasonable'.	Ryan

	2020-11-03 05:41:05	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Why would I need to fca anything if an address in something as important as voting would not require an address? The IEC need to tighten up their processes, not loosen them. They appear to not be independent from any political party. Rather change rules that will make corruption more difficult, not easier.	Franswa
	2020-11-03 05:40:36	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With all the corruption, I have no faith in the IEC to monitor and regulate electronic votes. 	2020-11-03 01:42:19	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting could potentially mean using a device such as a smartphone. A large portion of the population still doesn't have access to such devices, and with TV licences potentially being forced on these devices many people may not be able or willing to get one. Voting will not be free and fair nor open to every citizen. And obviously the SA government can't be trusted not to manipulate the electronic data to its own benefit.	Francois

However, the paper ballots employed in South African Elections have a proven track record of being relatively secure. Any attempt to change the foundation of our democracy should involve intense public scrutiny. This bill does not provide assurances that such scrutiny will take place before a new method is implemented, and the short time allocated for public comment on this bill only serves to give the impression that due process is not being followed in this matter. 	2020-11-02 20:45:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC has proven again and again that it cannot be trusted. Now they are trying to sneak through a bill by only publishing notice in the Sunday Times. Many people do not read the Sunday Times. Added to that suspicious act is the fact that such a short period for comment has been allowed - this is an obvious ploy to restrict the number of people commenting on the proposed amendments. Allowing people to vote outside of their own province and district is another obvious ploy on the part of the ANC to water down the votes to opposition parties in the areas and province (Western Cape) where the ANC is not strong. This is dishonest and corrupt with a degree of cynicism that is now part and parcel of the way the ANC operates. Finally, and worst of all is this attempt to change the method of voting. Electronic voting is not done in any part of the world precisely because it is open to serious abuse and is not transparent. With zero trust in the ANC I oppose this amendment with all my heart and mind.	Colette

Who will fund another "backhand" system. Government could not even control "Covid procedures", "SAA" mis management, with Eskom there is some light in the tunnel since the appointment of mr Andre de Ruyter by minister Tito Mboweni.	Theuns
	2020-11-02 20:09:16	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This procedure of voting will definitely lead to many ways of forgery and people not supposed to be voting will be able to vote. IE foreigners	Frik
	2020-11-02 20:06:54	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This leaves a huge risk of fraud and corruption. We've seen that our government officials cannot be trusted, so why give them a repeat performance.	Stephanie

	2020-11-02 19:48:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	government are quite notorious not to be able to implement electronic systems safely and securely. I do not trust these proposed changes!	Jaco
	2020-11-02 19:37:08	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	An electronic device can be programmed to produce a predetermined result irrespective what is input. The only fair and verifiable way of voting is with a physical piece of paper.	David
	2020-11-02 19:33:26	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The very fact that it was attempted to sneak this bill through is enough of a red flag for me to oppose it. Corruption is rife and a careful study of the proposed bill reveals that the ANC want to try any method to ensure they "appear" to win.	Conrad

	2020-11-02 19:15:20	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	there is little chance that electronic voting will not be the cause of turmoil and confusion lagging to enhanced chance of voting fraud.	David
	2020-11-02 19:04:57	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Time frame for public comments insufficient. Electronic voting is too sophisticated to properly monitor by officials not familiar with the system which may lead to misuse or alteration of the outcomes without detection.	Marthinus
	2020-11-02 18:50:30	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Will open up more corrupt votes, cannot trust them to be fair and free	Nicholas
	2020-11-02 18:48:39	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This can only work if there is FULL ACCOUNTABILITY AND COMPLETE INDEPENDENT VERIFICATION. The amount of corruption already present, needs to be totally eliminated before such a project can be undertaken and trusted.	Sonette
	2020-11-02 18:47:59	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Seems like this is another way for Government to rig votes. The ANC cannot be trusted as can be seen over the past 25 years. Corruption and more corruption. Definitely no.	Whitney
	2020-11-02 18:35:21	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will open more corruption. The ANC can not be trusted in anything! Why implement a technology that they do not even understand, it will only help in their corrupt narrative way.	Kobus

	2020-11-02 18:25:05	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is far too easy to manipulate electronic voting results - with the paper ballot it is safer and the results are more open	Jean
	2020-11-02 18:15:33	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will be open to hacking and rigging. Also, only people who are registered for tax should be allowed to vote because it's our money the government keep squandering.	Roxane

	2020-11-02 18:13:19	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is open to manipulation by hackers and others. Keep to the traditional voting system which is more transparent as it generates a paper trail and can be observed at each stage. Also voters more aware of their responsibility to apply their minds to who they are voting for. Voters must vote in the area they reside.	Lynn

	2020-11-02 17:43:06	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Absolutely ludicrous clause 14!!! Electronic voting leaves the door open for even more corruption. Definitely NO for this one.	Hester
	2020-11-02 17:30:38	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This ANC government has demonstrated that it is incapable of governing without massive corruption and this is just another means of eliminating the paper trail of conventional voting. The masses of this country are also not computer literate to fully support such a system so will need to be "helped" by IEC officials to ensure only ANC votes are cast	Hilton

	2020-11-02 17:29:14	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Voting methods should not be randomly selected. Electronic voting is a huge risk to our democracy because of the risk of hacking. Even if you have the devices offline, we can't be sure some hacker or a developer on the system hasn't gained access to the code and modified it to change votes to their liking.	Carl
	2020-11-02 17:28:04	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Although electronic voting would be beneficial to cut costs and could possibly be made secure (implementing independently from gov controls, fully audited, unhackable, etc.etc) what would stop the IEC from changing the voting method to something completely different (e.g. postal votes where there is zero control and auditability or voting for SA ID CARD holders only which are impossible to get for naturalised citizens). Too much freedom in the proposed bill to manipulate the system / voting method in the favour of unscrupulous politicians.	Sven
	2020-11-02 17:09:34	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I feel that if IEC was given unilateral power to decide how the country votes, it leave a lot of room for state capture of the voting process by the ANC. It is well know that corruption and fraudulent dealings are not beyond the ANC. I feel this proposed bill would further empower the ANC to corrupt the voting process, and scew the voting results in their favour.	Will
	2020-11-02 17:09:20	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This could lead to electronic voting and that will be the cause of major corruption and irregularities in the voting process. There MUST always be paper trails. Not supported!	Cheslee

	2020-11-02 16:24:10	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Strongly opposed to electronic voting in South Africa, it opens the door to manipulation of results. It is quite evident that this proposed bill is affecting the ability of the electorate to be able to vote and that the results are actually a free and fair representation of the will of the ALL people, not the will of members of the ruling ANC cabal or Cyril Ramaphosa's "our people"	Vincent

	2020-11-02 13:44:21	Gauteng		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa is a DEMOCRATICALLY-governed country which means :- for all the people, by all the people, through all the people and everyone in South Africa must be treated equally and fairly. Therefore, when it comes to voting in South Africa, all the elections must be FREE and FAIR for every single South African citizen! Voting in South Africa is a very delicate issue and amendments to the existing Electoral Laws must not be made willy-nilly and so much care must be taken not to open-up our Electoral Laws to cause loopholes for any corruption or violations that will make it difficult for the Electoral commission to trace and to deal with, such as "electronic voting" that can and may lead to all kinds of violations of the Electoral Laws. South African citizens in South Africa should not be allowed to vote in any district in South Africa, without evidence of a valid reason, otherwise the Electoral commission staff will find themselves overwhelmed with fraudulent voting taking place and violations of the Electoral Laws and citizens voting more than once! If citizens are really serious about voting, they will ensure that they are able to do so in their voting districts!	Carien

It should not be up to the Commission, a politically- appointed body, to prescribe alternative (electronic) voting methods. They should make recommendations which will then be reviewed by public representatives, Parliament, parties and the public. New methods should not be authorised by simple majority, but by consensus, and then ratified in a referendum by the citizens.	Amanda

	2020-11-05 13:21:09	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa already has a low voter turnout. Changing the method of voting would complicate the process even further making voting less, rather than more, accessible to the vast majority of South African citizens. Despite the country's desire to be a major player in the so-called digital revolution, we are woefully under-equipped to provide the necessary infrastructure and support required to ensure the smooth running of such a system. There is also a high risk of corruption in the counting of votes, as this method is less transparent than the current 'pen to paper' method, and the process and results of a "virtual election" would not be entirely transparent or credible. 	2020-11-05 08:44:16	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is proven to be susceptible to vote-rigging by the incumbent power. For decades, the ANC cadres have demonstrated that they are prone to temptation in the forms of offers of money or personal advancement. Accordingly the implementation of this technology would afford the ANC an easy way to rig the outcome of elections. This would constitute egregious overreach of the ANC's mandate and prescribed standards of governance.	Andrew

	2020-11-04 21:12:34	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic data bases of any description are open to manipulation and vulnerable to malicious attack on a whole raft of fronts. 	2020-11-04 17:13:08	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This government is not to be trusted. Too much fraud... Just another way of allowing more corruption. and voter fraud...	Lisa
	2020-11-04 17:11:34	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	A great deal of voters fraud can be implemented electronically. Our South Africa have many people that are not able to use electronics efficiently. Each voter needs to be verified as per voters roll and ID and addresses need to be checked otherwise another area open to abuse.	Trudy

	2020-11-04 13:50:03	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Why change, this will contribute to an already corrupted governing of this country. We might as well ask them to lift up their hands and count.	Michelle
	2020-11-04 13:47:42	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will just open the door to even more corruption than there already is.	Jacqueline

	2020-11-04 13:26:42	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This gives the corrupt government ruling our country the opportunity to be even more corrupt and rig the voting results. We are sick and tired of corruption and the corrupt ways of getting what the government wants. No to more ways of screwing over us as South African people.	Chandre
	2020-11-04 13:11:06	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This would create further room/means for corruption. Further to this the majority of people are tech incompetent. This would lead to major discrepancies in the ballot count.	naresh
	2020-11-04 12:45:39	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am truly concerned about FRAUD in SA and whilst we have the technology to make everything happen, how do we guarantee that the results are not manipulated?	Sonia
	2020-11-04 12:24:49	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Too much opportunity for cyber security failure, votes will be manipulated	Robin
	2020-11-04 12:18:40	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	One has to be stupid to see that corruption isn't rife in this country... and it's destroying the lives of many people, particularly the poorest and least able to control their own fate. This blatantly opens up just another door for corruption and deceit... what happened to all the original mantras of "democracy", "one man one vote" and "freedom of speech"? Now the ANC have control, they have become significantly worse than the last bunch of corrupt ruling criminals.	Gary
	2020-11-04 12:07:32	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Voting should always remain free and fair, the changes that the ANC are proposing are in direct conflict of keeping SA's elections fair.	Caroline
	2020-11-04 12:04:10	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	a. the Commission may prescribe a different voting method. What does this means - electronic voting system without immutable blockchain. Well, I don't support any electronic voting system without immutability. South African entities have suffered many electronic attacks - PostOffice, Liberty, Experian etc. - with devastating consequences on the entities IT infrastructure and reputation damage. Who will get the tender to maintain the electronic voting system since government does not have capacity? Moreover, if financial institutions have fraud departments, how will you handle clear cases of fraud, device tampering, data network jamming and data manipulation without such competencies and the required reach?	Kenneth
	2020-11-04 11:26:37	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We should have one method of voting throughout the country so that we have a transparent voting system	Goonasagaren
	2020-11-04 11:19:45	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Open to tampering. Too much power given to IEC. How much are we as tax payers going to have to pay for this again?	Letitia
	2020-11-04 10:51:14	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This method of voting is probably easier to manipulate and I don't trust the honesty of the ANC.	Owen
	2020-11-04 10:46:13	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The IEC is supposed to be independent. However, it is open to manipulation by the ANC through its members serving on the commission, be assured they are there. Granting the IEC power to unilaterally change voting method to electronic immediately removes the paper trail present in the normal system, thereby severely impeding tracking and consequently jeopardizing transparency of a free and fair election. As for allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered opens the way to manipulate voting by boosting votes in a 'low' district' from a 'high' one and is fraudulent. Furthermore, any different procedure for voters without an address should be in in the district where they are registered and live. The limited time and exposure of the draft bill suggests an attempt to hide it from the public despite its enormous proposals. It smacks of a government trying to ensure they remain in power.	Ruben
	2020-11-04 10:27:54	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting could be easily hacked and manipulated - no paper trail of evidence in support of the TRUTH. Leave the Bill as it stands - safeguards were placed there for a very good reason.	Rosemary

	2020-11-04 10:03:51	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	An electronic system, and voters not having to have a fixed address, is open to fraud. The voters role and demarcated areas can easily be abused. At the moment you cannot have a sim card without FICA, why less stringent for voting? Our electoral act is constitutional and should not be tampered with at all. The IEC must remain a politically independent organisation	Lisa

	2020-11-04 09:26:09	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	(electronic) method of voting The Electoral Laws Amendment Bill, specifically with reference to clause 14, is a threat to our democracy and cannot be passed in any way. The IEC should not have the power to determine voting method or change voting methods	Shaun
	2020-11-04 08:50:43	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It should not be up to the Electoral Commission to select or change the voting method. 	2020-11-04 08:49:19	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	If you allow electronic voting you open yourself up to electronic manipulation of the voting and this poses a great risk to our democracy.	Justin
	2020-11-04 08:49:11	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	My concern is the transparency, and for the most part a large number of the voters are electronically stifled	Paul
	2020-11-04 08:29:01	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This leaves the system open to rigging and will result in maintaining the ANC's stranglehold on power. Further corruption will be encouraged.	Richard
	2020-11-04 08:06:35	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Digital voting creates too many opportunities for fraud and it is thus that I do not support it . Effective oversight of the voting system is essential and change to a fully electronic system will interfere with this . The audit the process will be controlled by the state which will limit access, limit potential to discover rigging/fraud by independent bodies which is highly probable with an electronic system . It should be noted that parliament has the duty to design the Electoral system and cannot, and should not, delegate the decision to the IEC.	Karen

	2020-11-03 23:21:11	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Not all citizens have access to their own electronic devices, thinking of all the people in rural areas. Electronic voting will open the door to abuse, members of a particular party will manipulate voters in his/her household. Government cannot assure the public secure and accurate voting without hacking and manipulating the system. It is also going to be a costly project, funds that could rather be used to assist the poor.	Charmaine

	2020-11-03 21:34:47	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Why make a new set of electoral laws and then have a clause (clause 14) in the middle saying that the IEC can basically change anything they like - the IEC should not be making the laws about how we vote. If we are to change to an electronic system that needs to be debated in parliament and specific legislation implemented openly and above board in the normal way. An electronic voting system is open to manipulation and corruption, power supply problems, and may well disadvantage less educated or less technologically aware voters who may be confused or manipulated.	Roger

	2020-11-03 13:47:07	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	What exactly is "different voting method" and how do you want to change 3 statutes without explaining how you aim to protect the process from cadre capture? Law should not be written open ended. Clear and precise limits should be set in place from the beginning and not hand over all the power to a body that can be corrupted, as is the case with all government institutions, including the NPO, for example. The low efforts to have this bill open for comment is very suspicious.	Alan
	2020-11-03 13:23:15	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Firstly you have tried to push this through in an underhand way, which immediately confirms that you are not acting in good faith, and have something to hide. Any new proposed method of voting must be open to public scrutiny and parliamentary approval before being implemented. To leave a critical decision like this in the hands of a few ANC cadres, with no oversight or transparency is unthinkable. Any electronic voting system must be thoroughly inspected and rigorously tested by independent IT specialists and only SA citizens with ID No must be allowed to vote in their permanent residential district. No moving around and voting in other districts should ever be permitted unless special permission is applied for and granted in advance and for good reason. Electoral fraud will destroy democracy and result in a dictatorship. In addition it is essential for citizens to be able to directly elect a candidate of their choice and not vote only for a political party i.e. the people vote for President, MP's MPLs and Mayors directly, even if they are not affiliated to any political party.	Glenda

	2020-11-03 12:45:16	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The current paper based method of voting is sufficient and allows for a transparency. Any other method of voting needs to ensure this. Any decision to change this should not be taken lightly and the people of South Africa should have a say in this and it should not be left to IEC alone to make this decision for us. Democracy relies on the people having the power, that power is exercised through voting. Any decision that got potentially undermine voting, undermines our democracy.	Patrick

	2020-11-03 11:55:22	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This Electoral Laws Amendment Bill poses a risk to democracy in South Africa. Yet it has not been sufficiently publicized. Nor has sufficient time been given for public discussions of such a serious matter. And nor has it been explained in layman's terms to the general public, the vast majority of whom are unable to understand legal jargon. The voters must be given a proper opportunity to understand the dangers of changing the system by allowing the Independent Electoral Commission (IEC) to introduce "a different voting method" and to override all laws to the contrary in doing so; so that they can make an informed decision as to whether or not this is what they want. I request that Parliament grant us a further three months to enable the holding of public meetings so that the voters can fully be put into the picture about how our democratic rights could be affected, should this bill be passed. 	2020-11-03 11:17:46	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill gives the Commission sweeping powers to override the act or any other law that is in the way of the Commission to prescribe a different voting method - how can a Commission have more power than the whole Parliament that were put in place by the voters? This whole thing reeks of fraud and election rigging! Electronic voting makes all this just so much easier!	Fanie

	2020-11-03 09:57:40	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I oppose the changes proposed for the following reasons: 1) The digital voting will be open to manipulation; there will be no paper trail to be able to eliminate fraud. 2) Voting in a District that you are not registered in is open to multiple votes from one person. Vote where you are registered and nowhere else. 3) If there is no address how can the person register,? No address NO vote! This will eliminate "ghost" voters on the voters roll.	Dean

	2020-11-03 09:51:59	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electoral Commission can not be given carte blanche to make a major change given that it is populated by cadres of the ANC who will manipulate it to suit themselves. 	2020-11-03 09:17:19	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Most people and institutions of this country have no integrity, are not trustworthy nor loyal. Numbers will be fabricated as there will be no addresses. No a big No.	Patricia

	2020-11-03 09:04:52	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have numerous complaints regarding the Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill. It is unreasonable to give South Africans such a short time to respond to the bill, especially since many do not have the resources to access this information. It leads me to believe that that has been done intentionally, so that a limited number of South Africans can respond. Additionally, the bill does not describe what these new voting methods are. I believe that we already have enough corruption in our voting process, without opening the process up to technological weaknesses. Our home affairs and licensing departments cannot get digital procedures correct. How will the IEC guarantee that the voting process will remain fair and legitimate? In a country with such an untrustworthy government, how can us citizens support such a bill?	Jacqui
	2020-11-03 09:00:10	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The risks for vote manipulation with an electronic voting system that has not been defined, researched or tested are manifold. It is irresponsible to make this amendment to allow the IEC at it's own discretion, to change the voting system. This bill cannot be supported until the section allowing for amendments to the method of voting is removed.	James

	2020-11-03 08:29:35	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We have a government that has proven many times that it cannot be trusted, even in simple matters. 	2020-11-03 08:27:25	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will open up electoral voting to even more fraud and corruption. The government cannot even manage fraud and corruption in basic levels of municipalities, nor can they manage efficiency of systems currently in place e.g: Driver's License renewal (sorry, the system is offline), car license renewal (sorry, the printer has been stolen and not replaced), Home Affairs applications for ID documents, passports etc. The whole thing is a shambles with little to no IT improvement or management. They can't get the basics right so they definitely won't get this right!	Nicky

	2020-11-03 07:52:56	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	No minister or government department should have the power to change how we vote. The current system works well for SA. An electronic system would almost certainly be used by this corrupt ANC government to alter the results if it found it was losing. What's the point of having a constitution when it can be arbitrarily overruled by a single minister or government department?	Jonathan
	2020-11-03 07:43:39	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There is no need to change the existing paper system which has acceptable transparency. An electronic system will be open to manipulation and election fraud.	Ernest

	2020-11-08 17:00:46	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Digital voting is open to fraud and manipulation. A poll challenger in the 2020 US elections discovered that the computers were connected to the Internet while voting was taking place despite the election officials denying that the computers were connected to the internet. This allows for votes to be manipulated. Hopefully this fraud in the US election will be investigated and the process of digital voting banned. We need honesty and integrity in our voting processes or otherwise voting becomes a sham.	Norma

	2020-11-07 13:05:16	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The electoral set-up ia already not democratic enough. The IEC is a Chapter 9 institution BUT subject to control by the ANC through cadre deployment. The IEC must not be given the sole authority to determine the rules of deciding election results for the same reason aforementioned. Citizens must be able to prove citizenship, residential address and must vote only in their allocated district. To allow otherwise will allow voting influence that undermines a democratic decision in the district where the "foreign" voter votes.	Des
	2020-11-07 06:53:39	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With our democratic / human rights in such an unstable hands currently, we can simply not afford a easier way for possible vote rigging to occur. 	2020-11-06 21:10:36	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	While in theory electronic voting should be auditable, computer systems are vulnerable to hacking & therefore rigging results. In addition it would require that every political party should be permitted to audit the results independently which would be very expensive but would be the only fair way to ensure the elections are "free & fair". The cost of setting up such a system is likely to be exorbitant, would need extensive testing all of which is costly & time-consuming. All political parties would need to be involved in the development project & approve the specifications, test scenarios, test results etc. I can't see that this is feasible.	E

	2020-11-06 14:34:11	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	How will Gov keep votes anonymous? Electronic voting you will have to be signing in, with login details, into an online platform to vote. How will this be monitored, maintained and managed? How will our current infrastructures cope with the chaos on voting day? In South Africa the only company that is half-effective online is SARS. And that also has its challenges of being off-line at month end or during tax season. We are not a 1st world country, with 1st world bandwidth - this idea will not work in Africa. * You cannot use "the pandemic" as a reason to change how fair voting works. Why change a system that already works? How and where will people in rural areas vote online? Why be able to vote if you do not have a residential address? Is this to accommodate all the refugees from other countries?	Marquerite

	2020-11-06 13:04:19	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting methods are less transparent than paper ballot, open to untraceable alteration of the data and corruption. Our current system is working fine, why the need to change? Electronics can malfunction, unlike a pen and paper. Also more risk of theft of state property at voting stations, putting officials at unnecessary higher risk. Also the IEC should not be allowed to unilaterally decide the system of voting. IEC must stick to the rules as they are, not try to manipulate laws and rules to suit some. We need to take a stand against the ANC and EFF's attempt to govern through Socialism.	Sharon

						Clause 14 gives the IEC a blank cheque, free of any checks and balances. This is unacceptable and opens up the democratic process to manipulation and abuse. In particular, electronic voting. Eastern block superpowers are actively developing offensive cyber capabilities to support their global ambitions. A delinquent regime, hell bent on self enrichment, is easy prey. It stands to reason that these superpowers will facilitate any attempts to load the system in the delinquent regime's favor. This Bill, particularly Clause 14, must be subjected to all the rigor that can be mustered. The short period allowed for objections is clearly mala fides.

	2020-11-06 11:10:31	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There is plenty of international evidence that voter fraud and electronic data manipulation will be not only possible but likely. Only SA citizens with a valid ID showing both a photo and detailed information must be allowed. There is also concern regarding capability and capacity of state to run this accurately and without disruption and that 3rd party or even state will have access to how a voter votes - it MUST be anonymous to avoid intimidation or threat. The state had their databases hacked on more then one occasion. I would be wholly surprised if this system is in fact constitutional and why has at least a risk assessment not been included. The proportional representation for wards and districts is threatened for sure. I vehemently object to this proposal in terms of transparency and free and fair elections.	Mark

						Paper ballots and in-person voting with ID (only persons on voter's roll) are the top guarantee to ensure integrity. Electronic voting is open to massive and stealthy interference. Since we have no reason to trust politicians and government, especially ours, electronic voting should be resisted as a grave threat to electoral integrity.

	2020-11-05 19:57:29	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This amendment should not be made as an electronic voting system is open to being manipulated or hacked by outside parties. South African does not have the necessary cyber security in place to make this a suitable, safe option. In addition, there have been allegations of fraud and corruption with regard to the voting process in South Africa in the past. With this vague proposed system, it could be possible for one person to vote multiple times and even foreigners could possibly find a way to vote in an election. Voters that are registered in a different voting district should not have a say how that particular district is governed. An undefined "different voting method" is open to corruption. In a democracy, it is important to always have fairness and transparency with regards to the voting process. Therefore, I do not want an electronic voting system implemented.	Anne

	2020-11-05 17:34:22	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Sadly what has been proposed is nothing more than a open invitation to the IEC to proceed in whatever manner they deem fit. Nowhere in the proposals is there either a definition or an explanation of what is envisaged with a 'different voting method'. The IEC sadly cannot rule out political interference. As the proposed amendments currently stand there are insufficient safeguards to ensure that our fledgling democracy cannot be further undermined by the unscrupulous - and parliament has more than its fair share of scoundrels. Clause 14 of the proposed bill would allow the IEC carte blanche to proceed in any manner it deems fit 'irrespective or anything to the contrary in this Act or any other law'. That's quite extraordinary! This leaves the bill open to abuse particularly given that the ANC has always put 'party before country' Paper trails are a crucial part of any traditional voting system and for obvious reason. One man one vote has a strong record of exploitation and this seemingly has been designed with further exploitation in mind but with a better than even chance of covering the tracks. Frankly the sheer audacity of what has been proposed amazes me	Chris

	2020-11-05 17:27:58	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any/ALL amendments are proposed purely & simply to keep the ruling party in control - thus giving them the license to arbitrarily determine South Africa is de facto a ONE PARTY STATE. 	2020-11-05 16:32:59	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	South Africa cannot afford to spend money it does not have to change to electronic voting which will have its own problems and will cost a lot more than now estimated. We are a THIRD WORLD country and cannot afford systems that are made for well-run countries who have the means and money to ensure accountability and can stop corruption before it ruins the lives of its citizens. The government must put the well-being and lives of its citizens before trying to keep up with first world countries. Our current voting system has made us a democracy and they just need to update some loopholes i.e. everyone must have an address and an ID and be registered on a voters roll. This applies to all elections whether national or local. Don't fix something that is not broken. Put people first. Not new systems.	Gail

	2020-11-05 14:20:54	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Election results need to be fully auditable. It is far too easy to tamper with electronic voting. 	2020-11-05 14:17:45	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Section 14 of the bill provides a too broad set of powers to the IEC. I am concerned that it could lead to electronic voting systems being implemented in our elections. Electronic voting systems are fundamentally insecure because they require trust in the body designing the electronic systems. Trust which is not required in paper ballot systems because they can be easily observed and verified by third parties. Given the history of our country we should be especially weary of any voting system which requires implicit trust established government systems.	Leon

	2020-11-05 13:46:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not think it is fair that people who lives in other provinces may have a say on how and by whom another province is managed. If people can vote from a place where they are not registered, then thousands of people can come by bus a few days before the election and vote in a province, which is not their own, just to influence the majority rule in that province. If someone want to vote from a place where they are not registered, then they may only vote on national level and not local.	Lenie
	2020-11-05 13:33:14	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With the amount of electoral fraud already around in the current voting procedure it is to be expected that electronic voting will open the doors for even more fraud as there will be no way of determining that the voter is under duress during the process or even conducting the process	Mark
	2020-11-05 13:31:36	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This is just to make it easier to cheat the vote. Leave it be and get your @*%^ together - then you won't need to be concerned about losing votes.	Kim
	2020-11-05 13:29:58	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The existing system for the most part works just fine, or at any rate, acceptably. If it ain't broke, there's no need to fix it. As far as I can see, the new proposals create a multiplicity of loopholes that our already barely competent electoral commission will find altogether too much to police. Electronic voting opens the doors to a wide range of online fraud, identity theft and grey areas, which, coupled with the freedom to vote in a district in which they're not registered will lead to vote manipulation on a grand scale. The ANC has managed to destroy around 70% of the country during its reign of crime and ineptitude, but if this legislation goes through, we're providing them the means to destroy the rest of the country in short order	Malcolm

	2020-11-05 11:37:14	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The clause "“Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method.” gives far too much power to the IEC. If there is going to be any change to the voting method, the pro's and con's of the new system need to be evaluated carefully by the voting public. The details and safeguards will need to be published and sufficient time should be given to the voting public to consider the risks and advantages of the proposal. This clause allows for fundamental and sweeping changes to be made that may effectively disenfranchise voters if they allow for manipulation.	Helen

	2020-11-05 09:46:23	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Our Independent Electoral Commission has proven itself to be Not Independent. During the previous election on-duty IEC members appeared in ANC regalia. They are known to be cadre-deployed ANC members. We also know how absolutely criminally conflicted the ANC is, where the state president openly lies. There are no morals, except for those that compare with those of alley cats. The ANC is a manically power hungry organisation, and with any of their choices, the party trumps the country. Professional concerned black people have been able to point out to the uneducated poor masses, that the government they've been keeping in power with their massive numbers, is the single biggest contributor to poverty and chaos in this country, and the ANC started losing voting numbers. Of course they will want a system which can be manipulated. I vote in the strongest possible terms against the bill	Ewert

	2020-11-05 04:13:35	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am sorry to say that electronic voting wont work in South Africa. A voter must be a law abiding citizen, who pays rates and taxes. Not a person from another country that is living on the street. If you cant pay rates and taxes and dont have a fixed address then you cant vote. In Matzikama alone so much incommers were brought in with buses. There is not even enough housing for the current people staying here. I saw an ANC official forcefully dress an old lady to wear an ANC tshirt while the DA tshirt was put on the ground. Electronic systems in SA is not trustworthy. Check payments of SASSA. There is no guarantee that an electronic vote will be correct.	Louisa

	2020-11-04 15:39:32	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am deeply concerned about the route the ANC is taking to ensure they stay in power. Electronic devices can be hacked (teenagers have been able to do it, and criminals do it regularly, hence banks always trying to be one step ahead, but not succeeding). The ANC has not charged corrupt officials - they are still in govt. I have no trust that an electronic system will be fair, honest or even legitimate. It has not been discussed with the public in open forums, not I believe, in Parliament.	Patricia

	2020-11-04 13:29:28	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not think this a the right move. The oldest method on this planet has not failed us but people have failed it due to corrupt individuals. Electronic systems can be hacked and gov is known to be hacked by various hackers. What makes them think the intended system will not be hacked or cannot be hacked to benefit a party? It's a no from me.	Darryl

	2020-11-04 12:38:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill is more proof of ANC fraud & fear. They have intimidated a large proportion of voters & now that chips are on the table, are reverting to more clandestine & illegal methods to try to stay in power. Under their leadership, the country has lost it's international credibility, it's food production potential & many able, competent & wealthy people. It's SOE's are nothing more than a feeding platform for those unable or unwilling to do something productive. The state coffers are empty & despite this they are determined to stay in power until there is nothing left to plunder. They should all be fired with no pension to face what millions of those who have no connection to government, are faced. This bill, if passed, would be the death knell of anything like democracy. The entire government should hang their heads in shame for attempting something so non-constitutional & criminal.	Rob
	2020-11-04 12:22:09	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am 100% opposed to two key aspects: 1) Changing the bill to allow electronic voting as that opens the door to unseen potential corruptions which the ANC is famous for and is as guaranteed as the PPE corruption we have just witnessed, and where it could be done invisibly from anywhere on the Globe to allow the ANC to claim innocence; 2) Allowing persons without physical/residential addresses to vote as that will enable "moving" people from a nominated voting station to voting stations outside of their residential area in order to bolster votes in non-ANC strongholds. The IEC officials only oversee the constitutionally empowered voting mechanisms - giving them the power to decide who should vote by what method is probably not constitutional and is being considered only because the ANC is about to lose the next election. SA needs to rise up and challenge these aspects if this law is passed.	Julian

	2020-11-04 11:16:19	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The bill is too vague regarding the different method of voting. The current method of voting via paper trail has many safeguards and allowing the introduction of a different voting system, especially an electronic voting system, carries a high risk of manipulation. A possible electronic voting system will require the government to spend money on software, development, oversight, safeguarding, etc. and South Africa definitely does not have the reserves in the budget now, nor in the near future to spend money on an electronic voting system. The section that allows a different method of voting must be scrapped from the proposed changes and continue with our current voting method.	Lindy

	2020-11-04 10:15:38	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This Bill poses a great risk to democracy in South Africa as electronic voting systems are vulnerable to manipulation in many ways. Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. In the best interest of South Africans, our democracy, and free & fair elections lets stick with paper ballots – the risks of changing to digital outweigh any possible benefit.	Lauren
	2020-11-04 10:11:31	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With electronic voting there's a possibility of votes being rigged or hacked and also fraudulent votes and counts. Leave things as they are.	Pedro

	2020-11-04 10:03:47	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The IEC must not be allowed to override Parliamentary oversight in regard to any change to our election system. Electronic voting is too open to abuse and must not be allowed. South Africa's lack of acting on corruption, and the fate this has on our people, should be the first priority when considering this legislation. Whilst corruption keeps flourishing and there isn't transparency; this can't be practically implemented.	Marthinus
	2020-11-04 09:49:12	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Bring out your vote is one of the most important rights of our constitution. Every change to the law in connection to this right must be properly discussed and everyone should have enough time to look it over and discuss the different options. 	2020-11-04 09:37:49	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The election procedure needs to be more transparent and less vulnerable to fraud and manipulation by the state. It looks like the proposed bill will make it just the opposite.	Jacqui
	2020-11-04 09:24:51	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not support this as I feel it will create opportunities for the politicians and political parties to rig the numbers when voting happens. Stick to what we have been doing up until the government and IEC have gained the people's trust back. In future this could work to create a digital system to not only vote but have every SA Citizens record digitised, one scan and all your info including past transgressions is visible for a police officer or possible employer etc.	Bernard
	2020-11-04 08:56:13	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We need to know what method is used and that all checks and balances are in place. There is no such guarantees if this law is passed. I am not in support of this legislation	Freek
	2020-11-04 08:55:03	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I'm concerned that the procurement of an electronic voting system is simply not affordable in our current constrained financial situation. In addition, these electronic systems carry these risks: 1) Corrupt procurement processes; 2) Deliberately embedded IT risks; 3) Can be penetrated and manipulated by actors/ those wanting to discredit an election; 4) Can be penetrated covertly to intimidate voters; 5) Are vulnerable to surreptitious penetration which can be used to secretly defraud an election while establishing its legitimacy; I'm extremely concerned that the ANC will use some, or all, of the above ploys to mitigate the risk of election defeat in 2024 and manipulate victory. For these reasons, I'm strongly opposed to the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill in its current draft form.	Roderick

	2020-11-04 07:59:50	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	My main concern is that the ICE may change voting methods as it pleases and can benefit a ruling party. 	2020-11-04 07:17:27	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	People must vote within their area of residence for the party of their choice. Addresses are essential to ensure that you can vote for the party of your choice, for your area. I don't object to electronic voting - electronic votes can be counted accurately and quickly - so long as an excellent auditing system excludes vote tampering. One ID can only vote once and be counted only once. Physical vote count is manual and open to error. Also, one could go to multiple stations to try adding votes.	Geraldine

	2020-11-03 23:09:11	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting will never be a safe way to vote. Anything electronic can be hacked even if it's a closed system it can be hacked internally. Thus, voting outcomes can be tampered with. Arriving in person to vote is still the most reliable method. Also, if people not from a specific province is allowed to vote in that province and influence that province's ruling party, then parties can send people to vote and influence their votes. Proof of address is important otherwise it will it be fair. It can be manipulated to the detriment of the province.	Lois

	2020-11-03 22:37:48	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Two ominous signs: the advert being published in just one newspaper, and the public given too little time to react. Clearly this change is something the ANC would like to hustle through into force quickly, with the public told "Move along, nothing to see here". Paper-ballot voting is a tried and transparent system. Electronic voting is (a) very expensive to introduce and maintain, with plenty of opportunity for corrupt dealing, (b) subject to breakdowns, freezes, and other technical problems -- potentially disastrous if they happened during an election -- and also to load-shedding, and (c) vulnerable to determined hacking, including that done by agencies inside the ANC wishing to fiddle with the public's vote (just as they have fiddled with, and pocketed, the public's money year in and year out). The proposed change boils down to spending vast sums of money that we don't have on a system that we don't need or want and which will make it easier for the ANC to interfere with the public's choices in elections.	Tony
	2020-11-03 22:10:42	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This Bill is once again proof that the ANC government has Got to have its finger in every pie in order to defraud and manipulate the outcomes to suite their agendas. Such a system would be the perfect ground for mismanagement and election fixing. We reject this Bill in its entirety And demand that the government be held accountable for Free and Fair elections. 	2020-11-03 20:37:01	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic votes will highly increase the chances of data-manipulation , as is currently the case in the USA. I strongly disagree with electronic voting. We should maintain the current voting system. Furthermore, we cannot allow people without addresses to vote, since even more manipulation is possible. People are registered against their addresses in their specific voting region. In this way proper control can be maintained.	Hilde

	2020-11-03 20:04:22	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Not everyone has the same access when it comes to technology, including not having the same knowledge on how to operate a computer for example. This could lead to questions having to be asked and therefore not maintaining a secret ballot. There could also be errors in voting or technical glitches which definitely do happen in everyday technology use, not to mention a whole nation trying to use the same platform in one go. Also you cannot put a physical person to a vote, therefore transparency is a major issue!! Elections can easily be rigged by one individual putting down their details on a list and then having some people from a particular party capturing this list and voting for themselves. South Africa is way too behind on technology and access to all for electronic voting to be fair and transparent.	Amoret

	2020-11-03 19:59:29	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	In no way does the method of publication of this bill, what is stated in it or even the untrustworthy record of the ANC inspire ANY confidence in what is intended here. It is a blatant attempt to undermine free and fair elections, to benefit one party unfairly and to discontinue the transparency of the election process. No way I agree with this. Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely. That should be the motto of the ANC government.	Mariechen

	2020-11-03 19:57:38	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	1. The voting system can not be changed without public participation. 	2020-11-03 19:53:58	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The proposed change to the Electoral Law in the bill will give unprecedented freedom to the Electoral Commission to change the way South Africa votes. Granting this unconditional power to the commission would allow any sort of electoral system to be introduced without any sort of consultation process involved. This cannot be constitutional. Neither can it be for the good of democratic processes, whether at national, regional or local level. The existing system has the merit of being as simple and auditable as possible; it can be understood by all voters, irrespective of their levels of education, and is much less easy to manipulate or corrupt than other possible voting processes.	Margaret

	2020-11-03 18:50:13	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any change that makes voting more vulnerable to manipulation and fraud should be resisted by all South Africans. Secondly to allow voting without a verifiable address is likely to make it more difficult to keep control. It will further entrench proportional representation which I strongly disagree with.	Mike

	2020-11-03 17:15:42	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not support the bill as it allows too much options to the IEC, especially in the context of SA which is run by a government that can not be trusted by any stretch of the imagination. IS the IEC really independent? Who will get the contract to design and implement this alternative system? Who will have the capacity to independently oversee potential hacking, fraud and corruption? Will they be agents of the ANC?	Lemmer

No our elections will never be free or fair. Btw how do they plan to keep track of how many times someone can vote? if they're not registered? if they're not a SA citizen? the voting here is for the SA citizens. no these people are really looking for problems where there isn't so that later they can claim expenses to fix a problem they created!! 	2020-11-03 16:54:38	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This bill will put the integrity of South African elections at risk of being captured by the corrupt ANC cadres in the government. 	2020-11-03 16:54:03	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting systems are not ideal as fraud can easily take place and with the current status of the ANC in SA the will no doubt try to defraud the system by tampering with the electronic system to change the outcome! Analogue systems for voting please...	Angelos
	2020-11-03 16:46:44	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Firstly the Finance Minister should have final say over any planned spend. Total transparency of cost details should be the order of the day, however as the ANC has proven, they are masters of deceit. Electronic voting is open for abuse from a tender point of view as well as managing an ever changing electronic world, i.e. when it comes to voting. There is no proven track record for this option. The ANC should prove to SA, that they have a determination to bring the biggest fraudsters to account. Focus their collective effort on recovering funds gained by fraudulent means and once SOE's are in profit making ways, then come up with improved ideas of taking SA forward.	Eric

	2020-11-03 16:25:13	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am not opposed to amendments which give more transparency and follow the constitution's guidelines, but this bill seeks to give a huge amount of power to the IEC, which is a powerhouse of ANC cadres. Electronic voting will provide less transparency and has a huge potential for corruption. An electronic voting system program itself, can be tweaked to result in a predetermined outcome. Voters with no addresses....really? This will definitely be a source of imaginary, dead and inflated votes!	Sylvia
	2020-11-03 16:21:02	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I believe that these changes are just a ploy to manipulate voting results in the ANC's favour so that they can hang onto power without legitimate support.	Benjamin

	2020-11-03 15:52:27	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This method is open to various misuses and flaws, closed to public scrutiny, and should never be left for decision to bodies like the IEC which are not then subject to Parliamentary control. The selection of the method of voting should NOT be left open to manipulation, bypassing laws that currently protect this process. Get rid of clause 14.	Bennie

	2020-11-03 15:41:33	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am not in favour of electronic voting as I believe it is open to misinterpretation and voter fraud, and its too easy to alter an electronic record and makes auditing and cross checking of the votes cast more difficult and open to fraud	Mike
	2020-11-03 15:37:19	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Allowing the IEC unlimited power to change voting methods without ANY further consultation, or other checks and balances (e.g. a full vote in parliament specifically on what changes to voting methods are proposed) is far too risky in South Africa. If, as it appears, this one small clause hidden deep in the Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill carries so much power then it should be removed.	Mark
	2020-11-03 15:35:42	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Without being able to verify your address you're unable to verify your residential district, who you are etc etc. Just take notice what banks require before opening an account, you need to prove who you are and your residency among others. 	2020-11-03 15:35:22	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will be an untrusted method that can be manipulated. Most people especially those in poorer communities will not have access to this. Stick to what works.	Jules
	2020-11-03 15:26:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This is the ANC just trying to stay in power . Too many people are itinerant(no fixed abode) and carry more than one ID book. Corruption in SA is one of the biggest problems spearheaded by the ruling party ! Electronic voting will be corrupted as well ! They should not be allowed to make any new rules/laws until the guilty members have been brought to book and put behind bars it's a total disgrace what they have done to this country!!!	Gillian

	2020-11-03 15:24:33	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The current government is full of corruption!! Can you just imagine how the ruling party can rig votes if it was electronic? No No. Voting must be manual with the person the correct age, and the correct address. The way voting is done now is perfect. Don't change it so the corrupt can make sure they stay in power, stealing from all the people of South Africa	Noeline

	2020-11-03 15:18:05	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	All voters must have a physical address. Voters must vote only in the ward in which they are registered. The number of votes in a ward must never exceed the number of registered voters. Electronic voting is open to massive abuse - must have verifiable paper votes for transparency. The public must be allowed to scrutinise the voters' roll in every ward. Special votes must be accessible for the public to view.	Geoff
	2020-11-03 15:15:50	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have no faith in the ability of this Government, given its track record, of developing and introducing an electronic voting system that is effective and secure. Stick to the tried and tested manual method. And giving the IEC flexibility to develop new rules would open the door to those wishing to abuse the system.	TREVOR
	2020-11-03 14:58:56	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	NO I do not agree at all with most of the intended changes to the bill. This is nothing more than legalising vote rigging. - We all know how easy it is to manipulate electronic data. - No address - no vote. - This would lend itself to populate regions / provinces with voters that should not speak for that region / province. We will see another "forced" migration of potential voters from one place to another purely for vote garnering.	Manfred
	2020-11-03 14:47:11	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I realise that the ANC is corrupt and is hell bent on changing the rules to suit themselves and I DO NOT AGREE WITH THIS CHANGE.	Paul
	2020-11-03 14:43:50	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Given this government's track record of grand scale corruption, there will be too many loopholes that will render the process susceptible to vote rigging. We need the most secure, tried and trusted ballot system available.	Toby
	2020-11-03 14:43:16	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The IEC has a constitutional obligation to 'ensure' that all elections are 'free and fair'. However, it cannot fulfil this obligation under an electronic voting system when the opportunities for the rigging of elections conducted in this manner are legion and are widely known to be so.	Martin
	2020-11-03 14:42:34	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Far more consultation and transparency is needed in relation to these wanted amendments. 	2020-11-03 14:28:45	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This change will only allow the ANC to jippo results and would not be a fair and free election. not prepared to support this method	audrey
	2020-11-03 14:27:59	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	With the history of voter fraud, voting still needs to be done in person, after a paper-trail from registration to result. Proper verification procedures cannot be short cut, and ones legitimacy is at the mercy of algorithms and human error. This wide ranging power should not be allowed to the prevailing government. A change of this magnitude needs a referendum	Eric
	2020-11-03 14:26:23	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I strongly oppose legislation that may reduce transparency of results in an election as it is not in the public interest.	John
	2020-11-03 14:24:08	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Remove Section 14 from this proposed Bill. The corrupt ANC Government cannot be trusted to meddle with the IEC and the election process. Introducing an electronic voting method removes the clear paper trail and general public access to the process and the results. This make it far too easy for vote rigging to take place without any proper audit trail.	David

	2020-11-03 13:56:45	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This is borderline communistic behaviour. you must vote where you are registered - this us purely to get Western Cape under ANC control.	Juan

	2020-11-03 13:17:33	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Not enough details given about how electronic voting will take place, protected, monitored for security, hacking, interference, etc. Also, not enough time given to review the proposal.	Michael
	2020-11-03 13:11:04	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not want the voting method changed, and especially not to electronic voting, placing too much control not only with the IEC but also with technicians. I agree with the IRR that the Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. I support the IRR in urging the Minister of Home Affairs to immediately retract the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill and delete from it all clauses seeking to introduce “a different voting method”. If the Minister is unwilling to do this, Parliament must extend the period for public comment to three months, so as to give the public “a reasonable opportunity to know about the issues” and “a meaningful opportunity to be heard” in the making of the laws that govern them. This, as the Constitutional Court has ruled in several instances, is what the Constitution requires the legislature to do.	Kathleen
	2020-11-03 13:10:55	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	If anything, we should be tightening up on security to ensure fair elections. 	2020-11-03 13:03:40	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I will not support this draft, because this can then be manipulated by an already corrupt system. I definitely do not trust this at all, because for sure there are hidden agendas.	Matilda

	2020-11-03 12:37:52	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I prefer to have our elections just as we have been doing it since 1994. I am a 100% sure that the anc is promulgating this bill in order to make it easier to cheat when it comes to election time. Why else do they want to postpone next year's municipal elections after THEIR covid fiasco? Why else do they want to seize power from municipalities? The answer is pretty straight forward, they want to continue stealing all of this country's wealth as they have been doing very blatantly for the last 20 or so years and install a communistic system in this beautiful country. Thank goodness they are so pathetically incompetent otherwise in stead of socialism we already might have found ourselves in a communistic country with no freedoms. May the anc and the eff reap what they sow.	Johan

	2020-11-03 11:44:47	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I agree with the comments by the IRR. Part of the problem is that the Bill amends three different statutes, each of which must also be read to understand its provisions. In addition, the Memorandum on the Objects of the Bill makes no attempt to explain what "different voting method" is envisaged or why this is to be introduced.	Lesley

	2020-11-03 11:37:17	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The bill place to much power in the hands of the IEC which can be corrupted as many other institutions have already been corrupted. 	2020-11-03 11:36:40	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It is too easy to be fraudulent and change votes from within the software without proof and without anyone but the offenders knowing about this. 	2020-11-03 11:35:29	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The Bill provides insufficient information about the different method of voting, the risks involved and the safeguards that will be implemented to eliminate manipulation of the voting results by the state or outside hackers. 	2020-11-03 11:31:16	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The politicians of this country has shown us their blatant disregard for the rule of law with their shameless corruption in every aspect of governance. 	2020-11-03 11:09:41	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	As a nation too few of us are digitally competent and ready for an electronic vote and as the ANC has shown itself to be inherently corrupt and incompetent at all levels of government, rigid and transparent checks and balances need to be put in place first. 	2020-11-03 11:03:59	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Working in IT for over 20 years I can assure you using any means of electronic voting is a terrible idea. Even though ballots might be lost in the process of being "handled" by human hands the situation will get even worse by electronic voting. There could be loopholes in voting multiple times eg. by using ID numbers of the deceased or citizens that are unable to vote electronically. Personally I think the little mark on your thumb is still the best way to make sure the system cannot be exploited more than it currently is.	Theo

The government and many citizens do not have the sophistication nor the moral backbone to set this up and participate in the process. You also can't have people voting in areas they aren't registered in. No address no vote. This whole thing smacks of an opportunity for manipulation and fraud.	Jana

	2020-11-03 10:35:45	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not support alternative forms of voting, like electronic voting, as it is very easy to corrupt and manipulate the results. Until we have a full proof non-manipulatable system in place, my answer is a very strong NO! With respect to our government, historically the ruling party has proved to be corrupt, manipulating, not willing to take responsibility, and dishonest. It's a recipe for disaster. And disaster is not God's plan for South Africa.	Delfina

	2020-11-03 10:32:23	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The Electoral Commission is their to ensure that voting is free and fair. Not providing proof of address can create the opportunity for more irregularities. People should provide this as a form to ensure that they our South-African citizens. 	2020-11-03 10:17:13	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Why not sort out the Housing issue first and allocate funds to build the low-cost housing that was promised to the disadvantaged communities across the country. They voted for this government and the funds were stolen by this government. This would resolve so many issues in South Africa. Stop wasting the countries time, money and giving citizens empty promises to win votes! We don't need the election process to change until the housing issue has been resolved and the funds stop being stolen! Focus on the real issues that have plagued this country since 1994. So much corruption has been exposed and so many politicians have not been prosecuted for their crimes. What kind of example are you promoting for future generations? Look at what happened in Lebanon this year (2020). The time has come where the citizens have had enough of corruption and lies from the government. It's only a matter of time...	Roger

The proper voting will not allow them to take Western Cape and now they are importing people and trying to impliment procedures, etc to make it easier for corruption during the voting period.	Carol
	2020-11-03 09:47:49	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any different (electronic) system needs to be proved efficient and transparent before national implementation. There are broad discrepancies in the South African socio-economic environment that will make such a system non-functional. Paper in this instance remains the best and only way forward.	Mark
	2020-11-03 09:47:09	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This method is not transparent to the public and could be manipulated by government and their team of IT people. This type of system leaves it open to corruption and fraud, let alone the field day the hackers will have. Won't work!	Werner
	2020-11-03 09:46:54	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	People should not be allowed to vote in areas where they do not reside or work. This is no more than a blatant attempt by the government to suppress the results in local areas by flooding them with semi illiterate voters from rural areas and townships. Electronic voting is easily manipulated and the government cannot be trusted to not do this. Their desperate attempts to stay in power are obvious for all to see except those who have been brain washed. Criminals should not be allowed to vote as they forfeit their voting right by committing crimes.	Erica
	2020-11-03 09:45:37	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	We need more time to enable us to read the proposed changes. An electronic system will need to have verifiable audit tracking, and will therefore need stringent testing from the public.	Kevin

	2020-11-03 09:45:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The amendments pose a threat to the free and fair voting and is easily subject to corruption and abuse - a problem rife in South Africa. Government seeks to quietly pass bills such as these without informing the public, for its own gain. There is no communication regarding all these changes, which means there are hidden agendas. This matter needs to be publicly debated.	Gaye

	2020-11-03 09:26:23	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	electronic voting is not safe, prone to manipulation and /or hacking from within or outside our country. There is no papertrace. The IEC should not have the power to decide which way I want to vote.	Martin

	2020-11-03 09:20:45	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not agree with this Amendment Bill by any means especially CLAUSE 14, which the ruling party is trying to sneak through. For me it smacks of voting manipulation on the behalf of the current government to undermine free and fair elections and therefore unconstitutional. It was especially most disingenuous to publish in only one newspaper and also to limit the number of days available for public comment. What controls would there be in the event of electronic voting compared to physical paper voting which is open to scrutiny to eliminate skulduggery in favour of the ruling party. NO, NO and again NO.	Frank
	2020-11-03 09:19:29	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	OMG! Have the ruling party become so desperate!. 	2020-11-03 09:18:32	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Paper ballots have proven to be the most reliable and transparent means of voting and has preformed without issue for this country's history. Other countries, such as the USA, often see bills put forward in an attempt to return to this transparent and trustworthy way of counting the votes of the citizens, due to the fact that electronic voting leads to less voter confidence which is central to the health of any Democracy. I further find it disconcerting that this administration would seek to tamper with this age old methodology on an item 14 no less of a proposed bill. One wonders why there is this push to 'fix what isn't broken', a process which will undoubtedly come with a high cost. I would like to see an exact and detailed explanation from the government as to why they think the current system is inadequate and I don't mean just some vague comments about efficiency. The highest priority for an election IS transparency and trust. Please illustrate how electronic voting would lead to more public trust in the outcome of our next elections. Trying to do this in the dark will not play.	Hugo
	2020-11-03 09:17:08	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The PPP on this amendment must be done more thoroughly and with more clarity. There are major implications to electronic voting, with huge vulnerability to corruption.	Matthew
	2020-11-03 09:16:37	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The very fact that government tried to sneak this amendment through by hiding the call for comments in a tiny advertisement in the Sunday Times is enough to make me reject the amendments. This action indicates tome that the changes proposed are not as innocent as they might appear. Why else would they try to limit public participation? Electronic voting is much too easy to hack as other countries have found out to their cost. Their is much less opportunity for fraud in the existing system which has worked very well since 1994. Up to now the independent electoral commission have done a reasonable job of keeping elections mostly free and fair. Why try to change the system now? If not having an address is a problem then formalise informal settlements so people do have contactable addresses. This would benefit the residents as well.	Patricia

	2020-11-03 09:16:23	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not support these changes, not with all the corruption happening in the government. How will this process be controlled to ensure there is no corruption?	Liezel

	2020-11-03 08:47:54	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I have a problem with more than just the method. Clauses 14, 15, 21 and 22 among others do not sit well with me. Considering that I have been a voting officer, I have first hand experience when it comes to the foul play of the ANC. They are a criminal organisation that cannot be trusted. Considering the recent turn of events, it is understandable that they would be looking for any means to stay in power. An electronic voting method is out of the question. They are far to corrupt. Based on their track record of deceitfulness, it is beyond a a shadow of a doubt that they, along with the ANC deployed IEC, will manipulate this system for their benefit. We can't even get an honest outcome with plain pen and paper.	Craig

	2020-11-03 08:44:00	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The IEC is not an elected body and to a large extent is peopled by appointees of the ANC. The bill gives the IEC power to decide on a voting system irrespective of whether the people want it or not. In fact in this regard it gives the IEC greater power than parliament. The bill with a stroke of a pen trumps other legislation dealing with voting procedures which were put in power as safeguards of democracy. 1) Any voting system must be auditable from end to end, starting with the identity of the person presenting themselves to vote. 2) Is the person presenting themselves to vote entitled to vote? 3) There has to be an traceable link connecting the person presenting themselves to vote to the actual ballot as is currently the case, the voters name is crossed out after their id is verified and the serial number of the ballot paper given to them is written down. 4) the number of voters given ballots must tally with the total number of votes counted. All of these could be incorporated in an electronic voting system but it is all digital and out of sight. 	2020-11-03 08:21:45	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	As per the article https://irr.org.za/media/sa-must-urgently-oppose-a-seemingly-innocuous-bill-that-could-threaten-free-and-fair-elections-2013-irr , "electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state.... In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power,... this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections." I would love nothing more than to not have to stand in a queue to vote, but my trust of the government is unfortunately not sufficient due to repeated and continuous mismanagement from their side. So NO, no "different method of voting" (for now).	Abraham
	2020-11-03 08:21:11	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Whilst in theory an electronic method seems more efficient, our government will not provide the correct/ efficient IT support for this nor pay up for the necessary security methods. Needless to say such a system is also easier to hack and false votes.	Lisel

	2020-11-03 08:14:22	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is too prone to fraudulent manipulation and not transparent to all parties. IF the results of the election is not transparent, how will we know it was free and fair?	Ansie
	2020-11-03 08:00:30	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Anything other than the traditional method creates new opportunit ies for fraud. That is too high a price for a small improve ment n efficiency.	Bill
	2020-11-03 07:58:42	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Firstly, the time allowed is too short - cynically it appears the state seeks to push this through in as short a time as possible, not allowing the public to scrutinise in detail the intent of the legislation. This is NOT democracy in action. Second, the IEC is not, IMO a body with any credibility or independence in South Africa. I'm not willing to allow my future in this country to be jeopardised by an ANC government which wishes to electronically generate votes, in whatever region, or nationally as they choose. If you want to vote - go to the polls, where you can be seen voting, and your vote can be counted and seen to be recorded. Not behind the scenes. The entire tenet of this piece of legislation and the deliberately limited time for comment appears to be an attempt by the ANC to hijack our constitutional democracy. No.	Mike
	2020-11-03 07:58:07	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	bill allows the IEC / ANC to change the voting method to anything they want, that will not be transparent	Barbara
	2020-11-03 07:57:58	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Any could also mean other methods - This is clearly a bill to be passed with an Agenda that is not to the benefit of South Africans	Willem
	2020-11-03 07:56:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The use of electronic voting itself has proven to be open to manipulation. By allowing people with no fixed abode to vote, makes it easier for people to vote in any region and is prone to manipulation. Keep the process simple and honest.	Tim

	2020-11-03 07:54:39	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This will lead to more fraudulent behaviour. Our voting method should remain the way it is. I also strongly believe that you need an address to be able to vote in your district	Fiona
	2020-11-03 07:54:17	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The bill allows the IEC / ANC to change the voting method to anything they want, that will not be transparent. IF the results of the election is not transparent, how will we know it was free and fair?	schalk
	2020-11-03 07:53:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	These proposed amendments are for many reasons unwarranted. The ANC is as we know a corrupted organization, the digitization would pave the way to rigging the outcome of the voting results. These proposed amendments are an assault on the rights of South Africans to have a FREE and FAIR elections.	Steve

	2020-11-03 07:46:47	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There's no paper trail to electronic voting and the results aren't verifiable by any independent organisation. The system is too easy to influence without leaving evidence. I also don't approve of the idea that you can vote without proof of address.	Marelize
	2020-11-03 07:44:39	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The electronic voting method could be easier exploited and results can potentially be manipulated unless it is an open for all system for all to see the workings, processes and code that runs the system.	Andre

	2020-11-03 07:33:43	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	lectronic voting is open to vote rigging. The rest of the world is still on paper based voting and for good reason it is more transparent and there is a paper trail. The government was sneaky and evil in they way they sneaked this into the Sunday Times and then they gave less than a months time to comment. This is the tipical behavior of a fraudster and a thief. It is quite clear that the governmet is corrupt and we can't entrusts them with this bill that will give them all the power to rig an election and stay in power.	Craig
	2020-11-03 07:29:56	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The Corrupt ANC Government are looking for easier ways to rig the voting. I am totally against electronic voting at this time. Where the Govt is Open, Honest and Transparent, where corruption, nepotism, cronyism and Unfair and Dishonest Economic Enrichment are all severely curtailed and openly punished then there might be a case at a future date maybe 25years from now. Since the Death of Apartheid the ANC has systematically robbed South Africa and CANNOT be Trusted. All from the Past President to lowest incompetent, and incapable deployed ANC cadre have stolen Millions and not been punished and as a result our poorest people have suffered terribly.	Andrew

	2020-11-03 07:26:04	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I believe that giving the IEC this much potential power is going against the good of the country. This bill is undemocratic and should not be enacted in any way. It gives the ANC to much sway in the outcome of an election and will mean that future elections are not fair and do not speak to the will of the people.	Michele
	2020-11-03 07:24:25	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The particular clause that gives the IEC the right to override any other legislation and choose a voting method: Ridiculous, and would certainly give the ANC the ability to rig any election it liked. No Chapter 11 organisation should have so much sway in a so-called democracy.	Gill

	2020-11-03 07:18:56	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There were discrepancies and corruption with the voting, even deseased people voted and boxes never counted etc. Maybe votes should be counted at the voting stations and recounted thereafter ay a central point to verify numbers etc. EElectronic voting especially without addresses etc will most definitely lead to voting irregulaites and huge corruption.	Karin

	2020-11-03 07:13:27	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am vehemently against the Draft Electoral laws Amendment Bill as it is UNDEMOCRATIC and will open the door for further corruption in voting. Electronic method of voting will also exclude a large part of the population as many do not have access to the internet and/or do not have the necessary skill required to navigate an electronic method of voting.	Bhavesh

	2020-11-03 07:06:19	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting will be open to tampering and manipulation. 	2020-11-03 06:46:55	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	In a country that is far behind on the understanding of how to vote electronically, it's an absurd idea. We have a huge rural population that don't have access to modern electronics that would be very vulnerable to the influence of voter rigging because they would have to be shown what to do and there is no doubt that they would be taken advantage off. One person, with a valid address, one vote on a paper ballot, far more difficult to tamper with. We should all get to vote for our areas political representatives and stop cadre deployment immediately. Full transparency is critical, we need to move away from corruption and deceit.	Ann

	2020-11-03 06:30:50	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	No! Electronic voting is known to be vulnerable to hacking and is limited to very few who can oversee it. 	2020-11-03 05:28:57	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The wording of this bill is too vague ("to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method") leaving too much control in the hands of a body like the IEC, which is open to political interference. If enabling electronic voting is the goal of this amendment, then it should be explicitly stated in the amendment. Any other "different voting method" that the amendment envisages should also be explicitly stated in the amendment and legislation. This amendment must be withdrawn and correctly immediately.	Brent

	2020-11-02 23:32:19	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This is a matter needing considerable study and consideration. It would appear that Government is determined to rush this important matter through whilst the public is preoccupied with the difficulties brought about by the Governments mishandling of the Covid Pandemic. 	2020-11-02 22:46:44	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	UIF paid to decease. Tenders worth millions granted to decease. So now changing the draft electoral will see even more corruption of vote rigging. I really dont see why it cannot be left alone until all the shenanigans of corruption have been addressed in its entirety. There is so much going on and putting through amendments and new regulations is just going to mask over the current situation with no light at the end of the tunnel. We need to address the current situation first.	Jackie
	2020-11-02 22:44:49	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Different method of voting (electronic) has been proved to be very susceptible to hacking and tampering. In a country where the government is EXTREMELY corrupt, including the president himself, it is unthinkable that the IEC could consider implementing a process that would open the way to increase corruption. Covid and lockdown has shown us that the ANC cares only about power and lining their pockets and has little interest in the prosperity of our beautiful country. These changes would only serve to pave the way for further contentions and power grabs.	Charl

	2020-11-02 22:26:38	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I completely reject this idea. It will result in potential mass fraud as there will be no way as to contest electronic votes or any other method other than the usual physical votes. The cost that will incur implementing a different voting strategy will also not be affordable as the taxpayer is already constrained and government debt is not close to a sustainable level, South Africa does not have money to invest in any types of machines or software that they cannot maintain. I have no trust in this government due to all the corruption that it is involved in to say that I will believe the election results if another method is used.	Carl

	2020-11-02 20:20:37	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	It gives the IEC too much power. 	2020-11-02 20:19:14	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This VERY broad definition and the fact that the IEC seems more and more NOT to be independent plus the devious way used by the ANC to almost secretly announce such Bill tells me that things are not at all well in our so called Constitutional Democracy. If we carry on like this we will not have a Constitution nor a Democracy. Dark days ahead if you didn't think they were dark already.	Stefano

Vicky

	2020-11-02 20:11:09	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not trust the present government to operate a sophisticated voting system, without the strong possibility that votes will be manipulated in their favour. So many people in S A have no idea how electronic systems operate, and can easily be conned into voting for a party they do not support, if an electronic system is introduced, There is also a huge worry regarding connectivity from distant, rural areas, where infrastructure is weak or missing.	Andrew
	2020-11-02 20:07:44	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	An electronic system, or any other system wherein there is no physical and auditable paper trail, is open to abuse and manipulation or to attacks from outside entities. In South Africa, several parties have shown their contempt for fair election practices and this amendment may open avenues for such people to abuse.	Lawrence
	2020-11-02 20:00:40	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting WILL open the doors for MUCH MORE than usual voting fraud. Anyone with an IQ of more than 65 are able to figure that out. Scrap it, it's a stupid idea.	Johan

	2020-11-02 19:31:04	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The ANC like all African "Liberation Movements" knows it has outlived its sell by date and now wants a system which easier to manipulate. There fore no to this amendment.	Reg
	2020-11-02 19:27:24	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Different (electronic) method of voting My concern is that electronic voting is more vulnerable to interference, and it is more difficult to trace and detect such interference, unless it is highly sophisticated. The sweeping allowance for alternative voting methods could enable the government and / or the IEC to introduce an electronic voting method, which could introduce this vulnerability. My second concern is the amount of changes that are being introduced simultaneously, and the short time that was made available, as well as the apparent overt attempt at giving all of this as little exposure as possible. There is no clear compelling reason for some of the changes, other than for the state to try and set up an environment where democracy can be undermined, and there is no reason for the urgency, other than to hope for this to be passed without proper public scrutiny. This will leave the door open for corruption: votes will be manipulated. So it's a definite, "NO"	Malcolm

	2020-11-02 19:16:28	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	My top concern is that electronic voting is more vulnerable to interference, and it is more difficult to trace and detect such interference, unless it is highly sophisticated. The sweeping allowance for alternative voting methods could enable the government and / or the IEC to introduce an electronic voting method, which could introduce this vulnerability. My second concern is the amount of changes that are being introduced simultaneously, and the short time that was made available, as well as the apparent overt attempt at giving all of this as little exposure as possible. There is no clear compelling reason for some of the changes, other than for the state to try and set up an environment where democracy can be undermined, and there is no reason for the urgency, other than to hope for this to be passed without proper public scrutiny. 	2020-11-02 18:31:23	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not trust electronic voting. It will be open to manipulation. No paper trail, albeit anonymous, is created and no evidence of the creation of that paper trail is afforded to other voters in the queue. Besides that, computer programmes are created by people, and people can fiddle with them. Voting in an area where one is not registered allows for a version of ballot box stuffing intended to influence the outcome if the election.	Paul

	2020-11-02 15:15:33	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The drafted bill does not protect the democracy of South Africa ie. free & fair elections, especially given our inept & incompetent government, we cannot give up our rights to vote via a Bill that basically hands over that right to the IEC. This appears to be a manipulative tactic by the ANC to continue staying in power, via the IEC.	Kim
	2020-11-02 14:28:38	Western Cape		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	There should be more visible participation and not less. The bill that proposes less oversight (e-voting) is worse for the average person on the street. The current system of paper ballots, adapted by every country in the world for thousands of elections, is transparent, monitorable and visible to anyone at any time. You can't take important decisions into hands of the select technical or privileged few, every ones opinion must be considered, especially through the use of parliament. I'm a senior software engineer, and understand systems. Putting the burden of an entire election into a small group of systems with no transparency or possibility of oversight, is insane. You must be able to, independently, with people on the ground, be able to tally votes and have different parties give oversight. This is only possible in distributed systems of counting. Centralisation means a single centralised point of failure. Lastly, why wasn't public participation taken into account with this short deadline issue? You cannot rush something that has such big ramifications without consultation. Extend the deadline for submissions.	David

	2020-11-08 10:33:46	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Firstly any amendment is unnecessary The proposed electronic system is open to fraud. The only reliable system is the present system. Voters must ensure that they are registered, on a voters roll in the voting district he or she resides. Postal votes to be conducted in the existing manner, at a prescribed location. There is no reason why , the existing reliable system should be changed. There obviously is a sinister agenda to change the system to allow for irregularities. My view of the proposed AMENDMENTS is an emphatically NO.	Johann

	2020-11-06 06:25:01	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I can see the ANC wants to take SA to a dictatorship, like has happened in other SA countries, where one person or political party is in charge for 50 to 80 years. I am against electronic or mail voting. People should only be allowed to vote in the WARD that they are registered in. we have seen with the previous elections, how people were able to vote more than once by voting at more than one voting station. Opposition parties should be allowed to, and the process should be easy for them to challenge the outcome in any area where fraud is suspected. The voters roll should also stay open to the public. This is the only way to prevent voting fraud on a massive scale.	Alice

	2020-11-05 13:25:43	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Transparency, fraud and hacks that have happened in our country makes me worried in terms of our readiness to have an electronic voting method. Although the present process is hectic, costly and time consuming I think we can find ways to gradually move towards the electronic voting option. We should always remember that whatever ways are implemented need to be fair and just for all South Africans and because South Africa still has rural areas that still need ICT awareness, infrastructure, access, etc - I therefore I do not agree with the amendment of the bill. 	2020-11-04 22:18:46	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The clause is nearly a blank cheque for the IEC to do whatever they want in terms of voting methods. There is no chance that this will not be abused in some way to fix elections in a way that benefits the ANC, without any sort of review process. 	2020-11-04 12:34:07	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is the way to go BUT in RSA firstly the maturity and secondly the integrity of our society is not on a level where electronic voting can be done .Governance is also in a small technical group perhaps inside the IEC or contracted to the IEC .Public scrutiny will be extremely difficult and dishonesty may be introduced into this type of method voting system. Electronic voting should be introduced and tested with proper governance and public participation on a pilot application to ensure that tampering is not "possible"	Ernst

	2020-11-04 11:14:17	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I object to the amendment bill. This will open the door for fraud as they can include bogus voters. The new bill amendment, which will allow the IEC (a Chapter Nine Institution meant to guard democracy) to prescribe a different voting method, at their discretion. (Clause 14 of the bill, hidden conveniently between a deluge of technobabble) This means that for local, provincial and national elections the state could/ will have far more control when the IEC prescribes an electronic voting system that leaves no paper trail like a ballot system. Given the level of corruption and fraud in this county this cannot be allowed. Our system as it stands, has worked well thus far, so don't change what isn't broken just for the sake of changing it, possibly for the worse.	Mike

	2020-11-04 10:05:58	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	I am concerned that this draft amendment bill is being rushed and not open for Public Comment with sufficient time to afford all South Africans their constitutional right to Public Comment. This bill will grant an organisation like the Independent Electoral Commission huge influence over our Personal right to a free and fair election. In my opinion the ruling party has too much influence over the choice of the appointed commission members and could manipulate possible outcomes. The current electronic systems used by the state are very much open to manipulation and fraud which would render any election result "Not free and fair"	Tony

We have seen evidence of corruption so deep in every institution, that I do not believe in the independence of the IEC, or that they will resist political interference. The possibility that an electronic system will be hacked & manipulated is too great. The current system works well and is transparent. The money should rather be spent on eradicating pit lavatories at schools & improving our failing public education system. There are any number of other areas in our failing country where the money could be put to better use.	Ann

	2020-11-03 22:35:22	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is great, but we have learned, through more than 25 years of corruption, theft, disregard for due process, and simple lack of application of mind in order to further private agendas, that the ANC government is not to be trusted, as a way to manufacture votes will be found by them. If we had a government with a trustworthy track record of transparency and sound minded decisions, electronic voting would be great. However, it should never be solely in the hands of any IEC, but a shared and open, audited process.	Lourens

	2020-11-03 22:13:44	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Our Government could not even prevent MILLIONS of Rands being stolen from the UIF TERS funds which, by the way, was FULLY ELECTRONIC medium which was supposed to be reassuring that the SYSTEM does the calculations, checks, balances and verifications - yet MILLIONS were claimed fraudulently by manipulating the system - what guarantees do we have that the same wont happen with an electronic voting method? Also, this would certainly exclude the technologically challenged like the elderly and poor from voting. What about voter security - how can a voter be assured that his/her vote be kept confidential and not be exposed to opposition party supporters and fall victim to violence and intimidation etc? It's a NO from me, sorry...	Vincent
	2020-11-03 20:45:20	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic votes will highly increase the chances of data-manipulation , as is currently the case in the USA. People are registered against their addresses in their specific voting region. In this way proper control can be maintained.	Lynette

	2020-11-03 12:04:42	Mpumalanga		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting needs to be very carefully controlled as there is unlikely to be an audit trail that can be verified and followed. Public servants continue to waste taxpayers money on frivolous issues (this bill), with the underlying sentiment to keep the current party in power. Sufficient time (as per the constitutional requirements) for public comment on the proposed bill has not been allowed. The statement that the IEC can decide on "a different voting method" needs to be clarified and certain boundaries and rules needs to be introduced to ensure that this cannot be used to swing a vote/exclude certain members of the public from voting. Any change to a voting method needs to be carefully considered to ensure that the required safeguards are in place to prevent fraud and manipulation of the votes. It is far too easy for voter fraud to be committed in this way. No changes should be made.	Lynethea

	2020-11-06 22:55:34	Limpopo		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	This new method being proposed will confuse most of South Africa, especially the older generations. This will cause alot of citizens not to vote, and thus be an unfair practice of gaining votes in favor of the political party currently in charge. Where will the funds come from to setup these new methods as most schools in South Africa are not even equipped with computers? Either way, no matter how we vote, it will never be without some type of fraud.	Leigh-Anne

	2020-11-03 21:17:06	Limpopo		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	Sure, we live in "on-line" digital times; However, cyber crime is such a problem in the entire world to-day (an average of 3 large enterprises are hacked to a standstill, in the USA EACH DAY). Quite frankly, South Africa has not been blessed when it comes to our Governing Parties. The massive corruption and outright theft of taxpayers monies is beyond concern. It has reached epidemic proportions; as such, any future systems to be used in determining the government of the day should be simple, straight forward and BULLET PROOF. At the Polling booth, present your ID, have it checked on the Voter's roll, have you , yourself confirmed (that it is indeed YOU and not someone else) and then and only then, cast your vote. Old fashioned? Absolutely. Successful? Absolutely. So why endanger the validity of our voting system for the sake of "being smart and "with it" technologically? Does NOT make good common sense.	Charles

	2020-11-03 11:41:59	Limpopo		No I do not	different (electronic) method of voting	The voting process must remain as is. It allows for "some" sort of transparency, however it is not immune to corrupt intervention by corrupt politicians. Voting via an electronic system lends itself to a guaranteed manipulation and abuse of the system. The present government has proved that they are not capable of honest and reliable governance. No address equates to illegal immigrants onto the "voting roll" obviously leading to more corruption. It is still many moons away for this country to adopt this proposed system. The present government is just not mature enough for it. Judging from the absurdity of their decision making abilities those moons will have to be MANY.	Paul

Sort out the frauds, fakes and constitutionality of votes that's still a problem and electronic voting can work.	Louis

						Everyone already knows (locally and internationally) just how corrupt the government is. The ANC has done very little to eradicate corruption within its ranks; or to recover stolen monies; or to goal outright criminals; or satisfactorily to redress the damage it has caused the country and its people, even during the Covid pandemic. This is a blatant display of further manipulation and corruption. It is open to fraudulent practices (which will inevitably occur given the history of the last number of years); as well as to hacking. The freedom and fairness of elections are already in question. This will make the concept of democracy little other than an even more bitter joke than is already the case. It will certainly not improve on the current system. Already no clear thinking person trusts the IEC.	Peta

	2020-11-05 13:43:17	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	The possibility of voter fraud is massive, the cost of the project will be incredibly high and the implementation of the system will be a disaster (from tenders to overspending to riddled with corruption and fraud). Have I mentioned the great concern of the constitutionality of the bill? Need I say more. This is a terrible idea.	Philip
	2020-11-05 13:23:45	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	The proposed change allows for a high degree of fraudulent votes. 						1. I cannot see how transparency can be sustained if voters are allowed to vote in a ward they do not live in. 2. I do not agree with the suggested changes that will allow voters to register in different regions. My opinion is that this change will pave the way for parties to bus in people to wards currently opposing the ruling party and thus take away the democratic right of the people staying in those regions/wards the say in how and by whom they are governed. 3. I also oppose an electronic voting system due to the increased risks of manipulation. 4. No institution should have the power to unilaterally make decisions on our voting system. I do not agree with : provide for the registration of parties in respect of particular provinces, district and metropolitan municipalities and to repeal provisions relating to registration of parties in respect of particular local municipalities; to repeal obsolete provisions • Electoral Act, 1998, so as to insert certain definitions; to amend the provisions regarding public access to the voters' roll; to update references to repealed legislation; to amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; to amend provisions relating to the submission of lists of candidates; to amend provisions relating to special votes in elections for the National Assembly; to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method ; to amend provisions relating to the procedure concerning provisional results and voting materials; to provide for the limited applicability of the Code; to amend Schedule 3; and local Government: Municipal Electoral Act, 2000, so as to insert and delete certain definitions; to amend the requirements for parties contesting elections by way of party lists and for a ward candidate to contest elections; to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting procedure for those voters whose names appear on the voters' roll, without addresses; to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method; to amend provisions relating to the effect of certain irregularities, and to provide for matters connected therewith.

	2020-11-04 08:48:40	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	1. Allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered - opens the system to fraud/rigging 2. Amending provisions relating to the submission of lists of candidates - there are no details here just smokescreen which further opens the system to manipulation as political parties can strongarm the IEC into making rules on the go/spot 3. Amending provisions relating to special votes in elections for the National Assembly - still no details are provided here, just creating a mirage 4. Authorising the Commission to prescribe a different voting method - the IEC must just do their job and stop trying to outsource their mandate to political parties (we are not as naive as they think we are) 5. Providing for the limited applicability of the Code; to amend Schedule 3; and local Government: Municipal Electoral Act, 2000, so as to insert and delete certain definitions - why have the Code at all if it will have limitations. Again the IEC wants to give political parties a say in electoral decisions (unbelievable!!!) 6. Authorising the Commission to prescribe a different voting procedure for those voters whose names appear on the voters' roll, without addresses - how is the IEC gonna have control over people casting votes in districts where they do not reside?? 	2020-11-04 08:00:30	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Having run voting stations as a VD Captain in previous elections believe me bus loads of people will be taken to areas they don't reside in. You have to have a standfast rule on voters rolls per area or you will have duplication & double voting. Electronic submissions, depending on how they are setup, can be a good way but system access must be limited to 1 vote per ID. Only issue is those without access unless done on a smartphone but then again blocking by ID is needed.	Sara

	2020-11-04 06:40:19	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	I have a deep concern regarding voting outside your area. The ANC/EFF will bus people into areas of weakness and literally steal the vote. In addition electronic voting will be open for fraud. Sadly our government has proven over and over again that they cannot be trusted and there is no doubt in my mind and I am sure in every single other voter in this country that this is a ploy by the ANC to ensure victory. 	2020-11-03 17:42:52	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	I disagree with most of the proposed amendments, but mostly I'm concerned that the seemingly straightforward amendments are simply another way that the ANC will be able to manipulate votes in their favour in the next elections. Digital voting is unlikely to be free and fair as it's even easier to tamper with than physical ballot papers and I'm not happy about proposed changes to public access and allowing people to vote if they're not registered in a district. This is clearly an attempt to try to oust the DA from the Western Cape and prevent any other party from making inroads into its power grip!	Ré

	2020-11-03 14:13:57	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	The ANC government has a long history of corruption and meddling in the affairs of chapter 9 institutions. The state is now running out of money and the citizenry are running out of patience. The risk to the ANC that they lose their majority is becoming very real. The risk that the ANC looks to load the IEC with cadres is very probable, and the likelihood that the proposed changes to the electoral act are used to benefit the ANC come election time is equally highly probable. The voting system should as far as is possible be insulated from political interference. These new regulations could be used to decide how people can vote influencing how results are determined smacks of a ploy to rig the elections or certainly have that option should things look like they are not going the ANC's way. These proposals may well be unconstitutional, if not in the letter, certainly in the spirit.	Katherine

	2020-11-03 13:01:14	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	There are several glaring shortcomings in the proposal namely:- 1) It leaves massive loopholes not only for hacking but also for fraud by allowing political parties to manipulate the outcomes. 2) It will allow foreigners and illegal immigrants to vote even if no address is provided to prove RSA citizenship. 3) It does not provide means whereby the secrecy of voting is assured, thereby opening the door to intimidation. As such, it is at variance with the constitution 4) It places the power to prescribe procedures in the hands of the Electoral Commission making them both participant and referee. The act must prescribe, not the Commission.	Andrew

	2020-11-03 11:50:43	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	though most of its proposed changes are technical, the Bill also contains a sweeping provision allowing the Independent Electoral Commission (IEC) to introduce “a different voting method” – and to override all laws to the contrary in doing so. Clause 14 of the Bill amends the Electoral Act of 1998 by introducing a new sub-section stating: “Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method.” (The Bill has a similar provision allowing the IEC to do the same for local government elections.) These provisions could open the way to introducing an electronic voting system in South Africa. 	2020-11-03 10:11:41	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Electronic voting should not be allowed, it opens us up to severe fraudulent activities and is difficult to monitor and confirm actual votes. You should only be allowed to vote in the district that you live in. Its like SA voting for the US president, it does not make any sense at all. I worry with the corruption that ANC is overwelmed with that these changes will be used for corrupt purposes to ensure that they get a winning vote. Voting, together with the policies and procedures must remain fair. I dont think this is the case, especially during these times where corruption is so rife.	Nathan
	2020-11-03 10:04:42	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	There is so much corruption in this country already and now you want to create more opportunity for electronic submissions that are no longer able to be physically inspected by opposition parties or delegates. This will just make it that much easier for the ruling party to electronically win an election. Not to mention the waste of tax payers money. If you do not reside in a voting district you should never be able to vote in that district! It would be like saying South Africans can vote in the USA elections. If you do not have a permanent residential address then you should also not be allowed to vote. All these proposals threaten free & fair elections!	Miguel

	2020-11-03 08:13:51	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Attacks on electronic voting systems require a high level of technical expertise. But such attacks, whether internal (carried out by the incumbent government) or external (carried out by outside hackers), can be implemented in a much more systematic and covert way than is possible with traditional voting systems. Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger.	Lizelle

	2020-11-03 08:08:02	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Allowing people to vote in a district where they are not registered and people voting with out having an address would allow for multiple votes per person. That would not be contributing to a free and fair election process.	Christiaan
	2020-11-03 08:05:06	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Any excuse to keep the ANC in power, will there be freedom to do anything in this "democratic" country. We are the VOTERS that keep them in government. The amendment of any rules related to voting would again be open to corruption and mismanagement. What they say they are going to change and what they actually do are two different things, we as the voter will be none the wiser.	Karen
	2020-11-03 08:04:39	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Vote rigging , more money to be looted by the ruling party. Ruling party do not instill any confidence. LOT OF GOOD HONEST WORK TO BE DONE TO BOOST AND OBTAIN THE GENERAL PUBLICS CONFIDENCE.	Pieter
	2020-11-03 08:00:17	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	1. Voting without fixed addresses will result in vote manipulation to favour people in government 2. Electronic voting in a country riddled with GOVERNANCE CORRUPTION will be an absolute disaster - there will be gross manipulation of the votes - may as well do away with Democracy and voting	Pungie

	2020-11-03 07:41:44	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	This bill should not be enacted as it can and will lead to future elections not being free, fair or democratic. Allowing the IEC to determine which voting method to use in clause 14 of bill, regardless of due process can allow for faulty and untested methods to corrupt the voting that can skew the votes toward one political parties favor and therefore not being an actual representation of the peoples democratic right to choose its leaders and government. 	2020-11-03 06:56:43	Gauteng		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	ANC deployment at the IEC. Voters voting in districts where they do not live allow for bussing in voters from other districts. A ruling party amending electoral laws is an indication of it's support base dwindling. The NATS did this and the ANC took a lesson from that. The current system works well, so no change needed.	Francois

	2020-11-03 08:04:18	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	The government needs to ensure that people who have missing information can have a chance to fill in their information and ensure it is completed before the time to vote. If there are any irregularities or any hint of corruption, the individual and the government should be held liable in order to remove their vote. If these amendments are made, what are the steps that the government will take to ensure that there is no corruption? What will they do in order to speed up the election process so that its easier and more accessible by people, for example, electronic methods. Why is it that we should stand in long queues where incompetent officials take so long to even figure how to start the process. I want elections to be free and fair so that I can remove this terrible, corrupt, incompetent government and have people who actually don't steal from their citizens to stay in power.	Arisha
	2020-11-03 07:55:40	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	I do not agree with this. Our government has been less than transparent on the best of days. I have had the unfortunate experience of working on software for the government and can definitely say that they do not have the best interests of the public when designing such things. It is too easy to manipulate and control through "back door" implementations that technically shouldn't exist. Also I feel this is unconstitutional. There is no explanation of this "new voting method". That could refer to anything. I also don't feel that it is right to be able to vote in an area you don't live in. This leaves it open for anyone to go to an area, or be bussed in to fudge the results of a particular area. To me this whole thing is full of wholes and there are too many areas that can be manipulated in the ruling parties favour in the background which is a conflict of interests and also unconstitutional. The IEC has also been under investigation for corruption and unfair practices in the past so there credibility is questionable at best.	Dean

	2020-11-06 11:58:53	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Don't fix what ain't broke... My biggest concern, is the voting provisions for voter to vote not in their district. If the voter has not done their due diligence and amended their district that is ultimately their problem when called to check their status. Furthermore, we all know our country is ripe with corruption and people are paid for their votes. This would further exacerbate the matter as our systems and services i.e internet & electricity are forever offline not to mention rural areas with no cellular services. How will voter polls be monitored real-time? So how are we going to prevent the same person from voting multiple times at multiple voting stations without checking the manual voters roll where they have been registered to prevent the aforementioned, when we don't have the electronic infrastructure to support it. 	2020-11-06 09:41:19	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	There is a very good reason why voting must be done at a specific voting point. Each area knows how many voters to expect that reside in the area. People will manage to vote multiple times and this thwart a reliable voting system. Our constitutional rights will be infringed upon.	Irma

	2020-11-05 23:31:10	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	This allows people who do not reside in the areas to come in and vote. Last year is a perfect example of corruption that was taking place. People were riding from one voting station to the next. And yes somehow they were allowed to vote again. "Sealed" ballot boxes were strangely unsealed No answer was given for this. Ballot boxes were found dumped with votes in them. So corruption in South Africa is already rife. Therefore a Very Big No from me.	Cheryl

	2020-11-03 20:25:25	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	THIS IS OUTRAGEOUS! Stop this bill immediately! This undermines and opposes everything about democracy and our country that you pretend to care about and uphold! I fully oppose everything this bill says. This only makes it easier for you to fake votes, hide votes, to steal elections and destroy the democratic process of our country just so you ANC politicians can cheat and steal us and stay in power! We only get once every 5 years to have a say on who gets to beat us over the head, now you want to take even that away and will still call yourselves champions of democracy! I'm almost more outraged at your blatant, brutish hypocrisy than at the actual disturbing content of this "bill" you want to force on the country. STOP THIS BILL IMMEDIATELY AND GIVE US BACK OUR LIVES	Doug

	2020-11-03 17:17:12	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	The IEC must not have the power to make any decisions with regards to any issue that could have an effect on the result of the polls. Any decision that may effect the outcome, needs the full and fulltime participation of all stake holding political parties. Any electronic system could lead to a revolution, as people of all walks of life will doubt the result, as THERE WOULD BE NOT BE A permanent record of the voting that had taken place. The permanent record is not limited to the votes casting, but also who showed up at the voting station. To get the same level of trust, would mean the implementation of sophisticated blockchain technology. Applying block chain technology, requires stakeholders of all political parties, to participate and understand the technology. The country is therefore NOT READY for a new voting system, and the current system has earned a substantial level of trust.	Paul

	2020-11-03 10:28:45	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	While it would be good to see the advancement for faster electronic elections, the danger with that it is easily manipulated. With the paper ballots, there is an easily understandable paper trail and process across the board for all people of South Africa. Going electronic will mean that there will be a portion of society that will not understand the entire process and therefore will be susceptible to manipulation. Can this still truly be called free and fair? Also what are the costs involved in creating such a network and program? That is obviously going to be paid for by the State meaning the people's money. 	2020-11-03 09:43:16	Western Cape		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	After the NCCC's recent state takeover most South Africans have been left with an overwhelming feeling that the current predominantly ANC-run government is not to be trusted with governing affairs, are largely corrupt and self-serving. are intent on a State takeover again. Where is the IEC in this fray? NO! Our constitution was written to prevent exactly this modus operandi and the SA Gov did not do a sufficient risk evaluation & did not adhere to basic rights. You have plunged our country into a recession - one that we are battling to recover from. You plundered money from the state's coffers. WE DO NOT TRUST YOU. Voting should remain as it has always been because digitally the IEC will not be able to determine the fair outcome. I work in the digital field - it is prone to manipulation.	Kathryn

	2020-11-06 19:33:11	Mpumalanga	No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	This leaves too much room for tampering with/ fraudulent results. Maybe the government should first prove that they can be trusted by working on their integrity, honesty, transparency and consistency before thinking about changing the laws relating to the voting system. Inserting a clause (e.g. clause 14) which allows them to prescribe any different voting method - whether contained in the act or any other law OR NOT - is purely unconstitutional, undemocratic and in my opinion, unlawful. What is the use of the law if a government can change the law such as to enable them to act outside of the law just as they wish?	Elsjhe

	2020-11-03 09:01:17	Free State		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	The first amendment that should take place rather than any of the amendments proposed is that the ANC led government must publish a notice on the front page of all major newspapers, government websites, social media websites and registered NGO who are fighting corruption, maladministration, non service delivery, and any other malfeasance that I have not mentioned to avoid trying to obfuscate a new law proposal. The ANC is only amending the current bill as "accused no 1" has found its hands in the cookie jar and is determined to stay in power by having the ability to commit election fraud. I am also not in favour of any of the proposed amendments.	Tony

	2020-11-03 11:41:09	Limpopo		No I do not	rules determining results at voting stations	Our system is flawed, but certainly better than most. My biggest issue is who actually gets to govern the country. The presidency is supposed to be the highest office of the land, developing the country through mindfull and meaningful policy that actually makes a positive difference in the lives of all the people, not jsut a few! The current system allows for so called politcal king making to occur. We have the situation with the ANC that is actually controlled by 6 people within the ANC and the president elected. Basically the president is just a puppet to the party, not a clear concise leader with a plan and a politcal will. The ANC controls South africa because its managed to entrench corruption so deep into every sphere of government, the only way to keep the money flowing is to stay in power. They have not been able to develop the country and steer a path of success for the people. Instead they have been stealing billions and billions of TAX money to feed their wealth addiction. Keeping millions of south africans poor to keep the control. Not realising if they actually just cared and did their jobs, built the roads for better and faster and cheaper, build schools better and more innovative so scholars can get the knowledge they desperately need, build the hospitals so the sick can get better and work to provide for their families, let people get jobs, the rewards would have been plentiful for everyone. No, the greed is too much and so the bill proposed here is designed to ensure free and fair elections can never happen. The desire for control is overwhelming and reeks of corruption rot! We need a federal system where a party leader is elected and thus sets policy through to the party. Let independent candidates stand for the highest office of the land! the highest office of the land be the highest office of the land. Not some poorly orchestrated constructed puppet show! No wonder SA is in the position we are in! The electoral system needs reform, but this bill is not it!	Christo

	2020-11-04 07:54:08	Eastern Cape		No I do not	other	All of the above are my concern. Electronic voting: open to fraud. Govt cannot even administer SASSA electronically or school admissions. Get this right first. Address of voters: if you cannot provide an address in the district, you should not vote in the district. Cost to state: state is bankrupt as it is... this requires no clarification. Constitutionality of the bill: sadly Govt stopped being concerned with voters' rights a long time ago. What they SHOULD change: people who have been elected should NOT be allowed to "cross the floor" and take their votes with them. We voted for the PARTY not the PERSON. If you "cross the floor", you leave your votes behind.	Beverley

	2020-11-03 16:15:47	Eastern Cape		No I do not	other	The IEC is open to and full of nepotism as it is. Different voting method? Electronic? Not enough South Africans are connected. They weaken the democratic system by adding more and more 'so called political parties, who have no chance of garnering enough votes' to make a difference. Too many splinter groups who are upset with their own parties are added to the voting list. Parties on the voting list should be restricted to those parties that have a small chance of getting substantial seats in Parliament. Maximum 10. Authorize to prescribe procedures for voters without addresses to vote, NO WAY, this opens the way for criminals in jails, who should be stripped of all civil rights until rehabilitated, to vote. 	2020-11-03 08:54:18	Eastern Cape		No I do not	other	I do believe the SA Public need to be made more aware of the proposals and details thereof before this bill is approved. One concern is the change regarding proof of address - surely this is important and should not be removed ... one is required to provide proof of address for most transactions in this country so why not required for the voter's roll. I appreciate that many people still live in areas that have not been formalised by their municipalities or metros but surely this is something that needs to be addressed as a priority.	Carol

	2020-11-03 07:53:49	Eastern Cape		No I do not	other	The government is desperate to keep the ANC in power and is now willing to have major corruption in the voting system so people can vote more than once to keep them in and this will be the end of democracy in South Africa.	Astrid

This is one of those corrupt laws which in essence is theft - they want to tax the citizens of South Africa for something the SABC is incapable of delivering; good service. This state run enterprise like so many others is a failure due to mismanagement and corruption and now the burden of the stolen billions of Rands is about to be dumped on the back of all honest citizens because once again the state has run the SABC into the ground. So now they want to steal more money from the all ready overburdened citizens of this land - its a disgrace and is a corrupt proposal ! I do not support it at all.	Trevor Leo

	2020-11-07 18:03:47	Gauteng		No I do not	other	For national elections, this is not a problem, but it goes further than that, for regional/municipal elections, you have to have an address period, this is to ensure you vote within your region and not lob-side votes where you don't stay ... really this is becoming insane. Find additional methods to make it easier, electronic with a barcode authentication/ verification system etc. No one on the voters roll should be without an address!	Adriaan
	2020-11-07 17:50:50	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Public should have access to the voters' roll online and at the Council. All voters must have an address and should not be allowed to vote without a registered address. Voting should be done not via ID numbers but via thumb prints as foreigners have gained IDs illegally and some citizens have multiple IDs. There are also deceased persons that apparently voted before. We need thumb prints with matches in the database for validation of a voter which will link to their profile, registered address (verified by deeds office, Council and RICA). No more mark on the nail as it gets wiped off and citizens vote multiple times.	Sonja

	2020-11-06 22:27:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Draft Electoral Bill: 1. amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; 2. allowing the Independent Electoral Commission (IEC) to introduce "a different voting method" – and to override all laws to the contrary in doing so.	Denzil
	2020-11-06 22:24:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	That the IEC should not have discretion to change voting method without reference to parliament or accountability for a free and fair election.	Candice
	2020-11-06 22:16:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I choose not to support this bill.	Jennifer

	2020-11-06 19:25:49	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Too easy for fraud and corruption to take place	Helen
	2020-11-06 18:57:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	PLEASE DON'T DO THIS!!!	Michael

	2020-11-06 18:37:28	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The entire country is so open to corruption and this will make it easier for people to rig voting to the highest degree. The population is made up of too many illegal immigrants who will climb on the bandwagon! The fact that it has been published so clandestinely exposes the corruption which will be exploited royally!	Anne
	2020-11-06 18:20:53	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Again, it is just a money making scheme by the government.	Donna
	2020-11-06 18:18:25	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Corruption is all this government can do! Stop them on all the rights we need a new captain this ANC is useless retards	Adri
	2020-11-06 18:14:31	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Possibility of fraud and voters being able to vote in different municipalities	Roland
	2020-11-06 18:14:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Just another way to get the taxpayer to bail out the SABC due to their misconduct, fraud, etc., of funds.	Margaret
	2020-11-06 17:48:09	Gauteng		No I do not	other	ENOUGH of this endeavour to CORRUPT everything. I vehemently oppose ANY system that is not properly controlled AND monitored. The ANC is nothing but devious in EVERYTHING they try to push down our throats. I SAY NO!!!!!!!!!!!!	Hennie
	2020-11-06 17:42:10	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The fact that any digital system can be hacked or defrauded. With the corruption in the country nothing can be trusted.	Cheryl
	2020-11-06 17:28:05	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Shannon
	2020-11-06 17:23:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	If there is no verification of addresses or location then voter fraud will be rampant	Linda
	2020-11-06 17:18:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This will lead to fraud & corruption	Jenny
	2020-11-06 17:14:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The SABC can not even provide us with proper unbiased news and information, now they want us to pay so they can continue with their looting and pro ANC propaganda. My streaming device has got nothing to do with the SABC.	Rudolph
	2020-11-06 17:05:58	Gauteng		No I do not	other	With all this fraud, I say it won't work!!! So no no no no!!! Way!!!!	Iris
	2020-11-06 17:05:37	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Hercu
	2020-11-06 16:51:55	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Not supporting this proposal	Jan
	2020-11-06 16:44:51	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Unfortunately the ruling party cannot be trusted and this bill will allow their history of corruption to move from stealing money to stealing votes.	Tony
	2020-11-06 16:41:17	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I oppose the changes for all the concerns given but especially because introducing a different/ electronic voting method removes the ability for the watchdogs and oversight committees to evaluate and ensure that the election process was not corrupted. An electronic voting method also opens up the voting system to corruption that would be difficult to pick up due to the technical nature of auditing such a system and the results within such a system. The voters have a RIGHT to have the voting process oversight at EVERY stage which will not be possible using alternative voting methods which are not transparent. Further, allowing voters without addresses to vote opens the process up to manipulation because the multiple information aspects for the individuals form a multipoint checking system to ensure each person only votes once. The government also did not allow fair time and warning to the public to comment on this bill and thus indicates devious motives in the changes made. This is yet another change that is infringing on the citizens democratic rights and allowing for more state capture and corruption.	Bronwyn
	2020-11-06 16:35:25	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I oppose the Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill on the grounds that I do not believe it will be in the interest of promoting a "Free and Fair Election" process, but will in fact open the door to furthering the aims of those who have no desire to promote a democratic government.	Cynthia

	2020-11-06 16:22:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Don't trust the IEC there is just too much corruption in this Government and Country to trust any electronic voting. Stick to the way we voted before. No address needed to vote? I smell a rat! It screams out illogical votes and it will make it possible for corruption. No! Stick to our old voting system it works....	Lynette

OK More i Home Media SA must urgently oppose a seemingly innocuous Bill that could threaten free and fair elections – IRR SA must urgently oppose a seemingly innocuous Bill that could threaten free and fair elections – IRR 30 October 2020 - A profound risk to constitutional democracy could arise from a sweeping provision in the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill, B22 of 2020, introduced in Parliament by the Minister of Home Affairs – and for which the deadline for written submissions is 4pm today. A profound risk to constitutional democracy could arise from a sweeping provision in the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill, B22 of 2020, introduced in Parliament by the Minister of Home Affairs – and for which the deadline for written submissions is 4pm today. Though most of its proposed changes are technical, the Bill also contains a sweeping provision allowing the Independent Electoral Commission (IEC) to introduce “a different voting method” – and to override all laws to the contrary in doing so. Clause 14 of the Bill amends the Electoral Act of 1998 by introducing a new sub-section stating: “Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method.” (The Bill has a similar provision allowing the IEC to do the same for local government elections.) These provisions could open the way to introducing an electronic voting system in South Africa. Since the 2019 election, the IEC has been actively exploring this option. However, electronic voting systems are vulnerable to manipulation in many ways. Attacks on electronic voting systems require a high level of technical expertise. But such attacks, whether internal (carried out by the incumbent government) or external (carried out by outside hackers), can be implemented in a much more systematic and covert way than is possible with traditional voting systems. Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation. In An introduction to vulnerabilities in electronic voting, Robert Duigan, who completed an MSc in Crisis and Security Management at Leiden University College, writes: “Traditional safeguards for ballot security have the advantage of being legible to the entire public, and violations of protocol are easy enough for anybody to comprehend.” By contrast, “electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state.... In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power,... this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections.” If South Africa is to shift to an electronic voting system, all the risks in doing so must be made clear to the public. People must also be given a proper opportunity to understand the dangers and make informed submissions to the government on whether this is what they want. Instead, the Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC

					According to the IEFS at minimum, the following principles should serve as a guide for electoral bodies considering the use of audits: Election Audits: International Principles that Protect Election Integrity <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ü Integrity management. Election management bodies should prioritize integrity-related risks, particularly in nascent democracies, and should develop an electoral integrity management plan based on rigorous integrity assessments and scenario mapping before each electoral cycle. ü Established legal framework. The legal basis for any audit must be defined as part of the legal framework under which the election was conducted. ü Established procedural framework. The procedures under which the audit is conducted must be developed and shared with all stakeholders in advance of the audit. ü Effective training and adherence to a code of conduct. An audit must not begin until codes of conduct are in place and until training of audit personnel and public education have been conducted. ü Clear jurisdiction. Jurisdiction over the audit process should be clear and vested with a national institution, preferably the electoral management body. ü Predetermined and uniformly applied rules. The scope and scale of the audit must be clearly defined before the audit begins. Rules should not change after the audit has begun, and audit rules – including the standard of evidence – and regulations must be uniformly applied across all cases throughout the audit process. ü Appropriate evidentiary standards. Proper chain of custody of evidence should be maintained by following clearly defined standard operating procedures, continuity of possession, security, and inspection. ü Right to an appeal. The electoral process must maintain a right to appeal decisions of an audit, but candidates should not be able to use the audit process as a means of delaying acceptance of an electoral result. There are best practices and lessons learned for election audits in post-conflict, transitioning environments. Ideally, audits would be unnecessary, as rules and regulations and procedures for counting and reviewing ballots should be sufficiently robust to eliminate the need for invasive auditing processes. For democracy to succeed in fragile and transitioning environments, electoral legal frameworks must be respected; electoral management bodies must be strong, independent, and impartial; and political parties and candidates must support the outcome of the election process. Challenging circumstances can test the foundations on which nascent democracies rest. Stakeholders must unite in support of the frameworks that have been adopted and the fledgling institutions that are responsible for safeguarding the democratic foundations and legal framework in which the election takes place. When audits are determined necessary, they must be based on a predictable set of procedures and guided by good practices. This paper attempts to provide this guidance in the hope that when such audit processes are required, there are resources available to audit managers, so that any post-election audit conducted may be less contentious, more predictable, and ultimately protect the integrity of an election and its outcome I am supportive of these principles.

	2020-11-06 09:11:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Open to another avenue of corruption and fraud _ the ANC have destroyed trust, they need to earn trust again and this is no way to do it by stealing the next election. To vote one needs to be a South African Citizen with a fixed abode. Not complying to this will just open a door to unilateral corruption and fraud with ultimate power. How can one vote where you are not registered and have say where you don't pay rates and taxes. Rather bus people to stations where they are registered than bus them to constituencies where winning chances are statistically less! Rather than authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method, upgrade the technology that supports the Voter's roll and the identification of voters at the polling stations.	Eric
	2020-11-06 09:09:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	A vote is a statement of approval/disapproval of issues relevant to yourself as well as others. You must have a fixed address, and represent your area responsibly. As we see it there is too much of a bias to criminal behaviour, corruption, greed and extortion, from the leadership, which flows over to bad examples for society in general, we now distrust the governing bodies. We need Godly, independent advisors to screen decisions made, to contribute to an honest government in South Africa, national and municipal. Is this a priority in the amendments?	LORRAINE
	2020-11-06 09:04:59	Gauteng		No I do not	other	ALL OF THEM. I AM SICK TO THE BACK TEETH OF THE DIRTY TRICKS OF THE ANC. THEY ARE PARASITES , LIARS, THIEVES AND OXYGEN THIEVES.	Nanette

	2020-11-06 08:42:17	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not support the amendments proposed, especially the ones that concern people voting in different districts from where they live, this will allow the anc to send voters where they need them, which is cheating the system, next is the no address issue, if you want to vote, you need to have an address and vote where you are registered, if they don't this will also allow a loop hole for the anc to send voters where they need them, also, the different voting methods, are these people confident that the elections will be fair and free??? this will just be another method to cheat an already corrupt and flawed voting system! the IEC is in the anc's pocket, open your eyes South Africa, since Mandela was released there has been NO election that has gone by that has been 100% free of corruption and flaws!!!	Riaan

	2020-11-06 07:01:28	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Goodday it has come to our attention in many ways that South Africa has become the Circus of the World. We are the dumping grounds of Criminals. This is a 3rd world COUNTRY. We can never develop into a FIRST World due to Corruption. There is Education needed at a rapid pace to Repair this Country. We are already paying high tariffs on calls of which the Government knows where their fingers are. The Law of drop calls is not supporting users as claimed. Most South Africans are starting to use Whatsup calls. I now see it all. We are not stupid. Kind Regards	Byran

	2020-11-06 06:35:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	As we all know, our government is so full of corruption and corrupt politicians. If this Bill was allowed, one cannot imagine the fraudulent votes the ruling party would obtain. It is a known fact, that the ANC have voters which are deceased and this is at the voting booths! What would happen if this was done electronically? They would be in power for another 50 years. It is a NO from me. They are so corrupt and the present voting is better than an electronic vote would be. Apart from the fact that many older generations are not computer literate and their votes would be stolen by people sent out to 'assist' them by the ANC or to make it more legit-the IEC. The IEC is no better and we the citizens of SA have very little trust in them, they are captured and therefore not trustworthy.	Lynette

	2020-11-05 20:52:58	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Fully electronic voting is open to abuse. I am an electronic engineer with some knowledge of IT Security and Network Security. Modern technogy, as as AI based image recognition, enables ballot papers to be counted quickly and cheaply at each polling station, while ensuring confidentiality of the vote - i.e. the vote of each voter, is secret. Using such technology, the voting results at each polling station can be determined on the day of voting, while the IEC officials and party representatives are all there. This method is foolproof, tamper proof.	Roy
	2020-11-05 20:48:25	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Citizens should vote where it impacts on them not be able to vote where not registered. All voters must be traceable and able to be verified as SA citizens and able to confirm voting only once. Traceable registered Addresses are imperative . The voting methods should not be pliable by the IEC. Transparency and trust in the process , procedure and the IEC is non negotiable. The results will not be trusted if manipulation is implemented to play the outcome through choices left in the hands of few.	Sonja

It is fair, it is for South African Citizens, according to the Constitution, and their Citizenship can be verified. So why would y.ou want to change the system? After much thought I can only conclude that the majority of previously disadvantaged South Africans, who don't pay any Income Tax towards the fiscus anyway, are willing to fight and possibly even die for Democracy - until it doesn't suit them. Then they want to try a bit of Fascism.	Lawrence

	2020-11-05 16:49:47	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I am not in favour of the amendment to an electronic voting system. This will open the whole voting system for a fraudulent possibility. It will also give other countries (like Russia in the USA) to manipulate the voting system. To vote at other polling stations without an address of the voter is also dangerous and opens up the whole system to fraud. Many, if not all, aspects of this Bill are suspicious. Considering the current state of the nation and the general behaviour of the ANC party, it stands to reason that these amends will allow them means to implement dubious ploys to try and remain in power or to gain more. Surely we have higher priorities upon which to focus as a country than changing Electoral Laws on the sly? A unified country behaves more like New Zealand, where everyone is in agreement, and less like America, where everyone is so polarised that an immediate descent into chaos occurs whenever a crisis occurs. Sadly, our political parties are quite comfortable instigating riots and hate speech. If one looks at New Zealand's recent elections, even opposing candidates were in natural agreement with their current candidate, simply because it was undeniable that they're actually doing a good job. It would be ideal if South Africa had political parties that were more concerned with how to actually help the country instead of how to acquire power for the sake of it.	Liesel

	2020-11-05 15:27:45	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It's easy for to rig votes on it	Cyril
	2020-11-05 15:25:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	People should vote in the province they are resident in and have an address which is registered and where mail and electricity is received. Voting in a province you don't live in makes no sense at all and that is just the way votes are rigged. If you are from Limpopo go vote in Limpopo not in Gauteng.	Muhammad
	2020-11-05 15:11:42	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Voters should have a registered address associated with their ID number. Same as what is done today for Fica. Only tax payers should be allowed to vote.	Brent
	2020-11-05 15:07:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	100 % unacceptable , a sim for a cell phone requires more validation , paperwork and verification. It will not be reflective of the demographics of the electorate and will be a fraud of the electoral process. It will open the road to widespread abuse, an unbalanced number of votes will skew the true number of district voters. Thereby causing under counting and irrelevant data for service delivery in rural areas or areas of origin for the voters on the roll . Representation for the areas where voters who are registered will not have their regional or district be reflective of the will of the people. This proposal is nothing more than a means to ensure that the upcoming election the ruling party is guaranteed power. Simply put, a way to negate the performance of the Government and create the illusion of free and fair elections when in fact the result is not indicative of the reality of the voters will.	Paul

					I oppose the proposed changes on the following grounds: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Insufficient time for the public to understand and evaluate the proposed changes. The original timeframe of less than 3 weeks is grossly inappropriate for the evaluation of changes to three different statutes and the voting process which will affect all South Africans and the future of the country. Slightly extending the time for public comments is not sufficient either - a generous timeframe is required considering the scope and importance of the proposed changes. 2. Insufficient publicity to raise awareness of the proposed changes. A single advertisement in a single newspaper is grossly insufficient given the importance of voting in a democratic country and the significance of the changes proposed. The proposed changes should be published widely and explained comprehensively, as was done with the POPI Act. Democracy is no less important than people's personal information. 3. Lack of impact assessment study. No impact assessment has been done or provided to evaluate the social and economic consequences of the proposed changes. How voting is performed clearly affects all South Africans and the future of the country and thus we can reason that the impact must be significant and far-reaching. A proper impact study is require to clarify the consequences the proposed changes will have for the country and its people. 4. Lack of clarity regarding new voting methods that may be implemented. The proposed changes effectively writes a blank check which will allow the IEC to tamper with the voting process in unexpected and unexplained ways. This is not how a democracy should work. Intended changes to the voting method should be described specifically so that the public can evaluate the expected impact and effectiveness of the proposed method. 5. Expected costs of proposed changes. At a time when the country's finances are severely challenged and additional taxes are being evaluated which will further strain ordinary citizens, the introduction of a new and potentially expensive voting method which may exacerbate the country's financial difficulties is clearly unjustified. 6. Expected complexity of proposed changes. South Africa is a country with a large rural population in which education has been woefully inadequate. Imposing complicated and technical voting mechanisms in these areas risk confusing voters in the process and threatens free and fair elections. 7. Lack of transparency. The current voting method provides a clear and physical voting method and audit trail. Tampering with this process would risk the transparency of the process, and in a country which is currently rife with corruption, the introduction of a more complicated and more easily manipulable method does not serve the aims of democracy and fairness. 8. Lack of trust in government. Based on the behaviour of the present government over many years, most recently in trying to illegally manipulate power in Tshwane municipality, I have little trust in the proposed changes. The short timeframe, poor publicity, lack of transparency, and gratuitous grant of power to the IEC, appears to be a poor-faith attempt to proactively stem expected losses in upcoming elections and open the door to election manipulation and fraud. The proposed changes lack the necessary specificity, due dilligence and safeguards to reassure the public and prevent abuse. The current voting method was good enough to move from apartheid into democracy. It is good enough now to ensure that democracy is upheld as South Africa struggles to free itself once again.

	2020-11-05 15:00:13	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Firstly, they have no right to amend the Constitution or any portion there-off, Secondly, the security of this electronic system and the possible risk of it being tampered with, is to great, Thirdly, that it was kept so quiet is alarming. There is some hidden agenda about this, Fourthly, that the media kept quite to the last minute also raises further concern. The constitutional court must make a ruling, urgently to stop this act been implemented.	Gerhard
	2020-11-05 15:00:04	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This method is so open to corruption and voter tampering. Even first world countries have rejected the idea of such a voting method. In SA it is even more ludicrous to try this idea. We can't even vote for people who aren't corrupt. How on earth can we actually manage such an undertaking? There is no reason to believe that this method would ever be democratic or even fair, which thus contravenes the constitution. Are we seriously this stupid?	Carol
	2020-11-05 14:42:56	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This is utter rubbish (to put is lightly). Why should more good money be given to a another corruption filled organisation , it's sole purpose is to be the propaganda machine for the ANC. Netflix does not even have any SABC programs on it. 	2020-11-05 14:03:46	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This is just another scam to 'hoodwink' voters, and another avenue for fraud and corruption. I recently approached the Licensing Dept to furnish me with a duplicate 'Vehicle Registration Certificate' and was turned away, as they wanted 'Proof of residence', and would not accept a copy of my Municipality statement of account - it had to be an original. This is obviously done to prevent fraud. The same strict regulations should also apply to voters viz. people must appear in person, with proper identification and place of residence (an address). In addition, the present government is loosing a lot of faith in the electorate, I doubt that the government will accept a loss at the poles and we will end up have continuous arguments regarding fraud etc.	Eric

	2020-11-05 10:48:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The proposed change to allow an electronic voting system will not allow free and fair elections as opportunities for fraudulent rigging of elections in tis way are great and generally known to be problematic. This method will allow the ANC even more access to manipulating votes as we know that the IEC is not free of influence from the current ruling party! I will not agree or endorse this bill as it goes against the rights of a free and FAIR election process! We don't trust the government. They are failing the people and the people are starting to see this. the ANC would , based on their performance and proven reputation for fraud, theft, corruption, unfair bias against the minorities , go to any lengths to remain in power. I say NO to any means that would provide them with an advantage in screwing us over.	Kassie

	2020-11-05 09:35:10	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Given the low level of education of many voters and more specifically elderly and black voters, the system is wide open to gfrsud and manipulation. Apart from that, electronic voting in our distant rural areas would certainly present a challenge given the lack of electronic support systems and the cost to the taxpayer would be unacceptable.	Arthur
	2020-11-05 09:30:05	Gauteng		No I do not	other	electronic voting can be manipulated, for instance, they can load dead peoples id's and no one will know. No stay with the present method.	Trudy

	2020-11-05 09:22:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Votes should be done in secret (ie although you are ticked off in a register, and cannot vote twice , your vote is unknown to others but saved electronically and can be reconstructed!) Electronically this cannot be done if you have to verify the person and the device. The data needs to be saved and indeed backed up for various reasons. Should the bill get passed then there must be verification of Tax status, Home affairs status (ID number etc) and the FICA status because to own a phone this is a requirement. The verification process and then the check for duplicate vote must be instantaneous and collated with the normal voting station registers. Duplication should lead to the arrest of those trying to vote twice - BUT identity theft will have some legitimate voters being unfairly / incorrectly accused.	Richard

	2020-11-05 08:54:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	My main concern is the proposed act change is the safety of the data in the domain/portal that will need to be setup in order for the public to Vote. One the 1 end we have a huge potential that person information can be leaked or extracted from this domain putting at risk registered voters of being exposed to Credit Fraud etc. On the other end, we as the public have little to no faith in the Government. Not safe guarding the people of this country, not being honest with the people of this country and not being Transparent. For years now we see the Government playing "games" undermining the people for their own personal gains and that of a selected few. If we lose the Paper trail Voting system, we give the Government the freedom to decide the outcome of the Election before it even started. Forget the risks associated via "Big Data" this option of Voting will give them ultimate tool to manipulate outcomes, drive agendas in certain areas and strategically defraud and disrupt the Country. This should not be allowed, our Government cannot handle this responsibility.	Daniel
	2020-11-05 08:49:05	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Because all the money that is actually meant for the company is stolen ie corruption they think up new ways to get it back by wanting fees for stupid things like this. Nope. I won't pay. It's like the etolls. Refuse to pay. ?	Tamzyn

	2020-11-05 08:29:33	Gauteng		No I do not	other	FRAUD AND CORRUPTION. This has fraud written all over it. The ANC knows the people have lost confidence in them and trying to make sure they stay in power. I believe people should be allowed to vote for a person to be in certain positions. They should not be voting for a party. ANC is rotten to the core. From the top all the way down. IEC belongs to the ANC, they are not independent, they are just puppets. ANC MUST FALL OR OUR COUNTRY IS FINISHED.	Megan

	2020-11-05 08:24:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This opens up the ability to commit voting fraud on a massive scale by the ruling party. The ruling party has already shown how eager they are to commit corruption on a massively wide scale & this will allow them to manipulate the votes. It's a last ditch scheme to maintain power & control of the government which helps to hide existing atrocities & irregularities & corruption & the responsible parties. I will march in the streets to prevent this happening.	Hugh
	2020-11-05 08:23:04	Gauteng		No I do not	other	this would be hugely susceptible to fraud and controlled by the government	Cecilia
	2020-11-05 08:14:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The ANC has shown itself to be woefully inadequate at tackling corruption, it has neither the will nor desire to really take to task those, Zuma, et al, who SOLD South Africa to an equally corrupt Indian family, So why would we, the citizens, believe the ANC would not abuse this system of electoral voting, when EVERYTHING points to the contrary. HELL No, the ANC would and will abuse this electronic system of voting to further their agenda and line their pockets. As much as the ANC thinks they run they run everything, they do not run my mind or my choices and I oppose this two-minute noodle, rushed through amendment. Over time the ANC has repeatedly shown itself to be open to corruption in staggering displays of greed. They will abuse this system if they have control of it.	Lavinia

	2020-11-05 06:48:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Given the horrendously poor performance and extent of corruption of this govt over 26 years I am not at all confident that a) they are adequately skilled and honest enough to be trusted with any changes and b) any changes to this bill would only be used to favor their (the ANC) position and not the electorate system! 	2020-11-04 23:59:04	Gauteng		No I do not	other	If SABC cannot control TV license by gateway lik DSTV, why should we pay for content that they do not have any hand in, this will simply allow control on what to view and the only people that suffer is the poor, this type of forceful behavior will drive investors away and people will find other ways to view pirate movies on illegal instruments. So address the issue of a bad run and unwanted product and start shaping it up for public to buy.....	Terrance
	2020-11-04 23:54:04	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I will not pay for content I do not watch. I will not be expected to pay when I have to search other platforms to watch movies, series and sport. They will not hold the monopoly on what people want to watch. We are already paying for other services. Then they need to air decent viewing.	Roxanne
	2020-11-04 22:56:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	There will be huge fraud and corruption if this happens the vast population od SA will not understand how to do this and corruption will take place msrk my words	Susan
	2020-11-04 22:11:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	In a country riddled with corruption it will be drastically unfair. The current ruling party will make absolutely certain they are not voted out. As for not having a street address, anyone can create a name and vote. The vote should be for SA citizens not anybody that wants to put in a vote. It will be most unfair.	Doreen

	2020-11-04 21:35:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The South African government is not to be trusted in respect of changes to voting as can only lead to captured and unfair elections to secure the ANC in power.	Shaun
	2020-11-04 21:29:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Electronic voting has been tried and rejected in many first world countries because votes can be tampered with. Does our government honestly believe South Africa would be able to ensure the votes could not be tampered with? Besides this, the cost of such a system is a waste of money that could be far better spent to support our ailing economy.	Ian

	2020-11-04 18:37:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	63 years old and i have wasted thousands of rands in my lifetime paying an illegal useless SABC TV licence because i own a TV...NOT PREPARED TO KEEP PAYING MONEY FOR CORRUPT ANC SOE'S TO KEEP THEMSELVES IN MILLIONAIRES LIFESTYLES.... prove to we white cash cows how you obtain license money from the hundreds of DSTV dishes i see in alex everyday i ride past there....some shacks have 4 dishes on them, Name ?? Address?? how do they pay licenses...now you want to come after our devices, sorry corrupt ANC government, you've had Carte Blanche with my hard earned cash since 1994, enough is enough, find another way to steal, concoct a plan where you steal form the millions of taxi drivers in this country.....whige ta payers are GATVOL !!!!!!! Do not agree!!! we are broke.....	COLLEEN
	2020-11-04 18:36:52	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The present system works. Changing the system allows for loopholes in the system which must be avoided.	Ivan
	2020-11-04 18:30:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Just another way for government to take from hard working citizens and enriching goverment officials. We are starting to get fed up with government and their criminal activity.	Adel

	2020-11-04 18:20:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	One cannot charge for a sabc lisencc just because the sabc us in need of money. They surely must provide a service for that lisencc whereby one can choose if you want that service or not. By allowing this one might argue that anyone with a cellphone must pay for a lisencc to to operate a retail outlet just because a cellphone can be used to order stock from checkers even if one orders from pnp. Its ridicilous. Stop stealy and waste their money, start provide a service that everyone wants and people will start paying the tv lisenccs.	Corne

	2020-11-04 18:18:02	Gauteng		No I do not	other	How can you allow voters to vote without a fixed address. How can you allow voters do vote in a region not their own. Have we not had enough of corruption and fraud in this country to make the door wide open for just that? Should we not do the opposite by making the regulations more stringent? Please don't do this please!!!	Nic

	2020-11-04 17:32:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	In a country with such a massive corruption background, the electronic voting system would allow a opportunity to rig an election. There is already concern regarding the IEC's independence in the current voting system -now to advocate an evote seems to me a playground of mystique.	James
	2020-11-04 17:29:37	Gauteng		No I do not	other	My top concern is all of the above. The ANC's history shows that this party desperately needs to hold onto power to continue their destruction of South Africa by working against the people and enriching themselves in the process. These changes are only to benefit the ANC, not the people, who you actually work for. Nothing the ANC does, in any way, is beneficial to South Africans as a whole. Your party agenda is so obvious... Not that you actually care or will listen, I'm just wasting my time writing this because you will do as you wish, as usual. Shocking!	Aileen

	2020-11-04 17:06:20	Gauteng		No I do not	other	No ruling party should have anything to do with the voting system. Too much fraud in this country as it is. This is just another plan to manipulate the votes in favour of a certain party.	Melanie
	2020-11-04 17:01:24	Gauteng		No I do not	other	First of all it will be tampered with and secondly not everyone can vote online.	Lauren
	2020-11-04 16:41:35	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The current voting process works well so why must it also be manipulated and "destroyed" as what has happened with Eskom, SAA, Transnet etc. by reducing control processes and transparency. This creates more opportunity for further corruption. Financial processes require place of fixed residence etc so why no longer required for the voting process. This appears to be another step towards a Zimbabwe-like undemocratic corrupt one-party state if the Zondo commission is anything to go by.	Emil

	2020-11-04 12:49:48	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Innovation and change in all spheres of life demonstrate that humanity stands at the threshold of a new era. Signs abound and become ever clearer that the mark of this age is our shared destiny, our unity as a human species. Yet, equally clear are the growing pains of a humanity coming of age—pains caused by attachments to inherited habits and institutions, deeper entrenchment in systems that were perhaps suitable but for a different generation. What is necessary today is the centering of certain principles more readily expressed than ever before: inclusion, participation, and transparency combined with age-old values such as trustworthiness, honesty, selflessness, and integrity that must increasingly guide individual and collective action. These principles must find expression in the structures and institutions of government. Clearly the existing system favours the best campaigner. The winner comes through competition, but this is immature unconsidered and easily manipulated. The fact is that it no longer works. I say hold on to what we have until the world sees fit to change. 	2020-11-04 12:13:26	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The government is not capable of providing a secure platform to allow for electronic voting, which means that if we have a honest government, the vote will go to whomever the best/last computer hacker decide (there could be a few who will change the results before the end, including one from each political party). If we however don't have a honest government, then how will the votes be supported by proof of voting and how will people who vote for the "wrong" party be protected from false "spoilt votes"?	Pieter

	2020-11-04 11:45:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The only people entitled to vote should be South African TAX payers as it is these funds the Government spends ALL THE TIME, so the Tax Payer's Register should represent the electoral register. This however does not preclude a housewife from voting as she can "piggie-back" off her husband's tax reference number. This would also encourage non-tax payers to register if they felt so strongly about this Government's administrative & economic policies & thereby grow SARS tax base & enable them to recoup higher taxation from the informal sectors. 	2020-11-04 11:26:20	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Through the years of ANC rule we have become aware of very high levels of fraud and corruption within the ruling party, SOE and many others. The ICC is suppose to be democratic and not under the thumb of the ANC. However the upcoming election is going to be a watershed for the ruling party and I feel very apprehensive of the electronic voting system. 	2020-11-04 10:51:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not trust that the IEC will make a decision in the best interests of all South Africans. It is open to abuse, and any changes need to be specified and discussed before they are instituted. It is suspicious that the clause is just tucked away in a lot of words. I am not opposed to changing the method of voting, but I am opposed to a new method being unilaterally imposed on us.	Patricia

	2020-11-04 10:40:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The reason I feel that this will not work is that as seen from the past of how the ANC act they do not allow transparency and this exact transparency is required as to see how votes would be calculated with a new electronic system. The ANC's track record is marked with vote tampering and vote fixing and vote stuffing etc. This is why when voting occurs and yes there are many benefits to electronic voting but they can only occur with an honest and transparent state which we do not have, as can be witnessed by the countless corruption cases. This then brings into questioning of the ANC's integrity which it seems currently they do not have. Knowing all of this it becomes clear although the intention seems good, it is tainted will ill intent and this is why I won't agree with the new method and will only approve if there is a clear action showing transparency for anyone to be able to audit the voting system and see how votes are calculated.	Andre
	2020-11-04 10:38:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Another corruption scheme! I don't trust this gov and it's officials.	Manuela
	2020-11-04 10:35:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The bill covers too many areas. Some good some bad. Break it up into similar topics.	Karin

	2020-11-04 10:35:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not support electronic voting. Such a system is open to easy manipulation and knowing the propensity for dishonest behaviour in this country, one can only imagine the scale of manipulation that would result. I don't trust the ANC further than I can throw them, in anything, and especially not this!	Denise
	2020-11-04 10:34:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Yet another corruption scam to get as many as possible unregistered votes.	Frik
	2020-11-04 10:33:43	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Who watches SABC yet we still have to pay TV licenses. I dont understand why i have to pay for TV license when watching Netflix from a cell phone or tablet . There is nothing on SABC that interests me.	Andrew
	2020-11-04 10:32:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the above Reasons. Why are we changing the way of Voting? People without an ID Should not be allowed to Vote. IDs must also be Scrutinised to ensure Fake IDS of Deceased people cannot be used. Proof Of Residence should only be required for LOCAL elections , not national Elections. Are the ANC Cronies Scared that they will be voted out? or are they looking for new ways to Cheat at the Ballots.	Paul
	2020-11-04 10:32:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Need proof of residence to vote.	fred
	2020-11-04 10:21:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not agree that anybody can vote without proof of residence. You have to prove residence to even open a bank account or buy a phone, why not for something as important as voting. By not proving your residency coruption in the voting process will be rife!!! This will result in people voting in areas that does not concern them, just to swing the vote to bring specific corup and racist parties into control.	Zelna
	2020-11-04 10:21:14	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Open to vote rigging.	John
	2020-11-04 10:19:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other		nizam
	2020-11-04 10:19:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It's open to corruption	Jacobeth
	2020-11-04 10:15:19	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The anc wil use this to do vote rigging so that they can stay in power and do more coruption and harm in the country and to the people of the country	Hendrik
	2020-11-04 10:14:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	i already pay tv lisenca and pay for netflix we should not pay more they want to inrich temselfse with this money my view	Whitey
	2020-11-04 10:12:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It will open the door to "illegals" being able to vote. Voting should be linked to your RSA Tax registration.	Steve
	2020-11-04 10:04:37	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Much greater possibility for manipulation of votes	Renate
	2020-11-04 10:02:44	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Glenda
	2020-11-04 09:53:56	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Trying to sneak through a bill without proper notice to the public is highly irregular and makes one suspicious of government intent. Any bill which does not properly define its terminology cannot be considered a valid law - to allow " different methods of voting" is far too vague to be allowed to pass without contest and proper definition. The IEC is not beyond ANC party interference and corruption and cannot be given carte blanche with voting rules and regulations. This appears to be a clumsy attempt to fiddle with our constitution rather than an effort to properly update old legislation and every attack on the constitution must be rejected.	Martin
	2020-11-04 09:53:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Christo
	2020-11-04 09:49:36	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It's a money making scheme and it's obvious that when govt officials are involved in a pool of money then there is corruption.	Sanet
	2020-11-04 09:44:53	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We cannot afford to pay any more licences or amendments.	Peter
	2020-11-04 09:36:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We should remember that in the country there are very very rich individuals some of the legislation do not mean anything to them as compare to those that are managing with life , secondly majuritybofbthe people are paying tax in various ways. And lastly South Africa should not copy things that do not fit the country as an African nation.	Elias

	2020-11-04 09:35:49	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The apparent intent of the amendments is to make fraudulent voting easier. I oppose any and all measures to weaken checks on veracity of voter identification. I oppose the proposals to allow voters without proper addresses to be registered to vote, or to allow voters to easily cast their votes at polling stations at which they are not registered.	Derryck
	2020-11-04 09:35:12	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The days of the SABC are over. Technology has taken over. Rather let the SABC rent out its assets and contract its staff to privatized content producers. Radio stations and TV stations should privatize. The content makers should privatize, then quality content worth watching will more likely be available, than the utter shite on public TV and radio that nobody wants to watch or listen to anyways. It is cheaper to get online TV such as Netflix, Showmax etc, and you can choose what you want to watch and when! salvage what can be salvaged from a services point of view and start over with a new business model. Rise like a phoenix from the ashes and rebuild. It should not be the responsibility or burdon of companies that keep up with the technology available and be innovative, to collect funds for an organization that wastes, squanders, and employs non-qualified people or put people in charge who's sole purpose is to commit fraud to steal and pillage, further raping the crumbling SA Economy for more bail outs, to line their pockets. The same should apply to SAA, Eskom, Transnet and any other failing state owned or run entity.	Linda
	2020-11-04 09:19:03	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The IEC should not be the one deciding on changes to the voting system.	Estelle
	2020-11-04 09:16:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Prone to more corruption	Maria
	2020-11-04 09:14:14	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The IEC should NOT have the right to change the voting systems or procedures. Only Parliament.	Frederick
	2020-11-04 09:13:26	Gauteng		No I do not	other	More money for the corrupt and overstuffed SABC. Show me one SOE thats run without corruption, nepotism and good intentions and I will reconsider. ANC is corrupt to the core and will do not want to spend good money to serve this institution.	Zarina
	2020-11-04 09:12:19	Gauteng		No I do not	other	we are already over taxed. SABC is the worst run and most useless of all TV stations. the content is absolutely useless and most boring. what they create can be done for a fraction of the cost. the sabc nor the state needs to increase our costs any further. the find yfind our cows to milk for the crap they put on tv.	nassim
	2020-11-04 09:11:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I believe every citizen should be allowed to vote, but definately need to have an address and an ID document , without which they cannot vote. They have one vote, correlating to their details in their voting area, and this needs to be very carefully monitored to ensure no double votes and no illegal votes can take place. If people are not properly registered, then they lose their right to vote. We cannot allow falsified votes.	Deanne
	2020-11-04 09:08:30	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I am not working, as it is there s so much unemployed people in South Africa and the government is always looking for ways of making money from people, yet there's so much corruption instead of them dealing with creating jobs and coru	Lindiwe
	2020-11-04 09:06:51	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I selected other because I believe ALL the concerns are valid. I am fearful for my democratic process. I'm fearful for my rights as a South African citizen. How can a chapter 9 institution have the power to choose a voting method without due consultation processes and without the public having a say? How can they allow people to vote at just any station? How are they going to be able to prevent non-addressed citizens from the "one vote" policy of our constitution? These are all fears that most of the people I have spoken to have. It is the general opinion of this participant that it is a way that the ANC can legally fix elections as there are too many powers given to one body, and transparency is taken away.	Deryn
	2020-11-04 09:03:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It is not transparent. The advertisement was placed in an inconspicuous way while the whole country is focused on the effects of covid-19. How can this new voting system be trusted when it affects every single citizen in this country, yet hardly anybody knows about it.	Lois

	2020-11-04 09:01:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	As a computer programmer and systems developer I would trust an electronic voting method as much as I trust on line gambling programs. Any programmer worth his salt can manipulate computer code the activate certain results based upon data or inputs to suit a predetermined result. Rather keep the paper methods and provide employment rather that spending millions on another overpriced computer system of very doubtful effectiveness or validity.	les
	2020-11-04 08:59:43	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We don't trust the ruling party.	Mohamed
	2020-11-04 08:58:42	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Its not trustable and what is the hidden agenda.	James
	2020-11-04 08:44:03	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Unconstitutionality of the Bill Too much power and freedom afforded to the IEC to manipulate and influence votes and voters' freedom of choice Manipulation, fraud and corruption with electronic votes and electronic interference with votes	Hennie
	2020-11-04 08:32:58	Gauteng		No I do not	other	There is no mention of DIRECT REPRESENTATION which as per our constitution, should have been functioning by now. This proposed legislation looks like a bungled attempt to suggest that the process is in progress. At least the voting method. The voters in SA need to get the new voting system and Direct Representation up and running, it seems that the government are unable to do what they are legally obliged to do.	Ivan
	2020-11-04 08:28:46	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not support electronic voting as it is open to corruption and manipulation from all sides.	David
	2020-11-04 08:28:14	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the statements are of concern This is simply just more measure for the ANC to try to maintain and in other instances , take back control of the whole country	Jenn
	2020-11-04 08:25:45	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Magriet
	2020-11-04 08:24:13	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Alle belastings en fooie word net te duur. N pensionaris kan nie meer byhou met al die duur fooie nie Daar is soveel korrupsie dus beland die geld nie waar dit aangewend moet word nie.	Maria
	2020-11-04 08:24:11	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The perfect time for the ANC to do what they do best, rig the electoral vote in their favour so the.looting spree can continue unabated. I am dead against an electronic vote completely.	Arthur
	2020-11-04 08:22:48	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Want mense gaan meer as een keer voteen mense gaan namens oumense vote.	Hester
	2020-11-04 08:22:45	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Want mense gaan meer as een keer voteen mense gaan namens oumense vote.	Hester
	2020-11-04 08:15:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Bontle
	2020-11-04 08:12:55	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I feel that if an individual does not pay tax the individual should not be allowed to vote. The criminals in jail and those that have left the country should not be allowed to vote. The rest of the population are being squeezed to break point and life in South Africa is becoming burdensome. We give and give but there are no improvements to our lives. We give but get nothing in return ever! The corruption must stop.	Lynette
	2020-11-04 08:10:28	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Too much power to a chapter 9 institution. I do not trust the IEC, as it is a extension of government, NOT independant body.	Warren
	2020-11-04 08:10:11	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill seems to aim at putting rules in place which ultimately undermine all rules regarding democratic voting procedures. To say that anyone can vote at any voting station is to open a huge door to people voting multiple times. We do not have a reliable system to prevent people from voting more than once at one voting station - how on earth will this be prevented when people can go to any voting station? The thought of having a different voting system does have a positive side, however, this is South Africa and any change like this is most likely set up to benefit the ANC to allow them to manipulate the results as they see fit. Unless we have a reliable and trustworthy government in place, I would rather we stick to the devil we know.	Susan
	2020-11-04 08:09:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It is essential that people provide a fixed address and ID when voting. Otherwise it would be easy to cart voters to a specific voting area and 'load' voters in that area.	Jean

	2020-11-04 08:06:30	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Fraud is a concern - rigging outcome	Ronelle
	2020-11-04 08:03:36	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I totally oppose the clause that allows the IEC to make decisions on what type of Election will be held on their own (Clause/Section 14)	Barry
	2020-11-04 07:59:08	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do NOT trust ANYTHING that the anc thieves propose. All they've done during the last 26 years is lie to the people and steal our hard earned taxes.	Deon
	2020-11-04 07:56:35	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Het ons nie al geleer dat alles elektronies nie veilig is nie. Geen adresse nie regtig nou maak dit mos alles net makliker om meer as een keer te stem Groot asseblief stel tog net die land vir eens en vir altyd bo politiek en bring God en eerlikheid terug!!!	Theresa
	2020-11-04 07:54:24	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Suane
	2020-11-04 07:51:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Another bill being slipped in through the back door. NO, this bill must NOT go through. What is the difference between the current and a new, digital voting system? The current one works , it is simple, there are checks and balances, transparent counting, officials overseeing the process etc. And that's the problem. It works, the results are verifiable. A digital system offers legions of opportunities for corruption because it is less transparent and can be tampered with big time. Heaven help the country if this goes through. SA will never ever get rid of the ANC. The ANC wants this bill to pass because they will pull it out of their back pocket when their winning is in question. (If only they could be so forward thinking about the economy). A digital voting system puts THEM in charge of the system....and we know what they excel at...double speak, subterfuge, corruption. Literally, they will be able to manipulate results by pressing a few keys. NO NO NO NO NO!!!!	Belinda
	2020-11-04 07:48:25	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This is just another way of the corrupt ANC trying to stay in power. There is no way that this will be above board, they will abuse it to suit themselves, remain in power and economically destroy the country.	MANUEL
	2020-11-04 07:44:30	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Besides the obvious pitfalls entrenched in anything electronic, the suggestion that voters do not necessarily need to provide addresses is ridiculous. This makes multiple voting as easy as apple pie. Please for once put this country above your petty politics.	Vivienne
	2020-11-04 07:38:16	Gauteng		No I do not	other	People allowed to vote in an area they are not registered in? Fraud.....fraud..... Fraud.	Lois

	2020-11-04 07:31:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I already pay for all the services I use. This is just another way of bolstering the govt coffers. No!!	Niki
	2020-11-04 07:28:08	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We can't be billed for everything in this country. It's too much	Rose
	2020-11-04 07:21:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Completely absurd	Cindy
	2020-11-04 07:18:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It is always the working citizen that suffers, while the country is being looted by the selfish MP's especially the ANC. They make a dump and we must clean up after them while affordability for us becomes impossible. These old women and men are filling their pockets with the countries money. We are told that public servants will not get increases for three year while taxes and TV licenses are forced on us so they can more to loot instead of fixing the mess they made.	Zandile
	2020-11-04 07:17:48	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Corruption is the order of the day	Brenda
	2020-11-04 07:16:10	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We should be voting for a PERSON to represent us not a Political Party. We should be able to only vote in our region of residence.	Peter
	2020-11-04 07:13:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We already know that the ANC is both corrupt and Communistic. This bill will allow them to be able to cheat in a election, seeming to give them the power to turn the country communistic. There needs to be more checks and balances on the government and it's power..	Markus

	2020-11-04 07:09:31	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Electronic systems can be manipulated by government and by outsiders. It is obvious that the ANC acknowledges the fact of non-performance on their part. The situation in SA is solely because of maladministration and corruption by the ANC. Furthermore, funding such a system is not possible when SA enjoys junk status. This is a communist government imposing a communist system. While the USA has problems with such a system, there is no indication or guarantees that SA will be able to better such a system as professional s are leaving the country on a daily basis. Such a system will open the door further to corruption - something this country is well known for.	Dries
	2020-11-04 07:07:48	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This will be implemented by the ANC and over see by the ANC. For the last 25 years the ANC showed the people that they can not be trusted with nothing. They destroyed our Airline, Municipalities, Railway, Transport, ext. SO HELL NO FOR ME AND MY FAMILY. The only way any election in this country will work if we vote with 3rd party country like USA controlling the stations and transporting the votes and count the votes. ONLY THEN WILL THERE BE A FAIR ELECTION	Hendrika
	2020-11-04 06:56:20	Gauteng		No I do not	other		gary wade

	2020-11-04 06:49:46	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Open to more corruption.	Abraham
	2020-11-04 06:46:50	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Why must we pay a licence fee if I already pay multichoice for services rendered. The sabc is bankrupt with corruption now we the paying multichoice customers must pay to support their lavish lifestyle. they must start selling their assets and get rid of the top earners. you only need one boss to run the show,not 20.	Anton
	2020-11-04 06:43:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Carlo
	2020-11-04 06:42:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Online voting can be hacked and changed in favor of a party and change the hole prosses	Willie

	2020-11-04 06:28:20	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of this is another step for corruption and manipulations	Gregory
	2020-11-04 06:27:55	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This opens a corrupt way of steering elections in the favour of the government. No minority party will ever be in a position to challenge the result	Jan

	2020-11-04 05:29:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	lec is corrupt and voting will most likely be rigged	Hayley
	2020-11-04 05:28:39	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I am not clear what the new amendments are and why	Themabela
	2020-11-04 03:43:32	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Amending this bill will just enable corrupt political parties to create/generate fictitious votes and the outcome of any election going forward will then never be a true reflection of the actual voter's opinion and choices. It would just open up more ways to corrupt the outcome of all future elections	Gabriel
	2020-11-04 02:47:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	They are creating rules to make it easier to manipulate outcme of resultd	Isabella
	2020-11-04 02:20:43	Gauteng		No I do not	other	SA BC has a history of poor service. We continuously have repeats of programs and in 2years time the whole repeat cycle starts all over again. This new proposed legislation is all about greed and wanting to make more money. They are incompetent and unable to make money the legal way. Now they are trying to make money without doing a thing to earn it. Definatly NO!	Peter

	2020-11-03 21:36:58	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It is unconstitutional to change the voting standards from analogue to digital, and will impede upon the rights of all South African citizens who wants to vote. Previously there were no substantial reason to change this method and should in perpetuity be done on paper. Logical reasoning will find that electronic voting can, and may be harmful to uphold the constitution, and prevent domestic, and foreign interference from a liberal, ethical, and just election. Voting is a right to all, however, those who are not South African citizens may be given voting rights as non South Africans, if residency are not provided. Furthermore, if voters do not have to provide residency, then advantage, by politicians, can be taken of the people who are living in impoverish areas, vulnerable, and susceptible to be misled. Political parties who wants to govern, need to fulfill the list of requirements, to uphold the constitution, the civil rights of South African citizens, and the public interest. If the standards of political parties are lowered to register, then the quality, rights, and accountability of political parties will also lower. A reduction in political parties ought to be considered, not a change in political requirements.	Wernard
	2020-11-03 21:10:11	Gauteng		No I do not	other	There will be no control of whom where or what and opens up more places for corruption. Always have baked ideas with no direction on what can go wrong and how to ensure free and fair elections. How about using more digital voting for instance, is that not a better step into progress? But no change the rules backwards for less specific visibility..... Typical current government.	jan

	2020-11-03 20:58:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This is just another way to make sure the party at hand wins all seats ,it opens up a whole new way to commit fraud and override any opposition. These people must think we're idiots .	Marius
	2020-11-03 20:58:12	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The rules are working just fine. Let's let them work just the way they are. No changes needed.	Shawn
	2020-11-03 20:22:08	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Open to fraud & totally controlled by Govt. the only reason the ANC government would suggest a change like this is to benefit their own party!	Eileen
	2020-11-03 20:11:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Voter registration at certain polls serves to ensure that voting is controlled and structured in a way that minimises the possibility of voters fraudulently voting more than once. With the Government's track record of failure and corruption it is hardly the body that should be trusted with brining about a new (honest) voting system. The voting system as it is has stood up to (I am sure) numerous attempts to manipulate it. With the current pressure that is on the Government it is very unlikely that the outcome will be in favour the citizens of our country. If the morals are so low that men COVID 19 aid money is stolen by the billions - how can on expect any form of honest change?	Karel

	2020-11-03 20:09:52	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The anc is NEVER to be trusted, they will manipulate the iec, through their cadres, to choose a method that suits their sinister agenda	Marius
	2020-11-03 19:59:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	the country went through a almost bloodshed to enable adults to vote and now the top brass want to ensure that they can manipulate the voters to maintain their position and all the benefits without being accountable to neither the voters or anyone else! Please stop trying to play God and make each and every voter's life a better one. If you cannot stand the heat get away from the fire!	Lucy

	2020-11-03 19:49:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The rules and regulations for voting must stay as it is. It is simple. If you are not registered in the area where you live you do not vote or you go and vote where you are registered. The IEC must execute proper control over all the irregularities we heard of in the past after every election. Harsh punishment should be instituted against officials who render service at polling stations who do not stick to the rules. Stop messing everything up and stop manipulating the system untill you get what you want. If you are claiming that elections are free and fair, then keep it free and fair.	Marius

	2020-11-03 17:57:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Clause 14 of the proposed Amendments cannot be allowed to stand because it is a blatant attempt to subvert the transparency of voting processes in SA. Given the country's rampant corruption in virtually all spheres of public service, it does not take a huge leap of the imagination to predict with considerable confidence how this clause will facilitate vote rigging and electoral fraud. Being staffed to the gills with ANC cadres, the IEC's independence is already questionable, and the proposed Amendments will further undermine the IEC's credibility.	Patrick
	2020-11-03 17:46:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I don't agree with most of the intended amendments	Maureen
	2020-11-03 17:39:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	You can't trust the government not to manipulate the voting process manual or electronic. The IEC is not independent. The irregularities in the last elections is a testament to that. The bill needs to stay the same, the ANC government is only changing it because they feel threatened.	Mike
	2020-11-03 17:36:50	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It has nothing to do with SABC what other platforms we use for entertainment... Not our fault there is nothing interesting to watch on SABC.	Lita

	2020-11-03 17:24:08	Gauteng		No I do not	other	There are three main concerns. 1. The constitutionality of the idea given the lack of clarity. 2. The electronic method of voting is wide open to abuse, especially by the party in power, 3. Allowing people without a proven address will almost certainly lead to "voters" being bussed in to areas where the ruling party is weak.	Ray
	2020-11-03 17:15:11	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Whatever we vote will just be ignored and they will go ahead and introduce the policy. I own a smart phone and at my age I don't know how all the gadgets operate. So now I have to pay for something I won't be using. I think its unfair	Jamed

	2020-11-03 17:13:43	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Every SAfrican has the right to vote for a representative they can relate to, hear speak and who knows their area. We need to be able to contact them with problems. Having someone to represent us that does not live in our area is totally unacceptable. It should not be in anyone else's power to change things through the back door at all. Perhaps our current government should learn from a country such as N Z that regularly has referendums on proposed changes before implementing them! That is true democracy. Civil servants should be answerable to the voters and NOT the ruling party. Opening extra doors to corruption should never be allowed under any circumstances.	Anita

	2020-11-03 16:55:47	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not trust that the government wants to implement this for the good of the country. The true motive behind this is probably personal gain and/or to retain power.	Viv

	2020-11-03 15:49:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The selection of the method of voting should NOT be left open to manipulation, bypassing laws that currently protect this process. Get rid of clause 14.	Ravi
	2020-11-03 15:44:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	the cANCer government is so corrupt, that they will use this to lie about the votes, especially voters with no addresses - who knows if they will exist? secondly, false voters can be used for other fraudulent purpose no transparency, fraud and corruption as well theft is rife in the cANCer government. they will find a way to use for undemocratic purposes so a thousand times NO	jacquelen e

	2020-11-03 15:41:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The draft electoral laws bill is just another way for the corrupt ruling party to further exercise their dishonesty to remain in power and should be resisted at anty cost. 	2020-11-03 15:34:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I am not in favour of electronic voting as I believe it is open to misinterpretation and voter fraud. As an example there have been instances where foreign government agents have attempted to influence the voting outcomes.	Arnold
	2020-11-03 15:19:29	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This is the most stupid Bill the ANC have come up with that they want to push through. I mean honestly what are they going to come up with next, tax us on the air we breath. They have squandered our hard earned money to enrich themselves at the cost of they country, and now they will do anything to grab more of our money at any cost so that they may carry on living the life with they have become accustomed to.	Lorenza

	2020-11-03 15:09:28	Gauteng		No I do not	other	ANC Corruption is the country's BIG problem. Until this is solved there is NO way to trust anything they do. First prove you can run the country, then show that corruption is sorted then we will start to TRUST... Right now there is NO WAY I will trust this ANC bunch of thieves. This is just a way to manipulate the results because they are loosing face FAST.	Lynton
	2020-11-03 15:06:56	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill allows the ANC to use ant way to vote. there will not be a proper system to test for validity of the votes. Item 14 ?? this will allow the ANC to adversely affect the votes and there is no way of validity of the real votes cast. I am COMPLETELY against this bill.	George
	2020-11-03 15:00:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	There are too many uncertainties and unanswered question when it comes to the amendment.	Anna
	2020-11-03 14:52:16	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill should not be enacted in any way. Its undemocratic.	Jannie
	2020-11-03 14:49:36	Gauteng		No I do not	other	No adequate reasons for changes to the current Electoral Act have been provided and large scale public participation regarding theses amendments has not been promoted or allowed. These changes affect the lives of every South African and there should be a referendum on any such changes to avoid any attempt by the government to rig the outcome of elections. Pushing this through with subterfuge is simply unconstitutional	Norma
	2020-11-03 14:38:48	Gauteng		No I do not	other	the ANC has turned this country into a hellhole for ALL its citizens now they want to become atypical despot African country ruining everything and sundry - have they not done enough damage and disgraced themselves as the ruling party. SOUTH AFRICA DESERVES BETTER and the ANC is not the answer/solution to taking this country forward & must never be in a position to rule indefinitely.	Humeira
	2020-11-03 14:34:44	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This will open the way for more corruption and gives IEC too much authority	Daphne
	2020-11-03 14:30:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I am not in favour in of changing the electoral amendement bill. The government will do anything in their powe to win an election. Hence the proposed change of voting. This will lead to more corruption and crookery by the ANC.	Sonja
	2020-11-03 14:19:45	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Dont trust the government in anything they do.	Zuhayr

	2020-11-03 14:11:52	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The ANC government has a long history of corruption and meddling in the affairs of chapter 9 institutions. The state is now running out of money and the citizenry are running out of patience. The risk to the ANC that they lose their majority is becoming very real. The risk that the ANC looks to load the IEC with cadres is very probable, and the likelihood that the proposed changes to the electoral act are used to benefit the ANC come election time is equally highly probable. The voting system should as far as is possible be insulated from political interference. These new regulations could be used to decide how people can vote influencing how results are determined smacks of a ploy to rig the elections or certainly have that option should things look like they are not going the ANC's way. These proposals may well be unconstitutional, if not in the letter, certainly in the spirit.	Paulette

	2020-11-03 13:28:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	My concern is the whole amended bill proposal. Firstly why hide away that there are proposed changes to the bill and hope nobody will read the small advertisement? How can you let people vote without a physical address on the roll or staying in area where they are voting? It was proven how many times in past elections that 'living people', who have passed away or too young to vote, have voted. Or people vote at more than one voting station. If you look at our government technology departments - they were hacked in conference meetings during Lockdown on Zoom - how will they ensure that electronically it will be safe to vote? How many First World Countries - England USA European Countries - uses electronic voting? NONE! Only Brazil and India. How will elections be fair, transparent and safe electronically ? I can only imagine all the corruption involved, from designing, installing, purchasing of devices, gathering of data and the list carries on. How will they introduce electronic voting to rural areas without electricity eg Eastern Cape? if you cannot ensure fair and safe elections at the moment how will the new bill help the ordinary people on the street? This will only enrich the ruling party of the time . is our current government scared that they will lose the next election and are trying different means to ensure a win?	Cornia
	2020-11-03 13:27:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	1. it will give more power to people who should not have power in the first place. 2. this will allow more room for 'mistakes' which they will just then blame on the system instead of accepting accountability.	Nico
	2020-11-03 13:22:22	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Yet again the ANC/IEC together are now planning to bring in foreigners to vote, for people to vote without addresses means the whole of Africa may vote and obviously for ANC. They realise they have lost voters through corruption and thier reputation is at stake, hence amending the election bill to allow people with questionable identities. We are not foolish, and SAs need to fight aggressively against this wicked evil ANC/IEC.	Dini
	2020-11-03 13:21:29	Gauteng		No I do not	other	In South Africa, where the government is openly hostile to checks on its power, this is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections.	Peet

	2020-11-03 12:42:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Our government is one of the most corrupt in the world. I would not trust any type of electronic vote. They can't even run a postal system never mind an electronic system. We will get the whole of Africa voting. A definite NO from me.	Gail
	2020-11-03 12:36:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill will greatly threaten the ability of IEC to offer free and fair elections. The election should run in a manner so as to ensure that the results are auditable by anyone regardless of technical knowhow or ability. Parliament must ensure that the current voting methods are kept in place as they are tried and tested.	Ndivhuwo
	2020-11-03 12:34:18	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All reasons are valid. The biggest concern is lack of clarity of detail and therefor a huge risk of vote manipulation.	Martin Bruno
	2020-11-03 12:34:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We as south Africans should be able to choose our representatives and our President. Party deployment does not serve any one.	Gerrit
	2020-11-03 12:33:58	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The people of south africa are still poorer thou they are voting for this government, corruption nd racism are the major concerns that are killing this country, two wrongs don't make a right, the previous regime nd the present regime are still the same, let's work together to win for the coming generation, thanks	William

	2020-11-03 12:02:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Another case of the Government trying to have money to line their pockets with corruption.	Glen
	2020-11-03 12:01:39	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Allowing people to vote without a recorded address will open the system to abuse and corruption by government officials. Our ANC government has such a bad record iro corruption and abuse of systems, that every possible check and balance must be in place. Electronic voting is subject to manipulation and paper trails of votes are much more safe.	Elsebe
	2020-11-03 11:55:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not trust the current Government at all.	Eddy
	2020-11-03 11:49:49	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Firstly, the entire thing is far too vague. It leaves the door open for our already corrupt govt to descend even further into voter fraud. The only thing I would support is the removal of the "lists" and having local ward representation. I also support postal voting, although with our postal system this would in all probability end up another massive disaster. To remove a persons right to vote simply because of their geographical location at the time is ridiculous	Colleen
	2020-11-03 11:36:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	At the current level and scale of ongoing corruption and outright looting demonstrated by our present government all the alarm bells and warning lights are flashing with this proposal. They have comprehensively demonstrated repeatedly with their level of ethics they cannot be trusted. Electronic voting is a NO NO..... Crooks could be in power forever.....	Ernest
	2020-11-03 11:32:19	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This government is not trust worthy. The change will only be good for them -ANC- and not for the people.	Elke
	2020-11-03 11:30:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Too open for manipulation. Everything is a mess in SA. Look at all the corruption with the UIF funds, the Covid funds etc., VBS bank etc etc. I don't think it is constitutional.	Hermien
	2020-11-03 11:24:08	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The proposed amendments appear as a blank cheque and it is open to rigging and corruption.	Mervin

	2020-11-03 11:21:44	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I think that they should leave the Bill as it is. Particularly Point 14! The IEC is just another branch of the ANC to look at the makeup of their members! To go electronic is just another opening for corruption and manipulation.	Andrew
	2020-11-03 11:19:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Government do not have the capacity to implement a electronic voting system !	AME
	2020-11-03 11:17:42	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I work in cyber security and I don't trust that tshego erbment has the best interest of the people of south Africaat heart, history proves that electronic voting is so easily manipulated and hacked .	Kevin

	2020-11-03 11:03:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of it. Unconstitutional, enables and even encourages unfair voting and rigged votes, gives government powers to ignore rights. There is no need or demand for any of these changes	Clive
	2020-11-03 11:03:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	How can you even think that someone who is not a resident of an area can have a say in how the area is run. This opens a new door to corruption and abuse of power. This appears to be the desperate actions of a dying government and an attempt by the IEC to cover up their incompetence and cannot be allowed to continue.	Mike
	2020-11-03 11:00:31	Gauteng		No I do not	other	With such changes corruption is a great concern!!!!	Mildred
	2020-11-03 10:54:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	A further way for corruption by the government. The current method should stay. One person; one ID; one vote.	Willem

	2020-11-03 10:19:34	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Just another power play by the ANC to ruin the country and change the law to steal more.	Donovan
	2020-11-03 10:18:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	In order to combat electoral fraud, addresses of voters are essential.	Diana
	2020-11-03 10:17:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I am concerned that this method with be influenced by the ANC. This is not a transparent method of voting.	Helen
	2020-11-03 10:13:39	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Transparency: Lack of transparency. Auditing: Electronic auditing is good, but can be manipulated or poorly implemented. Cost: The financial cost to the taxpayer is going to be significant. Tender process: Tender process will not necessarily use the correct supplier, and resulting outcome could be poor quality and put the legitimacy of the vote into question.	Jacques

	2020-11-03 10:13:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Just another opportunity for corruption and destruction and stealing. So many other things that desperately needs their attention but they keep creating more stuff that incompetents can mess up	Lynne

	2020-11-03 09:46:10	Gauteng		No I do not	other	No, I do not agree with voting in provinces where a voter is not registered!	Donald
	2020-11-03 09:45:52	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The government cannot be trusted, period. People should not be allowed to vote in a different area where they are registered. This is an attempt by the government to have their hand in the results of provinces and municipalities by flooding them with voters that live in rural areas and townships. This is why to have an electronic voting system is a very bad idea. Also, to have an electronic voting system will allow the government to change the outcome of any election, whether it be national, local or municipal. The government will try everything to stay in power. Their cronies are working at the IEC and I suggest that we as South Africans vote for the people working at the IEC. Maybe there are honest personnel at the IEC and my opinion of them being ANC cronies may be harsh.	Sonja

	2020-11-03 09:42:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This will just open up avenues for even more vote rigging and corruption by the ANC. We will never have free and fair elections while the ANC is in power. Why? they simply cannot be trusted to do anything in the interests of South Africa, only the interests of the ANC.	Jeff
	2020-11-03 09:40:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The already corrupt methods of voting will be exploited more by the corrupt ANC and anybody living in our country will be allowed to vote remotely without any prove of citizenship	At
	2020-11-03 09:36:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	this is clearly a way to win back non ANC areas. you have to register where you live!	Stephen
	2020-11-03 09:33:50	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It will provide the ANC with more avenues to further enhance their corrupt empire.	David
	2020-11-03 09:33:29	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I do not believe that the system will not be a complete failure. The government has never procured an IT system that actually works as advertised. This will be a failure at the tax payers expense. Also the electronic system is way more open to election corruption and we are already dealing with the sheer magnitude of our states corrupt tendencies.	Norman
	2020-11-03 09:29:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	People should not be allowed to vote in areas where they do not reside or work. This is no more than a blatant attempt by the government to suppress the results in local areas by flooding them with semi illiterate voters from rural areas and townships. Electronic voting is easily manipulated and the government cannot be trusted to not do this. Their desperate attempts to stay in power are obvious for all to see except those who have been brain washed.	Stephen
	2020-11-03 09:27:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the above. Every one of the reasons is open to corruption and manipulation of the results. Why are direct elections not part of this amendment?	Michele
	2020-11-03 09:26:14	Gauteng		No I do not	other	That we will lose our democratic right to vote as fairly as possibly in South Africa through corruption of instating such bill.	Bianca
	2020-11-03 09:25:20	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Leaves a bigger gap for corruption in a already corrupt state. I personally will not take part in a this proposed voting method.	Dawid
	2020-11-03 09:25:02	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I DO NOT support any of the proposed amendments. Government is already rotten and fraught with fraud and corruption. It is very easy for hackers to alter the results to suit the reigning government. The contentious issues that flowed from the presidential election in America is proof thereof. Furthermore, I believe that these amendments will infringe on my right to privacy and my personal details will not be protected against unscrupulous hackers and could endanger lives as reported in recent news stories. It is also my belief that you should only be allowed to vote where you reside as the environment, culture and circumstances has the biggest impact on those who reside in a specific area and should therefore be influenced by only the people living in a specific area. What the act should change is the right of prisoners to vote. All prisoners have denied and shown a lack of care for the victims of their crimes. They should therefore not be afforded the right to vote as long as they remain in prison. Voting should be fair and free from manipulation. I believe that these amendments will hamper the efforts to ensure voting is free from manipulation. I agree with the press release by the IRR – SA must urgently oppose a seemingly innocuous Bill that could threaten free and fair elections where they state that: “Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation”. And “People must also be given a proper opportunity to understand the dangers and make informed submissions to the government on whether this is what they want. Instead, the Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. The Bill thus poses a great risk to democracy in South Africa.”	Elzabe

	2020-11-03 09:25:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Voters need to have a fixed address, voters need to vote in the areas where the voter resides. Too easy to abuse by an untrustworthy government at all levels. I don't trust the IEC nor the government to do a good job free of intimidation and corruption, I am concerned that they do not visit the elderly & disabled for their votes. It is unconstitutional to hand the IEC unlimited power to decide on the voting method by themselves. It is also unacceptable from government to try to slip this bill through with limited public participation and such little time for comments.	Jennifer

	2020-11-03 09:05:58	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This Electoral Laws Amendment Bill opens up a whole new avenue for FRAUD. 	2020-11-03 09:05:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Its too vague - different methods can be anything and if it is electronic we as SA, don't have the skills or the trusted people that will make this safe or workable unfortunately. 	2020-11-03 09:01:46	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill is too vague and not specific enough. It also intends on introducing amendments, that can be seen by many, which the ANC intend on using to assist themselves in creating fraud. The cracks are starting to show and this is just another attempt to ensure that they stay in power - through fraudulent means. Also assists those who don't want to declare their addresses (for narfarious purposes) in voting.	Chad
	2020-11-03 09:01:23	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Rigging and corruption	YVONNE
	2020-11-03 09:01:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the above. Agree with Prof FPR's statement. Constitution, no full explanation, the fact that the statement was not publicised fully is ominous. Basd on the past and current record of the fraud and corruption in South Africa, Electronic Voting is not in the interests of the peoples in this country.	Juliet

	2020-11-03 08:56:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Major concern is the power granted to the IEC to unilaterally alter the voting procedure. It shifts their function from delivering according to a given methodology to effectively determining same. They are not elected, nor are they subject to appropriate review.	Leon

	2020-11-03 08:53:34	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Because the ANC is corrupt and most people working at IEC is ANC so no changes must be made... fire the lot of the ANC working there please	Paul
	2020-11-03 08:51:07	Gauteng		No I do not	other	More money for a crumbling service that is not being provided. I don't watch state provided tv and pay for the private services that I do watch therefore why should I also have thE pay the state.	Eden
	2020-11-03 08:50:45	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Stick to paper ballots. Electronic voting nachines can and have been rigged. Also no one should be allowed to vote without a tegisyeted address.	Grant
	2020-11-03 08:50:16	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Open top corruption by our already corrupt elite politicians	Ramesh
	2020-11-03 08:47:10	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We cannot allow any person to cast a vote without proof of residential address. Or registered with a legal traceable address. Not a single bank or service provider will allow you to do any business with them without proof of address. If you are a resident of South Africa your ID must be linked to an address. I can go on and on with likewise examples. South African citizens need to be educated as to what is required legally from them and not be allowed to take steps backwards, but to become responsible citizens instead. Hence my stance - you have to have an address, because you stay somewhere! The local authorities must also take responsibility and ensure that plot number, house numbers, area code, street names or any form of residence identification is allocated specifically in informal settlements. This will only open another can of worms that the Government will not be able to handle or contain.	Koos
	2020-11-03 08:40:46	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This will enable fraud, robbery & corruption! I am against anything that the government wants to change with regard to the law!!	Em

	2020-11-03 08:34:15	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the above are concerns to me, keep it fair and give each citizen their free right to vote, with all the corruption going on this can become even worse. Do not change the constitution.	Annelore
	2020-11-03 08:32:59	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Johan

	2020-11-03 08:32:08	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The way that this AMENDMENT was published just goes to show how corrupt the government is. This is just another attempt by the government to make sure that they can hold on to power at all costs. It will be a means for them to do away with the freedom charter. The government has clearly not taken into account that there is a large portion of our population that is incapable of understanding modern technology. No mention of the checks and balances. The government forces huge portions of our population to stand in long queues to get their government grants but they want to waste money in trying to roll out an electronic voting system. (who in the ANC is going to rake in the money by doing this).	Derek
	2020-11-03 08:29:50	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I say no to all, why change what is not broken. They are opening the door for duplicate votes, and will allow people who should not vote to vote.	Bennie

	2020-11-03 08:26:21	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Can the anc be trusted ... can the IEC be trusted. There always seems to be an ulterior motive when the anc / eff are involved .. and the IEC is not as independent as claimed. The anc's grasp on power is slipping, and they will do anything to stay in power and keep their hands on the wealth of the country for there own personal benefits.	Americo
	2020-11-03 08:26:03	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the above concerns, keep it fair and give each citizen their free right to vote, with all the corruption going on this can become even worse	Louise
	2020-11-03 08:25:09	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This is a new form of corruption on the side of the government. People are not allowed to vote on anything with out begin a legal citizen of South Africa with out the correct documents AS LEGAL CITIZENS especially on things that do not concern them. By allowing them to vote on things that are ours you are allowing them to be counted 6 times as it is our system already allows for people fulling up everything with their choice of how must take over this government. By changing our constitution that was agreed and signed for by Nelson Mandela and everybody concerned, you now want this country to be a free country to the people (ALIENS) that are already corrupt and sucking us and our country dry, As to streaming the people that want to stream are already paying for it NETFLICK and BOX OFFICE. Sorry as far as that goes I think all you want is more money to line your pockets, and this money belong to the people that gives the people of South Africa the opportunity to look at things they want and not the rubbish that is on SABC 1,2,3, so leave us to decide what we want and not your corrupt ways. SUCK IT UP AND WAKE UP TO YOUR RUBBISH. GO TO THE PLACES THAT HAVE DISHES AND TV' and get them to pay, but no you are to frightened to do anything to retain the money to pay for over staffing and rubbish. I f ETV can give us TV for free why must everybody have to pay when you can do the same with adverts that pay for everything.	Eraine
	2020-11-03 08:20:40	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I pay my TV licence every year for watching TV on a TV. I dont use my phone so why should I pay for something I dont do	Ferol
	2020-11-03 08:18:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other		Dale
	2020-11-03 08:15:46	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Just a way to open the system for more rigging. No addresses? Now all Zimbabweans, Mozambicans (lets include AFRICA) to come and help the ANC to stay in power. I've got a better idea. Instead of voting with an ID, only SA citizens with a legal Income tax number should be allowed to vote!	Johan
	2020-11-03 08:15:31	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All of the concerns previously mentioned especially concerns over fraud and misuse.	Christine
	2020-11-03 08:14:40	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Why must we pay licences as we already pay tv licence and this is just a money making scheme	caroline

	2020-11-03 08:09:17	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill has not been given enough time to follow due process with the peoples will. It also allows for fraud to find its way into our elections easier. There needs to be more transparency.	Willem

	2020-11-03 08:08:35	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The current government can not be trusted	Adri
	2020-11-03 08:05:13	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The present government can not be trusted.	Patricia
	2020-11-03 08:03:31	Gauteng		No I do not	other	No. There is already corruption during each election. To give such power to the IEC is a sign of more corruption. Also, if they decide to switch to electronic voting, the risks of hacking and fiddling with votes are immense. They can also decide on a verbal vote. This is not democratic. This is not to ensure a free electoral process. This is to ensure that they will stay in power. It is also suspicious that they give such a short time for the public to respond to the amendment. No. No. No to all amendments.	Ilse
	2020-11-03 08:02:35	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I reject with contempt that this bill gives the power to amend the Electoral laws. Firstly the Clause 14 gives the IEC or Election Authority to make changes to how we as citizens may vote. It is ridiculous to the extreme. It must be rejected. Secondly electronic voting is too easily manipulated and corruptible and provides no track and tracing or the track and tracing can be hidden from scrutiny. It must be rejected Observation by all parties including Independence verification by other parties is paramount to a free and fair vote. Therefore the a paper trail and can be observed at every stage and increases the limitation on manipulation by fraud.	John
	2020-11-03 08:00:14	Gauteng		No I do not	other	ALL of these major changes should be put through much bigger public participation. We did not choose this cANCer and we do not agree to their corrupt practices. #Referendum2020 is what we need more than anything right now..	Belinda
	2020-11-03 08:00:09	Gauteng		No I do not	other	With a party laced with corruption and fraud who's members have a proven lack of morals and integrity the voting process would simply be a sham!!! The anc is known to bus in supporters where needed anyway, this legislation would just make it easier	Kobus
	2020-11-03 07:57:12	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Ridiculous, SABC is redundant and Government trying to save another struggling parastatal. When will Government learn, like any good business to cut your losses when something is not working. This bill will be like the e-toll one, completely useless	Lindy
	2020-11-03 07:56:16	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Transparency will be compromised which can lead to manipulation of votes.....you need to apply your mind properly..its not a game.....	Romano
	2020-11-03 07:55:33	Gauteng		No I do not	other	I smell a rat. It can be manipulated	Fareed
	2020-11-03 07:54:44	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Piece-meal reforms will not matter if the voting system is structurally flawed. I think the whole electoral system needs an overhaul. Consideration should be given to a mixture of direct representative elections for regions as well as proportional representations. This in effect will make my vote count more as I can personally hold a representative to account. If s/he misbehaves, is guilty of an offence etc, I will not vote for him/her. Proportional representation will also make my vote count as the Party I vote for will be represented in Parliament.	Lionel
	2020-11-03 07:52:35	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Too much power is being handed to state regarding democratic voting. What's to stop the electronic votes from being manipulated as well as the lack of transparency when it comes to electronic voting. I do not agree at all with the bill. It should be removed entirely.	Christopher

	2020-11-03 07:46:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It will be open to political corruption	Enrico

	2020-11-03 07:44:38	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This will give far too much power into the hands of the IEC and compromise the legitimacy of our elections. Fully against!	Gerhard
	2020-11-03 07:40:57	Gauteng		No I do not	other	When government want no access to the voters roll by the public it spells disaster because of corruption on all levels. The fact that the IEC wants this is even more alarming, since they are supposed to be independent . Another way of manipulating results? Why vote in a area where you don't live? Manipulating of results..No other reason. Why different rules for people with no addresses? There are other more permanent solutions to this problem. According to law no person can have a cell phone without being RICA, which means that there must be a address for every South African with a cell phone unless government have double standards where certain people are concerned. Government had 5-10 years to sort out the mean bulk of addresses , why wasn't it done? This is an easy way out of their inability to perform a simple task set by themselves. Once again, the IEC knows that this will be used to manipulate votes and they are openly supporting the ANC and not the people of SA as a whole	Frans
	2020-11-03 07:39:03	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The present Electoral Commision can not be trusted as an independand monitoring organisation. Only if a foreing recognised monitoring organisation is wholly in control could it be considred.	Pierre

	2020-11-03 07:30:00	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The section 14, is too vague and exposes the preceding sections, to misuse, misinterpretation and nefarious application. 	2020-11-03 07:29:52	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Unfair elections, tampering with votes	Marlyn
	2020-11-03 07:28:03	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Could you please advise the reason to do this? I really dislike these "Fact-Finding Missions" where the hob-nobs of Government go overseas and then come back and try to implement first-world technology in a 5th world environment. We have a vast majority of our population who have little, if no proper education. Rather spend this money educating our people than enforcing an electronic system through the near-useless IEC (a division of the ANC) Making an X on a piece of paper works perfectly why fix what works ?	Bruce
	2020-11-03 07:24:36	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The whole draft is a poor attempt by an unlawful and corrupt group of people trying to hold on to power so that they can continue to plunge the country and its people into an even more uncertain future.	Dario
	2020-11-03 07:24:34	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The draft bill has wording that is vague and it is of concern that the interpretation of it may lead to abuse of government power. The exact changes to the bill needs to be fully outlined. The proposed new election method must have internationally accepted transparency.	Selena
	2020-11-03 07:24:16	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Yes right. An already corrupt government has found a new way to increase the number of fictional votes so that they can stay in power The ANC will never stop being corrupt, even finding ways to steal whilst we are in lockdown NO WAYS	Brian
	2020-11-03 07:21:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Allowing persons with no address to vote opens the door to:- 1) aliens voting with false or stolen documents, and 2) persons from outside the area, voting to unbalance demographics to the benefit of any party.	James

	2020-11-03 07:17:27	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This government has proven over and over and over again how they are so corrupt and dishonest. We cannot rely on anything they do or say. 	2020-11-03 06:54:01	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This country is not sufficiently technically advanced to implement such a system. Uneducated voters are very likely to be unduly influenced or even scammed by those assisting them to vote. The introduction of such a system could lead to voter fraud.	Norman
	2020-11-03 06:51:52	Gauteng		No I do not	other	We cannot afford vote rigging, blatant disregard for the right to vote. This government has shown time and time again that they are not working for the citizens of the country.	Leigh

	2020-11-03 05:35:45	Gauteng		No I do not	other	There are too many proposed changes that are opening up circumstances for fraud, corruption and dishonesty. Voting in areas where you are not registered- I can already see the people being bussed in to vote in areas where the ANC is set to lose control. Electronic voting - in SA that only means one thing = government will get someone to hack the system so they can decide what/whom you voted for. Voting without an address - why? How can you not have an address and still vote? More people bussed in to areas they have no right to vote jn!!! Constitutionality - this is another change to laws being slipped in under the radar where the people of the country won't get time or opportunity to have their say. Vague wording that is open to interpretation is also rife!!! This reeks of a party seeing the signs that they are losing the popular vote and are now trying to cover all bases where they can manipulate votes to ensure they stay in power.	Ronel

	2020-11-03 00:49:51	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The details of proposed 'different ways' of voting, addition of 'certain definitions' and other changes are not specified. The public don't know what they're agreeing to.. far too much of a risk to agree to any proposed changes.. Also allowing people to vote electronically from outside their constituency increases the risk of voter fraud and more corruption. I say NO to interference with the IEC and NO to proposed changes. Our Govt can the trusted.	Jen

	2020-11-02 23:15:32	Gauteng		No I do not	other	It seems that the way the changes to the bill are being put together is with the purpose of allowing more manipulability to the election process. Electronic voting leaves a vulnerable gap for manipulation by a more "specialised" way of counting votes and checking authenticity of votes. Whereas almost any person can count physical ballots and multiple recounts can provide a buffer for mistakes. The option of "trusting the people that get given the responsibility of securing the integrity of electronic voting" is not going to fly as we can't even ensure transparency and accountability with funds during a worldwide national pandemic where people are suffering. The current government has a terrible track record of fighting corruption. Electronic voting is a bad idea. Period. As far as changing result rules - it makes no sense to allow people to cast votes in districts where they are not residents. The whole point of a democratic election is to have people represented fairly - there is nothing fair about letting people living in other districts determine who governs a certain district if they do not live in it themselves. This is madness. It seems nefarious in that certain political parties are known for bussing people around around to try and manipulate district governance by having people vote in areas where they don't live. My personal opinion is that the ANC is finding it expensive to organise double bus-trips (once to register people in districts in which they do not live, and the second trip for the actual vote) and this is an attempt to make that sort of manipulation easier. The current voting system is a system that has worked for many voting cycles, and even though it's not the most modern way, South Africa isn't a cutting edge country with a level playing field. This is a very unwise step to try and force into existence.	Conrad

	2020-11-02 22:43:10	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Without knowing exactly how the proposed processes will be modified, it is very unfair to ask the citizens to agree an open-ended license to construct voter's rolls that will certainly not be verifiable. I am pretty sure there are currently thousands if not millions of voters who should not qualify to vote, but whom the Government would rather keep on the roll as they are loyal supporters. If one looks at the other electronic systems that control payments, for example the UIF, Grants and other Government systems are fully open to abuse and dishonesty. Our Government officials are unfortunately untrustworthy - proven fact - thus we should definitely not allow any leeway allowing these persons to determine OUR FUTURES!	Keith
	2020-11-02 22:37:03	Gauteng		No I do not	other	UIF paid to decrease. Tenders worth millions granted to decrease. So now changing the draft electoral will see even more corruption of vote rigging. I really don't see why it cannot be left alone until all the shenanigans of corruption have been addressed in its entirety. There is so much going on and putting through amendments and new regulations is just going to mask over the current situation with no light at the end of the tunnel. We need to address the current situation first.	Jayne
	2020-11-02 22:21:37	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Where to start - no voting process in SA will be entirely without tampering of some sort. In the traditional way paper ballots get stolen or are simply lost, but switching to electronic voting can simply lead to website crashes and thousands of uncounted votes. Adding individuals without a physical South African residential address to the list of registered voters seems unfair. What will those individuals be voting for if they don't reside here permanently?	Chantelle

	2020-11-02 21:50:56	Gauteng		No I do not	other	This bill is very dangerous especially to a free and fair elections. We have seen with Uif scams, Tender systems how dead people win contracts , how dead people are getting grants and UIF money's . It is very likely this may be used because of its vulnerabilities to steal an election. I certainly do not support such. And the amendment of a person being allowed to vote in a district they don't not leave in or registered in that is definitely something that should concern all of us. I am fully against this bill.	Lesiba

	2020-11-02 21:47:06	Gauteng		No I do not	other	All voters should have a registered addresses. It will result in manipulation of results. people will just go and vote again in another area.	Greg
	2020-11-02 21:34:49	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Only persons who reside in the area, are citizens with valid ID's and have a fixed address in the area should be able to vote in the area. Anything less will allow for manipulation of election results by corrupt parties that will get non-residents to vote in areas where there is strong opposition or they require results to be manipulated... we have enough corruption already, lets not add another way for it to perpetuate.. 	2020-11-02 18:34:54	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Firstly how much is this going to cost the taxpayers? Secondly, the old method worked with all the non-living voters and foreigners voting as well . How is a computerized voting system going to stop hacking and how is the data going to be controlled. How many more non-living voters and foreigners will now be added. If there should be a new law it should be where only taxpayers that aren't tax evaders like Julius Malema be able to vote.	Bernadine

	2020-11-02 18:28:16	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Should voter be allowed to vote in a district in which such voter does not reside would result in significant voter manipulation against the existing framework, on which the peace in this country is being supported. Similarly, changing how voters may vote also deviates significantly from what minorities need to feel secure. 	2020-11-02 17:09:50	Gauteng		No I do not	other	Strongly opposed to electronic voting in South Africa, it opens the door to manipulation of results. It is quite evident that this proposed bill is affecting the ability of the electorate to be able to vote and that the results are actually a free and fair representation of the will of the ALL people, not the will of members of the ruling ANC cabal or Cyril Ramaphosa's "our people" - Don't trust the present government after seeing all the corruption and fraud already happening and continuous to happen.	Susan
	2020-11-02 17:05:41	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The removal of a paper trail and oversight concerns me as well as the history of government systems being "offline" at the best of times and can be rigged.	Dylan
	2020-11-02 15:29:59	Gauteng		No I do not	other	The current Government can NOT be trusted. Extremely strong and high security measures would be essential (VITAL) to control the actual vote and avoid any Electoral Fraud (vote rigging) before electronic voting should be even considered. The present voting system is already subjected to abuse and inaccuracies i.e. boxes of votes found dumped in various sites and not included in the count so electoral results were fraudulent. The ANC would not even consider electronic voting if they didn't already have a plan to bypass actual results	Denise

					As a layman member of the general public it is difficult to understand legal language used and the limited time allowed for public comment does not allow for legal consultation, but as a responsible citizen, in spite of these factors , I attempt to make some sensible comment on just a few of the elements that cause me concern. The paper system has worked well for many years and is still used, and has been returned to in preference over electronic systems, in many first world countries that are more technologically advanced and skilled than South Africa. Electronic Voting: The Cost, Reliability and Intention. South Africa has a terribly high state debt. Electronic voting systems are costly. Our country cannot afford unnecessary expenses like this. Just as a home and business must be run on a budget, so a country must operate within a realistic budget. It is unrealistic to place such an additional financial burden on the population. Technical breakdowns of hardware and software are inevitable. The possibility of a system freeze, overload, breakdown, theft, apathetic technicians and other problems connected to electronic voting are as likely as those problems are with the notoriously unreliable systems of the traffic and home affairs departments, to name just two. Reliability of the units' functioning is unlikely due to ongoing interruption of utilities such as power and communication - a paper voting system can continue regardless of power and communication interruptions. This year alone, millions of South Africans have been victims of information theft and misuse - the possibility of an electronic voting system being hacked or receiving interference from anyone, anywhere, in the world is inevitable. Concurrence of the Finance Minister: That the finance minister is required to give permission/agreement at the onset, but once made law his concurrence is no longer needed is misleading, muddling and casts doubt over intentions. The IEC cannot be allowed free reign over cost of an election system: it is unrealistic and unreasonable to consider that a possibility. It is no illusion, corruption is rife in South Africa and this electronic voting system offers yet another opportunity for crony-ism, pocket-lining and dishonesty. With something as important as voting, there must be various checks and balances that are possible to ensure a true and fair outcome, as there are with paper ballots. Vagueness of "A New Voting System": The vagueness of this causes doubt and mistrust. How can South Africans agree to something when they are not told what it is? Why is it so vague? What is being hidden from the public? As a result of this vagueness, I reject it.

	2020-11-05 18:43:34	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I do not support any aspect of these proposed amendments. The extent of theft and dishonesty by the Government is such that these proposals will create even greater possibilities for dishonesty to flourish.	David

	2020-11-05 17:30:56	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	SABS is a broadcaster and since we are not viewing SABS content why should we be asked to pay for a license since we don't have a Tv . SABC is not broadcasting any streaming content that we the public are viewing and only if we are viewing TV or content streaming from the SABC should we be liable for payment.	Kevin

	2020-11-05 16:10:20	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Why mess with a method that works? Its potentially confusing to a population that is not particularly computer literate. Also electronic voting provides an opportunity for fraud.	Henry
	2020-11-05 15:40:12	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Bill allows for too much power handed to the IEC which is open to abuse and corruption which is rife in the country. This puts the entire democracy at risk.	CJ
	2020-11-05 15:31:29	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	If the Bill is passed it opens up the voting process to more corruption.	David
	2020-11-05 15:30:29	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	No matter who or where you live, every registered Voter living and residing within their Ward must reserve the right to identity themself with an Official South African Identity Document at a Polling Station, Have his/Her name deleted on the Ward list of Voters residing within that specific ward, as being present at the Polling station when casting their vote with a proper Ballot paper where the name/s of Candidates being voted for are listed in alphabetical order. 	2020-11-05 15:07:43	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I do not support the idea of corruption and the man in the street has to bail out, everytime a SOE goes under due to malpractice and corrupt dealings! Bring those guilty parties to book, and let them be held accountable, sell their assets and put them in jail! I'm sure you'll get your monies back, tenfold!	Andrew

	2020-11-05 14:54:37	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	This Government will never be able to keep track. More corruption opportunities	Cheryl
	2020-11-05 12:19:50	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I already pay tv licence and view only 1 programme produced by the sabc. It is a money making scheme to pay additional fees to view DSTV on other devices.	Antoinette
	2020-11-05 11:14:03	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I do not trust that this method will be implemented with integrity. Open doors to further fraud and corruption. No address? Absolutely not.	Elsa

	2020-11-05 09:55:35	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I don't agree with that we will be charged for the above items as a pensioner I can't afford extra costs as this will lessen my amount for essentials Dr's and food	MARGARE T

	2020-11-05 09:41:26	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Streaming has nothing to do with the SABC. They provide pathetic customer service I am still havin major problems trying to cancel my tv licences	Jesika
	2020-11-05 09:34:53	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Way too easy to rig the elections	Laura
	2020-11-05 09:24:56	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	This will pave the way for more fraud and corruption	Barbara
	2020-11-05 09:20:00	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	It is unfair to tye users, some of us do not even watch TV on our Mobiles so why do we have to pay for something we are not using. South Africa already have high unemployment rates so how will people pay for TV licenses? Let's leave the Mobile devices to being Mobile devices and not treat them like TV	Njabulo
	2020-11-05 08:44:30	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	There is already so much corruption in the government, just another way to cheat at elections... So No	Sandy
	2020-11-05 08:14:49	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	this is ridiculous we pay for TV licence now we must pay again for streaming from our mobiles. SA Government is using every possible means to rob the nation of their living means to fill their already fat pockets with money from people that are just trying to make ends meet. Sick!!!!	Rabia
	2020-11-05 08:06:04	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Absolutely no! This will definitely lead to voters voting more than once! It is an invitation to further corruption which is a pandemic in South Africa!	Elizabeth
	2020-11-05 07:32:36	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Without a proper address makes it open to widespread abuse where voters can vote more than once in different areas. Yet another attempt by the ANC to allow voters to commit fraud.	Noel

	2020-11-05 05:11:46	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	People are getting poorer by the day because of this government, and all they seek is to get more what they can steal	Christine
	2020-11-05 05:06:03	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Electronic voting systems are too open to fraud. The ANC are well known to manipulate and commit voting fraud. This would allow them to commit fraud on a grand scale. The simple fact that they are trying to push this through with such secrecy and haste makes it highly suspicious. No to electronic voting systems	Stuart
	2020-11-05 02:35:39	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	The proposed changes do not from my point of view seek to remedy the flaws in the electoral system. I have had enough of living with leaders imposed on us. I have had enough of a few branch delegates determining who should lead us. In so far as the bill does not talk about independent candidates, it serves no purpose.	Fumanekile
	2020-11-05 00:13:09	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Too much corruption with ANC	Claudell
	2020-11-04 23:01:04	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	1. This seems to be just a ploy to inject funds into the coffers of a flailing SOE, where theft and corruption has been rampant for so long. Misuse and/or theft of public funds is a matter of serious concern, but at the SABC, it seems to be condoned, as many of the bigwigs seem to have their hands in the cookie jar. 2. The content material on SABC falls far short of acceptable standards. Coverage of sport, especially international sport, is woeful.	Pravesh

	2020-11-04 20:31:43	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	The amendments proposed will allow the political party currently ruling RSA carte blanche to commit fraud. The proposed amendments are wide open to wholesale abuse and as we have seen the ANC and its incumbents have no shame in looting South Africa blind	Michael
	2020-11-04 20:19:01	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	It hands to much power to a small group of people who can be bought to skew results .Electronic voting seems to compromise the integrity of the process.	Franklin

	2020-11-04 19:24:34	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	there is absolutly no need for an additional tax on south africans , there are enough funds to cater for sabc to operate efficiently, remove the corruption then use the money wisely for all the people of sa.	romley
	2020-11-04 18:22:04	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other		Jason

	2020-11-04 17:57:30	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	This a very wide open Bill, allowing changes to be initiated in many fields of the Electoral process. My greatest fear is that the power is being given to a select few in the Electoral Commission to make decisions, which may not be for the greater good. Furthermore the Electoral Commission is not beholden to any input from the public, nor voters, but can enforce decisions, which may benefit and be unfair to the general public.	Gillian
	2020-11-04 17:41:11	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	How are the voters from rural areas , not computer literate old people and people that don't have smart phones or data access the electronic system to cast their votes - which parties will be arranging buses to transport them and who is going to assist them at those voting station points- voting is supposed to be confidential but iec officials will be able to see the votes or even worse manipulate the voter to vote for more specific -, wrong because free and fair election	Wendy
	2020-11-04 16:55:32	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	This opens the way for further corruption especially with voters not having their addresses, also there's no accountability for double, or triple voting. This is too rushed and not enough time was given to the public to respond to these proposed amendments - to put a small ad in the newspaper is just not fair, or democratic to both citizens and new officials.	Indira
	2020-11-04 16:47:39	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	No ruling party should be able to change voting rules. Not ever. EVER!	Amanda
	2020-11-04 15:33:34	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	We don't need to pay to fill the pockets of the corrupt officials anymore. We are going through an economic crisis ourselves.	Mohammed

	2020-11-04 13:06:50	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I do not think Netflix or any other streaming service has anything to do with the SABC . We pay for our data and streaming service and I watch it on a computer not a TV so go and get your money from the people who have looted this country. It is just per greed . A deadly sin	Brenton
	2020-11-04 12:59:05	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Just another avenue for corruption	Colleen
	2020-11-04 12:10:53	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I feel there is more chance of fraud, and as a country we do not have a track record of honesty when it comes to democratic processes being respected.	Cheryl
	2020-11-04 12:00:26	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	It will promote fraudulent votes. Only taxpayers should be voting we bring money to the government. Non taxpayers do not and do not understand all the financial implications of costs etc	Maureen

	2020-11-04 11:02:18	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	This method is open to fraud by means of false counts being submitted and individuals voting more than once especially those who own devices that are not Fica'd	Gary
	2020-11-04 10:47:09	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I don't trust that this will not be an easier way of tampering with the vote.	Cheryl
	2020-11-04 09:34:39	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	the present system is satisfactory, no need to change until honest government in place.	Kevin
	2020-11-04 09:23:47	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Why is the government trying to fix something that isn't broken? They are paving the way for the system to be manipulated in their favour and allow corruption to continue unabated. Leave the voting procedure as it is and concentrate on trying to repair what has already been broken by the government and SOE's.	Mike
	2020-11-04 08:54:31	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	FRAUD, FRAUD & FRAUD ! Should an electronic voting system be introduced, it must be : 1. Open to any analysis or investigation of the system (ensure no trickery) 2. Use BIOMETRICS to register and allow a person to vote 3. Link ALL voters with their ID & TAX NUMBER ! Yes, only TAXPAYERS should have a say in how the country should be run !	Derick

	2020-11-04 08:49:40	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	We pay for NETFLIXPhones r NOT a TV..... why dont they do what the rest of the world does and do a CHEAP AFFORDABLE monthly subscription SO ALL CAN AFFORD IT, for us to get ALL the TV. channelsso no more ripping off with huge subscriptions like DSTV..... and we will be able to get programs for ALL our people with a flick of the remote and if u dont pay ur monthly subs u r cut off. Then no need to charge subs for phones. And no more nightmare for SABC TV LICENCE with people not paying them..... The Government has the power to make these wise changes.....	Stella

	2020-11-03 23:01:10	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	We should be free to vote as to how we want	Charmaine
	2020-11-03 22:59:19	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I disagree, we should be free to vote as to how we want	Charmaine
	2020-11-03 22:21:55	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	The SABC is costing us more than what they are able to collect from people who should pay their TV Licenses. This could easily be rectified. Employers and all Financial Institutions cannot accept an application without proof of a TV Licence. To charge for streaming, mobile Networks is extorting funds they are no better than the mafia! Stop robbing the man in the street of their hard earned cash! Enough is enough	Louisa
	2020-11-03 21:37:18	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Not everyone pays a TV license, DTT doesn't need a TV license, it was given to thousands of citizens, for free, does not make sense for a cell phone user to have and pay for licenses.	Lydia
	2020-11-03 19:38:07	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Must provide proof of resensidy and SA is.to vote.	Jan

	2020-11-03 18:31:15	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Who is covering the cost involved? Yet again the tax payers? Covid has shown us that the current politicians Can't see to the needs of their voters! Time to move along!!!!	Elrien
	2020-11-03 18:27:20	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	South African majority, especially the rural Black and Coloured community are not technical Savy. It may take another 20 years where we can use technology as proposed. The results arrived at by technology can be tampered with and favor the ruling party.	Victor
	2020-11-03 18:21:23	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	We want direct elections. No more parties to vote for. We want to vote for a person who must be held accountable. Current party system is a total failure. System must change to have different results.	Karen
	2020-11-03 17:43:54	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I want to see direct election of all candidates.	Piet

	2020-11-03 17:08:43	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	South Africa is an amazing place, Give the people back there power! The current ruling party just seems concerned with hanging on to power how ever they can and this bill is proof of it. We are done with you ANC it is time for you to leave the people of this country to prosper and under your rule that will never happen you are a disease! your corruption and lack of morals have damaged this country. Your days are numbered. You cannot steal our lives or our vote. Time for you to go!!!!!!	Marcelle

	2020-11-03 16:55:05	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	This is another plot by the ANC to rig the voting process. They seem to to be masters at doing all the wrong moves to their make themselves More and More CORRUPT. Our policy makers have no shame .	Dolling
	2020-11-03 16:08:13	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	This new bill will open up more corrupt practices and voting will be rigged.	Quinton
	2020-11-03 16:03:01	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	SABC does not provide good programs not do they provide programs for today's electronic devices. They need to cut their salaries for which no services are provided.	Naresh Kumar

	2020-11-03 12:53:34	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	This bill will be used by th ANC government to rig and corrupt any free and fair elections by their cadre deployed members in the IEC So I feel it should never be pasted and we should stay with our old system of paper ballet counting as it can be traced and checked better than an electric or online system that will be manipulated.	Keegan

	2020-11-03 12:05:44	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Why don't you collect licence fees from all the shacks and illegal settlements, they all have DSTV but don't pay. No ways will I pay extra tax, I'd rather go without any telly.	mary
	2020-11-03 11:34:15	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Electronic voting is open to many problems . Security of electronic voting is not assured no matter what firewalls or protection are put in place. It is open to manipulation, loss, corruption and interference. Internationally, paper ballots are the safest and most reliable way of record keeping for voting. Electronic voting would be a backward democratic step.	Peter
	2020-11-03 11:31:24	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	Too many loopholes. Allows vote rigging. Allows people to vote without proof of address, opens our voting rights to non SA residents. It is not what we fought for. I do not see SA having facilities to try out a new method without opening it for fraud and corruption.	Marvella

	2020-11-03 09:29:09	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	This bill has seemingly been slipped through without any real public education and debate. The political and national state of health in South Africa at this time is not the best time to give the IEC such wide powers. Getting jobs and feeding their families is uppermost in the minds of the general population with voting rules and amendments way down the list of their priorities. Apart from that only a small section of the voting population would even be given access to the amendments and with the general low level of education would not be able to evaluate the effects of the proposed changes.	SYLVIA

	2020-11-03 09:27:17	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	To amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; - I object to this, voters must vote in their own district. To authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method ; I object to this, voters need to vote in person, otherwise this opens up avenues for corruption and false voting. To provide for the limited applicability of the Code; to amend Schedule 3; and local Government: Municipal Electoral Act, 2000, so as to insert and delete certain definitions; I object to this . To authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting procedure for those voters whose names appear on the voters' roll, without addresses; I object to this, if registered voters don't have address - I feel this could lead to double voting and corruption.	Giselle
	2020-11-03 09:03:40	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	Firstly concerned with all aspects. Electronic voting will not work currently in SA - too corrupt. Open to rigging. Dead people will be voting. Also SA is not ready for this and will be too costly like our current motor licensing system. Proof of address and ID is necessary just like it is for FICA.	Prem

	2020-11-03 08:02:47	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	It will allow loads of fraudulent voters to appear on the voters roll with no address. These voters could be bussed around between voting stations casting multiple ballots. In South Africa we need proof of residence for EVERYTHING, Sim cards, banks, car licenses etc. why remove the need for it from the voters roll?	Jasper
	2020-11-03 08:01:46	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	I will not support anything that has the ANC mark in. Too much corruption .	Lynne
	2020-11-03 07:57:32	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	It is completely ridiculous to pose licenses on mobile phones. There is people out there that can hardly afford to have mobile phones and now the SABC want to take their money. For many years I do not watch any programs of SABC because it is not worth watching. There is too much corruption with money get lost and not retreated ?	Stefanus
	2020-11-03 07:54:25	KwaZulu- Natal		No I do not	other	My concern is related to a lot of the amendments not just one. These have been highlighted in the American Ballot happening now, where Russia has been influencing and assisting Trump by working various loopholes into his favour. These proposed amendments are weakening an already solid Act. Electronic Voting-I used to be heavily in favour of saving trees and cutting costs by eliminating paper ballots. And I still feel simple changes to the current ballots could be environmentally positive. But after serious thought I realised that there is no physical evidence of a person's vote once it is logged onto a computer. A simple computer program can physically alter your vote as it travels between polling station and central server. There is no audit trail. It also will potentially violate the privacy of your vote, as simple time stamps and algorithms can work out who voted for who. Look at how much personal information our Government and Banks have lost to hackers over the last decade. Now they want hackers (the Russians amongst the best of them) control of our Country. Results at polling- With paper Ballots simple counting of ballot papers easily accounts for what happened. I have been to many late night counting sessions and simple ballot counting is the best way as there is a paper trail. Where technology can be bought in is by scanning ballots and doing an electronic tally. Just like assignments are marked at Unisa. So you then have an electronic and physical to verify results. Constitutionality?-Our Constitution protects our right to vote, the amendment bill takes this right away, by creating loopholes that can be manipulated by corrupt officials and even foreign powers. I end off by referring to an old adage: Don't fix what ain't broke!	Brendan

						Clause 14 - This provides for one individual in an extreme case, although we have already seen this in the "Disaster Management Act", the ability to determine the outcomes of the country. This is 100% contrary to a democratic society and should under no circumstances be allowed to be implemented. The changes around people to vote outside of their districts facilitates for the manipulation of results in voting through moving voters outside of their areas. Completely do not support. In general the whole focus of these changes are to facilitate that the Electoral Commission being provided with far too much authority facilitating the complete and total abuse of the institutions intention to facilitate free and fair elections. The authority being provided via this amendment removes the "fair" component as it introduces the opportunity for extreme bias, as such this amendment should most certainly not be implemented.

						To open up voting without addresses opens up an enormous can of worms. South Africa has about 6-10 million illegal immigrants, who could sway the dynamics of the countries' population groupings. 	2020-11-02 20:01:22	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	I don't fully understand all the elements of the proposed amendments, but feel that they are aimed at the manipulating the outcome of future elections in favor of the current ruling party. The other concern I have, is the amount of Bill amendments trying to be rushed through parliament, over a short time period, not allowing for full participation or review from the public.	Michael
	2020-11-02 20:01:21	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	My Top concern is all of the items mentioned above. Electronic voting can be rigged. A Paper trail can be checked. Voters should vote in the place of their residence. Communities should be able to vote for persons they trust to represent them. Not some crony appointments by Government. Is this another way of trying to save a sinking ship	Bruce
	2020-11-02 19:10:22	KwaZulu-Natal		No I do not	other	As usual the ANC and it's crooked partners in the eff, comunist party and cosatu are looking at ways to blindside the public by changing what suits them.	Bernie

	2020-11-09 08:55:24	Western Cape		No I do not	other	My concern is all of the above! The ANC is feeling the pressures of losing traction and control of the majority, now they want to change the voting rules to suit their agendas to ensure that they stay maintain control. And looking at the difficulties Action SA is having with the IEC to register as a political party only leads me to believe that the IEC is not that independent anymore! Free, fair elections, governed by an Independent Organization is essential for Democracy	Robert

	2020-11-08 12:40:24	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is totally absurd to allow citizens without any address confirmation to be eligible to vote. 	2020-11-07 09:54:51	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There was inadequate time allowed for public participation and comment, rendering this bill unreasonable, unfair and invalid. It never appeared in the Government Gazette, rendering it procedurally invalid. Section 14 allows the IEC far more power than it should have. I do not support the introduction of a different (electronic) voting system. The cost of implementing something like this would be prohibitive and the State does not have adequate money to fund it. The Finance Minister should be involved in decision making around whether electronic voting is financially feasible for the country.	Bronwyn

	2020-11-06 22:06:10	Western Cape		No I do not	other	With voters voting in a province not of residence, is definitely a ploy on the ruling government to try and manipulate political party rule in a province. Electronic voting in this country definitely should be a big NO. Too much frudad already taking place and what with our Eskom issues where we don't always know where we stand. Allowing voters to vote who doesn't have an address is also a ploy to gain votes as we know there's so many people in our who just puts up a shack on a piece of land. This is unfair towards those of us who are spending our hard earned money to pay for an either bank subsidised house or having to have to wait for a government subsidised house.	Hazel

Equally important is my concern about a different voting method (e.g. electronic voting) which is much more prone to election fraud on a massive scale.	Susan
	2020-11-06 13:00:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Dont trust the Anc Government with anything.	Lance
	2020-11-06 12:57:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	My main concern is the proposed changes to voter registration, which (if implemented) makes it possible for a voter to vote in any constituency. This opens the possibility for a rigged election when voters are "bussed in" from other constituencies, while making it even more difficult for voters to hold their representatives accountable. Equally important is my concern about a different voting method (e.g. electronic voting) which opens the way for election fraud on a massive scale (much more than what has been observed in recent years)	Jan

	2020-11-06 10:40:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The changes proposed in the bill are large and important in nature. The matter was advertised insufficiently, with too little time to receive proper commentary from the public. A change to the voting method should be clearly spelled out in detail, not left vague as to any possible thing in the future.	Richard
	2020-11-06 10:34:02	Western Cape		No I do not	other	To have proper control of the voting process one needs to be registered at a fixed address and to have proof of who you are. There will be so much fraud if they allow this to happen	Shelley
	2020-11-06 10:29:39	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This opens up the opportunity of full blown corruption, we have see people being bussed in to areas to influence votes. This is a bad idea.	Jill
	2020-11-06 10:28:49	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This is just away for the anc to take over the wc. This will result in looting of wc taxpayers money.	Derrick
	2020-11-06 10:24:12	Western Cape		No I do not	other	If you don't stay in my province why should you get to vote who is elected here.	Joelene
	2020-11-06 10:21:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Another way to manipulate votes, must never be allowed	Peter

	2020-11-06 10:21:11	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Electronic voting is more open to manipulation. The Electoral body cannot be given authority to change the voting procedure as they please . This is extremely dangerous for free and fair elections, as set out in our constitution.	Tina
	2020-11-06 10:18:47	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Do we not have enough corruption going on as it is and if you dont stay in my province why should you get to vote who is elected here	Karen
	2020-11-06 10:18:44	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I cannot agree with all the amendments proposed, as I think it will not ensure a fair election across the board.	Lydia
	2020-11-06 10:18:42	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I cannot agree with all the amendments proposed, as I think it will not ensure a fair election across the board.	Lydia
	2020-11-06 09:59:19	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Most changes will lead to uncontrolled, fake, manipulation, of votes. The sly way this change is done is actually a sign of secrecy to manipulate next year's elections.	Johan
	2020-11-06 09:55:57	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Open to fraud and cheating!	Judi
	2020-11-06 09:55:09	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Just another money making scheme open to more fraud!	Monica
	2020-11-06 09:52:09	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I suspect this is an attempted extension of the ANC's abysmal record of corruption.	Jennifer
	2020-11-06 09:45:22	Western Cape		No I do not	other		Belinda
	2020-11-06 09:44:16	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I seriously think that the government is ridiculous!!!! They wna make money out of everything!!! Imagine paying tv license for Netflix!! Lol they a mock!! Me paying tv license to watch Netflix on my phone with my own data?? They must be stupid idiots to even think up such crap!! I seriously wanna move out of this corrupt country!! So over it!!! They ridiculous!
	2020-11-06 09:42:08	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Your total actions in this regard confirms the dishonesty, corrupt behaviour of the ruling party, the ANC.	Benjamin
	2020-11-06 09:41:22	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This change is Being done for no other reason than to allow the ANC to try manipulate (ie: Increase the number of ANC voters) in a non ANC controlled province, to manipulate the outcome of an election.	Rick
	2020-11-06 09:40:34	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The amendment is another ANC disaster plan to fiddle the votes their way. Allowing people to vote in provinces they do not reside in is ridiculous. Allowing people to vote with no traceable address is likewise ridiculous. As for the proposed " different" methods of voting??????? an explanation please!!!! This proposed amendment smacks of sneaky tactics to change the law to suit the current incompetent ruling class.	Peter
	2020-11-06 09:40:21	Western Cape		No I do not	other	fraud	vicky
	2020-11-06 09:35:16	Western Cape		No I do not	other	With any electronic voting system there is likely to be widespread fraud	Anthony
	2020-11-06 09:27:23	Western Cape		No I do not	other	" to amend the provisions regarding public access to the voters' roll; to update references to amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; " Voters MUST vote where they live, otherwise it will leave the process open to remote manipulation from areas where a single party has a massive majority to influence the outcome of another area.	Kenneth
	2020-11-06 09:25:17	Western Cape		No I do not	other		Lynette
	2020-11-06 09:21:43	Western Cape		No I do not	other	People should only be allowed to vote in the area where they are registered. Personally I also think that the ONLY registered Tax payers should be allowed to vote. The principal being that he who pays the fiddler calls the tune, not the other way around.	Nick
	2020-11-06 09:13:48	Western Cape		No I do not	other		Maria

	2020-11-06 09:12:44	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I most definitely DO NOT support this!!!! This is another way that the ANC are trying to stay in power. By allowing them to change the current voting system they are opening the door to manipulate the vote. Their history of corruption is a clear indication of their tactics. Any person of sound mind and decent morals would NOT support this proposal at all....	Charmaine
	2020-11-06 09:10:02	Western Cape		No I do not	other	If corruption is stopped they will have enough money	Willem
	2020-11-06 09:07:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Constitutionality to the bill. Our country is rotten and bleeding with corruption with those involved knowing very well that they are covered and protected, these people will flourish and abuse this amendment. I would love that the prerogative of voting for for the president be removed from the political party and be with the people.	Simpiwe
	2020-11-06 08:58:53	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Opens the system to fraud	Henning
	2020-11-06 08:57:29	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Absolutely NO to changing to an electronic system. This change is an easy way for fraud and corruption (at which the country is already too good) and certainly does not guarantee free and fair decisions at any level. The system can be manipulated by the government in power to suit themselves at the cost of our democracy. Voting on paper is the far more transparent system than electronic could ever be. NO NO NO!	Hilary
	2020-11-06 08:56:20	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I Object due to the opportunity to commit voting Fraud and to steal the election	IMRAAN

	2020-11-06 08:43:38	Western Cape		No I do not	other	You need to give an address to ensure that you are a real person. To avoid voter fraud.	Blossom
	2020-11-06 08:43:33	Western Cape		No I do not	other	More corruption ..easier to manipulate the evil of fraud electronically where SA leaders are experts	Gerhard
	2020-11-06 08:43:03	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The greed of the government is rapidly becoming the new norm ... when will they stop when the common man will start protesting in mass numbers like in other countries... enough of feeding the greedy and depriving the poor of the little they have ... the government is sapos to take care of its citizens not suck them dry for their last penny... at least the white government made sure we ate well	Zainab
	2020-11-06 08:42:34	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Vote district demarcations, method of vote counting and general corruption to undermine minority groups and maintain political power by making sweeping laws that suit the current government.	Bevan
	2020-11-06 08:37:24	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is a circus right now it will become a joke. No, the bill should not be touched.	Odette
	2020-11-06 08:36:35	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This bill will open the voting system to fraud.	Carien

	2020-11-06 08:34:03	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Pleinweg..... Ek vertrou nie die regering nie. Hulle is korrupt!!	Lizette
	2020-11-06 08:33:02	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Voting by proof of identity and address. No voting in. A province you don't reside in - can't make decisions for a province you don't even live in. Opens to more votes than people in the province. Open to corruption!	Lynn
	2020-11-06 08:22:10	Western Cape		No I do not	other	as always we as as citizens of SA was not consulted. This will be FRAUD in capital letters	Maureen
	2020-11-06 08:19:35	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Absolutely ludicrous. Another ploy for Ruling party to win. Totally against this.	Lindy
	2020-11-06 08:10:28	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It opens the voting process to fraud	Virginia
	2020-11-06 08:08:28	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do not support .	Natalie
	2020-11-06 08:05:29	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Fraud and corruption, which is rife in our government, look at the Zondo commission's work - until we have a government with 'clean hands' and they have proved that they are not sneaky and underhanded, cannot support them.	Linda

	2020-11-06 08:01:07	Western Cape		No I do not	other	1. One already paying the service provider why must u pay sabc. 2.If sabc has anything to do with the service that the service providers provides they must claim from service providers. 3. Why must we pay sabc for services that they do not rendered	Ridwaan

	2020-11-06 07:31:07	Western Cape		No I do not	other	A person must vote in his or her area, each voter must have an address of where he or she stays so that each vote can be traced and the election is free and fair. You must have transparency.	David
	2020-11-06 07:29:42	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Who check the system, and how is the checks done, to prevent fraud.	Piet
	2020-11-06 07:25:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	WAY To much room for fraud. We already have dead people voting	Tanya
	2020-11-06 07:07:32	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Dit is n manier om onwettige stemme in te bring	Jan
	2020-11-06 06:49:28	Western Cape		No I do not	other	People who stay in the province should vote for their promise.this is just a scheme to loot the western cape municipalities like the rest of the country	Craig
	2020-11-06 06:47:04	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The Govermernt has shown its complete ineptitude in bringing its own members in line to follow the law and arrest those who do not. They are not in a position to decide what laws the law abiding, taxoying citizens shouild follow especially where it opens the door for more corruption and vote rigging when they are clearly going to suffer a mmassive loss in the next election.	Craig

	2020-11-06 02:51:57	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Is this done type of joke to allow ANC and EFF members to vote in the Cape even if they not capetonians.. pathetic . We will secede or die trying.. and no pathetic ANC or EFF will ever stop us.	Dean
	2020-11-06 02:12:15	Western Cape		No I do not	other	to amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; The practice to give legal voting rights to individuals without a registered address, is wide open to fraudulent voting. The problem is that a person can go to any Province of his liking, depending on where his vote is politically required, without reference of his real residency. Any person who wants to vote, should be registered on only one votersroll with a proof of address. Every voter should at least be living at the address noted for 60 days.	Willem
	2020-11-05 23:15:16	Western Cape		No I do not	other	My Biggest problem lies with the fact that people will be allowed to vote in areas where they are not registered. If I understand this correctly, it means that my area will then be decided over by people who don't even live here, who don't have to live with the consequences of the descision they make at the polls. So strangers can vote from afar and vote in people whom the local inhabitants do not know or trust. How can this be democratic?	Daan
	2020-11-05 22:56:28	Western Cape		No I do not	other	My concerns are, who is going to be in charge of implementing and completing the whole new structure of this Bill. So far South Africans has seen nothing but CORRUPTION with No Accountability. Already certain laws only covers, protects and works for certain groups in this Country. So we ought to be careful what we allow to be put in place.	L

	2020-11-05 21:58:04	Western Cape		No I do not	other	With the current mail in Voting system in the USA we are witnessing huge loop holes in the system. Voting electronically, Via mail or any other method except the current in-person method we will be undermining the democratic process. Electronic voting is open for hacking and fraud. I do not support the new bill.	Isidore
	2020-11-05 21:26:35	Western Cape		No I do not	other		Faizel
	2020-11-05 21:14:21	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Government/civil servants corruption and fraud is unprecedented! This proposed amendment will be opening the door to more corruption and fraud... a resounding NO MORE!!!	L.
	2020-11-05 21:08:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This gives a chance for corruption and to manipulate numbers of voters in areas where certain parties want it! South Africas new can of worms.....	Jasper
	2020-11-05 21:08:33	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Giving anyone carte blanche to amend our electoral laws will destroy the little that is left of our democracy. And why is the ANC seeking this amount of power, unless to be able to steal elections in the future	Lynne
	2020-11-05 21:08:19	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It may make it possible for voter fraud	Nicole
	2020-11-05 21:01:43	Western Cape		No I do not	other	You have to vote in the Province where you live!! If not you will get ghost voters without physical addresses just to increase the numbers in areas certain parties want it. Open for corruption!!!	Annette
	2020-11-05 21:00:29	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This is underhanded violates our democracy and totally manipulate to try run all provinces	Chàrmaine
	2020-11-05 20:45:01	Western Cape		No I do not	other	We saw how the ANC and Ministers stole billions over the last 26 years. We are gatvol of corruption and can not give people who are not honest the opportunity to change anything anymore	Lize
	2020-11-05 20:29:18	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This would open the way for more corruption and more abuse by the ANC and bring an end to free and fair elections. We can't let it happen, in no time we'd become a one party state.	SANDRA
	2020-11-05 20:24:53	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Not democratic!@	Lesley
	2020-11-05 20:18:30	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Voters need to vote in the district they reside in, and be registered on the voters roll with a verifiable physical address.	Russell
	2020-11-05 20:17:04	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Why should people NOT residing in our province and municipality decide what and how we must do things? As a taxpayer I would like to decide who runs my municipality and province. This will only lead to more corruption opportunities, financial and management disaster.	T
	2020-11-05 20:06:36	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is totally undemocratic and untransparent. Leaves the way open for corruption and gives too much power to the IEC. Things like THAT can tempt people to quickly to get MORE power and corruption can go haywire	Lucia
	2020-11-05 20:03:47	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This idiotic idea is simply a method of committing election fraud as there will be no control over people voting more than once. This is a desperate attempt of the ANC to win (steal) the Western Cape and destroy it like they destroyed the rest of the country. No! No! No! A thousand times NO!	Andre
	2020-11-05 20:02:58	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Anc will drive busses full of voters to where they need votes.	cornelis

	2020-11-05 19:16:07	Western Cape		No I do not	other	You have to be registered, have an ID and an address. How else do u control that it is fair and legitimate? It will engender voter fraud and IEC will lose control. Stick to the tried and tested legislation and mothod that works!!!	Niven
	2020-11-05 19:04:39	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do not agree to any changes becauseof the following Corupped Gouverment Corupped Municipalities Corupped state departments etc etc.	Johan
	2020-11-05 18:57:27	Western Cape		No I do not	other	With the corruption that is happening at the moment i see that electronic voting will open itself up to much more.	Leslie
	2020-11-05 18:56:05	Western Cape		No I do not	other		Surina
	2020-11-05 18:53:50	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There is no way any sane South African can hand the ANC government the right to change our voting method, least of all when the proposed changes to voting method is not completely explained and spelled out. That is equivalent to handing government a blank cheque. The current voting system must remained unchanged, thus I reject these proposed amendments.	Ismail
	2020-11-05 18:43:25	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It can stay as it are why change it	Stoffel
	2020-11-05 18:39:27	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Electronic voting will likely result in more corruption and fraud being perpetrated by already corrupt politicians. The majority of voters are not used to electronic mechanisms and they may be disadvantaged in the process, resulting in more invalid votes.	Marlene

	2020-11-05 13:23:30	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This is against the constitution without the Constitution this country would already be like Zimbabwe .There is so much theft and corruption already what would happen if the elections could also be stolen.	Rosemary
	2020-11-05 13:13:35	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Because it is open to fraud	Denise
	2020-11-05 13:04:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	this bill will give any teranic or selfcentered government institution the ability to determain their length of rule, it will be used to undermine whats left of the word democracy and be a blatend strategic move to expose the true nature of one such institution, and we cannot allow that any such party gain access to legilized and open corruption, which this bill clearly and plainly tries to accomplish . The system as it is at the moment makes provision in that we can see how each of the provinces favour the current goverment, amd this bill will allow the movement of deomgraphics registered in neighbouring provinces to vote outside of their place of origin, and in that momment the statistics will be worthless, and in fact the votes cast will be of corrupt nature, you must be allowd to vote in your province only. if you move a big group of people to a key provice just to vote for that party is in essence doung so with the intent to cause harm and by that nature is corrupt and does not have the nations best interests at heart	Gavin
	2020-11-05 12:52:21	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It's been well established by many technical experts that electronic voting in its current form is a very very bad idea. The IEC and opposition parties cannot validate the results of the election with current e-voting technology. It's unreasonable for the IEC or Government to change regulations in voting without the same 66% needed in parliment to change the Constitution.	Frits

	2020-11-05 11:53:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There is a huge risk of voting being rigged and false and i really do not believe the votes will reflect the true outcome! I feel this is more about corruption!	Angelique
	2020-11-05 11:49:30	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Met die reeds hoë vlakke van korrupsie deur die regerende party (ANC) kan hulle nie vertrou word om 'n regverdige verkiesing te reël nie.	Attie
	2020-11-05 11:43:27	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Met die huidige vlakke van korrupsie in ons land gee dit die regerende party (ANC) volmag om te maak soos hy wil.	Attie

	2020-11-05 10:45:23	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This seems to be an effort to advance only the ruling party after all the corruption and undermining of the rights of the South African citizens. We (the nation) need to get to a point of wanting to PROGRESS, not stagnate.	Kim
	2020-11-05 10:35:50	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Given the current immense corruption in Government I fear this too will be another tool to secure yourselves. I do not believe the government has our interests at heart. At all.	Lisa

	2020-11-05 08:14:33	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This has fraud written all over it. The ANC knows the people have lost confidence in them and trying to make sure they stay in power. I believe people should be allowed to vote for a person to be in certain positions. They should not be voting for a party. ANC is rotten to the core. From the top all the way down. IEC belongs to the ANC, they are not independent, they are just puppets.	Debra
	2020-11-05 08:11:33	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Please stop trying to change and amend laws. This will only open the door to corruption and fraud.	Mark

	2020-11-05 06:36:47	Western Cape		No I do not	other	SABC have squandered funds and desperately need money. They are just grasping for straws now to collect funds. The programming they have available is not for ALL South Africans and are not good quality at all. The only way they should be able to charge for something is if they actually supplied it. So if I don't plug into their broadcasts, I should not pay them for something. I already pay for my device, contract fees, internet connection, streaming subscriptions so why should I give them anything. Are they going to discount my Netflix subscription fees? No they won't. It is a ridiculous idea.	Adele
	2020-11-05 06:26:40	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The addresses of people will prevent fraud. Without this, fraud can easily be committed, with no trace back to person who commits it. Each voting station can check the address, against the ID. document. The address shows that the voter is not just a drifter. S.K.WEBER.	SYDNEY

	2020-11-05 00:10:23	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Our multiparty system is unconstitutional and excludes and ignores the will of the people. 	2020-11-04 23:57:41	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Considering the non-stop theft, looting and corruption that this government has become so infamous for. 	2020-11-04 21:56:10	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Voters are only to vote in the place where they are registered. If they have moved or have to travel, there are enough facilities to make the necessary changes in good time. I do not want to see busloads of people transported to places where a particular party can swing the outcome of the vote. Other small technical issues I do not have a problem with. People without address could be problematic but they have SAPS where they could get an affidavit to confirm at least some official effort.	Johan
	2020-11-04 21:55:04	Western Cape		No I do not	other	No one buys something they don't like so why must I pay for the drivel the SABC serves up? I don't even watch Sabc. Their programs are an insult to everyone's intelligence and don't get me started on the totally biased news content. Forcing people to pay for a service they don't want is theft	Michelle

	2020-11-04 20:30:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Opens the door to manipulation and fraud. No one should trust what is ultimately a Government controlled system. Too many government appointees have shown themselves to be at best incompetent and at worst crooks. We are still waiting for the worst offenders to have to answer to charges in a court of law.	Claude
	2020-11-04 20:23:32	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Another loophole for corruption and rigging. Sadly I do not trust this government and their way of doing things.	Hendrik
	2020-11-04 20:18:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Change of these bills cost alot. That money can rather go to the poor. These bills only benefits the elect. Look after the people of SA. Leave these unnecessary change of laws. These laws excludes coloured, whites and Indians.	Carol

	2020-11-04 18:37:49	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The existing electoral laws are there for a reason. They are not outdated. They regulate what the IEC can and cannot do. The changes would give the IEC far too much needless and inappropriate freedom.	Tim
	2020-11-04 18:14:01	Western Cape		No I do not	other	No ways, more money for the already corrupt ANC. Citizens struggle to cope already with everyday price hikes and food and petrol.	Dalene

	2020-11-04 16:33:10	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Too much power is being conferred onto the IEC (corruptible men and women) to decide on the way we vote. Our right to vote and the way we vote should be blatantly clear and easy to understand by ALL South Africans. I do not support this bill.	Neil
	2020-11-04 15:58:58	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I select "Other" because ALL 4 points are of concern, as long as the anc are in power. Whatever "brilliant" changes they bring forward is not for the benefit of the people of SA, but rather to benefit the cadre of the anc. If they were so confident in their governance, then they would not be trying to pull these underhanded methods.	George
	2020-11-04 15:58:35	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The track record of the ANC has been fraught with crookery and deviousness and this is no exception what is to prevent voters being transported to strategic areas to change results if they can vote in any constituency	Richard
	2020-11-04 15:58:27	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Absolutely not. The ANC continue to do everything it can to hold power no matter what, no matter what laws it needs to change. Outrageous. This bill should not be enacted at all.	Rowen

	2020-11-04 14:17:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I am sad to say that our government is not able to introduce or manage the current voting system, so they will by no means be able to manage electronic voting. It is easy to tamper with anything electronic. There is still FAR to much corruption in our country.	Catharina
	2020-11-04 14:09:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Is this for real? This must be open to fraud.	RICHARD
	2020-11-04 14:09:08	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This will be wide open to manipulation and fraud, not only by the ANC who I'm sure will take full advantage, but by other criminals and outside interests	Ian
	2020-11-04 13:32:47	Western Cape		No I do not	other		Elaine

	2020-11-04 13:26:11	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I am in favor of keeping up with technology (electronic voting). However, this has been proven to be easy to scam/rig or otherwise manipulated. With all the corruption in this country, abusing an electronic system will definitely be the case. To further plummet our country in chaos. Allowing people to vote without an address is a further loophole to influence votes. I.e. abuse is inevitable. People vote to influence the area they live in. You do not want people to vote in an area where they do not have an interest in. Allowing the electoral commission the freedom to change rules on the go is a definite no. During the past number of elections it was evident that many officials were either corrupt or incompetent. How can one allow this commission to change rules. This is a matter for the court/parliament to decide changes before the election.	Hennie
	2020-11-04 13:24:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Why change it?	Claude
	2020-11-04 13:18:36	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I will not pay for corruption. It is just another way to steal from the minority tax payers, and give to the few rich government officials.	Antoinette
	2020-11-04 13:18:26	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do NOT agree with the proposed amendments, as previously advised, but further recommend that the following restrictions be imposed : That people who have been found guilty and/or convicted of a first schedule offence - such as treason, terrorism, murder (without extenuating circumstances) and violent rape must NOT be allowed to vote while serving their sentence; and That people under the age of 21 years should NOT be allowed to vote. MY REASONS for the above are : That most people in these categories do not have sufficient knowledge at the time of voting to make an intelligent decision as to who or what to vote for; and That they may be or may have been influenced or intimidated by another party (person/s) as to whom or what to vote for. -----	Paul
	2020-11-04 13:15:04	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Why must we pay the SABC when we are paying our fiber provider already. Thousands do not even pay their TV Licenses now they want us to pay for them. Enough stealing has already taken place. I will not add to them helping themselves.	Debbie
	2020-11-04 13:10:48	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This government has proved itself to be dishonest, underhanded, morally bankrupt. I don't trust them with a process that is not transparent and cannot be verified by independent observers. They will go to any lengths to keep power. Time to do away with this rubbish!	Isabella
	2020-11-04 13:04:38	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Clause 14 must be scrapped! Gives IEC way too much power!	Andy
	2020-11-04 12:42:14	Western Cape		No I do not	other	First we need to fix the corruption which runs rampant in our country. The laws currently in place are sufficient for the moment, although I do agree that digital is the way to go - but only once we can have a system that cannot be influenced by corrupt officials and parties. We need to learn to walk before we can run!	Pauline
	2020-11-04 12:38:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Government has proven that they cannot touch anything without corrupting it. The cost as well as the fact that government has proven they cannot touch anything without corrupting it.	Luna
	2020-11-04 12:33:26	Western Cape		No I do not	other	South Africa has not been able to implement any electronic system in the last 10 years that has worked perfectly from the start up. It has taken years to get them to work and as such, with such an important system, the trial and error approach cannot be allowed. It is therefore better to leave it as is. Furthermore how can you govern whether a person has voted or not if you do not capture region. If the voter check system is not real time and does not cross reference the ID numbers, there will be wide spread duplication of votes. All these amendments simply allow more tampering and or inaccurate results	Alan

	2020-11-04 12:25:23	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I consider the amendment bill to be unconstitutional and unaffordable given the current state of the economy in SA for the following main reasons to mention a few: The cost of the proposed changes will not improve our economy neither in the short nor long term; That given the recognised STATE OF CORRUPTION in our country the proposed changes may facilitate further corruption; That the provisions to allow political parties to register are adequate and should definitely NOT BE STREAMLINED; The current system is quite adequate, allowing voters to arrange an EARLY VOTE should they not be able to vote where registered on voting day; Voters who's name are on the voters role, without address, should be made to provide PROOF OF THEIR ADDRESS in the normal legal way, eg produce their municipal account, on the voting day or 21 days prior to the day of the elections.	Paul
	2020-11-04 12:22:18	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This method can be easily manipulated. We do not have the infrastructure nor the capital to put it in place. This will affect the normal citizens negatively, esp. the poor...	Jake

	2020-11-04 11:00:03	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It's open to further corruption and theft on various levels - and people with no address have no right to vote. Voting should only be for tax payers who actually contribute something to the country.	Keri
	2020-11-04 10:56:38	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Voting with no permanent address is definitely no no. Next step will be not requirement of identification. Or is it the same as purchasing sim card without RICA? How do they want to stop fraud in voting?	Kevin

	2020-11-04 10:48:21	Western Cape		No I do not	other	As the selection of a government and its officials is vital to the survival of democracy; corruption is the arch enemy of our democracy, and until the parasites in our government are removed this country cannot survive. 	2020-11-04 10:25:56	Western Cape		No I do not	other	THIS WILL DEFINITELY PROMOTE CORRUPTION AND ADD INCOME TO TAXIS TO TAKE VOTERS TO DIFFERENT VOTING STATIONS TO VOTE MORE THAN ONCE AND THEREFORE ASSIST IN RIGGING THE OUTCOME OF THE VOTING PROCESS	Andre

	2020-11-04 10:12:04	Western Cape		No I do not	other	i fully disagree with this bill. this allows illegal people to vote and foreigners that should not have a vote. this bill also makes it very easy for anyone with access to manipulate the data in favor of one party over the next. this is unlawful and totally unjust. "remember remember, the 5th of November" is a phrase one could use here. the people will rise up against this Tyranny are we not a democracy? the government put out a small print in a newspaper about this knowing full well that people do not buy papers anymore. BUT for 'law' sake it had to be made public, even if no one sees it.... it is just to cover their back when they try to make the changes and no one can say no due to the fact that it was made public "apparently" i can say for all people of south africa when i say "we will not be silenced". as this new bill aims to silence our voice and silence our vote.	jack
	2020-11-04 10:01:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This bill should not be implemented in any form at all. It eliminates transparency of SA elections, concentrates power in too few hands (IEC), eliminates oversight of elections, which will destroy the legitimacy of the SA democracy. We need proof and transparency to prove that those in power were legitimately voted into power. The ruling party has a strong track record of circumventing limits to its power, especially through appointing incompetent cadres into key positions	Michelle

	2020-11-04 09:23:01	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This would give the IEC a blank cheque to do what it wants without any guarantee of adequate oversight. There are serious concerns over the way in which a voter's right to cast a ballot, and the verification of the identity of such voter, as well as whether the voter was under any sort of coercion while casting his or her vote. In disadvantaged areas it will be possible for voters to be gathered into a managed area for voting under the eyes of members of one or other political party, thus nullifying the aim of a free and fair election. As has been seen in other countries, inadequately protected polling systems can be manipulated, thus casting doubt on the outcome of the election. South Africa is not ready for this yet and I oppose such a blanket clause in the Bill.	Glyn
	2020-11-04 09:15:12	Western Cape		No I do not	other	this will allow more corruption and we already have enough of that	Michelle

						Timing of this bill, shortly before an election which the ANC looks set to lose, or at least suffer punishing losses, could not be worse. The population of SA has little faith in the ANC. In the past, attempts to buy votes with food and intimidation, violence around the country, ballot boxes disappearing and sometimes appearing, and other attempts to pervert the course of the elections have already happened. It is logical to assume that the ANC needs to take this to another level to ensure victory now, and this is obviously the way they will do it - through the IEC. The ANC should, if it wishes to become a just government trusted by its people, ensure that elections are free, fair, open and transparent to all - changing anything at this point will be met with suspicion, and regrettably such suspicion will allow other methods of changing the government to be attempted - such as through the courts, through tax boycotts, through mass action, through assassinations, or even with radical organisations that attempt to take power through a coup (e.g. EFF and other organisations that have threatened violence). To avoid this, the government needs to rise above this and show that it has nothing to hide. Do not change anything in the voting methods at this stage, please, we want a quiet election - don't give the extremists any reason to stir up the country. We can look at how Trump has already claimed that mail-in ballots are fraudulent - the same thing could happen here with other forms of voting.	Julian

						I selected other because I believe ALL the concerns are valid. I am fearful for my democratic process. I'm fearful for my rights as a South African citizen. How can a chapter 9 institution have the power to choose a voting method without due consultation processes and without the public having a say? How can they allow people to vote at just any station? How are they going to be able to prevent non-addressed citizens from the "one vote" policy of our constitution? These are all fears that most of the people I have spoken to have. It is the general opinion of this participant that it is a way that the ANC can legally fix elections as there are too many powers given to one body, and transparency is taken away.	Alison

Government cannot keep breaking legislation to suit them. Citizens can't purchase a R1 sim card without an address, yet they want a person to make a deciding vote on how the country is run without proof of address. These games has to stop.	Mogamat

	2020-11-04 07:43:52	Western Cape		No I do not	other	We would need an international, neutral body (that we cannot afford) for an election with a system that will have been designed by some connected person. One must vote in the area of one's registered residence so that one has a chance of being locally governed by a party of one's choice. Allowing persons to vote wherever they want to is not necessary if one has an electronic voting system, as the vote could be allocated to one's registered place of residence, otherwise the ruling party (?) could just allocate excess votes from one area to a marginal constituency in their favour. 	2020-11-03 17:30:52	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I disagree with most of the proposed amendments, but mostly I'm concerned that the seemingly straightforward amendments are simply another way that the ANC will be able to manipulate votes in their favour in the next elections. Digital voting is unlikely to be free and fair as it's even easier to tamper with than physical ballot papers and I'm not happy about proposed changes to public access and allowing people to vote if they're not registered in a district. 	2020-11-03 17:12:27	Western Cape		No I do not	other	OTHER as selected from the drop down box includes all of the top concerns contained in it !! If people without an address can vote anywhere the failing anc government will transport huge numbers of people all over the country to try and shift voters numbers into different areas. Thus maybe getting into power in areas where other political parties are doing a much much better job than ANY areas under anc control. Once this is done these people will not be returned to their original living area . They will most likely be given a few planks and roofing material to squat where ever they want to. This will result in even bigger housing, services, utilities shortages and infrastructure concerns. The anc government's huge drive to vastly overpopulate the country, by giving away vast amounts of money, to millions of black people, to pro-create even though the people do not have jobs to earn money to support themselves, never mind their offspring just carries on. Electronic voting, in a government run by mostly corrupt people, is giving free reign to manipulate the results to suit them. This could quite easily be done by paying the service provider to write specific routines into the voting program that can redirect numbers to specific voting zones in order to gain a majority number. In addition, changing the voting protocols will incur a lot of cost that the anc government does not have apart from printing more money (like down the drain Zim) or hardhandly taking from other financial funds not belonging to them. The fact that this sly underhand and no good proposal was not made public to the extend that it requires shows even more the devious unprofessional ways of the incompetent anc .	Rudie

	2020-11-03 16:56:48	Western Cape		No I do not	other	1. By contrast with acceptable public participation notices, it is of very serious concern that - according to my information - this one was placed where most of the South African public would miss it. Considering the major significance of the subject matter, this appears to be extremely devious. 2. Voters, to be eligible, must be pre-registered in the district of the relevant polling station with acceptable (non-verbal) evidence of normal residence therein, and of course be able to produce proper identification and evidence of RSA citizenship. 3. Electronic voting is totally unacceptable. Even with application of software developed by independent, highly-skilled and experienced anti-hacking expertise, security breaches are a great risk. It must be noted that the Netherlands, one of the top most highly-developed technological leaders of the whole world, abandoned e-voting in 2006. Furthermore, in South Africa with many unemployed but skilled or teachable people in great need of work, it will not be hard to find persons of integrity, and to organize transparent management of vote-counting.	Tim

	2020-11-03 16:22:20	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The principles I adhere to concerning voting matters are simple : - no taxation without representation, AND the other way around. A person without an address is not paying ANYTHING, and he/she is most probably illegal in the country on top of that. No address, no taxation, no vote. - all forms of "electronic voting" : they can ALL be tampered with in any conceivable way, and the voters have ZERO control over the whole process. The classical ballot boxes (transparant) using paper voting bills where all can see what happens with ones'vote are far more difficult to "rig". I am completely opposed to such "systems" - they look "state-of-the-art" and "efficient" , but they are an open gate to election fraud.	Hendrik
	2020-11-03 16:05:23	Western Cape		No I do not	other	ALL of it is my concern! Especially Section 14 of the proposed amendments. The Electoral Commission is clearly not an independent body from the ANC government - and I do NOT trust them to amend the voting methods without favouring the ANC. I so hope I am wrong - but, sadly, I do not feel that I am. This proposal clearly smacks of the ANC getting VERY concerned about losing the next election - as they well might be, when we consider their track record of the past 12 years as well as their appalling handling of the Coronavirus "pandemic" this year, which has caused nothing but hardship for the vast majority of South Africans (especially those who voted the ANC in at the last election). I would suggest that it's more than a little too late to try and mitigate that damage. And that I feel it to be a moral obligation to vehemently oppose any attempts to do so.	Juliet

	2020-11-03 15:20:19	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There will be no way of verifying election results - we will be completely at the mercy of technology. At the rate at which votes for smaller parties are lost in elections due to weaknesses in/ corruption of the current voting and manual counting system, it is unsatisfactory and inadequate enough. Introducing electronic votes is not acceptable and will leave the already corrupt system and officials open to increased and unlimited corruption.	Jeanne

	2020-11-03 15:12:27	Western Cape		No I do not	other	None of that is an option! A government already known for crimes of every kind must retain sound, effective voting laws that have been based on civilized principles. The new amendments are yet another angle for corruption and crime and should not be considered at all. To many loopholes for more corruption. I do not agree to the IEC having total control over counting votes. Definitely stay the way it is. ID and proof of home address should be mandatory before casting a vote.	Dorothy

	2020-11-03 15:09:38	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This method will be wide open to corruption. The ANC are obviously very concerned about losing support as a result of bad governance, and we would venture that this is the sole motivator behind the proposed change.	Paul

	2020-11-03 14:45:15	Western Cape		No I do not	other	If you want to use a different voting system, it must go through all the checks and balances that the paper system does. 	2020-11-03 13:46:55	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is of concern that this draft amendment was almost allowed through with very little public participation. It needs to be discussed by civil society organisations and aired fully through the media so that the public is aware of what the implications are.	Tammy
	2020-11-03 13:42:17	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do not agree with the proposed amendments, it can only lead to further corruption within a so called free and fair election!	Dorothy
	2020-11-03 13:39:32	Western Cape		No I do not	other	If you allow any Tom, Dick and Harry to vote without a fixed address, what stops them from voting in two provinces for a failing party. The electronic voting method is the worst idea I've heard of. It opens us to hackers, fraud and no way to recount the votes. There are a lot of people who don't have access to internet or who have an electronic device so how would they vote.	Kim
	2020-11-03 13:33:17	Western Cape		No I do not	other	People who vote must be on the Voters roll and must have addresses. Registered voters must only be able to vote in the district where they live and are registered. Any other method undermines the democratic process.	Maciej

	2020-11-03 13:24:23	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is not difficult in a country like South Africa to be skeptical about proposed changes to existing procedures. Will this initiative generate more votes for the ruling party through "dead people" and illegals voting? I understand that deceased people benefitted from UIF system payout in terms of COVID19. So, what's to stop this type of malpractice taking place through electronic voting? In addition what are the costs associated with introducing this initiative? Will it be cost justified? On a general note, the corruption levels in South Africa are such that one will always be wary of any initiative that could have serious negative implications for the man in the street.	Ashley
	2020-11-03 13:21:19	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This will only open us up to more corruption. The dead are getting awarded tenders worth millions and SASSA money... what's next ! 	2020-11-03 12:57:49	Western Cape		No I do not	other	We have a relatively uneducated voting populace and this situation is not improving for a host of reasons, mostly to do with the government of the last 26 years. Nothing should be done to the electoral laws that make the democratic vote easier to manipulate or remove the ease of recording of the whole process from the hands of an independent electoral commission. Unfortunately, the natural distrust of our parliamentarians by the tax paying public has been well earned.	Russell

	2020-11-03 12:54:47	Western Cape		No I do not	other	A ward representative rather than a political party as he can then be held accountable to the voting district unlike the political parties at present is GOOD. Voting outside your registered district should ONLY be by carefully identity verified electronic means with bearing IN your voting district, or there could be chaos both at booths and with election results. Voters rolls should be made available well before the time for interested parties to check validity, but not to strong arm voters. No address, no vote please - as you ideally need to take RESPONSIBILITY NOT JUST A RIGHT before being a voter.	Rykie
	2020-11-03 12:52:00	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It opens the door for more corruption.	Anthony

	2020-11-03 12:28:58	Western Cape		No I do not	other	We do not need a Government to control us like puppets. This reeks of more tricks for them to be able to manipulate the results so politicians can stay in power. None of them care about the people, they only care about power, money and to keep us sedated with lies so we do not overthrow them. We need a new system to govern ourselves, our communities and be in control of how we live.	Helga

	2020-11-03 12:10:16	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This amendment, especially Section/Clause 14, is anti-transparency and allows for technical manipulation of data/results to occur without a paper trail. 	2020-11-03 11:48:36	Western Cape		No I do not	other	My opinion is that only tax paying citizens of South Africa should be allowed to vote, this includes our politicians. This will make who is actually voting virtually impossible..... It's not a good idea.	Coenette

Israelites on way to promise land they then wanted to go back to Egypt.	Luvuyo
	2020-11-03 11:37:10	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I feel it is just another form of collecting money from citizens and the state can't collect the TV licenses already. So what is the point? 	2020-11-03 11:22:07	Western Cape		No I do not	other	All concerns are valid. The biggest concern is no clarity about the changes and thus a huge risk of manipulation of votes. I also feel that this is just another method that can be rigged, what about the thousands of people living in rural areas. This is just another ploy of government to open up doors to corruption. Listen to the Experts who know this cannot work.	Adriaan

	2020-11-03 10:51:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is very obvious that the ANC want a voting system that can be manipulated to suit their agenda. People must vote at a polling booth in person to avoid government corruption!	John
	2020-11-03 10:43:32	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I object because of all the other reasons, not just one. The only reason anyone would want to change an existing working law (rule) is because they want to take umbridge against it for their own edification and power and if it is a human law they are trying to change, the country is in for a very bad time.	Ebeth
	2020-11-03 10:42:18	Western Cape		No I do not	other	1. Anything electronic is open to fraud and this government in particular has a stinking reputation. 2. I feel if people are using their laptops to tune into TV program's to watch sport/movies they should buy a license for it. That includes those who plead poverty and steal electricity. 3. People who already have a TV licence should be excluded from having to have more than one licence and pensioners over 70 should be excluded from this.	Brian

	2020-11-03 10:29:17	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There is so much political uncertainty and corruption and fraud in SA at the moment. The current Electoral Laws seem to be working well at the moment. We should settle a lot of other issues in SA before we start tampering with the Electoral Act	Robert

	2020-11-03 10:23:55	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The ruling party has proved itself to be totally dishonest and we could not trust the honesty of such a poll where people are not properly identified and situated. 	2020-11-03 10:20:52	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Open to manipulation and fraud. Must have proof of address to vote - this leaves a big gap for mismanagement and leaves system open to party politics and further damage to democracy	Desiree
	2020-11-03 10:20:52	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This would open the door to even more corruption and fraud. It's a big NO	Ruth
	2020-11-03 10:17:58	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I am vehemently opposed to an electronic voting system for such a mass vote because our corrupt Government cannot be trusted at all, and electronic voting is completely open to fraud, hackers, etc. due to not being transparent to the public who are not technologically savvy. The current process needs to be kept, and a clip needs to also be put into the smart card ID's of voters. Also, the voters that go through the voting stations must be electronically recorded, so that they are not able to vote again. When voting once, if they try to vote again, the electronic system will flag them as fraudsters. The ink used at the last elections was already a huge blotch on the reputation of the IEC. So definitely, no more power (such as electronic voting) to such incapable and corruptible institutions.	Rachelle
	2020-11-03 10:13:56	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Opening another door to more fraud and corruption. Should only be allowed to vote in the area in which you live, with proof of residence.	Lynda
	2020-11-03 10:13:02	Western Cape		No I do not	other	One just has to look at what is going on in the USA to see that non personal voting is fraught with danger, legal challenges and open to corruption. This together with the rampant corruption in RSA this would be a recipe for a disaster	Ronald
	2020-11-03 10:13:01	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Big corruption electronically voting. Hard copy of vote only way.as for sabc wanting to make you pay for cell phone to have a tv licence is absolutely madness	Victor
	2020-11-03 10:11:11	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The constitution should be left as is	allen
	2020-11-03 10:10:01	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I believe the proposals are unconstitutional, and open up the potential for corrupt practice at the polls. People who are not registered in the district should not be allowed to vote there. They must either register, or vote in their own district (either in person or by post) People with no fixed abode must register in a district, or should otherwise not be allowed to vote there. Ignoring the above will open up the possibility of gross electoral fraud, with people voting multiple times, or non-existent people voting. (Like non-existent people on the payroll of state healthcare!!!!!!)	Ian

	2020-11-03 10:05:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Will lead to corruption in this country and surely the money needed to change the system can be better spent.	Glynis
	2020-11-03 10:04:46	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This is just another opportunity for corruption!	Alita
	2020-11-03 09:58:43	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This interferes with the transparency of the vote. It opens doors to vote tampering. A hard copy cannot be disputed. Changing this makes it obvious that corruption is intended in it's implementation.	Ryan
	2020-11-03 09:54:29	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I oppose the changes proposed for the following reasons: 1) The digital voting will be open to manipulation behind the scenes, there will be no paper trail to be able to eliminate fraud. 2) Voting in a District that you are not registered in is open to multiple votes from one person. Vote where you are registered and no where else. 3) If there is no address how can the person register, No address NO vote! This will eliminate "ghost" voters on the voters roll. 4) Does any of the proposed amendments pass the Constitutionality test?	Richard

	2020-11-03 09:50:35	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This bill will pave the way for manipulation of votes! If you can vote anywhere, what is to stop people voting in 3 places? We don't have an electronic voting system where the system should pick up that the person has already voted and not allow a second vote.	Jacqui
	2020-11-03 09:50:22	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Not constitutional it will open fraudulent avenues to rig votes in areas a party wants power	Gabriel
	2020-11-03 09:47:30	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There are so many changes but no statement of the problems. If we understand the reason for change we can contribute objectively. To allow the residents of SA so little time to understand the issues is ridiculous and isn't it amazing it always seems to happen close to the end of the year when nobody have time to deal with the details.	Albert
	2020-11-03 09:46:56	Western Cape		No I do not	other	this will open up fraud and corruption !	SANDRA
	2020-11-03 09:46:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do not understand why the law has to be amended. Also should the need really arise then the amendments should be tested to ensure that things are working correctly and now votes are lost or that votes can manipulated.	Monica
	2020-11-03 09:44:22	Western Cape		No I do not	other	How can a new law have a statement that is not fully described, how can the commission alter the voting system? It is not stated to what extent or how, this can lead to any scenario which is very scary, where is the freedom of democracy?	Eben
	2020-11-03 09:41:24	Western Cape		No I do not	other	All these bills they want to amend spells FRAUD AND CORRUPTION. No change!!!!	Debra
	2020-11-03 09:38:15	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do not support the Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill because I do not trust our government to act in our best interests. This will only be used for the ANC to stay in power and abuse that position.	ROLF
	2020-11-03 09:36:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I do not trust the ruling government (the ANC) to run this ethically and without corruption. Votes will be lost, extra counted, i.e. tampered with.	Gideon
	2020-11-03 09:33:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This will allow voting from any district and residency area. Will also open up MORE avenues for fraudulent voting results.	Bruce
	2020-11-03 09:31:40	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The total incomprehensible incompetency of anything that the current government and semi-government officials propose to be written into a law or laws, shows that those who propose these changes should go back the dark ages and try to discover an alternative to the wheel. They not only lack the vocabulary to correctly phrase an amendment or a new law or an amendment to one, but they cannot see what the different impacts or consequences to those amendments could be - they operate in a binary vacuum where they can only think that "yes" and "no" are the possibilities to anything they propose. In addition to the lack of unearthing all possibilities, they also cannot foresee or think creatively about what the various consequences of each possibility causes. It is time that the current government close down SAA, ESCOM, POST OFFICE, TELKOM, SANRAL, PRASA, IEC, et al (list not complete) and allow private companies and entrepreneurs to flourish by supplying competitive alternatives to the people of the RSA so that the population of the RSA can choose and live according to their choices made. 	2020-11-03 09:24:56	Western Cape		No I do not	other	All of the above - could lead to more corruption and fraud of voting.	M
	2020-11-03 09:21:24	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The public notification was done in a very underhand way, a small add in a sunday paper is very underhand while showing this bill is trying to pushed through will minimum public awareness. Paragraph 14 allows to IEC to determine which ballot system is to be used, an enormous amount of power placed into the hands of the IEC whom given the track record of the ANC will in all likely hood corrupt members of the IEC in order to ensure an outright win . If the ANC could corrupt a Public Protector then the IEC is fair game for them. Clearly a huge NO !	Chris

	2020-11-03 09:17:45	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Die feit dat enigiemand sonder 'n adres kan stem is belaglik. Duidelik is die ANC-regering bang vir verlies aan stemme. Die hele stelsel is absurd en ek vertrou die OVK geensins. Hulle sluk reeds hope geld in, stel onbekwame mense sonder integriteit aan en was hulle hande in onskuld na stemdag wanneer hope stembriewe langs paaie gestort word. Nee, ek stem baie beslis nie saam nie. Daar is nie kundiges geraadpleeg oor 'n behoorlike opstelling van 'n werkbare, onfeilbare proses nie.	Ronel
	2020-11-03 09:15:54	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The ANC has failed in all SOE's and while the IEC is a chapter 9 institution, kader deployment will ensure this institution can be corrupted. This checks and balances on the voting process is essential and this bill removes the paper trail relate to voting. If you would like to go to electronic voting, all votes need to be posted to a blockchain for complete transparency and an individual needs to be able to check on his vote via encryption. Checks on the totals, with sampling strategies applied to ensure 0 fraud	Tinus
	2020-11-03 09:12:30	Western Cape		No I do not	other	This Bill is being rushed into implementation without adequate understanding of inherent risks and given the governments inability or unwillingness to mitigate risk, its proclivity for corruption and facist imposition of unfair laws/ regulations, this Bill opens too many opportunities for bypassing free & fair electoral process and introduces risk of electronic manipulation for power politics. Based on its performance to date and entrenched corruption, the present government regime has shown that it cannot be trusted and will likely abuse its privileged position with potential "backdoor" access to the system. In fact it is entirely likely that its entire premise for implementation of a digital voting system is predicated on its ability to manipulate results.	Kelvin

	2020-11-03 08:44:08	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Once again something this important is silently sneaked through so as to try and avoid a public debate on the subject. It is totally unacceptable! Any changes to the voting system should have appropriate checks and balances and certainly not be left open to changes at the sole discretion of the IEC or anyone else for that matter. Shame on those trying to push this bill through under the radar. The people of this country have a right to know what is being done and to have a say on these important matters. This should have been in the main steam media not hidden away in the Sunday times.	Darrin

	2020-11-03 08:30:41	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I object in general on most of the decisions regarding the Draft Electoral Laws Amendment Bill. I consider it to be wide open, enabling the law makers to do whatever they wish and thereby paving the way for swinging the voting results in favor of the party of their choice. It is not allowing any voting done by the voters to be free and fair.	Linda

	2020-11-03 08:25:59	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Having a bill passed with the clause of not having to be held accountable by the law or the public regarding who decides the voting system is number 1 very dangerous if the system is abused by people with set political views in charge, as well as the public still not having access to technology as widely as first world countries. Keeping the current voting system/ method the same and Maby sharpening the security and voting procedure in a way that does not change the entire procedure of voting is a much more level headed approach than to introduce a whole new system that can be exploited by bugs, errors and vulnerability to hacking and manipulations digitally. Cost wise I also think it would be cheaper and safer in the long run to keep the current voting system for paper trail purposes.(keeping in mind that even with the last election there was voters voting more than once) witch is more difficult to exploit than if you just registered multiple accounts to vote online. If we can't even find out who calls us on a private number ...how the hell can we expect to find someone that votes under fake aliases more than once.	Fritz

	2020-11-03 08:19:32	Western Cape		No I do not	other	I think the electronic voting system will be more open to fraud. Most of the money supposed to be used to fund this will probably end up missing. Dead people will be voting, I propose to leave it as it is.	Tracy

Why are these people hellbent on oppressing the poor more and more?! If the SABC needs more money surely they can afford to make salary cuts at parliament and keep their friend's jobs ! Or better yet get rid of the SABC!!!!	Azana
	2020-11-03 08:10:06	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Many, if not all, aspects of this Bill are suspicious. Considering the current state of the nation and the general behaviour of the ANC party, it stands to reason that these amends will allow them means to implement dubious ploys to try and remain in power or to gain more. Surely we have higher priorities upon which to focus as a country than changing Electoral Laws on the sly? A unified country behaves more like New Zealand, where everyone is in agreement, and less like America, where everyone is so polarised that an immediate descent into chaos occurs whenever a crisis occurs. Sadly, our political parties are quire comfortable instigating riots and hate speech. If one looks at New Zealand's recent elections, even opposing candidates were in natural agreement with their current candidate, simply because it was undeniable that they're actually doing a good job. It would be ideal if South Africa had political parties that were more concerned with how to actually help the country instead of how to acquire power for the sake of it.	Anton
	2020-11-03 08:08:18	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Why are we tampering with a process that has worked in the past and is transparent. 	2020-11-03 07:53:14	Western Cape		No I do not	other	It is every person's duty to register to vote in the district where they live and work. The IEC give enough time with each election for persons to register, ensure that they are registered to vote or update their details and they therefore should have no excuse. In addition to the above: you have to provide an address when you register to vote, so no person should be allowed to vote if no address has been provided.	Mariska

	2020-11-03 07:14:38	Western Cape		No I do not	other	The majority of voters do not understand or even have access to electronic systems. 	2020-11-03 06:24:47	Western Cape		No I do not	other	There are so many things wrong with these amendments, that I don't even know where to start. Firstly if you are not registered to vote in an area, then you can't vote there. If rhis is amended it gives the Govet and certain parties the green light to bus in their supporters from other provinces or areas where they have the majority to oareas of the country where they have been ousted the democratic way. Also if you have no address, then you don't get to vote, full stop. There is no excuse for not making sure all your details are correct on the voters roll and that you are registered in the correct voting district prior to elections. These proposed amendments just give the government the green light for further corruption and making mockery of our democratic rights.	Karin

	2020-11-02 22:26:37	Western Cape		No I do not	other	1. dishonesty 2. would like another voting system where minorities have autonomy & not subject to majority. the fact that the majority wins is not a good idea at all . they must re-structure the system .some can have an absolute decree such as all animals & nature should be not determined by opinions & vote - who will guarantee no development or abuse of nature & animals ? not 1 politician . so all politicians & parties must step down & see that 1 person or 1 animal or 1 mountain ha more power than a majority of misguided corrupt humans destroying the planet. the elections must try to change & all must vow to protect certain edicts & nuclear diplomacy must be full time & try preserve nature & clean water not recycled sewerage . 3. they do not address meaningful issues at all .	suzanne
	2020-11-02 22:23:14	Western Cape		No I do not	other	Allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered - what is the purpose of this? Depending on the outcome this will lead to gerrymandering for a specific party especially in the Western Cape. Allowing any form of voting other than in person is proven to be unreliable especially electronic voting - this can easily be manipulated and has been proven to be unreliable.	Paul

						The draft Bill seeks to amend; Electoral Commission Act, 1996, so as to insert certain definitions; to streamline the provisions for the registration of political parties; to provide for the registration of parties in respect of particular provinces, district and metropolitan municipalities and to repeal provisions relating to registration of parties in respect of particular local municipalities; to repeal obsolete provisions • Electoral Act, 1998, so as to insert certain definitions; to amend the provisions regarding public access to the voters' roll; to update references to repealed legislation; to amend provisions allowing voters to vote in a voting district where they are not registered; to amend provisions relating to the submission of lists of candidates; to amend provisions relating to special votes in elections for the National Assembly; to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method ; to amend provisions relating to the procedure concerning provisional results and voting materials; to provide for the limited applicability of the Code; to amend Schedule 3; and local Government: Municipal Electoral Act, 2000, so as to insert and delete certain definitions; to amend the requirements for parties contesting elections by way of party lists and for a ward candidate to contest elections; to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting procedure for those voters whose names appear on the voters' roll, without addresses; to authorise the Commission to prescribe a different voting method; to amend provisions relating to the effect of certain irregularities, and to provide for matters connected therewith. I don't agree with one of these so-called amendments bills. The ANC knows that their time is running low, and that the electorate is aware of their corruption, looting the SOE'S, money that is supposed to go to the poor of the country has been used to finance their elaborate lifestyles. The black electorate have woken up to what this corrupt government has been doing with the money these past 26 years.....enriching themselves. These changes of the Electorate Laws amendments bill they want to legislate is just a desperate attempt to keep the electorate dumb and ignorant so they can stay in power. I SAY NO TO WHATEVER ELECTORATE LAWS THEY WANT TO CHANGE.

	2020-11-04 11:20:36	Mpumalanga		No I do not	other	1. 'n Groot probleem in SA is dat mense stem wat nie 'n opvolgbare adres het nie en so deur die ANC gemanipuleer word deur mense met busse aan te ry. Hierdie stelsel sal dit nog makliker maak om te misbruik. 2. Dit is bewys dat die ANC met niks vertrou kan word nie, nog minder 'n elektroniese stem stelsel. NS. Hierdie stel mag nooit geïmplementeer word nie.	Danie
	2020-11-04 10:49:45	Mpumalanga		No I do not	other	Die ANC regering het deur die afgelope 26 jaar bewys dat hulle nie vertrou kan word nie. Nie met geld of beleid nie. Die voorgestelde wysigings het soveel loopholes vir bedrog dat dit net nie toegelaat kan word nie. Almal weet die regering vra al lank dat die 2021 verkiesing uit gestel moet word tot 2024. Nou wil hulle die kieser reël en wet verander, hoekom? Bedrog??	Michael

	2020-11-03 10:15:32	Mpumalanga		No I do not	other	The present government is already so corrupt and hopelessly useless at managing anything, let alone an electronic voting system and allowing people to vote wherever without proof of address .. this is the anc trying to maintain power by allowing all illegals and their mothers to vote. Next years election should proceed as normal, more clarity is required on this bill and it's intentions and maybe in another four years we may be able to implement an electronic system that is incorruptible, safe and accurate. I don't trust this government and their half arsed bills they're pushing into legislation for their own nefarious agenda AS ALWAYS!!	Katia
	2020-11-03 10:09:12	Mpumalanga		No I do not	other	1)At first because of fraud, corruption. 2) I pay for what I use, SABC (RSA) have no right to claim fees for a service rendered by an external party(eg Netflix) For example an American movies was not made in RSA, thus its fraud to charge fees for something you did not produce or manufactured yourself. For years I do not make use of SABC TELEVISION BROADCASTS, not worth it.	Francois

	2020-11-03 07:48:24	Mpumalanga		No I do not	other	The ANC strategies and historical record as a communist oriented organization is first and foremost not democracy friendly. The ANC's policy of cadre deployment also serves the communist agenda focusing exclusively on securing power and resources instead of the wellbeing of the people and the prosperity of the country. The Independent Electoral Commission is by no means independent to begin with. The fact that the Independent Electoral Commission is part of the ANC's cadre deployment policy ensures ANC control over the body. This legislation will deliver the power of election to the ANC government and will seriously undermine the already loosely defined democracy in South Africa. Can you imagine an electronic voting system that the ANC is exclusively in control off? In the end, it is a matter of trust and there is and will never be anything resembling a trustworthy government. More power must be given to the people and less to the government. People should be less dependent on government instead of being made slaves to government. Government should be made a lot smaller and meddle less. Government should teach people how to think instead of what to think.	Maruis

Secondly, how as a third world country, how will we be able to implement and fairly manage the process, if one of the world's leading countries (USA) was not able to do it.	CB
	2020-11-07 13:13:02	Free State		No I do not	other	With the high rate of corruption and fraud (and failure to actually act on and stopping it and seeing justice done) that is present within the ANC government as well as the high rate of cadre deployment that the ANC follows my major concerns are that by changing 1. Voting method to an electronic system 2. allowing the IEC (ANC Cadres) to decide the rules determining results at voting stations 3. Constitutionality of the bill 4. The timing and failure to follow constitutionally prescribed regulations regarding public participation the IEC will be completely undermining the democracy of South Africa and opening and facilitating our move towards anarchy, the fall of democracy in SA and the rise of Socialism. There will be no way of actually checking and balancing the IEC's electoral process.	Pieter

	2020-11-06 13:33:15	Free State		No I do not	other	The reason is too open-ended and unspecified. It opens the door for unchecked changes of almost any nature. It opens the door for massive fraud and opportunities for fraud. It is not in line with the intent of the constitution. Recent massive fraud in USA elections proves that changes by committee over time leads to a failed system. Any changes to this complicated legislation and complicated supporting systems needs to be reviewed by committees and lawyers of the individual Political parties first, in detail to determine what the implications might be. This cannot be allowed to give Carte Blanche to a biased smaller group!!!	JR

Now the government want to add more financial burdens on the public which is a HUGE CONCERN!!!! We are already paying for DATA AND AIRTIME!!!! To top it all up the public needs to pay for a license for every streaming device or device being utilized!!!! It is beyond RIDICULOUS!!!! We are paying for SABC TV Licenses, but we prefer DSTV & NETFLIX because the programmes on SABC are being repeated ENDLESSLY!!!! The costs onto the consumer is becoming PROPOSEROUS!!! 	2020-11-04 08:42:59	Western Cape		No I do not	cost to the state	It is proven that electronic voting methods are not only notoriously unreliable, but also very costly. In the political climate at the moment and the endless high level of corruption in government and SOE's, this electronic voting will just be another way for corruption to flourish. It is clear that the ANC government, through this ill wants to make sure that they cling to power at all cost. Our nation have many rural areas and already now voting is a problem for these communities. Even so more with an EVM. This is just another novel disaster idea of the morals bankrupt corrupt ANC government to destabilize our democracy in order for them to cling to power. I SAY NO TO THIS BILL!	Fritz
	2020-11-04 08:21:22	Western Cape		No I do not	cost to the state	An Electronic system is necessary for future voting but currently SA is not in a financial sound position to afford a huge roll out of a "secured" system. 	2020-11-03 16:40:50	Western Cape		No I do not	cost to the state	All the points we could choose from are a problem. How to rank them?? Different form of voting: The best thing to do is to keep everything simple and on paper as that is the most reliable method. Also can be understood by most and less open to manipulation and corruption than alternative methods. Rules determining results at voting stations: Again - things have to remain transparent and auditable. Constitutionality of the bill: There has been a lack of faith in terms of public participation. The bill is vague in many instances. There is no way that such sweeping powers should be given to the IEC, bypassing checks and balances ... Cost to the state: More room for fraud and corruption. Unnecessary expense to reinvent the wheel. There are many other pressing needs ... Other: THERE IS NO WAY that anyone should be allowed to vote anywhere other than where they are registered, or without an address on the roll. We have to FICA, RICA, you name it - everybody should be able to conform to these requirements for voting. The IEC needs to clean up its act. More work has to be done to clean up/update the voters' role. Not reinvent the system!	Margi

Clearly SABC is in dais needs of an income as they will become another story like SAA.... as for the SABC they do not have great entertainment left leaving the public finding alternative ways to find this. Should SABC find alternative entertainment in their business this might be a problem solving situation for them. DO NOT TAKE YOUR MONERERTY PROBLEMS OUT ON THE HUMAN AND PUBLIC RACE. Think out the box to attract your clients etc. Be creative and offer more than what is on to offer for home entertainment.	Sallyjane

Municipal and representatives in other government levels chosen by proportional representation, have no inkling as to what constitutes financial management and accountability. Consequently i would like the amendment of the electoral act to include a section where it dictates that the level and type of education and credentialing of the individuals nominated and chosen for any and all parties must be published on a website for access by the public. In addition this same website must have the ability to accommodate compliments and gripes about service delivery so that in subsequent elections we have the capability of assessing whether we want that same party representative to look after the needs of the greater south africa	Myrna

	2020-11-03 08:24:48	Eastern Cape		Not fully	other	I believe an electronic voting is definitely the future of voting. However, trust in the implementation and cost are two factors of concern. This brings me to my final point, despite the initial idea that electronic voting is less prone to error than manual stations, human error is present everywhere. The government usually has voting assistants at manual polling stations who are not always the most helpful or knowledgeable. Will the state be providing these assistants with the necessary electronic skills and troubleshooting knowledge to successfully operate an online voting station? If so, what guarantee does the public have that this won't turn out similar to the Home Affairs department, where the systems are frequently offline? I have not read all of the bill and did not understand all of the ramifications of what I did read BUT This largely illiterate and corrupt country is not ready for Electronic recording and accounting of votes. Besides not having the expertise to implement or monitor, the cost of change can be better used by fixing what is currently broken ... like the lifts in a hospital !!!! Voters should NOT BE ALLOWED to vote in areas where they do not reside (special procedures need to be in place to accommodate those who cannot be at "home" at the time of voting). We DO NEED the Bill to allow for individual INDEPENDANT Candidates to stand for election.	Jennifer

This is hardly enough time, particularly in the circumstance where a person only knows much later that he/she will be outside the Republic. 	2020-11-06 12:42:13	Western Cape		Not fully	other	Dear reader, A slow war is being waged in South Africa, I am all for the changing of the system to ensure free and FAIR elections. An electronic voting system would be beneficial if the system is created to work with individuals ID numbers and then one can only vote once. This process eliminates the need for as much voting stations and if implemented successfully will reduce the time needed to vote or the need to take time off. If this voting system is created correctly it can even be adapted to other countries and will be a world first.	Jurgen

	2020-11-03 13:30:54	Western Cape		Not fully	other	From what I can see perhaps some of the older act does need to be revised. However the idea of allowing people to vote where they are not registered should be considered carefully. The location of a vote affects which party governs that area; all the way up to municipal level. A voter must only be allowed to vote within the area they are living (barring exceptional services) to prevent any one party from bussing voters from one area to another in order to ensure victory. If you vote it must be to select the governing party for the area in which you live. Perhaps a way around this potential for manipulating the provincial vote would be to have a rule that if you vote at a station that is not where you are registered you should only be allowed to vote on the national ballot and not the provincial. 	2020-11-03 08:41:54	Western Cape		Not fully	other	We cannot allow any person to cast a vote without proof of residential address. Or registered with a legal traceable address. Not a single bank or service provider will allow you to do any business with them without proof of address. If you are a resident of South Africa your ID must be linked to an address. I can go on and on with likewise examples. South African citizens need to be educated as to what is required legally from them and not be allowed to take steps backwards, but to become responsible citizens instead. Hence my stance - you have to have an address, because you stay somewhere! The local authorities must also taake responsibility and ensure that plot number, house numbers, area code, street names or any form of residence identification is allocated specifically in informal settlements. 	2020-11-03 06:40:29	Western Cape		Not fully	other	I suppose my concerns are both related to the integrity of the voting process, specifically re two matter: 1) electronic voting and 2) voting outside your district/with no residential address. 1) no system is fraud/corruption proof, but you can make it harder to commit fraud. And I suspect that a big part of my hesitation is related to lack of trust... I do not know that I can trust that the system will be fair. 2) I understand that part of the concern here is probably the homeless... If you sleep under a bridge, you do not have any means of providing a fixed address. And that person has as much of a right to vote as anyone else in the country! But this is the exception, rather than the rule. I am always amazed at the number of times people can register for elections and check that they are on lists, but just couldn't be bothered. If you are not going to be responsible in that manner, you should not be permitted to vote! And that is where an address become important! If you are voting nationally, address doesn't matter (assuming you are a registered voter)! If you are voting provincially, you need to be resedent in the province to have a say in provincial governance But I suspect municipal and ward voting is the biggest concern here, because you are opening the way to shift the balance of the vote allowing people to vote in a district that they do not actually reside in. I suppose, in summary, I would like to know what the safeguards are going to be, to ensure that everybody gets to vote, but that it is a fair representation of the actual vote, in particular on a local level! 	2020-11-07 10:40:36	Eastern Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	My concern is of course fraud. During lockdown parliamentary meetings have been repeatedly hacked - embarrassing proof that South Africa lacks capacity to safeguard electronic systems & processes. The motives behind introducing electronic systems are highly suspect. Firstly, tender kickbacks by the billion & the awarding on contracts to friends & cronies. Eliminating the Minister of Finance from the process is clearly the means to loot with no holds barred. Secondly, I imagine the ruling party believes that young people are more likely to vote (for them) via an electronic system. They should entertain no such crazy wishes. As a lecturer and researcher in Political Science, surveys I and my postgraduate students have conducted since 2009 reveal that young people do not vote because they have no faith in government. Xa. What they do want our jobs. My suggestion is to discard this ill-conceived idea of dubious credibility and to focus on building a future in a meaningful way - not by pretending we are developing because we have first-world technology we can't use. I do not think that RSA, as a young democracy, is ready for any possible electronic voting method. I do also think that fraud is far more possible in an electronic voting method where trust is not a given.	Andrew
	2020-11-03 12:33:32	Eastern Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	My concern is that the verification of SOUTH AFRICAN CITIZENS may not get adequate focus, and therefore we have more votes from parties that has no Constitutional Right to influence SA's future	Jaco
	2020-11-03 11:40:03	Eastern Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	1. It is not clear what is meant by statement "Different method of voting". Any new method of voting should be put through a vigorous process of evaluation and scrutiny by the public before government can implement it. e.g. with reference to electronic voting - electronic voting provides an opportunity with one security breach to completely change the outcome of an election. So no how matter how good the selected system is, if it goes wrong the impact is likely to be enormous. 2. The cost of a new voting system is not just system cost but also the cost of publicity, training of staff etc. Such cost in light of COVID and the current economic situation is unconscionable. 3. A big concern with free and fair elections is that every citizen have one vote. One of the measures to ensure we only vote once is to have a voters roll with registered addresses. It is unclear why this provision is being removed or what alternative measure will be put in place to verify the identity of voters. As we are required by FICA and RICA legislation to provide proof of address less than 3 months old when transacting, this is not an overly burdensome requirement for citizens.	Lynette

	2020-11-02 23:17:07	Eastern Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Our current government can't even get the basics right and now they want to attempt to tackle something as sensitive as electronic voting. Can we please get the basics right first?!	David

	2020-11-08 06:03:13	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting should be audited by three independent and different auditing agents to ensure electronic votes can not be tampered with. Also, no address no vote, You should not be allowed to vote outside your ward except for provincial but then it must be in your province, and national you should be able to vote anywhere	Armand
	2020-11-07 20:59:58	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic systems developed by the Government and other state/provincial/municipal institutions have been notoriously suspect and faulty. A recent example is the issuing of the car licence white renewal form. Voting via computer systems will enhance corruption as it will be difficult to control e.g. some people will find a way to vote more than once and dead people may even get a vote. After all, they are issued with tenders. Electronic systems can also be manipulated with software and programming errors. The current system is cumbersome but at least there is a paper trail.	Steven

	2020-11-07 11:15:08	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	It is the duty of the government to be transparent . Transparancy is lacking in this white paper and it simply giving IEC power to implement what ever new voting system and not disclosing the voting system in this amendment seems like obvious attempt to curb the rights we have to comment on it. There cannot be uncontrolled amendment to give them power to do what ever they like ,please disclose what type of new voting system and its risks. Surely its not the intent of the legislators to give uncontrolled power to a sensitive subject like democracy and voting.	Mardre
	2020-11-07 07:02:31	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Safe voting is low tech paper voting. Struggles of other countries using electronic voting are evidence of this. I do not support this method of voting.	Annette
	2020-11-06 19:09:17	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	What we have seen internationally with electronic voting machines is that they are difficult to audit and do not have the same accountability as paper ballot papers, which opens the door to the possibility of election fraud. I support the amendment allowing independent candidates to stand for election.	Steven

	2020-11-06 14:09:47	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Voting procedure at elections needs to be as clear and transparent as possible to everyone. Whilst one can see many advantages to a (possible) electronic voting system, the government (in conjunction with opposition parties - NB NB NB) needs to re-assure South Africans that any such system will not undermine the democratic process nor end up placing unconstitutionally excessive powers in the hands of technicians and/or those to whom they report . 	2020-11-06 13:36:48	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Clause 14 gives the IEC a blank cheque, free of any checks and balances. This is unacceptable and opens up the democratic process to manipulation and abuse. In particular, electronic voting. Eastern block superpowers are actively developing offensive cyber capabilities to support their global ambitions. A delinquent regime, hell bent on self enrichment, is easy prey. It stands to reason that these superpowers will facilitate any attempts to load the system in the delinquent regime's favor. This Bill, particularly Clause 14, must be subjected to all the rigor that can be mustered. The short period allowed for objections is clearly mala fides.	Lars Eric
	2020-11-06 13:14:28	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Any computerised form of voting could see a rise in fraudulent votes being cast as software can be manipulated. 	2020-11-06 11:40:42	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Clause 14 gives the IEC a blank cheque, free of any checks and balances. This is unacceptable and opens up the democratic process to manipulation and abuse. In particular, electronic voting. Eastern block superpowers are actively developing offensive cyber capabilities to support their global ambitions. A delinquent regime, hell bent on self enrichment, is easy prey. It stands to reason that these superpowers will facilitate any attempts to load the system in the delinquent regime's favor. This Bill, particularly Clause 14, must be subjected to all the rigor that can be mustered. The short period allowed for objections is clearly mala fides.	Lars Eric

	2020-11-06 11:37:43	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Clause 14 gives the IEC a blank cheque, free of any checks and balances. This is unacceptable and opens up the democratic process to manipulation and abuse. In particular, electronic voting. Eastern block superpowers are actively developing offensive cyber capabilities to support their global ambitions. A delinquent regime, hell bent on self enrichment, is easy prey. It stands to reason that these superpowers will facilitate any attempts to load the system in the delinquent regime's favor. 	2020-11-06 11:17:21	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Giving the IEC "free reign" to decide on voting methods, including electronic voting which is vulnerable to manipulation, less transparent than paper and pen voting, and requires high levels of technical expertise to manage and interpret, should not be allowed. This would give rise to a vulnerability to our democracy where one body (the IEC in this case) has the sole power over such a crucial part of a democracy, such as voting. This Bill would be able to supersede others, and such a massive degree of power should not lie in our body (the IEC).	Olga
	2020-11-06 11:03:49	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	I object to the Commission being given the authority in law to prescribe a different method of voting without stating what that method is or might be and/or without anyone being given or having any prior knowledge of how that process will work, what checks and balances have been put in place etc. So, while I believe that it might well be in order for say an electronic method of voting, or a postal method of voting might be acceptable in certain areas and under circumstances - those details and those circumstances need to be spelt out clearly prior to giving the IEC permission to change or prescribe a method of voting. I also object to Clause 8 allowing the Chief Presiding officer the right to refuse to provide or retract certain sections of the voters roll in the manner in which this has been prescribed as it is open to subjectivity. Reasons for refusal or retracting need to be spelt out in detail - perhaps in the form of a checklist i.e. IF circumstances meet one of those criteria THEN the presiding officer may refuse or retract etc.	HEATHER

Similar to where there is a hard limit as to how many bitcoin can be mined. Before being able to cast their vote, the voter would need to spend his or her token, to access the voting application or cast their vote. That will ensure 1 vote per registered voter. The blockchain votes would be public for the public to see, no voter information is shared online, and it also provides a level of transparency around the elections, keeping it fair and transparent. No fraud should be possible and the votes cannot be tampered with. Results would be in almost immediately. This is just a rough idea of what I think they can do to enhance the voting process, there might be some flaws here and there, but if they plan it properly with industry experts, it may work well.	Anton

	2020-11-04 09:12:46	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is subject to more sophisticated forms of manipulation and interference , and given the current propensity for fraud and corruption in this country, I would have little faith in the outcome of any electronic vote. The implementation of such a system would also provide huge opportunities for further fraud, corruption and looting of state coffers. Regarding lack of addresses on the voters roll - by dismissing this requirement, the opportunities to commit voter fraud are increased in my opinion.	Clint

	2020-11-04 05:05:52	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	I feel there are so many ways to get around the electronic voting system and vote many times for your party than with the traditional method of having your verified address scratched out as you enter the voting station and having your finger marked with the permanent ink. How long did it take people to find away around the the RICA act for buying cellphones? At almost any second hand cellphone store you can buy an activated SIM that does not need to to RICA for the service. Personally, I just want to buy a new cellphone, and don't need a new SIM. So how are they going to monitor who is really voting? Are they going to use an APP that needs your ID number? Anonymous voting goes out the window then. Everybody will know who voted for whom. We are dealing with parties who are willing to murder for the political view points.	Gerhard
	2020-11-04 01:24:04	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	There are several issues that need to be addressed before this bill should be allowed to proceed in its current form: 1) My first concern is the rush to push the bill through, which raises my suspicions. If it were all above board then why the sudden speed? There is not enough time to debate and work through the issues 2) Given the poor track record of government's previous attempts to maintain an electronic data base and keep it running (cf. AARTO), what guarantees do the public have that it will remain online when required, and meet its goals? 3) Hacking and voter fraud are already part of modern life, so what guarantees can the government provide that this new proposed system will be free from potential hackers or insider manipulation to possibly 'steal' the vote? 4) Only when all the details of a proposed new system has been developed should it be considered for inclusion in legislation. The public will then be in a position to take an informed decision on the risks it poses to our democracy. 5) Who will be the direct beneficiaries from this new system if it is implemented? Which ill-equipped but opportunistic cadres will pick up the contract to set up and operate this system?	JJ

	2020-11-03 22:33:18	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	This would open up a greater gap in an already ailing process with regards to transparency. Especially with electronic based tools it opens up new avenues for risk in the voting process. Depending on the choice of tech and systems it can also make auditing such a system problematic. Lastly, access to the device or connection types to effectively use a different non paper based system may limit access to or hinder the voting process for different segments of our society.	Rhys
	2020-11-03 18:15:20	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	There are various problems to electronic voting: 1. Most of our citizens do not have access to such facilities. 2. 	2020-11-03 11:36:41	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	There should be implementation of stricter registration requirements for parties. At this stage parties are just registered as long as they have a constitution and names. These names and ID's can be obtained from a voters roll and the signatures cannot at this stage, be verified, which creates an extreme open door for fraud. Deregistration of parties should also be part of IEC regulations when they incite violence. They should be deregistered immediately. If voters are allowed to vote anywhere, the door is much wider open, than it is now for "bussing" and fraud. Provisions of candidate nomination should be regulated more closely by the IEC, the requirements are very "iffy" only not have a criminal record for a certain amount of years. What about inciting violence, being involved in riots, etc? Different voting methods in South Africa will increase the opportunity for fraud and duplicate voting. People in SA are very intelligent when it comes to fraud. Why change the current system? Only if it can be more open to the public as well. 	2020-11-03 09:27:58	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	While I like the idea of bringing voting into the 21st Century with less papers etc. I do question how opposition parties will be able to monitor the results to see that they are in fact legitimate. I question how people in rural areas will vote electronically when we cant get them basic services. I question the tender process to supply such system and whether the company who wins the tender will in fact be able to have security in place to avoid being hacked and votes altered unscrupulously etc. I do NOT like the idea that people vote in districts where they do not live because we will not be able to monitor whether someone has voted twice. The thumb ink system did not work last time. How do we stop being from being bussed in to regions so as to effect the vote in that area.	Gabi

	2020-11-03 09:18:06	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	I do not fully support the Bill chiefly because it confers the Commission with the ability to prescribe that electronic voting and vote-counting methods can be used in place of traditional paper-based ballot systems. Electronic systems are susceptible to hacking and manipulation in many manners and are therefore unsafe for the general population. The hacking and manipulation may come from within the existing government or from outside sources, such as hackers from another country trying to influence and control the voting system. Because of the nature of electronic ballot systems, there is also no paper trail which can be followed in the event that the results of an election are called into question. The risks of allowing the Commission to unilaterally decide whether an electronic voting system can be used are simply too great at this point in time. Any such system needs to be proven to be safe and totally unhackable before it can be used in any election.	Steven
	2020-11-03 08:56:43	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	The Bill is allows that the "Commission may prescribe a different voting method." 	2020-11-03 08:32:35	Gauteng		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	This Bill needs to be changed because it is a nonsensical approach to elections in South Africa and provides the IEC with unilateral powers to change the electoral system as they please without proper checks and balances. The Bill needs to be amended and especially section 14 to reflect a process which will be able to appreciate the context of South Africa and also the historical nature of rigged elections in Africa. It cannot be over stated that the intergrity of the voting process in a democracy is of utmost importance. Together with the fact that liberation movements throughout Africa has always sought to influence these processes unfairly and we are well aware that the ANC is capable of this and will hang onto power no matter what. Thank you for your consideration may the politics of intergrity and honesty return to South Africa.	Dawie

	2020-11-07 07:14:53	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	The bill must define exactly what is meant by "a different voting method". Does it mean that people can vote by a show of hands, by proxy, by phone or any other electronic means? If it means electronic means of voting then millions of urban and rural poor, living in areas where there is no cell phone coverage, will be effectively be disenfranchised. It should not be left to the IEC to make this decision, which the IEC can change at every election. It is the remit of parliament to do this. It ("a different voting method") must be clearly defined in the bill.	Percy

	2020-11-04 22:14:27	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	With regards a different method of voting: people must be given a proper opportunity to understand the dangers and make informed submissions to the government on whether this is what they want. Instead, the Bill, read together with Section 190(2) of the Constitution, gives a blank cheque to the IEC – an institution vulnerable to cadre deployment and political interference – to introduce an electronic voting system without further reference to Parliament and without any proper consideration of the dangers in this voting method. The Bill thus poses a great risk to democracy in South Africa.	Scott
	2020-11-04 16:47:17	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Traditional voting systems are more transparent because they generate a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Paper ballots are not immune to irregularities, but their in-built safeguards are stronger. Electronic voting, by contrast, is more vulnerable to manipulation. Traditional safeguards for ballot security have the advantage of being legible to the entire public, and violations of protocol are easy enough for anybody to comprehend. By contrast, “electronic systems are transparent only to a tiny selection of technicians, whose access to voting procedures is controlled by the state .This is grounds enough to reject attempts to digitise future elections.” If South Africa is to shift to an electronic voting system, all the risks in doing so must be made clear to the public. 	2020-11-04 07:43:19	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	The decision on which voting system to use is not one for the IEC to make and it's most obvious intent is to clear the way to implement an opaque electronic voting system. With the very high levels of corruption in government, nothing but a completely transparent voting system which can be easily understood and verified by the average citizen is acceptable, such as the paper system in use at present. To assume that a vitally important Chapter Nine institution such as the IEC is immune to corrupt infiltration is naive, the current Public Protector is a relevant example. The possibility for corruption with an electronic voting system is enormous and even if no corruption occurs, the credibility of the system leaves itself open to be challenged. Most important is the damage it will do to the public perception of the democratic process where, like our taxes, our valuable vote disappears into the big, bottomless pot never to be seen or heard of again. Lottery anyone? In closing I would like to enquire of the authors of this unconstitutional suggestion whether they have bothered to read the SA Constitution? Either they lack the capacity to interpret it's intent or else they are working actively and furtively to subvert it.	Darryl

If the public are skeptical of the voting procedure it will undermine the credibility of any election outcome. When the IEC wants to bring in a new method, they should rather put together a detailed proposal of how the new method will work and put it forward in a bill like this for the public to comment on. When that happens the notice should be put into more than one newspaper and sufficient time given for the citizens of this country to go through it.	Michael

The system should be robust enough to enable a step by step explanation to the public without risking tampering. Anything less than absolute transparency would be unacceptable.	Shauntel

	2020-11-03 22:03:34	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	The amendment allows the IEC to introduce several changes, without providing details about the changes that are envisaged. I also do not trust the government not to use the data collected on how individuals voted. There is however a technology that can not only prevent the fraud but even help to protect the privacy of individual's in this process. This technology is called KEPT see KEPT.co.za This technology is a total paradigm shift from pre existing ID management technology. Don't trust your Identity in the hands of organisations with their own agenda KEPTrather acts as an Identity and private information management trust designed to first protect individuals.	mark
	2020-11-03 10:43:02	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	As stated by the IRR in their article on the bill dated 30 October, there is too much chance, especially in South Africa where transparency is a problem, to move to more opaque voting mechanisms, making it much easier for a few corrupt "officials" to manipulate any vote for their own means. South Africa has a huge problem with "state capture" and moving to systems such as electronic voting (which, might be more convenient) would only enable those open to corruption to manipulate the system more easily and there is no way the public would know better. This will also erode trust in the government. It will also open the doors for anyone who opposes the result to cry "hackers" with the associated problems with both proving and disproving the result to be free of tampering being difficult and also difficult for the average person to follow. 	2020-11-03 10:19:42	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Electronic voting is fraught and open to serious problems. The security of electronic voting is not by any means assured no matter what degree of firewall or protection is in place. It is open to not only manipulation but loss, corruption and interference. Paper ballots are the safest and most reliable way of record keeping of voting and it would be a step backward for our democracy to institute electronic voting. Besides these concerns there is the issue of cost. It will be a massively expensive process and is not something we can afford at present. Stick to paper. It works. Its proven. Around the world.	Glenn
	2020-11-03 10:02:47	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	We absolutely need a paper trail to verify results and we definitely need people to supply a legitimate verifiable address. Also some of the proposals are too vague - these must be spelt out clearly. It would be more acceptable if a completely independent public body was set up to examine every clause - this is too important a matter to be entered into without explicitness.	Sandra

	2020-11-03 09:37:23	Western Cape		Not fully	different (electronic) method of voting	Before developing an electronic voting system a high quality developer will be required and numerous testing done. Bear in mind the SASSA, vehicle licencing area and Department of Home Affairs fiasco when their systems were introduced and also could not cope with the load of transactions. A high system of development will be required for people to vote without addresses otherwise this could lead to fraud.	Robert

If there is going to be any change to the voting method, the pro's and con's of the new system need to be evaluated carefully by the voting public. The details and safeguards will need to be published and sufficient time should be given to the voting public to consider the risks and advantages of the proposal. This clause allows for fundamental and sweeping changes to be made that may effectively disenfranchise voters if they allow for manipulation. 	2020-11-05 21:03:00	Gauteng		Not fully	rules determining results at voting stations	A well designed electronic voting system should make for fair voting and a more precise outcome. No multiple votes per ID, votes from the deceased, votes getting lost or damaged, etc. I could never understand why you need to be registered to vote - each citizen above 18 should be able to vote as their right without an unnecessary registration. Voters should be able to vote at any station of their choice within their province...even without an exact address to their name - this way even the homeless can vote, for example, which is also their right. Not only political parties, but also individuals, should be able to register to be voted for.	Alicia

	2020-11-04 14:52:48	Gauteng		Not fully	rules determining results at voting stations	I do not support this fully because we have seen instances where Chapter 9 institutions are "captured" for political reasons. The government should not be allowed to have such power over a democratic process such as voting as the bill wishes to bestow. There is nothing wrong with the paper ballot system and it is easy to audit and understand, whereas an electronic method may pose as more confusing and thereby more prone to error, be it by observers, counters and the like. There is also the constitutionality aspect of this, in that voting rights may be infringed upon by these changes, as well as underhanded tactics being employed in order to change voting demographics. One should not be able to vote in districts where they do not reside unless under extreme circumstances. This bill does seem harmless but it must be re-looked at. The IEC does not need ultimate power to decide on voting.	Dean

	2020-11-03 09:17:37	Gauteng		Not fully	rules determining results at voting stations	South africa can not afford to have the ANC rig elections. The introduction of these so called "results at voting stations" will ENSURE that this is achievable. Furthermore south africa does not have the skill or the capability to enable electronic voting, this again opens the door for corruption and voting fraud. I also do not agree that voters are allowed to register and vote in a province where they are not living, and or own a registered property, this removes the constitutional right of a citizen to vote for a party/candidate who is representative of his community, as you will have voters voting in regions where they are not permanently located, essentially allowing political parties to win seats in councils where they would not have the majority vote of the residents. What SHOULD be happening is that we change the way a person becomes eligible to vote, we should be changing the requirement from having an ID number to vote, to having an ID and a VALID tax number. This will ensure that citizens who are paying tax are in control of the decisions that are influencing their tax money and not people who will keep voting for grants.	Charl

	2020-11-03 10:02:27	Western Cape		Not fully	rules determining results at voting stations	Like most of the rest of the population, I did not have time to read through all the changes. Therefore I cannot comment on whether there are any valid points in the proposed amendments. I am not impressed with the short time-frame of this amendment and the very limited time that the public have to comment on it. It raises suspicion. It is a dangerous thing to allow people to vote where they are not registered. If they need to clearly state where they are registered on the voting ballot, I would be more comfortable with the idea. Otherwise there is no point in having local elections. Currently we have the right to vote for one party for local service delivery, and for another for seats in parliament to influence national policies. In the current challenging times with the Covid pandemic, it would make sense to explore the viability of an electronic voting system. BUT many people in the country do not have access to the internet and are not technologically literate. This opens the door for those "helping" these people to vote to influence the vote according to their own agenda, or for the less fortunate masses to be excluded from voting altogether (I don't think this is a likely outcome, though, since several parties are reliant on the votes of the poor masses). The biggest issue with an electronic voting system, is the relative ease of foul-play compared to a paper ballot system. Several parties will most definitely contest the outcome of the elections, which will delay the results and cost tax-payer money, which is a scarce resource. It will also cost a lot of money to get the electronic voting system up and running and bug-free.	Christelle

	2020-11-06 16:44:48	Gauteng		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	I disagree with people being allowed without registering an address. This will allow for people to vote in multiple areas without it being picked up especially if it is marked off in pen on paper as it has been done in previous elections. I disagree with moving to an electronic voting system now when there is very little time till we vote, as such not enough time to plan, implement, test to make sure it is secure and will work, also this will cost alot of money that this country currently does not have to waste due to all money spent due to Covid, and all the money stolen and looted during Covid. However if this bill covers anything in relation to the implementation of direct election meaning being able to vote for our leader/a person and not a party I agree with such a change. Jessica

	2020-11-04 10:24:04	Gauteng		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	Using an electronic voting method could work if the right security precautions are put in place to make the process transparent and fair. However, the current voting method is full of problems trying to automate the current method will just amplify those problems. The focus should be on eliminating all of the current problems before looking at implementing tech solutions. There is also a large number of south Africans that do not have tech literacy to know how to use electronic voting which will either exclude them from voting or make them targets of manipulation.	Gerhard

	2020-11-03 08:20:49	Gauteng		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	Voters are allocated to a voter roll in their ward, municipal area, etc. Having no address means you can vote in any district or ward you want. I dont think that residents in a specific ward will have their issues addressed by candidates if non residents can "swing" the vote in specific wards or municipalities. This is a door to election manipulation and ultimately disenfranchisement of free and fair elections for all South Africans .	Freda
	2020-11-03 08:03:37	Gauteng		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	Firstly, the time allowed is too short - cynically it appears the state seeks to push this through in as short a time as possible, not allowing the public to scrutinise in detail the intent of the legislation. This is NOT democracy in action. People must also be given a proper opportunity to understand the dangers and make informed submissions to the government on whether this is what they want. I have concerns about the amendments in that they will affect the foundation of our constitutional democracy and I have concerns relating to electronic voting.	Lauren

	2020-11-03 07:40:40	Gauteng		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	I need to ask myself immediately - How many ANC candidates were involved in the electoral commission? How many will be in time to come. To have an IEC t-shirt on doesn't necessarily mean you don't vote ANC or stand as ANC candidate. I don't think this will work if expected that electronic mediums must be used to vote at voting station, unless a voter can be guided by his own party official whom he/she want to vote for the right party. It's been proven over and over that lots of corruption was involved this way when ANC have won. We don't trust the ANC at all. The only way electronic voting can work is if voters may vote at home themselves, WITHOUT the help of any IEC official, or any other party involved. Voters can rather help each other then with the vote for their favorable party. With that said corruption is to vigilant with the ANC. At homes they can still like having their say their way when people need to be helped the correct way to vote. The best way will still be if voting can then take place at home where friends & family who truly trust each other can vote for the correct party. Also voters can be trained via video how to vote for the correct party then. The last option for fair election will be if people can vote at the poles where they can controll if they are registered. But the recent amendment suggestion therefore won't work as corruption will still be involved.	Kobus

	2020-11-02 22:46:32	Gauteng		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	This bill requires a longer period for public consultation and comment and must be gazetted in all newspapers so that the public is aware of the proposed changes. The ability to change the voting system without any restriction is extremely dangerous. I feel that although improvement is needed the process must be independently scrutinised and transparent to the public. The IEC is hardly capable of evaluating the security of any given electronic voting system as such several independent parties and safe guards will need to be supervising and implemented respectively. 	2020-11-06 13:19:51	KwaZulu-Natal		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	The bill probably seeks to empower the IEC to consider other methods of casting and counting votes. An electronic system or paper-based system are two options. While I agree that an electronic system is good to explore, the wording of the section 14 is such that it gives the IEC, and by implication the ruling party of the time, carte blanche to unilaterally IMPOSE any method of voting it wants. In a democracy, you cannot have one institution wielding so much power in an important sphere as voting. An electronic system needs a high degree of security, trained personnel, good internet connectivity, hack-free, electronic devices etc. Are the majority of our people literate enough for this step? Will this guarantee free and fair elections? In a country like the USA, a first world country, they still use paper ballots whereas India uses electronic voting. So, its the very wording of the ammendment that is a problem.	Vimal

	2020-11-06 11:04:44	KwaZulu- Natal		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	I feel strongly that any new voting system that should be implemented needs to be appropriate. In other words, they system may need to differ in rural areas vs. urban areas. It needs to be appropriate for the voter i.e. electronic vs manual. It need to be a robust system, it needs to be proven (i.e. tested elsewhere in the world) and it must not come at an exorbitant cost! I also believe you should not have to register in a district to vote and then HAVE to vote in that district. In this day and age, there should be systems that allow voters to register ANYWHERE for their home district and then vote anywhere for there home district. All South Africans are supposed to have unique ID number, this should be used for registration purposes and NOT addresses. And address should only be used to register for specific districts. There should also be the technology available today to ensure voters are not registering more than once. And I don't believe the public, or political parties, should have access to details voters roll. If our vote is confidential then our right to vote / not vote should also be confidential. Access to voters rolls provides opportunities for intimidation, which is unlawful and unconstitutional.	Jacqui

In addition, the proposals, if implemented without amendment would create contradictory outcomes which would require all those intersecting to be reset, and amended either back to the existing status or to a further amendment/s which would require additional time (and cost). My proposal would be that all the amendments are drafted and submitted to the independent constitutional expert body for consideration and comment prior to any changes being made to the Electoral Law.	Michael

It's unreasonable to ask the people to vote on so many different points, while they're all too vague, yet very open ended, which makes them easily manipulated at a later stage by anybody, to suit their own agenda. It's also unreasonable and unacceptable that this hasn't been put forward as a national civic vote. This is all very worrying. 	2020-11-05 23:41:40	Western Cape		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	Firstly, Electronic voting can be manipulated by a 3rd party . This system could be used to get fraudulent results. Secondly, people are on a Voters Roll with all their relevant information to verify that your ID book and details on Voters Roll co-incide. the person in a particular Province. There will be NO control and ILLEGAL & FRAUDULENT voters cant be identified. A person must VOTE WHERE THEY RESIDE or follow procedures for a special vote	Jennifer

						Please consider these problems with the proposed amendments: 1) Clause 6 must be removed unless it can be clarified that concurrence with the finance minister is already legislated elsewhere. 2) Clause 14 and Clause 21 (8) must be removed, since it weakens the ability to conduct free and fair elections. It is undemocratic and unconstitutional to remove parliamentary authorisation and oversight of any proposed voting method. 3) Clause 15 must be removed, since it weakens the ability to conduct free and fair elections and is therefor unconstitutional. Streamlining cannot come at the expense of constitutionality and proper auditing. 4) The financial implications for the state that these amendments bring have not been stated sufficiently, since those financial implications are simply deferred to the future. This is inadequate and must be addressed explicitly.

	2020-11-03 08:55:32	Western Cape		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	The only real reason why a ruling party would seek to change the electoral process is for their own benefit. THINK ABOUT THE ALTERNATIVE! Do we want tyranny? NO. We want a fair 'Democracy'. We want elections that are transparent and inviolable. Can the government-controlled IEC be trusted? NO. Candidates should be de-linked from Political Party control. But most of the changes proposed are highly questionable.	Geoffrey
	2020-11-03 08:48:38	Western Cape		Not fully	constitutionality of the bill	Voting is already rife with political and personal power ploys, which include that a candidate who is elected as a representative of one party can simply move over to another party, if that party wins, and retain their position that they were voted into. It is time that the voter has the power, not the system, or the state. Some of the amendments seek to open the way for easier fraudulent voting, rather than authentic voting.	Renette

If you can't vote in your district on the voting day then you should apply for a postal vote (or e-mail vote as postal won't get there in time!). People with no address should not have a say in voting as they carry no responsibility and so should have no power. Actually, the very best voting system would be a "Multiple Vote System" where everyone gets one vote, if you own property you qualify for a second vote, if you own a business you get another, and so on to a max of 7 votes, the seventh being an honorary vote for having done something wonderful for the country. But that will never happen , it is just nice to think about!	Rob

	2020-11-04 06:24:36	Eastern Cape		Not fully	cost to the state	1. One must vote in person in this country. Any other method is open to corruption. We have IDs with photos and fingerprints . 2. One should be able to vote in an area where one is not domiciled. Allows people who are away for work, visiting, on holiday to vote where otherwise they might not. Careful note that people can't move from one area to another to vote -corruption (this country is full of it so many checks and balances needed). 3. The current pandemic may require a different method - BUT it must not be the reason for it -it will eventually pass. 4. I don't think the voter's role should be made public. Voting is private. Public availability before an election is open to intimidation. It can be made public about 3 months afterwards for human settlement purposes. 5. Electronic voting will no doubt become the norm as the technological revolution advances, and most homes have at least one phone. Lots of checks and balances and number of times that phone can be used by registered voters?? 6. A change in method should have gone into planning ages ago not now for next year. 7. The people planning should comprise reps from all parties.	Marilyn

	2020-11-07 09:34:01	Western Cape		Not fully	cost to the state	We were exposed to so much uncertainty in South Africa. For example everytime the GOVERNMENT made funding available for which ever programs rest assured that corruption was the order of the day Today whatever is budgeted it must be ashamed as another budget must also be approved for a commission to go after the perpetrators. Who are we fooling even at the SABC. Millions of rands went missing not only at Sabc but each and every GOVERNMENT department. My biggest concern is when you as stated on the Z83 form so called coloured people don't qualify for GOVERNMENT funding. We have the skill and knowledge as well as business acumen to take the economy to the next level. The amount of red tape with all DTI programs is of grave concern. If GOVERNMENT lost so much money all over the spectrum in all departments why can't they take the risk to kickstart the economy without making it so difficult to approve these programs. If that change believe you me we going to prosper in this country. Loads of opportunity out here but once you apply it takes forever for approval and months later the business is not available for sale anymore or taken. Why don't GOVERNMENT approve a policy where the citizens in this country each are pre approved for a minimum of five million rands to go out with that guarantee to secure his or her business opportunity. That is subject to due diligence of the specific business before the funds is released.	Sedick

					When I address parliament I do it as an institution that represent all of South Africans and not a party. The parliament is not the ANC. The ANC is part of the parliament. The African National Congress (ANC) is so concerned that it could be voted out of power in the 2024 general election that it is trying to shift to an electronic voting system that would be far more open to manipulation and fraud than the current manual voting method. To avoid the public outrage this shift could elicit, the ANC is trying to conceal the mooted change among the many technical adjustments in the Electoral Laws Amendment Bill of 2020 (the Bill). This Bill is being pushed through the public consultation process so quickly and so quietly that most South Africans have no inkling of its existence or importance. Key provisions in the Bill empower the Independent Electoral Commission (IEC) to introduce 'a different voting method' for elections at all three tiers of government. The commission will be able to do this by regulation and without reference to Parliament. In addition, the IEC's decision will override all legislation providing for the country's current voting system. The crucial words are as follows: 'Despite anything to the contrary contained in this Act or in any other law, the Commission may prescribe a different voting method.' This wording would empower the IEC to introduce an electronic voting system – an option which the commission has been actively investigating for some time. In May 2019 deputy IEC chair Janet Love said the commission 'had been exploring the use of electronic or digital voting systems... "We are working with our colleagues around the world to investigate how we can use this system of voting in our country"'. In July 2020 IEC chair Glen Mashinini stated that the commission is 'considering an e-election'. In the same month, the IEC added that it was 'considering online voting for South Africa', but was 'keeping mum about the details'. According to Ms Love, an electronic voting system would help overcome challenges that emerged in the 2019 general election. These included 'double voting by some voters' and 'removable indelible ink used to mark the thumbs of voters who had already cast their ballots'. However, these problems can easily be resolved in other ways. Traditional manual voting system are not entirely immune from irregularities. However, international experience confirms that the safeguards they provide are far stronger than those available under electronic systems. In particular, traditional voting systems are far more transparent because they provide a paper trail and can be observed at every stage. Comments Robert Duigan (who holds an MSc in Crisis and Security Management from Leiden University College) in a paper entitled An introduction to vulnerabilities in electronic voting: 'For the classic secret ballot to function, there need only be a secret booth, a sealed box, a legible ballot, and an impartial system of oversight for counting. For an electronic system, similar concepts apply (albeit in a virtual sense), but at each stage, the "parts" of the system are far greater in quantity, and the failure of any one part can compromise the validity of a ballot, or even an entire election.' As Mr Duigan points out, electronic voting systems are vulnerable to 'overt' penetrations by actors wanting to 'discredit an election'; to 'covert' penetrations which can be used to 'intimidate' voters; and to 'surreptitious' penetrations which can be used to 'secretly defraud an election while establishing its legitimacy'. These last two risks are particularly worrisome in South Africa, where the

	2020-11-05 13:07:21	Gauteng		Yes I do	constitutionality of the bill	My major concern is selection / election process. In my view, nothing will serve this Country if, non corrupt, non racist and not violent great visionaries, results driven community biased / caring people are not leading. One of the best ways to get it right is to have applicants with their Business plan proposing how they will serve their communities, and what value will they add to those communities. For example Midrand Community has a population of about 186 000 , therefore there is a great need to have someone who will talk to this population's NEEDS, in a language they understand, if inequality, poverty, unemployment must be addressed efficiently and effectively. 	2020-11-03 12:19:48	Western Cape		Yes I do	constitutionality of the bill	I'm concerned about the constitutionality of the bill otherwise it is a step in the right direction when one considers the fact that in other countries these kinds of electronic systems when voting are now being used. This would eliminate all human errors because only one ID number will be used as it is currently the case and if that person is not registered the system will kicks him out. It is also not necessary for the long queues that are normally accustomed to voting in SA so there more positives but we should be careful for abuse as well.	Mandla

	2020-11-04 09:34:52	North West		Yes I do	constitutionality of the bill	The Concourt judgment declared sections of the Electoral Act unconstitutional, because they prevented independent candidates from standing in national and provincial elections. The court allowed Parliament two years to amend the law to allow independent candidates, in addition to party candidates, to stand in elections. But nothing is happening. I believe that independent candidates must be allowed to stand in elections, because this will lead to a healthier democracy, with MPs and MPLs less beholden to party bosses and more to the electorate. We will continue to call on Parliament to stop dragging its feet and get on with making the amendments. In the wake of state capture and the systemic looting by corrupt individuals and families, the need for a broader, more representative electoral system is clear. South Africans desperately need politicians to wake up and smell the coffee: an electoral system where Members of Parliament and Members of Provincial Legislatures are more accountable to communities instead of parties is crucial.	Andre

As is mostly the case in South Africa, we have the best of legislation but putting it into proper and correct action usually leaves us with the proverbial egg on our faces. Thanks.	Naziem
	2020-11-04 14:35:51	Gauteng		Yes I do	other	Although with the new legislation that the electorate for each constituency will be able to nominate and select a candidate to represent them in parliament the following questions arise: 1.- Are the IEC working on the implementation to get it in place in time for the next election? 2.- How many voters in each constituency? (my suggestion is an average of 250000 - min 200000 to 300000.) This will reduce the number of seats in parliament thus contributing to drastically improve our economy. 3.- Will the IEC, Constitutional court and each party be responsible to ensure suitable candidates are selected to represent them? 4.- A system to be formulated to allow each party with a certain number of votes a percentage representation of additional limited number of candidates only . 	2020-11-04 09:15:51	Gauteng		Yes I do	other	I believe it is significantly more efficient than a manual voting system however as with all technology, there are some proviso's required: 1) The system must be accessible to ALL voters in South Africa. 2) An independent external auditor (both technological and process oversight) must be appointed. By external, I refer to an international body made up of a group of independent auditors from at least five different countries, all UN member states. 3) The system must be transparent to ALL internal parties for scrutiny. 4) The system must comply with the latest security standards so external nefarious manipulation is not possible. This will also then allow nationals in foreign regions to easily vote.	Barry

	2020-11-03 11:41:00	Gauteng		Yes I do	other	I have long felt that it would be better if we voted for the ward councilers personally instead of just for a party. At the moment you vote for a party and the winning party puts in whoever they deem fit for the position. This could lead to corruption and to lack of responsibility, such as lack of proper toilets at all schools in their constituency. If we voted for a person, whatever party he/she belongs to and hold that person personally responsible for seeing to the needs of the community that person is more likely to do a better job because he/she knows that the community is judging them according to the efficacy of how the available money is spent. Also, if the person does not do a proper job, that person can be voted out at the next elections and someone more efficient can be voted in. The party does not matter in this case, it is the way funds are being spent and how well the needs of the community are looked after.	Sheilah

	2020-11-04 08:46:02	Limpopo		Yes I do	other	A online voting system would be ideal, less corruption with regards to ballots from opposing parties being thrown away or not counted. Less time standing in the sun or rain for half a day to vote. Not everyone has someone to look after children so they have to stand in the cue as well, long day for little ones. With covid, its going to cost the country more to setup sanitation and the ques are just going to be so much longer because of the sanitising and temperature taking responsibilities. Also a huge cost towards additional staff to perform these actions.	Nadia

	2020-11-03 11:36:56	Gauteng		Yes I do	cost to the state	Much as I support the proposed amendment, I also like to add by saying, the Act should further expand to say a person should be a South African Citizen. A candidate should be inclusive of any person obtained the citizenship of the country in the last 35 years(We are discouraging people who has come to the country in the last five years and had obtained citizenship and start claiming to have the right to stand for the office). A candidate also should be 40 years old and above (We need people who are matured in thinking and able to stand the pressure of being in that office). A person fully matured to stand for the office having the moral conduct to lead both the weak and the strong. To able to use the experiences of others and his experiences to run the office maturely. In this challenging times strict control must be taken to make sure that our Electoral Laws are firm and clear enough to have the right and committed, disciplined candidate in the office.	Louisa

Electronic control & verification & scrutiny is a lot easier than millions of voting papers accross the country. I would suggest starting the system for elders above 60 - it will be easy to start with lower numbers & benefit of elders in rural areas. The biggest benefit will be that it is easier for EVERYBODY. Although the cost of development is high at start-up, the saving on staff at polling stations for many years in the future, can be positive.	Frikkie
